OBSERVATIONS

Rembusch Quits

After twenty years of ceaseless work for the cause of independent exhibitors, Frank Rembusch has decided to call it a day, and frankly announces that he is through.

In his announcement, our friend Frank says some very interesting things.

He says that the exhibitor won't spend a nickle on organization if the sheriff was at his back door.

He says that the independent exhibitor is difficult to organize.

But we feel that the blame is being put in the wrong place. No organization depends entirely upon the individuals who are to be organized.

By the very act of organization, it is admitted that the individuals to comprise the organization are in need of such steps. They seek leadership, and say so when they sign their pledges.

But to what avail is the pledge if among the leaders themselves there is neither harmony nor organization.

And Frank Rembusch is as much at fault in this respect as any other man we know.

He is swayed too often by prejudice, and like every other exhibitor leader, he too often puts his own needs in position of at least equal importance with those of the group for which he functions.

We will miss Frank Rembusch's fiery talk, but really, we believe that with his passing, and the passing of other exhibitor lieutenants, the independent army, forced to look for guidance and leadership to the more national leaders, will be better off.

A more unified stand on the part of all the independent exhibitors in the land will go farther in getting results than the large number of individual, sectional and rather diversified planks that are being pushed forward in all parts of this country.

1ST NATIONAL DENY BRITISH FRICTION

First National's Foreign Department at the home office denied Saturday that there was any dissatisfaction with the pictures they are producing in Great Britain, as previously reported.

The report from London stated that internal trouble in the First National-Pathe combine had led to abandonment of further producing plans in England, and that the first three British negatives were unsatisfactory. (Continued on page 2)

Advises Support of Steffes Plan at Duluth July 10th

The Frank Rembusch organization of Independent Unaffiliated Exhibitors has abandoned its plan to call a meeting of West Baden, Ind., for July, and will attend instead, the Northwest Theatre Owners Convention on July 10-11-12 at the invitation of Al Steffes.

The exhibitors will board a boat at Duluth, Minnesota and proceed to Port Arthur, Canada, returning to Duluth on the evening of the 12th.

Rembusch states that he has a "personal interest" in the Northwest meeting, because it his purpose to be relieved of all further and future exhibitor organization work.

"I have been on the firing line for 20 years, and I am tired of spending my money and time uselessly. Producers hire the best men they (Continued on page 2)

Roxy Deplores Musicians' Federation Talkies Stand

The American Federation of Musicians and the Musicians' Mutual Benefit Association in St. Louis are losing no time in pressing their attacks on the talking picture vogue which threatens to greatly eliminate employment of musicians in theatres.

In St. Louis, the Association has been broadcasting appeals to the public against the 'unfair' theatres dispensing with union members and stressing the imperfection of the reproducing machinery and the avarice of theatre magnates who substitute mechanical music for orchestras to increase their profits.

St. Louis musicians have been paying 1% of their salary to their local union and will continue to do so even after the national tax of 2% goes into effect the first of September.

In New York, Joseph N. Weber, president of the Federation, while denying that a collision with theatre interests was imminent, states that the art of music will be debased by the mechanical devices.

"We are not opposed to talking pictures because it is a genuine scientific achievement, but the substitution of machines will constitute a serious menace to our cultural growth."

The Federation as its first step will conduct a nation-wide survey of the public reaction to the change.

S. L. Rothafel, an honorary member of the Federation, when informed of the attitude of the society regretted to learn of the action. The law of averages will apply to the musicians. This is a new sign of progress they should hitch it to their own uses."

"THE SYNCOPATING SWEETIES"

Vitaphone—Warner Bros.

Featuring The Ingenues Jazz band number. Gets added interest because orchestra is composed entirely of women.

The numbers played are "Sunshine", "Let a Smile Be Your Umbrella", "I'll Think of You", "Spanish Dance", and "St. Louis Blues". The camera ranges from showing the band ensemble to close ups of various individual members playing on their own favorite instrument with vengeance. Some close-ups could have been omitted particularly where the girls didn't aesthetically fill the eye. However, the tempo is fine and the music not overcome in jazziness.

GEORGE BERNARD SHAW

Movietone—Fox

Featuring George Bernard Shaw A scoop for Fox and the Movietone. One the biggest draws the picture theatre has known.

G. B. S. is all there with his wit, his inimitable biting wit. Personally he is delightful and his magnetism radiates from the screen. Parts of his speech are hereby quoted: "Have you all come to see me, Ladies and Gentlemen? Well, I should never have expected this . . . I am quite a kindly person you know. But still I—it's not necessary for me always to look as genial as I am trying to look now . . . He (Mussolini) has a wonderful brow which comes down to here, but the difficulty is that he can't take it off . . . But I, I can put it on and I can take it off and do all sorts of things . . . Good night may not be the right thing to say. However, call it good afternoon, good day, and anyway, good bye and good luck."

FBO

Directed by Ralph Ince

Featuring Joe Brown,

Gertrude Olmstead, Gertrude

Astor, W. N. Bailey, Ole Ness,

Lee Shumway, LeRoy Mason,

Daphne Pollard and others.

Dandy program picture. Cast and director score.

Audience Appeal: A picture for general consumption though its subject matter.

Story Value: The two big faults with this picture were that the tempo kept the same steady pace throughout and the picture got nowhere. The story was more of a character study than an expose of the theatre. "Twisty", a consumptive comedian out of work, gets a call but he loses out by helping Kathlyn Carson. (Kathlyn was about to be married but disappeared at the last minute when she finds her fiancé giving a wild farewell). At a party a producer sees "Twisty" and offers him work and "Twisty" persuades him to give Kathlyn a chance. Woody, the leading man plans to double cross her on the opening night. "Twisty" overhears a plot wherein and knocks Woody out, taking his place. He is the hit of the show, but dies when the curtain falls, having achieved his ambition.

Acting: Joe Brown gave a natural and sympathetic piece of acting. Gertrude Astor worked wonders with her slim material, and Gertrude Olmstead carried her role excellently.

Technical Treatment: Director Ince gave this old story a refreshing angle. Picture simply lacked highlights.

"VIOLETTE IMPERIALE"

Reviewed by Blanche F. Livingston
Albatross Production

Featuring Raquel Meller,

Mile. Blanchetti.

Placed in a beautiful setting and enhanced by Raquel Meller, this film still remains an indifferent French production.

Audience Appeal: The name and the star will draw those who have seen Raquel Meller in person. Otherwise a little too foreign for the average American.

Story Value: Clarity and interest in plot are decidedly submerged in lavish costumes and settings. Dates back to Seville in 1850. Senorita Meller is the little light-fingered flower girl befriended by a rich woman later known as the Empress Eugenie of France. Here the scene shifts to Paris with the little violet seller quite a figure in court circles and the favorite of the Paris Opera. Always faithful to her Empress, she is finally able to express her gratitude by saving the Empress' life, as well as the empire itself, to say nothing of a brother and beloved.

Acting: Again Raquel Meller proves herself worthy of the word "artist". Mile. Blanchetti is rather passive and rest of cast overwhelmed by the star.

Technical Treatment: Director, who doesn't get a credit line anywhere, can be easily omitted as he didn't help. Costumes and settings, authentic and unusually beautiful. Lighting and photography at times amateurish and at times, startlingly effective.

Beginning today, EXHIBITORS DAILY REVIEW, founded in 1917, and formerly known as the EXHIBITORS TRADE REVIEW, will pass to new ownership and will be owned and managed by the undersigned and a group of associates.

EXHIBITORS DAILY REVIEW has always been recognized as a fearless and representative publication in the motion picture industry—serving every branch of this industry with equal justice. It has been a daily newspaper—in every sense of the word and has rendered its readers and friends service even beyond the printed word on every occasion.

In acquiring this publication, its assets and its friends, we hope to perpetuate this service and foster this friendship for everything and everybody representative of progress in this industry.

EXHIBITORS DAILY REVIEW will continue to publish news when it is still news and honest, straight-forward criticism when it is merited—but at no time will it attempt to tell the exhibitor how to run his theatre or the producer how to make pictures.

The new management believes that the new regime will merit the attention and support that has always been accorded it in the past.

Mr. George C. Williams, former owner, retires from the paper with genuine regret and will continue to champion progress and fair play in his other interests.

CORTELLAPHONE

*Perfect Synchronization
Perfect Tone Qualities*

WITHOUT ballyhoo or blare of trumpets we wish to announce that we have perfected a synchronizing device that will prove a boon to exhibitors throughout the world. Our method will speak for itself and we feel no need to crash cymbals or talk fast to prove our product. ¶ We have developed a combination device, using both the disc and film incision. The incision scoring is done by hairline on the film between the picture and sprocket holes, yet does not reduce the size of the picture. There is absolutely no mechanical or scratching noise with this method and the operation is so simple that it can be handled perfectly by any projectionist using any standard projection machine. ¶ Non-synchronous music may be played on CORTELLAPHONE discs. No adjustment is necessary and films not scored therefor may have suitable accompaniments by making a selection of any standard make records from Thematic Cue sheets. ¶ The volume of sound can be regulated to fill the Roxy Theatre or a small projection room. Just turn the dial. CORTELLA DISC method is interchangeable with other leading disc methods and is leased, not sold, to exhibitors. ¶ The equipment can be installed for less than $500. The fact that the machine weighs less than 300 pounds and can be installed within three hours time, shows its advantage for road-showing. ¶ There are being established branch offices of CORTELLA SYNCHRONIC PICTURES CORPORATION in each film center. ¶ We are prepared to furnish two standard short subject presentations weekly at small rental charges which will prove box-office builders for any theatre. We have expended more than a million dollars in perfecting our product and we are equipped to install 2,000 CORTELLAPHONES between now and December 31st, 1928. We are in a position to synchronize pictures NOW, and in New York City, with all sound effects, such as airplanes, firing, street sounds, etc., to pictures already made.

A TIP FOR EXHIBITORS!

BUCK JONES chose CORTELLAPHONE for his 4 Westerns, because he wanted the best. No expense is being spared in putting the finest scores possible to his pictures.

OBSERVATIONS

MORE ABOUT TALKIES

The "talkies" have everybody in the business talking. All talking in different directions. Some say they will and others say they won't.

We say they will, but its going to take a lot of work, a lot of time and plenty of MONEY.

STANDARDIZE!

The independent exhibitors are sitting back watching and waiting. Under the present arrangement and line-up it is impossible for him to make a move.

If he installs Vitaphone he can't use Movietone and if he had either he would not be able to use the Phonophone subjects.

When will this apparatus become standardized? We dont know and you dont know. Mr. Exhibitor is sitting back waiting. In the meantime where is all the equipment going?

TWO WOWS!

Before leaving Hollywood, we sat in on two previews. "The Patriot" and "The Racket" both to be released by Paramount. Both WOWS. Two of the best pictures of their kind ever made.

"The Patriot" is going to make film history and will push Lubitsch right up to the top again. And keep your eye on Milestone; each one of his pictures is better than the preceding one. He did "The Racket".

ROD LA ROQUE

What's all this about Rod La Roque going into a spoken play in the Fall? Must be a bluff and one that will be called by a Mr. Producer with a nice fat contract. Rod is too valuable for the stage. (Mr. Belasco please note).

PRESENTATIONS

The stage show at the Paramount this week is very entertaining and unusual. Has a decided touch of novelty. The entire review is peopled with Chinese.

And take my tip, the show will not leave New York intact for Flo Ziegfeld will certainly grab, at least two of those little China girls. We are not for these elaborate presentations but put us down for this one.

The State Motion Picture Censor Board yesterday explained why the "City Without Jews" film which was scheduled to open at the 5th Ave. Playhouse this week was banned.

The picture was not licensed because it incites to crime through racial prejudice and tends to corrupt morals.

Michael Mindlin, director of the Playhouse took the matter up with James W. Wingate, Director of the Censor Board yesterday at Albany to have the ban removed.

If Wingate fails to change the decision not to permit the picture to be shown, Mindlin will take the case to the State Board of Regents for further decision.

A comedy playlet. Simple material almost to the point of being sappy. The lisp in the players' speech is still quite evident here.

The opening scene shows Horton in the office with his boss, Sears, who sends him to Rosedale as his last chance to make good. The next scene is where Horton meets Miss Wilson and inquires if she knows the whereabouts of an inventor because he explains he is here to buy his invention for a song. Miss Wilson after several speeches admonishing him for his unfair play, finally admits that she is the daughter of the dead inventor. Horton then gets on the 'phone and tells his boss he quits; makes some overtures to Miss Wilson and will probably manage the deal for her. This is made up entirely of dialogue. The stars' names are well known, and you can undoubtedly book this on the strength of that.

STRONG PRESS-BOOK BACKS UP "THE BARKER"

For its latest George Fitzmaurice special, "The Barker," starring Milton Sills and Dorothy Mackaill, First National's advertising and publicity department has issued a high-powered, dynamic press sheets. It runs to sixteen pages, tabloid size, and is crammed with stories, ads, exploitation suggestions and other items which should enable every exhibitor to put the picture across in good shape.

The picture itself is pronounced by Richard A. Rowland, general and production manager, by Ned E. Depinet, general sales manager, and by Al Rockett, Western production manager, to be one of the best ever produced by First National and one that will measure up to everything that the most enthusiastic exhibitor can claim for it.

"THE BIG KILLING"

Reviewed by Tolly Archbold

Paramount

Directed by F. Richard Jones

Featuring Wallace Beery,
Raymond Hatton, Mary Brian,
Lance Chandler, Anders Randolph, Paul McAllister.

Some excellent comedy and good drama which makes however a rather incoherent concoction.

Audience Appeal: Beery and Hatton are it, and should fare well in any theatre.

Story Value: Another pair of families in the vicinity of 'Kingdom Come' are constantly at feud with each other. The Juliet, or rather, the daughter in one family falls in love with the son in the other which refuels the smouldering flame between their fathers and brothers. In the meantime Powder-Horn Pete and Dead-Eye Dan do a shooting act at the county fair. The fun begins when the Hicks family make them an offer to help them in the feud with the Beagles. A great deal of shooting slapstick follows, part of which should have been eliminated. The finish is in genuine comedy form with the lovers married, the combatants shaking hands, and the professional 'gunmen' making their exit on an antique steed that runs away with them.

Acting: Beery and Hatton provide some real laughs, Mary Brian does well with a weak part, and Randolph and Chandler as the fathers are excellent.

Technical Treatment: Some splendid photography but a little tiring at times, and too abrupt changes from humor to pathos.

Call Joint Meeting

In explaining the purpose of the meeting, Ebenstein stated yesterday:

"There has been a feeling on some matters between the members of the Chamber and some of the members of the Sapiro organization that exhibitors ought to hang together and something should be done to bring a more friendly spirit among all the theatre owners because in the long run their problems are similar."

$34,000 Suit Against

Goldwyn Up Aug. 8

Suit of Frank D. Williams against Samuel Goldwyn Productions for $34,000 assertedly due for a contract on the Potash and Perlmutter series made some years ago, was continued until August 8th, by Superior Court Judge Yankwich in Hollywood.

The work involved a process for filming events in various parts of the world, right in the studio. Williams is said to have received only $10,000 of the contract price.

Gotham Complete 2

HOLLYWOOD—Sam Sax has completed two Gotham Productions, "The Man Higher Up" and "The River Woman." The first features F. X. Bushman and Gertrude Olmstead and Eddie Buzzell.

"The River Woman" co-stars Lionel Barrymore and Jacqueline Logan.

'U' PICTURE TOPS B'WAY RECEIPTS AT ROXY RUN

First-run pictures had a fair week on Broadway, ending on Saturday. The Fox organization refused to issue any figures for its Broadway houses.

The Roxy topped all the rest with $90,000, with "The Foreign Legion," Universal picture. The Paramount reported $68,750 with the "Magnificent Flirt"; The Strand did about $29,000 with "The Hawk's Nest."

"The Drag Net" at the Rialto took in $20,950 and has been cleaning up for Paramount. The Warner with "The Lion and the Mouse" did $13,435.25 and the Rivoli took in $10,900 on "Uncle Tom's Cabin".

"Wings" at the Criterion is slowing down magnificently, doing $12,200; "End of St. Petersburg" at the Hammerstein did $8,200; "Trail of '98" at the Astor did $7,388.25.

"The Station Master" at the Cameo for the 2nd week did $5,200; "Tempest" at the Embassy did $6,054; and "The Man Who Laughs" did $7,723 at the Central.

Warners Buy Geo. Cohan Play for Vitaphone

Warner Bros. announced yesterday the purchase from George M. Cohan of the screen rights to "The Home Towners", which was produced on Broadway at George M. Cohan's Theatre there. Robert McWade, who played the leading role in the Broadway run, has been engaged for the same part in the picture.

"The Home Towners" will be one of Vitaphone's specials for the coming season and will be an all-talking picture.

DeMille Sued

LOS ANGELES — The Cecil B. DeMille Picture Corporation has been sued for $44,626 in an alleged breach of contract, by Nils Olaf Crisander.

Crisander states he was employed as a director on "Fighting Love" but was dismissed before his contract expired.

Joy with FBO

HOLLYWOOD — William Le Baron announces that Leatrice Joy will play the feminine lead in "Singapore Mutiny," with Ralph Ince co-starring.

'LILAC TIME' IN CENTRAL AUGUST 3RD AT $2.00

"Lilac Time," the First National special based on the famous play by Jane Cowl and Jane Murfin in which Colleen Moore is starred, will open an indefinite run at $2.00 top prices at the Central Theatre, New York, August 3d with synchronized sound effects. The western premiere of "Lilac Time", with synchronization, is set for the Carthay Circle, Los Angeles, July 17th.

In both New York and Los Angeles, the initial showing of the picture will be backed by extensive advertising and exploitation campaigns.

Reissue Ray Films

HOLLYWOOD — The Thomas H. Ince Estate may re-issue some early Charles Ray films, such as "The Busher" and "The Egg-Crate Wallop." Present day stars played small parts in the Ray series, years ago.

Eastman-Kodak

ROCHESTER — Payment of the 1927 wage dividend of $3,233,388 on July 2 to 17,042 employees by Eastman Kodak Co. was largest since the profit-sharing plan was adopted in 1912. Total so far distributed amounts to nearly $24,000,000. In addition, the company is paying dividends on 179,384 shares of stock distributed to employees since 1919.

Cast Pathe Film

Hector Turnbull and E. H. Griffith have cast the "Captain Swagger" Pathe Production which will star Rod LaRoque.

It includes Sue Carol, Richard Tucker, Victor Potel and Ulrich Haupt.

No excuse for banning the pictures was given to Warner Brothers Vitaphone Exchange, but is based on Warner's refusal to submit the speech of Vitaphone for censorship.

The company will continue to submit the product to the censors both film and records, to get their rulings.

Around Hollywood Studios

With JOE BLAIR

Paramount is working with the naval authorities in trying to secure the naval airport at Lakehurst, N. J. as locate for exteriors in the company's picture to be produced in the fall, "Dirigible".

Hans Kraly is now on work on the adaptation of Ernest Lubitsch's story, which he will also direct, called "Conquest". This is going to be a starring vehicle for John Barrymore to be released by United Artists.

Of course when Mary and Doug Fairbanks reached Hollywood, Mary was besieged with questions on how she felt about having bobbed hair. The ayes seemed to have it.

Al Christie's new series "Confessions of a Chorus Girl" for Paramount will have in them an assemblage of real honest-to-goodness chorus, such as Frances Lee, the leading lady, Lorraine Eddy, Natalie Joyce, Betty Lorraine, Winnie Law, Nancy Cornelius, Shirley Collins, Alice Averill, Nancy Dover and Marguerite Colova.

"Hard Rock" is the new title for First National's "The Wrecking Boss."

Helen Foster, young Hollywood free-lance, has just been selected for an important feminine role in "The Mating Call," the Caddo production starring Thomas Meighan. Paramount will release the film.

William J. Craft has directed Glenn Tryon ever since he came to the Universal City Lot, but Craft has been assigned to direct "The Cohens and Kellys in Atlantic City," so when Tryon's next picture rolls around, "It Can Be Done" it will be directed by Fred Newmeyer.

"The Docks of New York" will be Baclanova's fifth picture in which she played since with Paramount. This film happens to have two parts for women of equal importance. Betty Compson has the other.

Gwen Lee has been borrowed from M-G-M to play the sister of Alice White in First National's "Show Girl".

On the Fox lot, two short Movie-tone features are going into production — one "Mystery Mansions" will be directed by Harry Delf; and the other "Three O'clock in the Morning", to be in charge of William M. Conselman.

Esther Ralston is back in Hollywood, but can still continue her vacation, as her next picture "The Case of Lena Smith" to be directed by Josef Von Sternberg will not go into production until the latter part of July.

Kathryn McGuire, one of the most picturable girls in pictures, has been cast in support of Ted Wells in "The Border Wildcat."

Present plans for Firnatone accompaniment to "The Squall," First National's screen version of the Broadway stage hit.

Hedda Hopper, well-known free lance actress in Hollywood, has just been signed by Paramount to play a mother role in "Forgotten Faces."

Warner Bros. are gathering a knock-out cast for their Vitaphone special "Conquest". Besides Monte Blue, H. B. Warner, and Lois Wilson, Tully Marshall and Edmund Breese mae the latest additions, and they are both practiced in the art of speaking.

Work on Paramount "Moran of the Marines" has been held off by Director Frank Strayer until the arrival of Miss Ruth Elder from Paris. She will have the lead opposite Richard Dix.

Alice White is spending practically all her time fitting costumes for "Show Girl" in which she is to appear for First National Pictures.

With the addition of the name of Bert Roach, the cast of "The Last Warning" is complete, and Paul Leni is quite relieved that it is so. Roach makes the twelfth player.

Joan Crawford gets a chance to wear the vampiest gowns she has yet brought to the screen in "Four Walls" Joan doesn't like 'em much, "because," she says, "they're too short to walk in and too light to sit down in."

Jean Arlette, author of numerous farces of the French stage, has been signed by Al Christie of Paramount-Christie comedies, to write a group of stories for a series of two-reel comedies to be under the general title of "Confessions of a Chorus Girl."

Alexander Korda has been dubbed "Skipper" by the company making "The Night Watch," a First National picture. Most of the action is aboard a French cruiser.

Jack McDonald is the latest pick for the cast of "Show Boat". Universal chose him with an eye to the fact that he has been on the legit and this production will be synchronized.

Edward Small has returned from New York and will immediately go into conference with Asher and Rogers and Sax on the production of Judge Ben Lindsey's book "Companionate Marriage".

Harold Lloyd is quietly going about with a thorough investigation of these here "talkies". If he finds them suitable for his type of comedy, his next picture will undoubtedly be heard as well as seen.

Lew Cody recently celebrated an in-between picture period by taking a youngster to a Catalina Island vacation. The boy is the chap who recently walked from Kansas to Hollywood because he thought Lew Cody would get him a job in pictures.

Robert Ellis, a character actor, will have the "reavy" role in the college picture which will be the first vehicle for Charles Rogers as a Paramount star. Frank Tuttle is directing, and Mary Brian has the feminine lead.

Camera work has been completed on the sixth and concluding picture in the Charley Bowers Comedy series of novelty fun films.

VOL. 24 No. 3

OBSERVATIONS

Writers

With the advent of talking pictures, it is inevitable that the writer, most persecuted and least exploited of any connected with the production of what are now only moving pictures, shall come into his own. For years well known authors have been paid huge sums for books and plays, and specially written screen stories, which by the time they reached the screen, were unrecognizable to their originators. These men have paced the studio floors and pled that their ideas for which they were paid, should not be mangled and sacrificed on the altar of ACTION.

Now, with the importance of the spoken word, the value of sound looms closer and closer; with the tear dependent perhaps on a voice, the laugh on a line instead of a "gag",—will not the author's name supplant that of the director's in deference to public demand? Will not then, the producer knowing the overwhelming importance of story and dialogue, consider the author's wares of more value than the director's?

To the stage-going public the authors name has always been of vital import and pulling power, whereas the director of a play received mere program notice. Talking pictures will undoubtedly bring about its greatest change in the reversal of the present position of writer and director.

Von Stroheim

For a while it seemed the producers were going to relegate Eric Von Stroheim to a high and lofty shelf in order that he might be permitted to ponder on things in general and cool off a bit. "Von" went from door to door pleading his cause but with few listeners. Aside from being one of the greatest directors in our industry, he is perhaps, the most expensive. His production costs have been enormous, any kind of a shooting schedule meant nothing to him, a sequence that another director would take an hour to do, "Von" would take days. With it all, his pictures have made money, with the possible exception of "Greed".

The fact he succeeded in interesting Gloria Swanson in a story and later in the direction of it and that Miss Swanson made known her wants to Joseph Kennedy and that Mr. Kennedy arranged with P. A. Powers, who has Stroheim under contract, for the loan of his services, should have a very significant meaning

CLEVELAND MERGER STOPS OVERSEATING

CLEVELAND—An attempt will be made to relieve overseating in the Cleveland territory, through a plan to operate some houses of large chains on alternate nights.

The Plaza and Five Point Theatres instead of being in direct competition with each other, as heretofore, have been merged into a new United Theatre Corporation.

Phil Glichman of the Ohio Amusement Co. and M. B. Horowitz of the Washington Circuit are the two factors in the move to eliminate harmful competition through the merger.

Five new theatres in a limited district from which to draw attendance has caused all of the theatres to suffer from a tremendous increase in seating capacity.

ROSSHEIM SEES RECORD BOX-OFFICE RECEIPTS

"Every Stanley house will be equipped to give some form of picture with synchronized accompaniment and Vitaphone, Photophone and similar mediums are giving marvelous results," was the statement of Irving D. Rossheim, Tuesday.

"I am of the opinion that the silent pictures will not be supplanted but will continue to find a place for itself" said the First National president.

"Beginning with the Fall season, due to the comprehensive synchronized programs being offered by producers, there will result a record-breaking attendance in every theatre and the Stanley houses will be prepared to keep in line with the newest creations. I predict the greatest period in motion pictures due to the stimulation of synchronized cinema presentation.

Lewis J. Selznick is in New York from the coast. His visit is more or less of a mystery as he outlined for a representative of this publication. He expects to return to California within a week or ten days.

MINDLIN MAY APPEAL FILM BAN TO SMITH

The "City Without Jews" which was rejected by the N. Y. State Board of Censors, was rejected a second time by James W. Wingate, Director of the Board, for the second time, according to unofficial report.

Although the film is scheduled to be viewed by the State Board of Regents, if Michael Mindlin of the 5th Avenue Playhouse so desires, his organization may not wait for this action but may appeal directly to Governor Smith to lift the ban on the film.

Laemmle Leaves N. Y.

Carl Laemmle, President of Universal Pictures Corporation left New York for Universal City on Tuesday. He was accompanied by his secretary, and Mr. & Mrs. Flekles.

Laemmle will stay on the coast for several months.

BIG WARNER SUIT FOR $500,000 PLAGIARISM

The $500,000 plagiarism suit which Mindreyer Productions of which Michael Mindlin is president, brought against Warner Bros. came up before Judge Coleman in the Equity Court Tuesday. The Mindreyer claim was that the Warner Bros. film, "Silken Shackles", released in 1926, was based on their play, "Odd Man Out", which ran at the Booth Theatre in 1925.

The case has been postponed until September to give Mindreyer Productions time to take deposition in California.

T.O.C.C. and I.M.P.E.A. Combine to Force New Basis in Film Purchasing

Representatives of the two leading independent motion picture theatre owner groups of New York City, the T.O.C.C. and the I.M.P.E.A., met Tuesday at the Park Central to discuss the common problems affecting all of their members and independent exhibitors generally.

It was the unanimous opinion of the conference that all independent exhibitors be advised to postpone negotiations for the purchase of films and to await further recommendations from both associations.

The conference agreed that the new contract contains provisions that require further study, and that the unusually bad commercial conditions would warrant particularly close analysis of the terms of current negotiations.

There was absolute unanimity on all points under discussion and the final outcome was an instruction to the respective presidents, Mr. Aaron Sapiro of the Independent Motion Picture Exhibitors Association and Mr. Sol Raives of the Theatre Owners Chamber of Commerce that they send out a joint letter to all exhibitors recommending suspension

SHEFFIELD SUING COLUMBIA PICTURES

DENVER — J. T. Sheffield local exchangeman has filed for injunction in the Denver District Court against Columbia Pictures Corporation charging unfair competition through alleged infringement on his trade name.

Sheffield has been operating Columbia Exchanges in Western States since May 1926. Columbia Pictures Corp. entered the exchange business in 1928 in the Denver territory. His claim is that the picture company is deceiving the public as to the identity of the two businesses.

A similar case between the Columbia Film Service, film exchange in Pittsburgh and the Columbia Pictures Corporation, has been decided by the Equity Court of Western Pennsylvania in favor of the picture company.

SOUND FEATURETTES

Reviewed by Blanche F. Livingston

"THE FAMILY PICNIC"

Movietone—Fox

Featuring Raymond McKee,
Kathleen Kay

Directed by Harry Delf

Two-reel comedy. Dialogue instead of titles. Weak material but swell idea for developing.

This production is particularly significant because it is the very first of its kind. Its possibilities are enormous. This opens with Kathleen Kay as the wife humming as she prepares the equipment for a picnic. Her husband, Raymond McKee, is tuning up the car. The children, a boy, a girl and a baby complete the cast. Things start happening when the family remembers it has forgotten to take the lunch. The engine stalls. A storm comes up. The party is towed home. Action's good and speedy but brings forth too few laughs. Sound comes over better in the first-half, but at all times is understandable.

"FLORENCE MOORE"

Vitaphone—Warner Bros.

Featuring Florence Moore,

Ltd. Gitz Rice

A-1 number. Singing accompanied by piano. Chatter in between.

Florence Moore who is as good at comedy as she is at singing, puts over "And He Never Said That To Me" with many double meaning gestures. Then she fools around with the piano shawl, talks a bit to Gitz Rice and goes on with her next song "You'll Be Sorry That You Made Me Cry". She sings this chorus several times impersonating various types of people as she goes along. Her personality is strong. Every now and then that lisp that can't seem to be wholly eliminated from the Vitaphone synchronization, will come out.

Warner Bros. New Line Is Partially Announced

Warner Brothers are going the limit in preparing Vitaphone features for the use of exhibitors during the ensuing year.

A list of attractions, that is by no means complete, already includes this line-up. George M. Cohan's great stage success, "The Home Towners", Monte Blue, in "Conquest", with H. B. Warner and Lois Wilson, Dolores Costello, in "Noah's Ark", with George O'Brien, Al Jolson, in "The Singing Fool", Fannie Brice, in "My Man", "The Desert Song" with a great singing and acting cast, May McAvoy in "The Terror", an all-Vitaphone, "The Midnight Taxi", with Antonio Moreno and Helene Costello, May McAvoy and Conrad Nagel, in "Caught in the Fog" and "Beware of Bachelors", with Audrey Ferris and William Collier, Jr.

"Lights of New York", the first all-talking picture ever made, "Women They Talk About", and "State Street Sadie", are now ready for release.

NEW PICTURES

"THE MICHIGAN KID"

Reviewed by F. W. Stibick

Universal

Directed by Irwin Willat

Featuring Conrad Nagel,
Renee Adoree, Lloyd Whitlock,
Fred Esmelton, Adolph Milar.

Audience Appeal: Rex Beach's reputation and the cast will help to make this a b. o. attraction.

Story Value: Old story material that wasn't handled any too well burdened the greater part of the picture, but despite this and many other flaws, the ending more than compensated one for being bored. The story opens with Jimmy Rowan, famous as the Michigan Kid gambler, preparing to return to the girl he loves, Rose Morris. Jimmy discovers that his childhood playmate, Frank Heyward, is engaged to Rose. When he learns that Frank has stolen some money from the company, he promises to repay it. While taking Rose to the mine, Jimmy and she are forced by a storm to remain in a cabin. Frank, becoming jealous, comes to the cabin and attempts to kill Jimmy. A forest fire starts and the three barely escape with their lives, but Rose is brought to a realization of her love for Jimmy.

Acting: Conrad Nagel didn't measure up to his role; entirely too mild. Renee Adoree registered as well as she could in her small part. Lloyd Whitlock was fair.

Technical Treatment: The forest fire and the canoe ride in the rapids were something exceptional, but Willat's direction, especially the fight, was poor.

"THE CASE OF JONATHAN DREW"

Reviewed by Blanche F. Livingston

Piccadilly Pictures

Directed by Alfred Hitchcock

Featuring Ivor Novello

A so-so English mystery-melodrama, lacking any comedy relief so beloved by our Americans.

Audience Appeal: Might go on a daily change program if you know your patrons will sit through a solemn mystery fillum.

Story Value: The beginning of the picture leads one to suspect a really good thriller coming, but it quickly drops into the straight and narrow path and, like most people who follow that road, becomes rather flat. Jonathan Drew is the center of attraction being suspected for the Avenger, a gentlemen in the city of London who has an aversion to blondes and has just murdered his seventh. Because of Drew's mysterious frowns and hot interest in the blonde daughter of the people with whom he's boarding, he is arrested. And the very worst happens when the real criminal confesses and there's the usual clinch of hero and heroine at the end.

Acting: Horribly overacted.

Technical Treatment: Director Hitchcock at times showed some good. Picture needs some skillful cutting. Photography not so

"LIGHTS OF N. Y." GETS MIDNIGHT PREMIERE

A gala midnight premiere for Warner Bros. Vitaphone production, "Lights of New York," will take place to-morrow at the Mark Strand Theatre. The picture begins its public engagement the following day.

"Lights of New York" has aroused great interest as the first all-talking picture of feature length. Hugh Herbert and Murray Roth were authors and adaptors of the story which Bryan Foy directed.

Highlights in the News Reels Reflecting Enterprise

In the week-end newsreel Fox News No. 80 has a diversified list of offerings, a few of which are the splendid exhibition of the Spanish cavalymen before King Alfonso; picture paragraphs of Maj. Maddalena, Pres. Doumergue, and something extraordinary—the raiding of a moonshine still.

Paramount News No. 97 shows the thrilling arrival in England of 'Lady Lindy'; search for the lost Arctic flyers, and Flashes from Everywhere.

M-G-M News No. 92 has some splendid views of the fast yacht race held at Newport, R. I.; some unusual shots of the unique burial rites of Queen Marasri, at Bangkok, Siam, and Pres. Coolidge in his summer office.

The nomination of Gov. Smith, with intimate sidelights on his life, is one of the many items in Pathe News No. 55. Included, too, are the speedy Steeplechase classic at Auteuil, France, and the heroic search for Amundsen.

International Newsreel No. 52 presents scenes of the wonderful Indian Marathon from San Francisco to Oregon; Capt. Caranza's enthusiastic reception at West Point, and stirring scenes at the Democratic convention at Houston.

Germany's marvelous reception to her flyers of the Bremen is given in Kinograms No. 5409; also the arrival of the battleship, Texas, from Hawaii, and some amusing episodes of the kids in New York taking a swim.

LUKAN SIGNS 20 FIRST RUNS IN NORTHWEST

L. O. Lukan, manager of First National's Seattle branch has signed contracts for twenty first runs in that city in thirteen weeks.

Last week the First National pictures to have Seattle first runs were Colleen Moore's "Happiness Ahead," "The Big Noise," Billie Dove in "The Love Mart" and Ken Maynard in "The Overland Stage."

RIESENFELD TO SCORE U. A. SYNCHRO PICTURES

Hugo Riesenfeld will score all the synchronized accompaniments of United Artists product, according to Joseph M. Schenck. Schenck plans to make conservative use of talking pictures and advises the industry not to become hysterical over scientific devices.

"No matter what mechanics of presentation and production are developed or perfected, good story-telling pictures, well produced and intelligently made will continue to be the sustaining force in film entertainment," states Schenck.

United Artists will continue to make good pictures, entertaining films that will satisfy the public.

Jolson-Berlin Number in "The Singing Fool"

Hollywood—J. L. Warner, production chief, is giving his personal attention to the filming of "The Singing Fool," which will star Al Jolson, and which Warner Brothers hope will duplicate the "Jazz Singer" success.

Irving Berlin has written an exclusive number for Jolson which will be featured in Vitaphone. Lloyd Bacon is directing and Betty Bronson is Jolson's leading woman.

LOEWS LEASE WEINSTOCK CHAIN FOR $6,000,000

A deal consummated Tuesday between Loews, Inc., and Joe Weinstock of the Bronx involves the acquisition by the Loew chain of three additional theatres for a period of 21 years at an aggregate rental of approximately $6,000,000.

The houses which are included in the transaction are the New Fairmont Theatre on Tremont Ave., now nearing completion; the Elsmere Theatre at Elsmere Pl., and the new Loews at 167th Street, near River Avenue.

"Lost In The Arctic" Fox Alaskan Film for B'way

The title of the film showing the hardships of Arctic explorers which Fox Film corporation purchased from Sidney Snow has been changed from "Lost in Alaska" as previously announced, to "Lost in the Arctic".

The film is a story of the Snow expedition which set out to discover, if possible, the remains of the Stefansson party that was lost near Herald Island in 1913.

On this expedition Snow made a pictorial record with his motion picture camera of the life in the frozen north and the perils that threaten all explorers, which have recently been made vivid by the exploits of Nobile and Amundsen.

"Lost in the Arctic" is scheduled for a Broadway showing soon.

Murray Beier Plans Intensive Campaign on Tunney-Heeney Film

Ted Lewis Jazz King Signed for Vitaphone

Warner Brothers have signed another Broadway celebrity for Vitaphone. He is Ted Lewis, jazz band leader.

Ted Lewis will make a Vitaphone Road Show picture. He is known to audiences throughout the country, being an old vaudeville and musical comedy favorite.

Film Arts Guild to Release "Red Knight"

The Film Arts Guild is preparing for an immediate release of "The Red Knight of Germany" on which it has secured the American and Canadian distribution rights.

Gershwin to Perform Original at Roxy

Roxy has commissioned George Gershwin to write an original composition for the motion picture theatre and conduct it himself. The Roxy Symphony Orchestra of 110 musicians may present the first performance of this work when it is completed.

Murray Beier has been appointed General Sales Manager of the Gold-Hawk Pictures, Inc., which was awarded the contract to film the coming Tunney-Heeney Boxing Contest at the Yankee Stadium on July 26th.

Beier is preparing an intensive campaign among exhibitors of the State and will use every medium of publicity and advertising to sew up the major part of the territory before July 26th.

It is not known who will handle the actual photographing of the contest. Joe Seiden, who has filmed all the previous Rickard fights will not be associated with the filming this year.

FBO Puts into Effect 5-Day Week for H. O.

Taking effect Saturday, July 7th, FBO Pictures Corporation will put the five day week plan into action at its Home Office, 1560 Broadway, New York. This plan will release over one hundred employees for the enjoyment of a full Saturday-Sunday holiday week-end during July and August.

"Making The Varsity"

Excellent Pictures Corp. will soon release "Making the Varsity", featuring Rex Lease, Gladys Hulette, and a strong supporting cast. Following this will be the release of "The Speed Classic."

"Manhattan Knights," starring Barbara Bedford, is now in production at Hollywood.

Klein Directing

"The Fog," a story by C. F. Coe, will be Charles Klein's first directorial effort for Fox. The cast includes Mary Astor, George O'Brien, Earle Fox and Ben Bard.

Swanson Starts Aug. 15

Gloria Swanson will begin camera work on "The Swamp," her third independently produced United Artists Picture on August 15th in Hollywood. Eric Von Stroheim, who is to direct Miss Swanson's picture, is nearly finished the script, based on his own original story.

Lichtman Appoints 5 to Field Sales Force

Al Lichtman having lined up one of the strongest sales organizations in the field, is all set for the tenth and biggest year in United Artists history.

Lichtman has appointed five more people to field sales organization. They are William Trough, sales manager at Kansas City; Harry Dodge, assisting Harry Gold, Cleveland District Manager, effective July 9; Henry Rosefield, salesman at Washington, D. C.

Matthew Sullivan goes to Toronto as salesman, effective July 19, and William Chernoff, salesman at Pittsburgh.

Schulberg and Goetz

B. P. Schulberg, Paramount production executive, and Harry Goetz, assistant treasurer of the Paramount Famous-Lasky Corporation, are now enroute to New York for a conference with home office officials.

Perez Titling

Paul Perez, titling expert of Tiffany-Stahl Productions is completing his work on "The Grain of Dust", George Archainbaud production.

This is the fourth consecutive picture he has titled this year.

Brill-Herrmann Organize UFA-Eastern Division Dist.

The Brill Distribution Corporation, with the entrance of William C. Herrmann into the company has been reorganized and will hereafter be known as the Ufa-Eastern Division Distribution, Inc. Herrmann and Dave Brill will be in charge of the entire distribution in 37½% of the entire U. S. territory.

The Ufa product will be sold in the states of N. Y., N. J., Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Maine, Rhode Island, Mass., Vermont, Maryland, Virginia, West Va., Delaware and the District of Columbia.

Exhibitors in these states will be served from exchanges in New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Boston and Buffalo, and for the 1928-29 season, there will be 26 features and 26 single reel novelties. 20 Productions will be in shape to be shown to theatres by August 1st.

In speaking of his new investment, Herrmann stated "that not only will his company's product provide the finest-quality films at rentals comparable for what domestic program pictures bring, but they will create patronage as well as profit for exhibitors."

CHRISTIES INSTALLING SOUND IN MET. STUDIO

HOLLYWOOD — Al and Charles Christie will install sound-picture equipment in the Metropolitan Studios which they own. Western Electric equipment will be used in accordance with their contract with Electrical Research Products.

It is expected that two stages will be equipped for sound at once and recording apparatus has been ordered. A part of the Christie product will be made at the Metropolitan, and unit producers will now be able to make their talkies there on a leasing basis.

"Man With Iron Mask" with Original Cast

Doug Fairbanks announces that he will endeavor to reassemble the original cast that played with him in "The Three Musketeers," for his next production which will be a sequel to that film, called "The Man With the Iron Mask."

Leon Bary, who played Athos will play the same role in the sequel; Marguerite de la Motte will again play Constance and Alan Dwan will direct the production.

Maurice Leloir, French artist, will assist on the production.

N. Y. Exhibitors Decide to Halt Film Buying

sion and postponment of their film purchases.

It is expected that there will be further conferences of a similar nature from time to time on any problems of common interest to the exhibitors in the Metropolitan District.

Sprague Here

Chandler Sprague, Fox Scenario Head is conferring at the home office on new scripts and on Movie-tone stories, for which he has been put in charge.

Sprague is only staying in New York for a week, and will leave next Wednesday, July 11th, for the Coast. He will observe the production of movietone shorts in New York and will adapt his future script work toward that end.

MACK SENNETT PLANS SURPRISE SOUND SHORTS

HOLLYWOOD—To justify his belief that the short comedy is about to enter a period of great expansion and that talking and sound effects will cause the advance, Mack Sennett, veteran comedy producer announces he will soon begin production of two-reel comedies with RCA Photophone.

When he began his new studios at Studio City, California, Sennett laid plans for sound production and built suitable sound rooms. His new product will be ready in the early Autumn.

The way in which Sennett will use Photophone will be a surprise, making use of a new procedure in place of the conventional synchronization.

Dialogue and Sound in MacLean Picture

Paramount Famous-Lasky announce that Doug MacLean's first talking feature will be "The Carnation Kid" which Al Christie will produce and synchronize.

MacLean it is discovered is an old troupier who trod the boards of the old Morosco Theatre. The spoken lines and sound effects which will go into the production have doubled the size of the script, based on Al Cohn's story.

"The Carnation Kid" will make a bid for a definite place as ideally planned and fitted for sound," states Christie.

Larry Semon Sued

LOS ANGELES—The Larry Semon Productions, Inc., have been named defendants in a $100,000 suit filed by the Motion Picture Capital Corporation, on an assigned claim for 20 promissory notes.

J. L. Adams, President and H. Clyde Harms, Secretary are co-defendants.

Fox Mystery

Fox Film has bought "Behind That Curtain," a mystery novel by Earl Biggers. Raoul Walsh will direct this picture, with Charlie Chang in one of the pivotal roles.

Hollywood News

With JOE BLAIR

Nina Byron, a former Follies girl, is taking the role of the dance hall hostess in Clara Bow's Paramount picture, "The Fleet's In," which is being directed by Malcolm St. Clair.

Mervyn LeRoy was so successful in directing Alice White in the First National picture "Harold Teen" that he has again been assigned to direct her in another feature called "The Bluffers," a magazine story by Robert S. Carr.

Betty Compson and Baclanova are principals in this story which is being directed by Josef Von Sternberg.

Lila Lee and Cornelius Keefe are the girl and boy in "Thunder God" a James Oliver Curwood story which Morris Schlank is producing for independent release.

M-G-M have ten pictures in production with the start of Norma Shearer's new one "A Little Angel". They are "West of Zanzibar" with Lon Chaney, Tod Browning directing. The cast includes Lionel Barrymore, Mary Nolan and will be made with sound effects. John Gilbert in "The Mask of the Devil", Victor Seastrom directing. Greta Garbo is finishing "War in the Dark" Fred Niblo directing. "A Single Man" co-starring Lew Cody and Aileen Pringle, Harry Beaumont directing. William Haines has virtually finished "Excess Baggage". Buster Keaton's new picture, "The Cameraman", the first picture under his new M-G-M contract is almost completed, "Her Cardboard Lover" with Marion Davies is well along in production. Tim McCoy's new vehicle, another historical Western titled "Morgan's Last Raid" went into production last week.

Robert Ellis will play a featured role in Charles Rogers' first starring picture, tentatively called "Varsity," now being filmed at the Lasky studio.

A special preview of the completed "Butter and Egg Man" was recently given. The picture, directed by Richard Wallace, features Jack Mulhall and Greta Nissen, with Sam Hardy, William Demarest and Gertrude Astor in the supporting cast.

Sue Carol who captivated or captured a recent M-G-M film in which Lew Cody had the starring role will again enact the ingenue in "A Single Man," which Aileen Pringle and Lew Cody are being co-starred.

Malcolm St. Clair has signed a new contract with Paramount. Following the completion of "The Fleet's In," he is scheduled to direct "The Canary Murder Case."

Wheeler Oakman is scoring 100% as a heavy. Having just finished a clever crook role opposite Lon Chaney, M-G-M lost no time in casting Wheeler to Tim McCoy's latest, "Morgan's Last Ride."

Wallace Beery, Paramount star, accompanied by his wife, left in his airplane for his cabin at Silver Lake in the Sierras, where he will spend his vacation.

First National's comedy ace, Charlie Murray, has started work on his next picture, "Do Your Duty." William Beaudine is directing.

Charles Delaney has been signed by First National to play opposite Alice White in her starring picture, "Show Girl," which Al Santell is directing. Delany has been advancing more rapidly than any other free lance juvenile actor in Hollywood during the past year and sooner or later some film concern will sign him to a long term contract.

The cast to date of the "Show Girl," has Alice White, Charles Delaney, Donald Reed, Kate Price, James Finlayson, and Gwen Lee. Alfred Santell is behind the megaphone.

Alexander Korda will direct "The Squall," for First National. Korda, sooner or later, will make a picture that will stand Hollywood on its ears. He has much ability.

What is believed to be a record for the number of motion picture cameras shooting a single scene was recently established by Frank Lloyd, 38 machines were used in filming the naval battle scenes of "The Divine Lady," First National's special starring Corinne Griffith.

Ralph Cedar has started production for the second of the new Darnour FBO Barney Google series based on Billy DeBeck's internationally famous cartoon. Len Smith is the cameraman and Elmer Decker is assisting Director Cedar. Barney Hellum plays the title role.

Ruth Elder is expected in Hollywood some time next week where she will start work opposite Richard Dix in "Moran of the Marines," a Paramount picture.

Charles Rogers was going through his paces before the cameras . . . Chester Conklin and Mary Brian were behind a screen and the set was an interior of a college soda palace . . . FIVE CENTS

OBSERVATIONS

Foreign Pictures

Saw two of the new UFA pictures. Watch out for this crowd. They mean business. A few more such as the two I have seen will knock down a lot of the "exhibitor prejudice" for foreign product.

Is It True?

Word comes from the coast that Will H. Hays has suggested that M-G-M drop all desires to film "The Command To Love". Remembering what happened to "Rain" we wonder if the suggestion will be accepted?

Hal Roach

At the time when most comedy producers felt that audiences did not want "slapstick", Hal Roach began releasing the new Laurel-Hardy comedies. Audiences everywhere are howling at them. They are very funny. Roach's foresight wins again. No doubt, others will follow his lead.

New York Indies

The Sapiro and T.O.C.C. groups had a talk fest the other day. The reason given was the "new uniform contract required further study". With the competition of Loew, Keith and Fox, and the added opposition to each other, we wonder if the uniform contract had anything to do with this get-together meeting?

Berlin

Reports from the coast indicate that Irving Berlin, noted "Broadwayite" has deserted the bright light district for keeps. He likes Hollywood and Hollywood seems to like him. Has written a song for Al Jolson to be used in his new Warner Brothers picture and another titled "Marie" to be used in the Sam Goldwyn-Vilma Banky production "The Awakening".

Film Club

Al Lichtman, Lee Ochs and the others concerned in the formation of the Motion Picture Club are to be congratulated on making this project possible. Their new club rooms, nearing completion, will be most luxurious and comfortable. A credit to the industry.

SCHENCK SAILS SEEKING RUSSIAN MONOPOLY

100% World Distribution Sought — Kelly Accompanying

Planning two months abroad, Joseph M. Schenck, President of United Artists Corporation, sailed at midnight, yesterday on the S. S. Homeric for Europe. He was accompanied by Arthur W. Kelly, Vice-President and General Manager of Foreign Distribution. They will visit Russia, Scandinavia France, Germany and Great Britain.

Russia is being visited with the definite purpose of studying film conditions there at first hand; meeting officials of Sovkino and negotiating distribution of all of United Artists past, current, and future pictures throughout the Soviet republic. Achieving this will provide 100% world distribution of the company product.

In Italy the plan is to expand

SCHWARTZ APPOINTS 5 TO MOVIE TONE STAFF

Milton J. Schwartz in charge of Movietone distribution for Fox-Case, has appointed new staff additions to the field in anticipation of a complete movietone service to exhibitors shortly which will include a weekly feature, newsreel and short novelty subject.

Schwartz's department will now be included in the Fox Sales Department.

Sophie Subs for U. A. "The Circus"

Broadway is learning for the first time that Sophie Tucker is more than a one-man or woman-show, all herself. In Film Board of Arbitration proceedings, an exhibitor contracted for United Artists' "The Circus", but didn't receive it, due to contract misunderstanding.

The exhibitor, Park Plaza of Brooklyn, claimed that as a result of not being able to show "The Circus", they were forced to engage Sophie Tucker.

MARKS BROS. SUIT OFF UNTIL JULY 12

CHICAGO — The Marks Brothers suit against Balaban & Katz, Publix and 25 other defendants which was to be tried tomorrow, after adjournment from June 22nd, has been laid over until July 12th, at request of attorneys for the defendants, for additional time to prepare the papers. Judge Page of the U. S. District Court here.

The legal action charges that picture producers and distributors, theatre owners and operators and theatrical bookers and agencies attempted to feaze out the Marks Bros. theatres and restrain trade through monopoly.

The Marks Bros. chain charges they have been blacklisted by the producers being unable to secure first-run product unless O.K'd by Balaban & Katz and Publix.

They also claim interference in being permitted to book presentation acts, naming the Orpheum Circuit, the William Morris agency and others.

Bruce Bromley is representing Balaban & Katz and Publix today while John Tenney is counsel for Marks Brothers.

Ohio Censors Talkies

CLEVELAND — The Ohio Censor Board has announced its intention to censor talking pictures and in the future will require submission of dialogue records in sound films.

British Gaumont After Saenger and Other U.S. Theatre Chains

Memphis-Little Rock Tri-State Conference

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 6 — A conference of exchange managers, bookers and salesmen of the Memphis-Little Rock Exchange Board, with some 40 Tri-State members will meet at the Peabody Hotel here tomorrow.

Addresses will be made by officers of the Board, including Sol Davis, head of the Memphis board and Alma Walton, secretary. Contracts for 1928-29 will form the chief topic of discussion.

By SAM HARRIS

Proprietor "Today's Cinema"

LONDON — British theatre interests are making definite plans to purchase theatres in the United States, according to R. C. Bromhead, managing-director of British Gaumont.

This company is now negotiating for chains of theatres in all parts of the United States. The Stanley Company was one chain rumored to be bought, but was denied by Bromhead.

The purpose is to secure an outlet for British pictures in the U. S.

Loew's Net Profit Over Six Million

Showing a net operating profit of $1,488,579 over 1927, Loew's Incorporated financial statement issued yesterday shows that the company will have one of its biggest years, at the conclusion of the year.

For 40 weeks ending June 3rd, the operating profit was $9,150,843. Of this amount $2,773,742 is taken off for depreciation and taxes, leaving a net profit for this period of $6,377,101. For the similar 40-week period ending June 5th, 1927, net profit was $5,404,899.

FILM SHORTS

They are taking Bill Haines out of the "smart-ale" class. His next picture will take him into the crook realm. It's "Alias Jimmy Valentine". Done once before but certainly good for a second try.

Harry Langdon is finishing his last picture for First National. Its new and permanent title is "Heart Trouble". Might be appropriate for both the occasion and the picture. What's going to become of the two First National comics of last year, Langdon and Hines?

"Uncle" Carl Laemmle leaving for the coast was all smiles. This is always true with "Uncle" Carl, but there have been times when we are sure it was a little forced. Not now. In good health, business good, so why not?

Joe Rock in town, saw him hurrying to Al Woods office. Joe always hurries and he generally gets there. One of the most likeable boys in this or any other business.

Imagine this:—Harry Brandt the Brooklyn exhibitor going in for Croquet. Will give you a lot of argument about its merits. He wields a mean mallet. We saw him.

Dave Brill and Bill Herman of the New York UFA exchange are watching every boat for the last six of their twenty-six UFA productions they are going to release this year.

Nat Liebeskind, former South American manager for Universal and more recently connected with the Universal New York exchange, is leaving Sunday for the middle West as representative for Movietone. Nat's territory will comprise, Cleveland, Detroit, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati.

John Spargo, secretary of the Motion Picture Club is exceedingly happy over the approaching opening of the club rooms. From what we have seen, he has plenty of reason to be happy.

Ben Schulberg, Paramount's West coast production manager, arrives in New York tomorrow from Hollywood. He will confer with Jesse Lasky and home office officials regarding sound pictures.

"THE HAM WHAT AM"

Vitaphone—Warner Bros.

Featuring Jay C. Flippen
Typical Broadwayite goes over big. Songs and monologue, all with the help of a cigar.

Jay C. Flippen sings "Keep Sweepin' the Cobwebs Off the Moon" and "Magnolia". But how! He comes from the musical comedy end of the game and shows the logic in being a personality-plus chap as well as a singer. His monologue in between the songs is neatly commingled with jokes, the majority of them being new. And then Flippen can't get a case stage-fright because he always knows what to do with his hands—play around with a puffing cigar.

"THOSE PULLMAN PORTERS"

Vitaphone—Warner Bros.

Male quartet harmonizing on songs. All right, runs a little too long.

These four Kings of Harmony are garbed and blackened as pullman porters and the singing takes place on a moving train. The novelty in this one is the shifting of scenes to various parts of the train where you can still hear the pullman's voices but they themselves, are excluded from view. The boys harmonize in eight numbers, such as "Casey Jones", "Good Night Ladies" and "Hear That Whistle Blow". A couple of songs can easily be cut from the program.

Warner Club Addressed by Honorary Head

A meeting of the Warner Club was held at the Warner Building last Tuesday afternoon. This was the most important meeting since the origin of the organization. Honorary President Harry M. Warner opened the meeting with an address to the members.

Mr. Warner has become so enthused over the club that he came in especially from a holiday he had planned in order to address its members.

In an informal way, Mr. Warner spoke on sincerity in business as in pleasure and gladdened everyone by the bright prospects he painted on what it was possible for the club to hold forth for its members.

The meeting was closed with a short talk from the club's president Jack Gilbert.

Joe Rock, prominent coast producer, is in New York arranging matters for the production of talking pictures. He is building a two-stage sound proof studio in Hollywood and is here to arrange for the sound equipment with Electrical Research Company.

It is Rock's intention to photograph at least four and maybe six of the current Broadway attractions using members of the present casts for the picture. The first picture in all likelihood will be made in New York, the remainder in Hollywood.

NEW PICTURES

"THE STATION MASTER"

Reviewed by Blanche F. Livingston

Sovkino Production

Directed by

U. A. Gelabuzsky and I. M. Moskvina
Featuring I. M. Moskvina, V. S. Malinovsky, B. P. Tamarin, N. F. Kostromskoy, N. G. Alexandrov, Y. D. Tikhomirov.

A heavy, laborious Russian effort that has little to recommend it. Won't go in most houses.

Audience Appeal: For those interested in Russian background, and in Pushkin's works.

Story Value: The good dramatic material in this story was done to death by the executioners of the film. I. M. Moskvina as "The Station Master" was careful to see he got in every possible scene. He is supposed to be a simple peasant who deeply loves his only child, Dunia. The villain enters in the person of Captain Minsky persuading Dunia to return to the city with him. The father becomes worried at the daughter's absence and goes in search of her, only find her in Minsky's apartment. The captain won't allow her to return, but helps the father to hurry back by kicking him out in the street. After many tearful scenes and a bacchanalian party, the station master dies of a broken heart.

Acting: B. P. Tamarin was the best of the cast as far as American taste goes. I. M. Moskvina too theatrical and Malinovsky was a little too old for the daughter's part.

Technical Treatment: The first half of the picture wasn't so bad which is saying a lot. Overacted and tedious in its telling. Authentic backgrounds.

"THE BATTLE OF THE SEXES"

Reviewed by Joe Blair

United Artists

Directed by D. W. Griffith

Featuring Jean Hersholt, Phyllis Haver, Belle Bennett, Sally O'Neil, Don Alvarado, Joseph Batten, William Bakewell.

Not in the special class, but is strong as good first-run material. Acting and directing A-1.

Audience Appeal: Sexy title, cast and D. W.'s name will get them in.

Story Value: The theme of the gold-digger battling with the wife for possession of a man is not new, but it is handled so deftly and varnished with such fresh ideas, that it goes over well. After all it's a very human story with the husband keeping young to hold his own in the gay life which has no room for his wife. The battle goes on until, because of his daughter, reason points the way to keep the home fires burning.

Acting: Superb is the word for the entire cast. Belle Bennett fills the niche of the disregarded wife while Jean Hersholt gives a characterization that is past comment. Phyllis Haver, the gold-digger and Sally O'Neil, the daughter, both turn in first rate parts displaying real ability.

Technical Treatment: Although this film does not include many of Griffith's pet elements, it does contain such rare touches of direction as could only belong to the inimitable Griffith. Photography, titles, and lighting okay. Can stand some cutting.

While no definite information could be obtained from officials of M-G-M or the Astor Theatre, there was a definite rumor that an explosion occurred yesterday at the theatre in the late morning and that several employees were overcome.

The talk centered the accident around the ammonia tanks of the cooling system, and an Emergency Crew and Pulmotor Truck was called to the theatre to treat those overcome. There was no interference with either the matinee or evening performance.

LAEMMLE TO EXPEDITE "SHOWBOAT" FILMING

Carl Laemmle, president of the Universal Pictures Company, who left New York Tuesday for Universal City, Cal., will expedite the production of Universal's next big super-picture, "Showboat". Harry Pollard, who is to direct the picture, is now on the eve of the first camera-work. Mr. Laemmle will give his personal attention to the Pollard unit and will facilitate the director in every way possible.

Most of the principals for "Showboat" are now signed up. Laura La Plante has the "Magnolia" role; Joseph Schildkraut will play Ravenal, Alma Rubens will play Julie, Emily Fitzroy is to be Parthenia Ann Hawks, Otis Harlan has just been picked for Captain Andy Hawks, Jack McDonald will be Windy the pilot and little Jane La Verne will be Kim.

Mr. Laemmle was accompanied to the coast by his daughter, Miss Rosabelle Laemmle, by Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Fleckles and by his secretary, J. H. Ross, and family.

FLOODS IN ARK.-TENN. SHUT DOWN THEATRES

MEMPHIS — Several Tennessee and Arkansas towns have suspended business until recent floods have subsided. There is barely an outside chance for theatres to remain open, as the dykes keeping back the water in such towns as Cotton Plant and Des, Arc Ark., are in a bad way.

Memphis film exchanges plan to make use of airplanes and rowboats to keep film service going into the districts where water has segregated them from amusement.

Last year, at flood time, First National, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and Paramount sent films into Hot Springs via plane and if the present overflow keeps mounting, this will be done again.

Dividends

Two dividend meetings are scheduled for July and August. Pathe Exchange, Inc. will meet on July 23 and Paramount Famous-Lasky Corp., meet on August 6th.

and seating arrangements.

All theatre operators will be required to secure new permits from the fire commission. Scott points out that many places on Main Street would be affected by the new ordinance and forced to comply with the provisions of the measure.

Lamb protested that many members of his organization would be affected, particularly in the provision for permanent standpipes.

The City Council will shortly take final action on the measure.

Kan.-W. Mo. M.P.T.O. Eliminates Doty Zoning Plan for Protection

KANSAS CITY—The Doty Film Zoning protection scheme was disapproved by the M.P.T.O. of Kansas and Western Missouri at their recent meeting in Wichita, and came as a surprise to backers of the plan.

Doty who is president of the Kansas City Film Board of Trade recently drew up a zoning plan dividing theatres into different classes, depending on whether they were running first, second or subsequent runs and specifying exactly how many days protection each zone would be entitled to.

The M.P.T.O. passed a resolution against the plan, small-town exhibitors claiming that the plan was unfair that insufficient protection was allowed in some situations where greater protection should have been considered.

IMPORTANT ARBITRATION CASES IN SETTLEMENT

There was no cases heard by the N. Y. Film Board of Arbitration yesterday.

At the last meeting, P-F-L presented claim for damages against the Globe Theatre, Brooklyn, for holding over newsreel for more days than contracted for. The exchange was represented by Myers. The Board favored the exchange and awarded damages to the extent of $375.

Action by Park Plaza Theatre, Brooklyn, against United Artists for $5,000 for failure to deliver "The Circus." U. A. showed it failed to deliver as result of previous decision by arbitration board and that the Mount Eaton had prior delivery right.

The Park Plaza claimed that as a result of not being able to show "The Circus" they had to engage Big Act. Mr. Stern, representing U. A., proved that the Park Plaza on prior occasions engaged star acts, and also showed that the week at the Park Plaza was claiming damages for, the house had made a profit. The Board found that no damage had been proved by the Park Plaza.

ment under supervision of Jimmy Grainger and movietone sales will be through the regular Fox exchanges.

The new appointments are Jack Dillon who will handle the movietone sales in the Boston, Albany, Buffalo, New Haven and New York territories; Ben Broyles, the Memphis, Dallas, Oklahoma City, New Orleans and St. Louis territory.

Ben Levine will handle the Chicago, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, Kansas City, Omaha and Des Moines territory and Nat Liebeskind the Detroit, Indianapolis, Cincinnati and Cleveland section.

Edgar Moss, Philadelphia branch manager will supervise sales in his territory.

The Electrical Research Products, Inc., Western Electric subsidiary is in charge of movietone installations.

MILWAUKEE UNIONS CALL TALKIE WALKOUT

Installation of "talkies" in Milwaukee may cause a walk-out by local musicians, if the plans of the Musicians' Union go through. Joseph Padway, attorney for the union, according to Variety, is studying the situation with a view to calling out operators and stage hands affiliated with the I.A.T.S.E.

In a statement Tuesday, Padway said "we have a minimum number of men scheduled for each theatre. If that theatre has music at all, it must employ the orchestra. Theatres cannot just get by with an organ, and the same holds true of synchronized music."

"If the theatres that are wired refuse to pay for the minimum number of musicians after contracts run out, and refuse to renew, we stand justified in calling out the union operators and stage hands."

The musicians are now fighting the Whitehouse, a downtown theatre in Milwaukee their union having declared a strike against the house and having called out the operators as well.

"Warming Up" Booked for Rivoli July 14

Paramount's first sound picture is completed, and will open at the Paramount the week of July 14th. The picture is Richard Dix's "Warming Up"; it is a fast-moving baseball story, and is ideal for the sound effects and the talking screen. Those who have seen the picture pronounce it remarkable for sound, and a perfect knockout as a picture.

Peekskill Blue Law

Closes Sunday Movies

PEEKSKILL—There will be no Sunday movies in this town for some time to come.

The clergy have won a battle to enforce its blue laws and has succeeded in getting the Board of Village Trustees to repeal the ordinance permitting the Sunday shows, by a vote of 5 to 1.

Victor Net 1½ Million

Earnings of the Victor Talking Machine Co., for the second quarter this year has shown a substantial increase in net profits. Its motion picture contracts for synchronization work have played a large part in increased earnings.

Net profits for this quarter will be around $1,500,000, with between seven and eight million net for the entire year expected.

GOV'T TALKIE MADE FOR ARMY-NAVY INSTRUCTION

The Western Electric Company announced that the first sound picture especially designed for military instruction has been completed and shown in Washington to representatives of the Army, Navy, National Guard and other branches.

The picture was made through the joint efforts of Electrical Research Products, Inc., and Fox-Case Corporation, with the co-operation of the War Department.

Bennett Starts "Fire Detective" September 1

HOLLYWOOD—The start on the new program of Pathe Serials will commence on September 1st, when Spencer Bennett will put "The Fire Detective" into production at the Metropolitan Studios.

The story is an original by Frank Leon Smith and George Arthur Gray. The continuity will be done by Gray.

Two other serials will follow the "Fire Detective" shortly after its start. They are "The Tiger's Shadow" and "Queen of the North Woods."

British Gaumont After Saenger and U. S. Chains

With JOE BLAIR

C. C. Burr held the first preview of Johnny Hines' latest picture "The Wright Idea," at the West coast Westlake Theatre and came out all smiles. He has reason to smile, "The Wright Idea," is a winner. The story, an original by Jack Townley is refreshing. It is chuck full of gags and has excellent continuity construction. Hines gives his usual pleasing performance, Edmund Breeze runs him a close second and Louise Loraine, the girl, is adequate. Paul Perez again scores with the Burr-Hines concern, with an excellent set of titles. Photography splendid.

Jack Duffy, Christie comedy star, will be featured in eight "Sandy MacDuff comedies" for the coming season. The series which will be released by Paramount will be directed by Arvid Gillstrom. Neal Burns, Joan Marquis, Eddie Barry and Stella Adams are supporting Duffy in the "Hot Scotch."

Jackie Coogan is appearing in a Fanchon and Marco idea over the Pacific West Coast Theatres circuit preparatory to his Eastern Vaudeville tour.

Fred Thomson is filming his latest Paramount production, "Kit Carson", in a Hopi village reservation out in Arizona and messages from the star's director, Al Werker, declare that the troupe has made many friends among the Navajo Indians, hundreds of whom, are appearing in the picture.

Although the return was only temporary, producers were glad to see Arthur Lubin return to the coast. He has been on the legit and will return to it in the fall, but in the meantime, has been signed up by Gotham for "Times Square".

Edmund Lowe will not work in a forthcoming Gloria Swanson picture. He is busy at the Fox Studio appearing in the George Ade story "Making the Grade".

Theodore Roberts will be permitted to retain his famous cigar in his role of Count Palester in John Gilbert's new starring picture, "The Mask of the Devil" for Metro-Goldwyn Mayer.

Yola d'Avril has been added to the cast of "Hard Rock," First National Picture.

Another Follies girl makes the grade. This time, it's Nina Byron who has been cast in Paramount's "The Fleet's In".

Reports come from the Warner Studio that "The Home Towners" will be made into an all-talking movie. Robert McWade who played the lead on Broadway will also take that part for the screen.

Syd Hickox is photographing "Oh Kay", Colleen Moore's current First National picture. He was cameraman on "Happiness Ahead" and "Lilac Time" as well.

The two smallest actors in the world are featured in "Hop Off," the new Educational-Bowers Comedy. They are two trained fleas, creations of Charley Bowers.

Sixty-five head of horses were herded some 200 miles into the heart of the southwestern desert to the spot where a unit from the Paramount studio in Hollywood was on location to film exteriors for Zane Grey's picture, "The Water Hole".

Joan Crawford has virtually recovered her health following a slight stomach operation which she underwent ten days ago upon completion of her role in M-G-M's "Four Walls."

The millionaire producer, Howard Hughes comes forth with another moneyed statement. He will make Wilson Mizner's original story based on the Titanic disaster. Lewis Milestone will handle the megaphone. Those already selected for parts are Louise Wolheim, Raymond Griffith, Ben Lyon, Lucien Prival, and John Darrow.

Director William Seiter has taken Dorothy Mackaill and Jack Mulhall with the rest of the company to San Francisco for shooting scenes for First National's "Waterfront".

Judge Ben Lindsey, noted jurist and humanitarian who is now busy in Hollywood has gone on record as to his favorite film. It is "The Lost World," produced for First National Pictures by Watterson R. Rothacker.

Earle Fox, who recently completed the villain role in "The River Pirate," at the Fox studios is vacationing at Lake Elsinore, California. He will soon begin work in "Fog," which Lew Seiler will direct.

More than 300 extras were used in the opening scene of "That Matting Call," the Caddo production starring Thomas Meighan which Paramount will release. They appear as immigrants coming into Ellis Island.

John Gilbert wears a pair of wings and a halo, in the opening sequence of "The Mask of the Devil" which Victor Seastrom directs for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Lucien Prival is the first to be selected for the supporting cast of Charlie Murray's new comedy, "Do Your Duty," which First National is to start soon. William Beaudine will direct.

FBO-Non-Theatricals

MINNESOTA—The Minneapolis branch of Film Booking Offices has decided to cease furnishing service to non-theatrical accounts, following the lead of the Paramount Exchange which now consults theatre owners before selling to competitive tax-free institutions.

When it was proved that J.F.L. Olson of Gibbon, Minn. was running free shows the FBO exchange shut off its service to him.

MC VICKERS DROPS 14 MUSICIANS DEMAND JOBS

CHICAGO — The problem of the talkies vs union orchestras employed in big first-runs has hit the McVickers Theatre, Balaban & Katz house.

Vitaphone and Movietone equipment has been installed, and the matter of cutting the orchestra has been placed in the hands of James C. Petrillo, president of the Local Musicians' Union.

It is understood that negotiations are going on between Sam Katz and Harry Weber, head of the American Federation of Musicians to determine what shall be done with musicians in all the Balaban & Katz and Publix houses which will be equipped for talkies.

Petrillo insists that Balaban & Katz must augment one of their other orchestras at some other theatre with the 14 men who have been let out at McVickers.

Supplementing production of big feature photoplays in Great Britain for United Artists release which has already been inaugurated by the filming of "Three Passions" by Rex Ingram, Mr. Schenck is to arrange for another high calibre picture to be made in England.

Maurice Silverstone Sales Manager for Allies Artists Company, Ltd., returns to his headquarters in London with his bride, the former Dorothy Littman, on the Homerick with Mr. Schenck and Mr. Kelly.

Kuegraph Device for Theatres Tried Out

A special screening and demonstration of the Kuegraph was given at the Arcadia theatre in Dallas on June 22. A number of prominent theatre men were there, and all reported as being lavish in their praise of the new instrument. Tonal qualities volume and perfect cuing—minus all rasping sounds is said to be the reason why those who heard it were well pleased.

According to E. P. Herber, manager of Herber Bros. & Wolf, distributor of the Kuegraph, about 40 records were used in the demonstration. "The Smart Set," an M-G-M picture was used for the screening.

STERN COMEDY STUDIOS SCHEDULE EASING UP

With the completion this week of five more two-reel comedies, the Stern Brothers studio eased up for the Summer. This brings practically to an end the greatest production drive in the history of the Stern Film Corporation, makers of two-reel comedies for Universal release.

The Sterns now have well over half of the entire next season's product in hand. Within a few days, print will be in all Universal exchanges of twenty-seven of the fifty-two scheduled for 1928-29.

"Wings" Record

"Wings" not only continues on a record-breaking pace in New York promising to hold up until the end of summer, but has just completed 13 weeks at the Colonial Theatre in Cleveland, Ohio.

A. Griffith Grey head of the Roadshow Department for Paramount states the picture is mounting in receipts and may continue at a profit until Fall.

FIVE CENTS

OBSERVATIONS

Russia

Joseph Schenck, on leaving for Europe yesterday, let it be known he expected to arrange some kind of a deal with the Soviet Government for the distribution of United Artists pictures in that vast country. Schenck might succeed where others have failed. The Soviet have insisted on almost impossible terms; they have insisted that Russian made pictures shall have 100% distribution in America. These Russian made pictures are all produced under the supervision of the government and as a result contain a lot of propaganda. In addition to this, the cash outlay for the privilege of getting this contract is pretty heavy.

Censors and Talkies

Evidently the censor boards throughout the country have no intention at this time of installing equipment for the showing of talking pictures. The price of the equipment is a little too heavy for an organization who receives its dictates, in so far as the exchequer goes, from the political forces. Consequently New York and Philadelphia censors insist that a dialogue script be submitted with the subject to be censored. Maybe some kind and charitable individual will come to their rescue and give them an equipment.

Fight Pictures

Tex Rickard announced he had sold the rights to photograph the Tunney-Heeney boxing match for $22,000. We know he received $50,000. How is it possible then for a distributor, with only foreign and New York State, going to make money on this deal when it is considered that it will cost an additional $20,000 for filming, prints and sales. Tunney-Dempsey at Philadelphia grossed $135,000 in the state of Pennsylvania. Tunney-Dempsey at Chicago did over a $100,000 in Illinois. Dempsey-Firpo did $125,000 in New York. These figures do not include foreign and what is sold outside of the states where the matches were contested. Suppose there was no interstate restriction?

$50,000 FILM SUIT AGAINST BILTMORE

Benjamin Stearns has begun suit in the N. Y. Supreme Court for $50,000 against the Biltmore Exchange of N. Y. for exploiting the rights to and distributing the film "The Right Way" which Stearns claims is his property.

This picture was made by Thomas Mott Osborne while warden of Sing Sing through the Portsmouth Film Co., a New Hampshire concern. After Osborne died, the picture was purchased by Stearns from the Estate.

It was later discovered that Biltmore was distributing prints of this picture and on a writ of replevin, two prints thought to be dupes, were seized by Stearns through his attorney Louis Nizer.

The case will come up for trial next Fall or early next year.

Mr. Sohmer of Biltmore Pictures stated yesterday that they will file a counter suit for $25,000 against the Oxford Film Exchange for distributing the same picture, asking for an accounting and an injunction to restrain further distribution.

Sohmer believes his company has a valid contract with the Producers Security Corp., which had the only rights to distribution. Contracts were for five years and Biltmore's rights do not expire until February 1929.

MAYOR EDWARDS IN N.W. APPOINTS NEW CENSORS

SEATTLE—A new Theatre Censor Board has been appointed in this city by Mayor Frank Edwards, former exhibitor. Edwards called for resignations all down the line and is making a clean slate of virtually every city department.

The new Censor Board will be made up of D. R. Himelhoch, Mrs. Max Steinhauer, former member, Mrs. Edith Williams, Mrs. Sadie Ellis, M. G. Winstock, manager of the Portola Theatre; W. H. Wilson and J. M. Lennon, Pres. of Greater Features, Inc. Mrs. V. Zernick was reappointed.

Pass Mindlin Film

"The City Without Jews" which has been the subject of controversy between the State Censors and Michael Mindlin, was licensed yesterday, with minor eliminations, and will be shown at the 5th Avenue Playhouse, starting today.

WINGATE GETS TALKIE LICENSING AUTHORITY

Welcomes Suits By Producers—Board of Regents Backs Him

The New York State Board of Censors has been empowered by the State Board of Regents of the Department of Education, to censor spoken dialogue used in connection with pictures, according to Col. Wingate.

The proposition was put before the Board last week by Col. Wingate, and it was decided, and will so be put into effect shortly, that in the future scripts of all talking sequences synchronized in motion pictures will have to be submitted (Continued on page 3)

FINEST VITAPHONE ALL-DIALOG HEARD

The Vitaphone picture on which was centered the entire technical and studio experience of Warner Brothers organization over a two-year period was shown to the trade last night at the Strand.

It was "Lights of New York" the first all-talkie in which no printed titles were used, and which Bryan Foy directed from an idea developed by himself and Murray Roth.

The picture was eagerly awaited by the entire industry in New York in a desire to see how the development of dialogue used in a greater scope than heretofore would be handled.

In the cast were Helene Costello, Cullen Landis, Mary Carr, Wheeler Oakman, Gladys Brockwell, Robert Elliott and Eugene Palette.

Hammerstein-Selwyn

Merge Picture Interests

Arthur Hammerstein and Arch Selwyn, legitimate producers who recently presented their initial motion picture projects on Broadway at $2.00 top, "The End of St. Petersburg", and "Dawn", have combined their interests and have opened a distributing office at 1697 Broadway where both pictures will be sold to the motion picture theatres by an organization under the direction of H. Wayne Pierson.

Rembusch Wires Press of Reservations Necessitate New Date

Frank Rembusch telegraphed a statement from Indianapolis yesterday that the July 10-11-12 meeting of the Northwest M.P.T.O. which was planned by Al Steffes, and which had for its purpose the launching of plans for a new National exhibitor organization, has been temporarily postponed.

Steffes has found that the steamer facilities on the proposed Port Arthur boat ride at which the plans were to be formulated were not sufficient to accommodate all the registrations received from the Northwest group and the National group. No dates were given out for the resumption of the meeting.

FIVE SOUND FILMS B'WAY FEATURE

Next week will see the largest number of sound films on Broadway to date, with five pictures playing and one additional to open next Saturday.

"King of Kings" with synchronization will begin a run at popular prices at the Rivoli, which will thus inaugurate its first picture of this type.

BRYSON EUROPEAN HEAD BRINGS MYSTERY FILM

James V. Bryson, Gen. Mgr. of European Motion Pictures Co., Ltd., and Universal representative in England, arrived in New York yesterday from England on board the Aquitania.

Bryson will confer with Universal executives on forthcoming product and also brought news of a sensational mystery picture purchased by European from Universal de France.

This film received the assistance of the French Government and is titled "The Phantom of the Louvre."

PERSONALITIES

MAURICE J. CAPLAN

Maurice J. Caplan of Detroit, better known as "Cappy" is a man with a heart as well as a mind, and he uses both. There are few men in the industry who have given more pleasure to others with their pictures than he has.

He is president of the Metropolitan Motion Picture Co., producers of commercial, industrial, news, weeklies and advertising films. His entry into pictures was in this very position in 1917, and for years the company has produced the Pictorial for the Detroit News.

But of equal importance is the welfare work which "Cappy" has been carrying on. Interested in the crippled children's home, United Jewish Charity, Detroit Tuberculosis Sanatorium, he has always managed to supply film entertainment for those who can't go to the theatres. There is rarely a civic movement in Detroit connected with which you won't find Maurice J. Caplan's name.

He is also secretary of the Olympia Detroit Hockey Club and one of the Governors of the Canadian Hockey League and is generally right there when any sport question comes up. He is also a member of the Detroit Rotary Club, Adcraft Club, Executives Club, Elks, Shrine, Moslem Temple, Phoenix Club, Redford Country Club, Union League Club, Detroit Yacht Club, International Yacht and Country Club and the Cadillac Athletic Club.

Born in Manchester, England on November 15, 1889, he was educated there until twelve years of age. His wife was the former Louise Van Baalen.

proof stages and cutting rooms. They no doubt feel the mistakes made in getting Vitaphone up to where it is, cost them a lot of money and have no thought of letting the other producers cash in on the improvements.

Jack (Con) Conway, Hollywood title expert, left the California shores a few weeks ago, never to return. Since arriving in New York, "Hollywooditis" has got him. He is returning soon, saying "I got to get out of these slums".

HOLLYWOOD PREVIEWS

By JOE BLAIR

"GANG WAR"

An FBO Picture
Director Bert Glennon
Cast Eddie Gribbon,
Jack Pickford, Olive Borden.

An underworld picture, exceptionally well done. Story a bit different than other underworld pictures and builds up to good climax. Has plenty of production value. Lead carried by Eddie Gribbon, who seems destined for dramatic leads now instead of comedy. Jack Pickford and Olive Borden have the love interest.

"HEART TO HEART"

A First National Picture
Director William Beaudine
Cast Lucien Littlefield,
Louise Fazenda, Mary Astor,
Lloyd Hughes, Aileen Manning.

A good picture that will get across in any theatre. Though the material that makes up this story is not new, yet the ingredients are the old reliables that can be counted upon to touch the emotions. The love interest is fine, and gets across well. The comedy while not subtle, it good for plenty of laughs. The cast is more than above the average and is headed by the splendid actor, Lucien Littlefield. Louise Fazenda, Mary Astor and Lloyd Hughes give good accounts of themselves.

"TAXI 13"

An FBO Picture
Director Marshall Neilan
Cast Chester Conklin,
Gustav Von Seyffertitz, Ethel Wales, Martha Sleeper, Hugh Travor, Lee Moran and the Coy Watson family.

A clean, wholesome comedy that is excellent. The gags in this piece are original and genuinely funny, and are certain to get over in any theatre. The story is simple, merely a string of incidents put together; but the continuity has been done with such smoothness that this isn't noticeable. The plot relates the troubles of a taxi driver, Chester Conklin, who is the father of many children. Two crooks and a pearl necklace lend complications.

"ROAD HOUSE"

A Fox Production
Director Richard Rosson
Cast Lionel Barrymore,
Warren Burke, Julia Swayne Gordon, Tempe Pigott, Maria Alba, Jack Oakie.

Here is a well acted, intelligently directed picture even though it is somewhat "preachy." It will appeal to the reformers and might be listed as propaganda. The theme is old, telling that liquor and wayward sons are identical and the blame rests upon the parents. There is no love interest, and this somewhat detracts from the story—so far as the audience is concerned. Lionel Barrymore and Warren Burke give splendid performances.

"FORGOTTEN FACES"

A Paramount Picture
Director Victor Schertzinger
Cast Clive Brook,
Baclonova, William Powell.

A picture that is somewhat against the usual movie traditions, but it

UFA-LUCE DEAL NOT AGAINST AMER. FILMS

BERLIN — Officials of UFA Pictures are anxious to correct the impression given out by German and Italian trade-papers, that the UFA-Luce Deal for stimulation of Italian Production through UFA assistance will have for its purpose the shelving of American Pictures of those of any other nationality.

The interests of American distributors are especially safeguarded through the terms of the agreement, which has no political meaning and is only a business arrangement concluded between UFA and other firms abroad.

"Hit of the Show" an FBO film will be at the Roxy; as well as a Universal novelty, "Handicapped." "The Loves of Jeanne Ney" Ufa Production will be at the Cameo in its American premiere.

Thomas Meighan's Caddo production "The Racket" will have its N.Y. first-run at the Paramount Theatre and "The Man Who Laughs" will open a popular-priced run at the Rialto.

The Broadway will have a four reel film "The Return of the Ring Immortals", starting Monday.

Brown Says Esperanto

Solves Foreign Talkie

HOLLYWOOD—If Clarence Brown is serious, he has probably hit on the solution for the problem of releasing sound-films in foreign countries.

In view of the fact that a common language understandable by all nations will have to be used, and Brown suggests Esperanto. Talking pictures will rapidly spread to Europe and South America, and he asserts that every country is ready to accept a universal tongue and the sound films will act as the stimulus.

"Sunrise," F. W. Murnau's production for Fox, will open at the Roosevelt Theatre, Chicago, with a Movietone sound policy, beginning Friday, July 13th.

PICTURES OF THE WEEK

By Blanche F. Livingston

The regular followers of new films along the Great White Way could easily have left the city on the Fourth and still found time to spare after viewing all the shiny new pictures, because only four came to Broadway this week.

Paramount offered "The Big Kill" with the Beery-Hatton team. This contained more story and less comedy than usual. Drama and fun jerked into each other so quickly that it was a little difficult to get the full benefit of either. The film will make good on account of the comedians' reputation, but their followers will be a little less enthusiastic after viewing the latest vehicle.

Richard Barthelmess scores heavily in First National's "Wheel of Chance" which the Strand played. His characterizations as the black-haired boy and his red-headed twin were quite perfect. Moreover he was backed up by a splendid cast and a good director. Mark this one down as a winner.

"The Michigan Kid" didn't have the punch you'd expect from a Rex Beach story but there was some splendid camera work and the Roxy patrons seemed to thoroughly enjoy the picture. Universal made a wise move in the selection of Renee Adoree and Conrad Nagel to head the cast for although they weren't perfect fits, they are always drawing cards.

The Hippodrome housed the other new picture called "Sally of the Scandals", an FBO production. It's just another chorus gal story which will undoubtedly be gobbled up in small towns.

What The New York Critics Think

"THE BIG KILLING"
Sun: "... a waste of time."
World: "... the comedy ... is of a violently physical nature."
Telegram: "... amusing in spots, but the titles are simply too awful for words."

"WHEEL OF CHANCE"
Times: "... appears to attempt proving that truth may be stranger than fiction, and that America, after all, is the melting pot. It follows both briefs in a very silly way."
Telegram: "... Richard Barthelmess fans have a treat in store for them."

World: "... may like the film for its dramatic purpose, but hardly for entertainment."

"THE MICHIGAN KID"
Sun: "... told stupidly, uninterestingly. But then came one of the most thrilling scenes ... during a shooting-the-rapids sequence."
Telegram: "... Director Irvin Willat has worked up a really thrilling climax."

Times: "... very little about the picture to attract attention in a favorable way."

"SALLY OF THE SCANDALS"
Times: "... For one who likes the Cinderella motive with plenty of saccharine, the play is all right."

Sun: "... although here and there are mildly unexpected twists in the story, the film is a thoroughly ordinary one."

HOLLYWOOD PREVIEWS

will click with the audience. The characterization is very well done, though the story is off the beaten track. There are several gripping scenes that tell the conflict between the silk hat crook and his wife for the love of their child. The thrilling scenes and the heart interest will more than please the audience.

Fewer and Better Is Exhibitor Demand

From C. D. Buss, Strand Theatre, Easton, Pa.

"Why don't the film companies stop grinding out so many, and give us just a few good ones? The public is crying for good pictures but there are so few to be had."

I can run a good picture a week or ten days. But I can't get them. Consequently I must run weak sisters, three changes a week and do poor business. The producer will make more money making fewer and better pictures."

P-F-L STARTS RUSH
WHEN STARS RETURN

With many of the stars and featured players home after vacations an unusually heavy production schedule has been announced by executives of the Paramount studios in Hollywood.

Two pictures are starting this week. Bebe Daniels begins work in "Take Me Home", under Marshall Neilan's direction. "Docks of New York" with Bancroft has started under Von Sternberg.

Four others are under way, a fifth, "Just Married", having been sent to the editing rooms a day or two ago. These are "Beggars of Life", with Wallace Beery and Richard Arlen and Louise Brooks, the adaptation of Jim Tully's hobo story; Clara Bow's latest, "The Fleet's In"; the first Charles Rogers starring picture, and Zane Grey's modern western romance-thriller, "The Water Hole". Technicolor work is now being done on several sequences of the latter.

KIEGL LAUNCHES NEW IMPROVED SPOTLIGHT

Kliegl Brothers are announcing a new 125 ampere Kliegl Spotlight of improved design and embodying many novel features.

The new floodlight and effect projector is long range and completely equipped for white and color lighting, framing, fading, and provides everything required in projector operation.

All controls are centralized to facilitate speedy, convenient and easy operation. It projects light any distance up to 150 feet.

Finer adjustments of the arc afford greater amount of light and a shield in front of the arc prevents light from the flame entering the optical system — eliminating ghosts and false light.

The new spotlights are now on display in the showrooms of the manufacturer.

New Airmail Rate

Starting August 1st, the Government air-mail postage rate will be reduced from ten cents a half ounce to five cents for the first ounce, and ten cents for each succeeding ounce.

Any mailable matter except perishables may be sent air mail. Packages not over 50 pounds are also carried.

RAYART ON FIRM BASIS
STARTING 4TH YEAR

That the Rayart organization, which will be four years old on the 20th of July, is stepping out this year with a series of box office pictures is conceded by everyone who knows the present independent market. In the short space of four years Rayart has grown by leaps and bounds, until today it occupies one of the leading positions in the Independent field.

The company has progressed from a releasing program consisting mainly of westerns and serials at the company's inception until today it stands as a producer of the better type of Independent Photoplays. There will be only twenty releases on the Rayart Program this year, to be known as "The Box Office Twenty," and from the line up with which the company leads off we can predict a big year for Rayart Pictures and Rayart Exhibitors.

Jack Gross Promoted

Jack Gross, formerly manager of the Sheboygan Theatre, Sheboygan, Wisconsin, has been promoted to the managership of Universal's $1,000,000 Venetian Theatre, Racine, Wisconsin, in place of Mr. Arthur Friedman, resigned. The appointment was announced today by Charles B. Paine.

That producers will contest the right of the Censors to regulate the spoken lines in pictures is expected by the New York Board and both sides will welcome a legal test of the rights in the case.

Wingate described the manner in which a test suit will come about. It is anticipated that a producer will submit a picture without the accompanying dialogue, which film will be rejected. After a second rejection basis for a suit will be provided.

Hollywood News

By JOE HLAIR

The Pathe studio officials were so pleased with the directorial result of "Captain Swagger" that they assigned E. H. Griffith, the director to handle the megaphone on "An Office Scandal" which will star Phyllis Haver.

Louise Dresser is another example of where stage training is going to be a boost in the "talkies". She is to be kept on the Fox lot for an important role in "Aviation" which will be synchronized with Movietone.

Derelys Perdue, former Wampas Baby Star has been selected by Universal to play the leading feminine role with William Desmond in that star's next serial, "The Mystery Rider". She is being loaned to Universal for the summer by the Stern Brothers, who have her under contract.

Buzz Barton, FBO's 13 year old Western star, is scheduled to begin work on "Rough Ridin' Red" under the direction of Louis King.

The first film actress to take a college course to improve her "talking picture" technique is Anita Page, of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio, who has enrolled as a co-ed at the summer sessions of the University of Southern California.

William Norton Bailey is playing the heavy role in "Waterfront", a current First National picture co-starring Dorothy Mackaill and Jack Mulhall.

Frank Strayer has been assigned to direct "Moran of the Marines", Richard Dix's next Paramount starring picture.

When Olga Baclanova, Paramount's Russian importation, decided to make her home in Hollywood, she also decided to leave friend husband definitely in the old country. They had been separated for some time anyway.

Edward Luddy, temporarily playing gagman, has returned to the art of directing. He takes up the megaphone again for Arthur Lake on the Universal series "Horace in Hollywood".

Sid Grauman, is having a tough time getting a picture for his Hollywood Chinese Theatre. He is after quite a few. Wants Paramounts "Patriot" or "The Racket", Universals "The Man Who Laughs", M-G-M's "White Shadows of the South Sea" or United Artists "The Temptress". Will bet it will be the last one.

Technicolor is going to be used on parts of Fox's "None but the Brave" the set they're photographing now ought to be a wow on the screen. It is a view of a beach club with the ocean in the background and appears in the gayest of colors.

Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy's next comedy will be a meritorious affair, both boys are getting their sea legs in shape now for the next story which Leo McCarey, supervising director, is preparing.

Following the completion of "The Divine Lady", Corrine Griffith will start "Outcast" for First National. Agnes Christine Johnston is preparing the adaptation and continuity.

The favorite motto of Carl Laemmle, "It Can Be Done" has been chosen as the title of Glenn Tryon's next starring vehicle, to be directed by Fred Newmeyer.

After a month spent in the Navajo Indian reservation in northern Arizona, Fred Thomson and company have returned to Hollywood. All of the exterior scenes of Paramount picture, "Kit Carson," were made on or near the reservation.

Marcia Hariss, well-known character actress, has been added to the cast of "Brotherly Love," now being filmed by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer as a new Karl Dane-George K. Arthur comedy.

June Collyer is the little lady who will play the feminine lead in Fox's production "Chasing Through Europe".

Columbia's picture "The Scarlet Lady" which stars Lya de Putti, will have Jacqueline Gadeson in an important role.

Richard Barthelmess has left on his schooner "Pegasus" taking a two week's cruise as a rest before beginning work on "Scarlet Seas" for First National.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has purchased the French story "Adrienne Lecouvreur", a play in which the best of France's actresses have starred.

Work on Gloria Swanson's United Artists production "The Swamp" to be directed by Eric Von Stroheim is scheduled to begin the middle of August. This is looked to as one of the big things for the coming season.

Latest additions to the cast of "Show Girl," which First National has just put into production with Alice White in the leading role, are Lee Moran and Spec O'Donnell.

Frazier Coulter is playing the role of judge in "The First Kiss," the Paramount picture co-starring Fay Wray and Gary Cooper.

Ray Schmirt, known along Film Row as "Speed," is now city salesman for the Universal exchange in Portland. This is Ray's second chance at selling, so evidently he'll make good.

Schenck Schedules Synchronization and Sound Effects for All Product

In a statement to the press before he sailed Thursday for Europe, Joseph M. Schenck summed up the plans of United Artists in regard to sound films.

"Many producers, excited by the success of some of the talking pictures, seem to lose their perspective and to assume that the talking picture will be the only sort of picture in a short time from now," said Mr. Schenck. "Therefore they calculate that a mass of spoken words as a part of each screen production is to be recommended.

"But really there is no good reason for believing this. A little thought will show that sound effects must be used judiciously. The spoken word must be used even more carefully. In fact, it should be used only where it will intensify the dramatic suspense or the dramatic situations or the action of the drama. It is important to remember that the picture is still the foundation of screen entertainment, and sound only an accessory.

"Over-enthusiastic producers believe because the novelty of some talking pictures received unusual response from the public, that the basic screen entertainment will be superseded. It will not be. As a parallel case, note the growth of the illustrated tabloid newspapers and rotogravure sections, in spite of talking machines and the radio. The public is even more firmly interested in the silent motion picture than in illustrated newspapers or picture books and will continue to be.

"Forthcoming product for United Artists will have in every case, synchronized music. In some instances, wherever sound effects are adaptable, it will also have sound effects for dramatic strength.

D'Usseau Directs

Leon d'Usseau has been assigned a directorial position with FBO, according to recent announcement, and will assume his new duties next week when he starts production of "Fury of the Wild", starring Ranger, FBO's dog star.

D'Usseau has been associated with the production of motion pictures for several years.

The Intimate Story of the Unpublished Secrets of the Movies, Past, Present and Future!

MUCH has been written about the movies, but here at last is the book that gives the only authentic version of the origin, growth and development of the movies as told by the pioneers of the industry themselves—men of vision, who early recognized the immense possibilities of the motion picture, nursed it through its cradle days, ventured their all of capital and energy upon its future, and reaped great rewards as the infant grew to a giant.

Never before have the intimate secrets of filmdom been told so clearly, yet simply. One by one, men like Will Hays, Adolph Zukor, Jesse L. Lasky, Milton Sills, Sidney Kent, Samuel Katz and a host of other outstanding movie personalities talk as face to face with you, answering practically every important question on how motion pictures are made, sold, and shown.

FIVE CENTS

OBSERVATIONS

Film History

Dig out your files of the incomplete history of the motion picture industry and add a new chapter. Written at the Warner Brothers Studio in Hollywood by Mr. Vitaphone and presented for public consumption in the Strand Theatre for the first time, during the early hours of Saturday morning.

Subject matter—"the first 100% all talkie" feature length (in this instance about four reels) and as such, was a tremendous success. Everyone will tell you, talking pictures are in its infancy, "Lights of New York" demonstrates that it is growing to be quite a boy, a little erratic yet but with the proper schooling and stern training, will be quite a man.

This first subject should and will make a lot of money for both the producer and the exhibitor.

Welsh

Bob Welsh has "clicked" at Universal City. Has a big job, knows it and the manner he has gone about it has won the respect, the admiration and cooperation of everyone connected there. His word is final and they know it.

In the past a general managers reaction to something meant nothing as long as it did not please the chosen few who seemed to have a hidden power to run things the way that best suited their desires.

What has been a hot-bed of Bolshevism is now a production plant for the making of motion pictures because Welsh is supreme and Welsh has sufficient capabilities to handle it. The final results will be shown in Universal's new product.

Trouble Ahead

Somebody is going to have a lot of fun and a heap of trouble, if, as reported, M-G-M have sold some of the Mayer and Schneider houses in New York, next year's product. Sapiro says M & S belong to him and he alone can do the buying. M & S don't believe it. Neither does M-G-M. Going to be a fight for life on the Sapiro end.

MAXWELL TIES UP 4 U.S. DISTRIBUTORS

British International Deal with Pathe—F B O—1st National—P-F-L

By SAM HARRIS
Proprietor "Today's Cinema"

LONDON—As a result of the long visit of John Maxwell to America, a deal has been closed between British International Pictures, of which Maxwell is Board Chairman, and four American companies. They are First National, Paramount, Pathe and FBO.

The new alliance between the International producers is not only intended for distribution of product on a reciprocity basis, and thus guarantees BIP a wider foreign distribution than any other British company, but also contemplates an exchange of talent for the coming producing season.

In an interview, Maxwell stated that the idea met with the favor of the four producing companies approached. Each of the American companies will feature British stars in a few pictures and in return, BIP will use young American players who are being groomed for bigger things.

Philadelphia M.P.T.O. Ban Non-Member Cases

PHILADELPHIA—It is likely that members of the Philadelphia theatre owners will refuse to sit in on arbitration of non-member cases hereafter until a satisfactory conclusion is had in the Feeley Theatre vs Universal case. Members of the arbitration board refused to sit in on this case when it came up recently, because the Feeney Theatre of Hazelton, Pa., was not a member, had refused to join the M.P.T.O. and representatives of the house had made disparaging remarks and unjust criticism of the fairmindedness of the Board.

This was given in order that the showing of "The King of Kings" with Photophone sound accompaniment might go on beginning Saturday as scheduled.

The gist of his remarks throws the burden of proof on the musicians who must prove that they belong to the "big time" by the quality of their performances.

"College Hero" and "The Minstrel Show" to Put "U" on Top

"The College Hero" will be the first musical comedy ever written for the talking screen, according to Universal Pictures Corporation.

The story is now in preparation and will be a compilation of four series of "Collegians" stories written by Carl Laemmle, Jr.

This picture is planned to be a spectacular college talking, singing, dancing and sports picture, and will employ many of the original casts of "The Collegians". Nat Ross may direct.

Joseph Cherniavsky, under 5-year contract to Universal is preparing appropriate music for the production, and has the promised assistance of composers and writers of the Irving Berlin organization.

The second talking musical comedy plan is "The Minstrel Show" founded on story by George Rogan and Norman Sper. This picture will revive old-time minstrelsy of a generation ago.

LASKY-SCHULBERG LEAVE FOR COAST SOUND PROD.

Monta Bell Appointed Production Executive Astoria Studio

Following a series of conferences in which he outlined the production of sound pictures both in Hollywood and in Astoria, Jesse L. Lasky, first vice-president Paramount Famous-Lasky Corporation left for Hollywood (Saturday).

Accompanying Mr. Lasky to Hollywood was B. P. Schulberg, who was summoned East a few days ago to attend the conferences; Harry Goetz, assistant treasurer of the company; Fay Wray and her husband, John Monk Saunders.

"We are going ahead full steam, both East and West, in the production of sound pictures," said Mr. Lasky before his departure. "With Mr. Schulberg and Walter Wanger I have gone over plans for a most comprehensive program which will occupy both our Hollywood and Astoria studios to their capacity."

"We have engaged Monta Bell as production executive of our Long Island studio. Mr. Bell, will arrive from Hollywood tomorrow and will have active charge of the production of several subjects which we plan to start immediately at Astoria."

Benny Burke, of the Manhattan Studios, insists that all production is not centered in Hollywood. As proof he suggests that Charles Ascott starts shooting Monday on a series of novelty sound pictures and further, within ten days the production of two serials will start.

Matty Radin, Eastern Sales Manager of Gotham Productions, has left for a two week trip through New England.

Thanks Dave Bader for well wishes. Doubled in spades. Ditto for Billy Brandt.

The film colony on the Coast is doing itself proud during Mayor Jimmy Walker's visit. Mr. & Mrs. Ned Marin entertained Jimmy at dinner last week and some of the sprightliest gurlies in the colony played along the festivities. Jimmy was only an hour late.

Pola Negri, interviewed in Paris, sees the "talkies" as 'fourth-rate town' entertainment, and does not believe in the success of the talking picture, but does believe it creates atmosphere. Sour Grapes?

Capt. George H. Wilkins, Arctic airman, visited the Paramount Bldg. the other day and was shown news reel pictures of his flight from Alaska to Spitzbergen. Said "that fellow Wilkins is a great fellow".

Happy birthday, Lon Young and John Harris.

Two troublesome tonsils that have squawked, bawked and made more trouble than four women put together and Bob Wolff, Pathe New York Sales Manager, is mighty glad that they're out. "CELESTE AIDA"

Vitaphone—Warner Bros.

Featuring Giovanni Martinelli
Superb rendition. Acceptable anywhere.

This selection from Verdi's opera "Aida" is familiar to nearly everybody and always strikes a popular note. Martinelli in effective costume would be worthy in himself of admission paid for the whole show. To those who have never had the opportunity to hear the famous tenor of the Metropolitan Opera Company in person, this number will mean a great deal.

"THE TWO WHITE ELEPHANTS"

Vitaphone—Warner Bros.

Featuring Bailey and Barnum
Black-faced boys, one singing and the other accompanying him on a guitar. Makes fairly good number.

These are two former members of "Lady Be Good" and "She's My Baby" cast on the musical comedy stage and they are the type who know how to get their songs across without a lot of monkey-business on the side. Their selections are "No Wonder I'm Happy", "Back in Your Own Backyard", "A Night in June" and "I'm Walking on Air".

Sapene Building

Color Film Studio

M. Sapene, proprietor of Cinermans-Films de France and Le Matin, has made an agreement with the owners of the Keller-Dorian color process to build a special studio for the production of color films near those existing at Joinville. The contract states that the studio must be ready within eight months.

We received a press yarn recently informing us "when Wesley Ruggles decides to lay away the megaphone, he is going in for professional golf". There might be some truth to that for "Wes" is quite a golfer. We know, having bet on Eddie Sutherland, in a match last Spring, to beat Ruggles.

We understand that Universal is soon to elevate Joseph von Pasternak to the position of director. Joe has been a valued assistant at Universal for several years.

"THE PERFECT CRIME"

Reviewed by F. W. Stibick

FBO

Directed by Bert Glennon

Featuring Clive Brook, Irene Rich, Ethel Wales, Carroll Nye, Gladys McConnell, Edmund Breese, James Farley, Phil Gastrock, Tully Marshall, Jane LaVerne.

A box-office picture that leaves much to be desired.

Audience Appeal: Deals with the mystery type of new story in vogue.

Story Value: This is one of those pictures which promise interesting things but never delivers them. The crime is far from being perfect and the solution is most disappointing. Benson, a famous detective, promises his fiancée, Stella, to give up his profession which she detests. However, he is intrigued by the perfect crime idea to see how intelligent the police are. He murders one of his tenants, and is then shocked to learn that an innocent man is convicted. Stella prevails upon him to prove the man's innocence, so Benson confesses the murder. In the end it proves to have been only a dream.

Acting: The intelligent acting of Clive Brook and Irene Rich was the salvation of this picture. Minor roles capably handled.

Technical Treatment: Handicapped by story direction is nevertheless very clever. Cutting in the beginning and more action in the end would improve the picture.

"LOVE IS A LIE"

Reviewed by Blanche F. Livingston

Elko Production

Directed by Eric Waschneck

Audience Appeal: Title has a pulling power. That's about all there is to offer, unless foreign picture are particularly alluring to your patrons.

Story Value: After prolonged dips into the realms of psychology and frequent displays of revolving wheels and engines—all in the most approved German fashion—the plot finally gets off to a fair start. A chambermaid marries the rich man of the town in order to support a good-for-nothing father and brother. She falls in love with her husband who is later led to believe that his wife has been unfaithful. He takes himself off in a fine huff. On the heels of the news that her brother has murdered her father and hung himself, the wife feels that her husband's departure is a little too much to put up with. She follows suit and puts a noose around her own neck, but is rescued by the now properly repentant and deeply loving husband.

Acting: Harry Leidtke has the makings of a good actor. Lee Parry does well.

Technical Treatment: Poor direction failed to disclose any connection between title, psychological introduction and story. Made some tense scenes ludicrous. Cutting need. Settings and lighting generally poor but some excellent photography.

"MOTHER KNOWS BEST" FOX TALKIE COMPLETED

Well in advance of release dates five pictures were completed at the William Fox West Coast Studio within the week.

"Mother Knows Best," adapted from Edna Ferber's story and produced with Movietone sequences in which Madge Bellamy, the star, does her first work in sound, was the last of the five to be finished. J. G. Blystone directed.

The other four productions completed are: "Me, Gangster" which Raoul Walsh directed with Don Terry and June Collyer in the principal roles; "None But the Brave," an Albert Ray production featuring Charles Morton, Sally Phipps, Farrell Macdonald and Tyler Brooke; "Prep and Pep," David Butler's undergraduate story with David Rollins, Nancy Drexel and John Darrow; and "The River Pirate," starring Victor McLaglen with Lois Moran, Nick Stuart and Earle Foxe in support and directed by William K. Howard.

Musicians Propaganda

some of the public with their propaganda, and make a few people believe that the big movie interests

Possibly the musicians can fool are trodding the musicians down and out; but they'll never get a willing listener to their stories among the patrons of such theatres as the Seattle, the Portland, the Columbia in Seattle or the Orpheum in Seattle.

Customers at the Seattle Theatre, after enjoying the beauty of the house, the comfort of the seats, the entertainment of the picture, have to listen to the various scrapings, screechings and twangings of the tuning-up process of the musicians in the pit before they are given the overture and then the splendor of the Publix revue.

The same tuning up seemed necessary at the Portland Theatre, when the writer visited that house when last in the Rose City.

At the Columbia in Seattle, the tuning-up process went on for months—was stopped for a while—and now seems a part of the musicians' program again.

At the Orpheum in Seattle, in addition to the tuning stunt during the quiet portion of the motion picture program (no organ at the time), patrons are often given a little extra dose by the organist doing his cute little "laff" on the organ, or playfully running over the console to say "hello" to some friend who has just come in.

When one visits Seattle's or Portland's finest theatres, they usually expect real, honest-to-gosh "big-time stuff"—not such a jarring note as the musicians seem to insist on giving with their racking conglomeration of screeches.

CONCORDIA SOUND FILM CORP. OF AMERICAN PLAN

In addition to the half dozen first-line talking pictures outfits now operating in the industry, there will be a new organization formed in New York to engage in motion picture talking production.

This organization will be the Concordia Sound Film Corporation of America. The President of the company sailed for Europe last Thursday and will not return until the Fall when operations will be launched.

Joe Friedman, continental European supervisor who was to sail on Friday has postponed his trip until next Saturday, July 14th on the S. S. Deutschland.

Friedman has been here for several weeks conferring with Mr. Laemmle.

Warners-Consolidated Stocks in Demand

Wall Street comment on film stocks Saturday boosted Warner Bros. "A" and Consolidated Film Industries Preferred.

Warner Bros. "A" has been moving forward steadily on buying which has come from important quarters. Explanations for the demand are prospects of good increases in monthly earnings because of the growing use of Vitaphone.

Rumors are also heard that the company is likely to acquire another theatre organization soon.

About Consolidated, the preferred stock of this company is favored because the issue shows a yield of better than 8% at prevailing prices. The company has six plants in operation and has customers among all the large producers.

FADMAN'S SUCCESSFUL FRENCH THEATRE DEAL

PARIS—Edwin Miles Fadman who is directing the destinies of the famous Theatre des Champs-Elysees, and formerly head of Red Seal Pictures in New York, is making a success of this theatre, after various contingent and censorship difficulties.

Over a period of 15 years, the theatre had failure after failure and when Fadman took hold of it last November, opening with a preview of "King of Kings" and other successful American pictures receipts became phenomenal for this house. Fadman will produce jazz opera in his theatre for change of routine.

The first public demonstration of a Photophone synchronized score almost came to grief through overlooking the fact that the theatre was not equipped with Photophone projection arrangements and only had Movietone-Vitaphone Western Electric Equipment.

Due to the fact that the Photophone sound track is wider than that of Movietone, and would necessitate alterations in the light beam aperture to fit Photophone sound band, Photophone experts appealed to Research Products to abrogate definite agreements with the theatre that no alterations would be permitted to be done by the theatre to Western Electric equipment.

In order that Murnau may have Mary Duncan in his Fox picture "Our Daily Bread", Frank Borzage has agreed to stop production from the middle of August to the middle of September on "The River" in order to allow Miss Duncan relief and time to get in her scenes in Murnau's production.

"The Home Townners" will be the last picture Irene Rich will do under contract for Warner Bros. She has turned free lancer and as such will begin by playing in "Ned McCobb's Daughter".

Estelle Taylor has just begun work in Ralph Ince's "Singapore Mutiny" for FBO. Upon completion of this Miss Taylor with her famous husband, Jack Dempsey, will immediately leave for the east and their stage play.

Zazu Pitts has been signed by Paramount to play Emil Jannings' first wife in "Sins of the Fathers," the German star's next production. Jean Arthur, recently added to the Paramount contract list, and Jack Luden have also been assigned to the cast of the Jannings picture.

The Countess de Malroy, related to the nobility of Several European countries, was a recent visitor on the "Oh, Kay!" set at First National Studios as the guest of Colleen Moore, the star. The Countess told Miss Moore that she is a favorite in European theatres.

"The Last of Mrs. Cheney", Frederick Lonedale's play in which Ina Claire was starred, has been acquired for the screen by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and will be Norma Shearer's next starring vehicle following "A Little Angel." The latter picture goes into production next week.

One of the most peculiar pets yet acquired by a screen actress is that of Clara Bow's. It is a very small species of bear which lives entirely on eucalyptus leaves.

Ronald Colman will be the first United Artists star to have his voice register on the screen. Sam Goldwyn has injected at least one talking sequence in "The Rescue" which will be done with Movietone score.

Joe Levigard, who has been steadily advancing to a full directorship at Universal City by way of one and two-reelers, is to handle the megaphone on his first real feature starting today. It is "The Midnight Mystery."

Ramon Navarro is back at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio after a three months' vacation with his family in Europe. Traveling under the family name of Samenagos, Navarro went about unrecognized a greater part of the time.

Daily Airplane service has been established between Los Angeles and San Francisco by First National Pictures while the "Waterfront" company is on location in the latter city. The planes will carry exposed film to the studio, and return with the developed scenes.

Hollywood Rounds up the Talking Talent

The Central Casting Bureau is rounding up information on its 11,000 extras, as to their speaking experience.

A notice has been sent to all of the studio casting offices asking extras to send in information on the following subjects:

Have you had any stage experience?

Can you speak lines?

Can you sing?

Have you had any musical comedy experience?

Sailor Vincent, retired undefeated welterweight champion of the United States Navy, and known during his boxing career as "the iron man of the Arizona", has been signed for a small part in Clara Bow's current starring picture for Paramount, "The Fleet's In."

A trio of famous athletes who happen to be working together on the picture-making of Pathe's "Love Over Night", are J. Joseph Mescall, head cameraman; Sanford Hewitt, scenarist and E. J. Babilie, assistant director.

Clarence Badger is slated to handle the megaphone on Clara Bow's picture for Paramount titled "The Saturday Night Kid".

M-G-M has signed up Ethel Wales for a featured role in "The Mask of the Devil", John Gilbert's starring vehicle.

The next photoplay selected for Douglas Fairbanks will be from Alexander Dumas' story "The Man in the Iron Mask".

Marceline Day succeeds Sue Carol who was cast in M-G-M's "A Single Man".

Larry Darmour, producer of the "Toots and Casper" series for FBO, has cast Thelma Hill and Buddy Duncan in the two leading parts.

James T. O'Donohue has completed the adaptation and continuity for "Show Girl," Alice White's first feature vehicle for First National which Alfred Santell will direct.

Otis Harlan, veteran character comedian in Universal features, has been selected to play the role of Capt'n Andy Hawks, commander of the good-ship "Showboat" in Universal's picturization of the famous Edna Ferber novel. This almost completes the cast of principles.

Jack Byron, young screen character actor, has been added to the cast of Jim Tully's "Beggars of Life," which William Wellman is directing for Paramount. Wallace Beery heads the company, with Louise Brooks and Richard Arlen.

At the beginning of the 1927 buying season, all theatres were having a fairly good year and prices contracted for, on the new product, were predicated upon the business done in 1926-27.

Then came a slump in box-office receipts throughout the country, it being estimated that the slump averaged from 33 1/2% to 50%. Nevertheless, exhibitors were obliged to pay the rentals contracted for during the prosperity period.

As a result the economic situation became such that in many instances the theatres were not taking in receipts what they were paying out in film rentals.

Despite the economy wave which swept the studios and resulted in greatly reduced production costs, practically all the producers are today asking for the same money this year for their product as in previous years,—coming as it does after one of the most disastrous years in the history of the business.

Exhibitors know that producing and distributing costs have been reduced but they are not being passed on to the exhibitors.

Coming conferences between the two New York theatre-owner groups the next one of which will be held in the offices of the Theatre Owners Chamber of Commerce tomorrow, will be watched with considerable interest.

FIVE CENTS

OBSERVATIONS

Too Harsh

Being a critic, one must criticize. However don't think some of the men covering the all-talkie "Lights of New York" for the New York Dailies should have treated it so harshly. Their objection being the sound, instead of coming from the mouths of the players seemed to emanate from their vest pockets, under the stage or from the orchestra pit. It did not strike us that way. There is no doubt but what the sound reproduction had some little defects, but that is to be expected at this stage of the game. For the most part we felt that Vitaphone had taken a tremendous step in the right direction and should be given great credit. From facts we have, most of the part, talking and singing pictures have had quite a box office vogue, accordingly do these critics feel they know more than the public who pay to sit in and judge?

"Hell's Angel"

Recent information from the coast is to effect that Howard Hughes, youthful if not thrifful head of Caddo has purchased four additional planes for use in the air sequence of "Hell's Angels". This makes about thirty planes bought for this picture. He has been directing the picture himself since Luther Reed finished the interiors last November. They say he has over Nine Hundred thousand feet shot of exteriors that could not run over three thousand feet in finished product. Picture started last September. Cost so far around Two Million and finish not yet in sight.

They tell a story of Hughes ordering three extra cameramen and with his studio orchestra, shot all of one day making an insert of a hand coming in the picture cutting a piece of wire. Required twelve hours, twenty-six thousand feet of negative at total cost of $2,940. Insert will probably run ten feet when cut into the picture.

Summer

We were in three Broadway houses Sunday afternoon and evening and in that manner escaped the terrific heat of the day. If Mr. and Mrs. John Q. Public could have been with us, they would not have sweltered at home or out on the road roasting in a car. The theatre of today, with their modern cooling systems, should in some manner

No Holdup on "Lilac Time"

Central to Have Photophone

When First National's "Lilac Time" opens on August 3rd for its New York Premiere at the Central Theatre, there will be no repetition of the threatened holdup at the Rivoli Theatre last week on the "King of Kings" opening.

First National and RCA Photophone, with which the picture is scored, both announced yesterday that Photophone equipment and attachments will be installed at the Central to take care of the run of "Lilac Time".

For "King of Kings" synchronized version, scored with photophone and booked into a theatre which was Western Electric equipped, special permission had to be obtained from Western Electric to alter the sound aperture and gate to accommodate Photophone.

The picture will also have a theme song, especially composed by L. Wolfe Gilbert, called "Jeannine, I Dream of Lilac Time."

BUYING SEASON FACES SELLING DEPRESSION

Exhibitor reports from the Eastern States indicate that the coming buying season will start with stiff sales resistance. Exhibitors who have been hard hit by a drop in business plus the usual summer slumps, plus their indecision and inability to obtain talking film equipment, are slow to sign up for next season's product.

The sales forces of the various film companies, according to "The National Exhibitor," will encounter much stiffer sales resistance than in former years due to several reasons.

This year a general industrial depression have forced many theatres into the red and they are now in-

Heat Closes Office

Several of the larger motion picture companies closed their offices earlier than usual yesterday, due to the extreme heat. Universal shut its home office at 4:00 P. M. and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer closed down at 4:30 P. M.

Fox, Paramount, Pathe, FBO and others remained going. The latter two companies close down on Saturdays during the summer months.

Warner's New High

Warners Brothers "A" stock on the New York Stock Market yesterday reached a new high level, when the price went to 45¼. The stock took a 3¼ Pt. rise yesterday and exceeded the previous high of 43¼. It has been steadily booming upward throughout the past week.

WARM HOLIDAY WEEK REACTS ON B'WAY FILMS

Considering a warm week in addition to the 4th of July holiday, pictures stood up as well as could be expected. The Roxy came through with $88,000 on "The Michigan Kid"; Paramount Theatre did $65,800 on "The Big Killing".

"The Cossacks" in its 2nd week at the Capitol played to $56,339.60; "The Drag Net" in its last week at the Rialto did $15,600. "The Red Dance" took in $14,135 and "Wings" refused to bow its head, with $11,050. "Lion and the Mouse" at the Warners took in $12,865.75.

P-F-L AND PATHE IN DARK ON BIP PICTURES

The Paramount and Pathe Foreign Departments yesterday added their denials to those of First National that any new distributing deal had been made with British International Pictures, despite the assertion of John Maxwell in London last week.

Paramount is only concerned at this time with its present quota arrangements which call for five or six pictures to be made in England this year for that company. Their officials deny even having seen Maxwell when he was here on his last visit.

The proposed deal called for an exchange of film stars and a wider distribution of BIP product in this country.

2nd Joint Meeting of Indes at T.O.C.C. Today

Following the conferences last week between the T.O.C.C. and the I.M.P.E.A. on common problems confronting the independent theatre owners of the Greater New York District this year, both organizations yesterday sent telegrams to all exhibitors in the district concerned to be at the offices of the T.O.C.C. not later than 10:30 today for an extremely important meeting.

Vitaphone—Warner Bros.

Featuring Harry J. Conley, Ethel DeVoe, Duncan Harris.

Low comedy playlet which provokes a lot of laughter.

If your patrons have enjoyed the two-reelers of more or less a slapstick nature, they will certainly find entertainment in this one where sound has been injected. Conley has been taken from the ranks of stage stars and he knows the value of the spoken lines. His voice registers well and he is a good comedian. The dialogue on the whole is a little too measured.

The story by Willard Mack opens in a bookshop where the Sap is seen and heard talking to the clerk. The 'phone rings and the woman they have been discussing because of her reputation for beauty, etc., calls for a book which the Sap offers to deliver in order to get a glimpse of her. The next scene is in the Vamp's home. The butler admits the Sap and the Vamp almost immediately advances upon him. Here is where the rough and tumble act comes in. At times, this is funny; at times, silly, but anyway it gets the laughs. The final shot shows the Sap being awakened from his dream by the subway guard.

Still another angle that will militate against the exhibitors ability to pay the same prices as last year, is the number of new houses which have sprung up. These theatres in their respective zones make way for additional product, but it also cuts into the business of theatres already on the spot.

Directed by Sidney Franklin

Featuring Norma Shearer, Ralph Forbes, Owen Moore, O. P. Heggie, Gwen Lee, Lee Moran, Roy D'Arcy, Cyril Chadwick, Andre Tourneur.

Outdated story of saccharine sentimentality, well dressed. Makes pleasing entertainment.

Audience Appeal: Will react best with the older folks who have seen "Trelawney of the Wells" on the legit.

Story Value: This screen version of the famous Pinere play will appear to the modern generation more wishy-washy than charming. There is an overdose of love interest, but handled however, so that attention does not waver throughout the picture. Back in the time of hoop skirts, the story deals with Rose Trelawney of the Wells Theatre and Arthur Gower, grandson of Vice Chancellor Sir William Gower. The battle wages between an actress' temperament and the austerity and clock-work regularity of the life of the elder Gowers. After separating the lovers, Sir William later goes to Rose to offer help which she refuses. He then throws aside his aversion to anything theatrical to help her indirectly by backing a play in which she is the star. The leading man comes in the person of Arthur Gower is kept for a surprise.

Acting: Norma Shearer as usual is much better in her quiet moments. She is inclined to overact and become kittenish. Ralph Forbes carried through a weak part, and Owen Moore did nicely. But all honors go to O. P. Heggie who showed what real ability is.

Technical Treatment: Director Franklin kept close to the play and presented pleasant reality instead of a picture Hollywood garnished. Lighting, exceptionally fine and much was added by the last few shots in technicolor.

Marion Davies, soon to start on "The Little Warrior" for M-G-M release. It will have several sound sequences wherein Miss Davies will speak lines and sing a song or two. It will have an orchestra synchronization.

Tom Mix has been raising quite a racket around the FBO studio. His demands have been many. For one, he is insisting that FBO take over most of his old organization. Several directors have been mentioned, but none definitely set. It looks like James Horne today. Tomorrow is another day. New title—"Son of the Golden West". Sharon Lynn the girl lead.

Plenty of activity on the Paramount lot. Two pictures started today. "Take Me Home" the Bebe Daniels opus with "Mickey" Neilan directing. Joseph von Sternberg starts "The Docks of New York" with George Bancroft. Betty Compson plays the girl lead with Bacalanova and Gustav von Seyffertitz in cast.

Working at present are Clara Bow in "The Fleet's In"; a Zane Grey picture "The Water Hole".

About ready to start are "Interference" with a cast composed of Evelyn Brent, Clive Brook and William Powell. Richard Dix in "Moran of the Marine's" and the new Jannings picture "Sins of the Father".

Alice Joyce arrived in town today. Has been signed to do the mother part in "The Squall".

The Fox company that is to make "Chasing Through Europe" will leave for Europe July 15th. They will visit some eight or nine countries, ending up at the Olympic games in Holland.

Ruth Chatterton, Jean Arthur and Jack Luden in the new Jannings picture, "Sins of the Father".

The first Christie sound picture will star Bill Dooley.

James J. Walker, the New York Mayor, accepted a thousand invitations for lunches, teas, beach parties, dinners and what not, and to date, I have not found one person who could say with any degree of positiveness, that he ever left his rooms in the Roosevelt Hotel. Jimmy upset a lot of well laid plans out here.

"The Toilers"—July 11

Tiffany-Stahl's super-feature, "The Toilers," will have its world premiere July 11th at the United Artists' Theatre in Los Angeles, which will be a precedent for this house as it is the first time that U. A. has booked any other but their own pictures. The initial opening in Detroit is scheduled for July 13th, also at United Artists Theatre.

Reginald Barker, famous for many other picture successes, directed this epic of the coal mine fields. The cast features such popular stars as Jobyna Ralston and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.

Lucky Laura

Laura La Plante has been definitely cast for the lead in "Broadway" which is to be made by Universal in the Fall.

Laura seems to be getting all the breaks on the "U" lot. Working in "The Last Warning", now, finishing that she goes in "Show Boat" and then in "Broadway".

Rumor has it that Wesley Ruggles will direct.

Jim Tully is to title his "Beggars of Life" for Paramount. William Wellman to direct with Wallace Beery, Richard Arlen and Louise Brooks in the cast.

Edward Sloman is scheduled to direct the first talking picture for Universal.

Joan Crawford has been definitely selected as the lead opposite John Gilbert in his new picture, temporarily titled "Thirst".

Merna Kennedy will play the lead opposite Charlie Chaplin in "City Lights".

Louise Fazenda is leaving Warner Brothers after completion of her present pictures to free-lance.

Clarence Brown will direct Greta Garbo in the picturization of the famous Doris Keane stage success, "Romance".

Roland West is starting an underworld picture for United Artists release, titled "Nightstick".

Ramon Navarro returned yesterday from a vacation spent in Europe.

Janet Gaynor returned from a trip in New York.

Lowell Sherman has been added to the cast of "The Love Song", which D. W. Griffith will direct for United Artists release. Lupe Velez and William Boyd have the leads. Actual shooting will start about the 24th.

Doris Kenyon has been signed by Warner Brothers for the female lead in "The Home Towners".

Dr. Paul Fejos will direct the talking picture for Universal written by Carl Laemmle, Jr., in collaboration with others, titled "The World Tomorrow". Conrad Veidt will have the lead.

Phyllis Haver is back on the Pathe-DeMille lot. She is set for two pictures, the first, "Sal of Singapore", which will be directed by Howard Higgins, and the second, "The Office Scandal", with Edward H. Griffith at the megaphone.

After her present picture as the female lead opposite Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy, Thelma Hill will leave to go to the FBO Studio, to make a series of pictures, based on the comic strip, "Toots and Casper", Bud Duncan playing opposite and Earl Montgomery directing.

Doris Hill has been added to the cast of the Bebe Daniels' picture, "Take Me Home".

SAME SIZE IMAGE ON SOUND AND SILENT FILM

The problem of having the screen image on both silent and sound projection pictures the same size, without the bother which has heretofore existed of changing the aperture plate and the screen each time talkies are projected, has been overcome.

The Roxy Theatre in N. Y. is using a new device invented by Arthur Smith, chief projectionist. Roxy did not like the idea of having movietone and silent pictures of the same height but of different width, which comes about through a portion of the picture frame width being cut off to make room for the sound recording, which caused Smith to work out a solution.

The device can be used with either two or three projectors, one of which may be exclusively for sound. It is in the form of a special metal slide which fits across the aperture plate of the Simplex, with openings at either end, one for Movietone and one for silent pictures.

The projection lens however will have to be changed each time one form of projection is changed to the other, but in cases where a special movietone projector is used, there will be no lens changing necessary.

Hunter Appointed Sound Film Head by Univ.

C. Roy Hunter has been selected by Universal Pictures to head the new film talking department and is now on his way East from the Coast to investigate the laboratories of Western Electric and Victor Talking Machine Companies.

Hunter will select thousands of dollars worth of equipment to be used at Universal City in the new sound film laboratory which is being built there.

Hunter has been superintendent of Universal's photographic department for a number of years and will combine the two departments on his return from the East.

Highlights in the News Reels Reflecting Enterprise

The thrilling Gordon Bennett balloon race starting at Detroit, Mich.; the wonderful reception tendered Capt. Wilkins and Eielson, Arctic explorers; and the installation of Admiral William V. Pratt as commander of the Pacific Fleet are given in Kinograms No. 5410.

International Newsreel No. 53 presents the graduation of the Flying Cadets at March Field, Calif.; the brilliant polo match for charity at Sands Point, L. I.; and the spectacular welcome accorded the Pacific fliers in Australia.

Something of more than passing interest are the Buddhist ceremonials at Beppu, Japan, which is in Paramount News No. 98 together with views of a scientific expedition studying volcanic lore from an airplane.

M-G-M News No. 93 has exceptional shots of daring motor-cyclists in a marvelous exhibition at Wrentham, Mass.; also after-lights of the Democratic Convention depicting the wild celebrations at Houston, and the starting of a 900 mile coastwise race at Olympia, Wash.

The King of Sweden being feted upon his 70th birthday by his family and the populace at Stockholm is offered in Fox News No. 81. Instructive, too, are the personality studies of public leaders and the colorful scenes of the citizens of Budapest being knighted by Admiral Horthy.

FIVE CENTS

OBSERVATIONS

"Sound" Advice

Harold B. Franklin, president of West Coast Theatres, says some very important things regarding, sound pictures, installations and the treatment of both. To the producers he suggests "that motion pictures are being made with sound synchronization, does not in itself insure a continued public support". "Quality must be the dominant objective". To exhibitors he says: "It is not sufficient to merely install a synchronizing device, it is quite important to insure for its operation enterprise and expert handling".

Advertising

"In advertising sound synchronization, misrepresentation must never be resorted to". "The public mind should not be allowed to expect talking pictures when synchronized scores are presented, yet when talking pictures are presented, clear and definite advertising in this respect should guide the publicity."

Be Careful

Jim Walker, our Mayor, addressed the publicity men of the motion picture industry yesterday. He declared he had been informed the industry had been delivered into the camp of one of the major political parties. He suggested if the film industry allowed its neutrality to be violated in the 1928 campaign it must "expect the consequences of such partisanship if it guesses wrong". . . . We feel the industry has a lot of political matters within its own ranks to straighten out and in so far as the presidential campaign is concerned, strict neutrality will be maintained.

THEATRE OWNERS JOIN FORCES SAPIRO FILING M-G-M SUIT

Asks Restraining Injunction In M. & S. Controversy

It was learned late yesterday afternoon that legal papers are being served on Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Corporation and the Mayer & Schneider Circuit of N. Y., by the Independent Motion Picture Exhibitors Association, according to Herbert Ebenstein, Executive Secretary.

The I.M.P.E.A. is asking for an injunction restraining M-G-M from entering into any contract or carrying out the performance of any contract with the Mayer & Schneider Circuit, in violation of prior agreements existing with the I.M.P.E.A.

An injunction will also be asked against Mayer & Schneider, restraining the chain from signing any contract with distributors for product or performing any contract with distributors, in violation of prior contracts with the Sapiro organization.

W.E. CONFIRMS ABSENCE OF 1ST NAT'L CONTRACT

The Western Electric Company yesterday confirmed the report that First National Pictures had never signed contracts for licensing of Electrical Research Products equipment for its pictures, and stated that the original public announcement of such a tie-up had not come from them.

There has been much speculation recently as to what methods First National would continue to use in its talking film production, original and (Continued on page 4)

Roxy Likes 'Em Silent

In commenting on the progress of motion pictures, S. L. Rothafel yesterday stated that in his opinion the talkies will not supplant the silent drama, as talking films preclude the use of the imagination on the part of spectators.

Roxy celebrated his 45th birthday yesterday and was presented with traveling bags from the theatre employees.

ZIEGFELD'S SHOWS FOR ROAD TALKIES

Considers Photophone Versions of Full Length Productions

A report emanating from financial circles in Wall Street is to the effect that the renowned producer, F. Ziegfeld, Jr., will in the future have all of his shows photographed in their entirety with full talk and synchronization done in conjunction with the RCA Photophone. The pictures will be done in color as well. The present list includes, "Rosalie", "Three Musketeers" and the new "Follies".

It is Ziegfeld's idea to give his future stage shows production only in the cities of New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Chicago. The remainder of the country will see them in pictures.

Walter Kingsley, Ziegfeld's general manager, would neither confirm nor deny the story. Robert Kane, in charge of production for RCA (Continued on page 4)

Draw up Plan for Unified Independent N. Y. Exhibitor Group

In the second important conference between members of the T.O.C.C. and the I.M.P.E.A. yesterday, held in the offices of the former in the morning and in those of the latter in the afternoon, both exhibitor elements practically agreed on a plan for the joining of forces, whereby all independent exhibitors, whether now allied with some organization or not, will join the Independent group on a mutually satisfactory basis.

Daily conferences will be held from now on, with a meeting scheduled for today in the Sapiro (Continued on page 3)

NO BLOCK BOOKING INJUNCTION ASKED

Gabriel Hess of the Ilays organization yesterday corrected the erroneous report that George Schade of the Schade Theatre, Sandusky, O., has obtained any injunctions against 14 distributors in the Cleveland district, or that block booking was involved in the section which was brought, as reported in the trade press yesterday.

Schade, who was dissatisfied with an arbitration award against him, sought legal action against the distributors when they demanded deposit security to continue further service to the theatre.

Upon application of the distributors for an adjournment in order to prepare their papers, the court granted an adjournment provided the distributors continued to serve the exhibitor until the issue is settled.

John N. Ackerman, attorney for the Cleveland Motion Picture Exhibitors Association is representing Schade.

Talley Holds Annual Newsreel Dinner Sat.

The Fox Newsreel Annual Dinner for the staff cameramen and home office staff will be held Saturday July 14th. Truman H. Talley, Director will preside.

J. M. Lillis of the Washington, D. C. branch and Carl Larsen of the home office staff, have joined the Fox-Case Movietone camera staff.

Larsen and Jack Palnter, home office staff, were tied for first place in the yearly Point Bonus contest which ended June 30th. First prize is $500.

Mayor Walker Shakes "Big Stick" at Movies

James J. Walker, Mayor of New York addressed the publicity men of Hollywood yesterday. The Mayor suggested strict neutrality in the coming Presidential campaign with a threat of reprisal if this was not maintained and they had "guessed wrong".

Keith to Play F. N.

First National Pictures, it is announced by Ned E. Depinet, general sales manager, has just closed a contract with the new Keith Theatre in Rochester, N. Y., whereby that theatre will play all First National product, opening on Labor Day.

Mayor Walker said although he had "put on the statute books of New York a law making Sunday movies possible," he had never asked a favor from the industry on that account, despite the fact that it was clear that the welfare of the industry's revenue was at stake.

Jazz band number. Nothing unusual but okay.

"A MAN OF PEACE"

Vitaphone-Warner Bros.

Featuring . . . Hobart Bosworth

Melodramatic sketch. Holds the interest.

The scene is the interior of the log cabin supposed to be situated on a mountain peak in the Kentucky range and occupied by The Man of Peace. A mountain girl enters and remonstrates the man for his lack of action in getting after Trigger-Eye, the bad man of the mountains who has killed his younger brother and the sweetheart of this girl. But the Man of Peace has got religion and quotes about revenge from the bible. In her anger, the girl swears she will have Trigger-Eye come up to the cabin to plug him. A little later the killer enters, but the Man of Peace shows no sign of fear. He doesn't mind going to his God. The surprise ending comes when Bosworth explains his trick and finally picks Trigger-Eye up and throws him out of the window to the depths below.

CENSOR REFUSALS ON 3 PICTURES UPHELD

DALLAS—The Board of Censorship Appeals has upheld the action of Censor Boyce in banning the showing of "Walking Back" Pathe feature, "Partners in Crime," Paramount picture and "The Foreigner," a Vitaphone sketch.

There is little likelihood that any of these pictures will be shown in Dallas. "Walking Back" was barred on the question of sex morality; "Partners in Crime" was barred on the grounds it was a burlesque of law enforcement and "The Foreigner" because it was a burlesque on the personage of George Washington.

Fox

Directed by . . . Lambert Hillyer

Featuring . . . Barry Norton.

Audience Appeal: The romantic element in the cheaper houses will probably be appeased by this one.

Story Value: A weak story lacking highlights, is backed by poor cast, and direction that was below par. The beginning of the picture was fairly good, telling the story of a boy, a horse, and a girl. Amin, son of Trad Ben Zaban, after a series of adventures, comes into possession of "The Simoon" and Thurya, a beautiful harem girl. He brings them to his father who decides to keep the horse but to auction the girl to Auda. Amin sees the wedding preparations being made, and again flees with the girl and the horse into the desert. Auda pursues and nearly succeeds in killing Amin. As both have violated the honor of the tribe, Ben Zaban decides that they must fight a duel of death. Auda is killed and Amin once more is happy in having regained his sweetheart.

Acting: Barry Norton was miscast. Dorothy Janis doesn't screen well and lacks camera experience. Others very much bewhiskered.

Technical Treatment: Credit goes to cameraman Frank Good. His desert shots were excellent. Lambert Hillyer did a poor piece of directing.

Reviewed by Blanche F. Livingston
UFA

Featuring . . . Edith Jehanne, Brigitte Helm, Hertha von Walter, Uno Henning, Fritz Rasp, A. E. Liche, Eugen Jensen, Hans Jaray, Wladimir Sokoloff.

Outstanding camera work, but too much material for one picture. Lacks any tendency toward comedy relief.

Audience Appeal: Title appealing although misleading. First half good for those interested in the Russian "red" movement.

Story Value: If the first half had been considerably cut down, the picture would have rated as a mystery melodrama; and if the second half had been cut a lot, this would have made a propaganda film. As it stands, it is heavy, confused and gets nowhere. In the beginning there is a great deal about "whites" and "reds"; spies; shooting men down; Andreas and Jeanne in love. Then comes Paris and R. Ney, Jeanne's foster-uncle to whom she has gone, a peculiar man who is very much in love with his safe. Andreas comes hither on a mission. The spy turns into a suave Russian Count who becomes engaged to Ney's blind daughter in order to get at the man's money. There is also some tangle about a Russian imperial diamond which is in the possession of Ney; but only until the Count kills him and steals the gem. The blame is thrown on Andreas, but at the end

New Picture on Broadway

We are informed by an advertisement on the back of the Paramount program that "Paul Leni's production of 'THE KING OF KINGS' starring Conrad Veidt and written by Victor Hugo" is playing the Rialto Theatre this week.

Jeanne rescues the bauble and her love.

Acting: Never in this reviewer's life, has she seen such distorted eyes as are exhibited in this picture, and exhibited with the idea, that this is acting. Edith Jehanne is attractive at times and performs with unusual restraint for a foreigner.

Technical Treatment: Direction negative. Lighting, cutting and editing, poor. Titles rather well done, and cameral work, excellent.

Editors Note: Aaron Sapiro publicly warned distributors some months ago as well as notified them by letter, that they would be sued for conspiracy if it was ever proven that any of the members of the I.M.P.E.A. were influenced against carrying out their individual agreements with the organization, and the serving of papers today will signalize a legal test welcomed by both sides, the I.M.P.E.A. as well as M-G-M, to ascertain the rights in the matter.

The Keith-Albee-Orpheum Circuit is taking a very optimistic stand in regard to the 1928-29 program of FBO-Pathe pictures which will play the K-A-O Circuit starting in September.

"The new program will mark a new era and unprecedented expansion in the motion picture attractions of up-to-date American vaudeville".

The number of specials for the K-A-O outlets have been increased to six, and the new Mix westerns and other FBO-Pathe product and the inexhaustible supply of super-feature pictures and array of fixed and rising stars of the films will now enrich vaudeville through the cooperation of the J. Irving Berlin Writing Only for U. A. Films

Irving Berlin has surrendered to motion pictures. America's ace song writer and popular composer has found a logical outlet for his genius in the new sound films, and has been captured from the entire field of ambitious producers by Joseph M. Schenck, President of United Artists Corporation.

This news was made known immediately after Mr. Schenck's departure for Europe and following his announcement that all of the nineteen forthcoming United Artists Pictures, except "Steamboat Bill, Jr." for the season of 1928-29 would have synchronized music, and in most cases would have sound effects. His closing of contracts with the song writer occurred just before he boarded the Homeric.

LOCAL NO. 306 REMOVED TO NEW 46TH ST. HOME

The Motion Picture Operators Union, Local 306, affiliated with the I.A.T.S.E., yesterday removed its general offices from 324 W. 42nd St. to a whole floor at 125 West 45th Street.

The new headquarters are commodious and able to take care of the growing activities of its membership. Sam Kaplan, Simon Tare, Mr. Steinberg and other officers have their own suites, besides which there is a general meeting room for the Executive Board, one for the members to lounge and await calls in.

Invitations are being issued by the organization to heads of technical and equipment companies to inspect the new premises.

WARNER STUDIOS TOUCH PEAK OF ACTIVITY

The Warner Studio is now at the highest peak of its production activities for next season with seven Vitaphone Road-shows before the cameras.

"Noah's Ark" the biggest picture the Warner organization has ever undertaken, has still some time to go before its completion altho the schedule has been arranged, to allow the star of "Noah's Ark", Dolores Costello, to begin work on another picture, "The Redeeming Sin", in which she is now at work with Conrad Nagel playing opposite her and Howard Bretherton in command of the megaphone.

Al Jolson is in the midst of his Vitaphone activities on "The Singing Fool". Lloyd Bacon is directing.

Others are "My Man" with Fanny Brice; "The Home Towners" with Richard Bennett; "The Terror" and "Conquest" with Monte Blue.

PATHE REVIEW RELEASES SHOTS OF OLD SERIALS

A novelty in Pathe Review No. 31 are the brief but sensational scenes from famous old Pathe serials of the past among them some of Sheldon Lewis in "The Iron Claw," Ralph Kellard in "The Shielding Shadow," Pearl White in "The Fatal Ring," Eileen Percy in "The Third Eye," Ruth Roland in "The Tiger's Trail" and "The Timber Queen" and others from "White Eagle."

Victor Coast Plant

The Victor Talking Machine Co. of Camden, N. J., which has completed synchronization of "Lilac Time" for 1st National and "Warming Up" for Paramount, intends to establish a West Coast plant to co-operate with production studios in Los Angeles.

Sound equipped stages will be built in the new plant and a complete staff for recording and synchronization work maintained.

Synchronization of the first of the Christie sound comedies "The Dizzy Diver" has been completed by the Victor Talking Machines Company, in conjunction with Nathaniel Finston, Paramount's musical director. Billy Dooley is the star.

Christie recently signed for a Western Electric license, and will soon begin the making of synchronized pictures during production in their Hollywood studios.

The next of the Christie Comedies to be synchronized will be the first of the "Confessions of a Chorus Girl" with Frances Lee, Billy Engle and others. The title of the first one is "Skating Home". This will be followed by Jack Duffy in "Hot Scotch", the initial comedy in the Dandy MacDuff series and by Bobby Vernon in "Stop Kidding."

ROXY TO SYNCHRONIZE ENTIRE FOX MOVIE TONE

The entire Fox-Movietone program of 12 Specials and 10 Fox Giants will be synchronized by the Roxy Theatre Orchestra under the direction of Roxy and Erno Rapee.

The Fox office declares that the Roxy combination will score exclusively for Fox Film Corporation and will not supervise synchronization for other companies.

Universal's publicity department a short while ago announced that the Fox movietone synchronization would be used on "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and several other pictures.

W. R. Sheehan, Gen. Mgr. and V.P. of Fox Film Corporation is organizing a "stock company" of stage players for movietone attractions, who will be sent to the Fox West Coast Studios shortly to start on Fox productions. Sheehan and Ben Jacksen in charge of movietone production on the coast are conferring daily on this new development.

headquarters, for the purpose of laying out the details of the plan.

The discussions yesterday were quite prolonged, lasting from 10:30 A.M. until 6:00 P. M. in the evening, and many angles were brought up on the question of future policy and how it was to be handled, all gone into at very great length.

The independent movement, for the first time, is growing along sound lines for they now realize that organizations like the Loew Chain are doing everything they can to discourage the growth of the organization for cooperative action.

They realize that they must make some effort at this plan to coordinate their problems and from the mutual promises and mutual situations that developed in the conferences yesterday it will not be long before there is a unified group of independent exhibitors in N. Y.

Full committees, summoned by telegraph, and their ex-officio heads Sapiro and Raives were present at the meeting.

A weighty legal decision limiting the powers of censor bodies, has been handed down in New Jersey by the Chancery Court at Camden.

The Court's decision that censorship boards have no power to prevent the showing of any film which any theatre owner may wish to exhibit, came about through refusal of the Board in Camden to license the picture "The Road to Ruin."

The picture was to have played at the Tower Theatre on June 7th and the distributors of the film, "True Life Photoplays, Inc., of N. Y., appealed the first decision and won.

Fox Stars Sail to Film Sequel Picture

David Butler, Fox Director, Nick Stuart and June Collier are booked to sail on the Berengaria next Monday July 16th to start production abroad of "Chasing Through Europe."

This picture is the sequel to "The News Parade" which Butler made with Stuart and Phipps.

"Burlesque" off Until 1929—Cantor for Lead

HOLLYWOOD — Paramount Famous-Lasky have put aside their plan to film "Burlesque" until next year, when Pomeroy's synchronization work will be perfected.

Edmund Goulding and Victor Fleming were mentioned as directors and will now take up other assignments.

The company may prefer to stick to the disc method of synchronization, claiming better results that way.

Eddie Cantor is being mentioned for the lead in this picture.

Walker Accepts

Mayor James J. Walker will be Master of Ceremonies at the premiere showing of "Lilac Time," a First National special starring Colleen Moore, at the Carthay Circle, Los Angeles, July 17th, according to an announcement made today by Ned E. Depinet, general sales manager, First National.

Hollywood News

By JOE BLAIR

Mitchell Lewis has been added to the cast of "Docks of New York", which already comprises, in addition to George Bancroft, Betty Compson, Baclanova, Clyde Cook and Joe Brown.

Warner Brothers and United Artists are having a tiff over the use of the title, "Conquest". United Artists was going to use it as a title for the next Barrymore picture and Warner Brothers want to substitute it in place of the title, "The Candle in the Wind".

It is definitely set that Jack Okie will have the male lead opposite Nancy Carroll in "Burlesque" when this production actually gets started at the Paramount Studios. Okie is a newcomer and was a find of Wesley Ruggles, Universal director.

Ray Rockett has returned from nine months in Germany as a First National producer. After a few days at the studio, he intends taking a short vacation.

Maïce Leloïr, considered as Europe's greatest authority on history, architecture and things otherwise of the 17th century has been engaged by Douglas Fairbanks to act as technicolor advisor on "The Three Musketeers".

Marly Pickford states that her next story will be a love story—"not a sophisticated story, but a romantic love story". Mary is looking for a young leading man and has all of Hollywood upset, but our guess is that the young Englishman, John Stuart, has been signed for the part a long time ago.

Norma Talmadge has returned from a vacation in Honolulu and says that her next picture will be something quite unusual.

Matty Kemp, who had a prominent part in Mack Sennett's "Good-bye Kiss", is playing in the new Rin-Tin-Tin picture at Warner Brothers.

Carmel Meyers is going to sing, instead of talk, in the new Gotham picture, "The Girl from Argentine".

nouncements concerning Firnatone and Western Electric to the contrary.

"Lilac Time" and other productions are getting Photophone synchronization, which indicates a definite tieup with RCA.

W. E. states that back in April when First National gave out its first announcements regarding Western Electric, Firnatone and Victor, officials of First National at the time their annual convention was approaching, asked permission to say publicly that they had contracted for equipment. The contracts were drawn up but were never signed by First National, after the announcement had been made.

Yola D'Avril has been added to the cast of the Milton Sills' picture, "The Wrecking Boss".

Josef Von Sternberg will direct the next Wallace Beery picture, which is to be known as "Tong War". It is a story based on the ruling power in a Chinese colony. This will, no doubt, give Joe an unusual opportunity for realism and startling effects that made "Underworld" and his other pictures box-office winners.

Karl Dane has been added to the cast of the Billy Haines picture, "Alias Jimmy Valentine".

"Dead pans" seem to be the vogue around the Paramount casting office at the present time. George Kotsorinos, Joe Brown and Ned Sparks are a few that have been signed already for pictures soon to be started.

Dolores Del Rio is busy preparing for her European jaunt. Miss Del Rio is more interested in seeing New York than she is Europe, inasmuch as she has never been to Gotham.

Harry Gribbon has been signed for the Universal picture, "The Shakedown", a comedy drama written by Charles Logue, with William Wyler directing.

Add to the list of Fox directors, young Raymond Cannon, formerly a scenario writer. He recently made a strange little picture, which he called, "Life's Like That" and Sol Wurtzel seeing it, signed him under contract immediately.

Hollywood does some very strange things. Lots of times, players under contract to different studios wait week in and week out to be cast for a part, when along comes someone who thinks they are good, buys his or her contract from the studio and puts him to work in a picture. Just as soon as the original studio finds anyone maintaining great interest in the player, they immediately try to get him back. Such is the case of Lucien Prival, formerly of First National and now under contract to Caddo. Lucien has been loaned by Caddo to do a part in "Do Your Duty" for First National.

picture industry sticks to its function of entertainment, it has a right to expect the co-operation of public officials, regardless of their political affiliations, in the development of the industry's legitimate business".

"But if it departs from its own field to enter the field of partisan politics, it must accept the conditions of partisanship. If it guesses wrong it must expect to be crushed".

Mayor Walker said his remarks were inspired by a small group who participated in the Republican National Convention at Kansas City.

Louis B. Mayer and Joseph M. Schenck were delegates at the Republican Convention in Kansas City.

Theatre Boom in Southwest New Houses and Operators

Numerous summer changes being made in Texas theatres and the building of new houses, pressages a boom in the Southwest in anticipation of the Fall season. Improvements have been general all along the line and many new operators have come into the ranks.

In a survey of the field, the Motion Picture Journal of Dallas reports the following changes:

Dallas—Leading off in importance of new construction is the theatre at McKinney, Tex., for R. & R. When it is ready, the old American theatre will be abandoned.

Brady, Tex.—H. Ford Taylor has disposed of his interests here and is remodeling a theatre at San Saba, which will be in operation soon.

Midland, Tex.—A theatre is being built for lease to W. H. Williams. It will seat 1,000 and cost $50,000.

Mart, Tex.—John F. Clayton, a newcomer, plans a new theatre here.

Mason, Tex.—Otto Schmidt's new house will be ready by September 1st.

Richmond, Tex.—Queen Theatre being built for Mr. Krueger will be ready soon.

Edinburg, Tex.—Ed Brady is leasing a new $90,000 theatre here. Brady and Delta Amusement Co. have just completed a new house at Brownsville.

Odell, Tex.—Webb Theatre Corp. is building a new house at Odell.

Gordon, Tex.—For the first time in years this town will have pictures. Howard Rogers and Lavern McDonald have opened a new theatre.

Uvalde, Tex.—B. H. Hunter will open his new theatre here shortly.

Mt. Vernon, Tex.—The new Franklin theatre, replacing the old house which burned down, opened on June 22nd.

Alice, Tex.—Charles Brothers have opened a new $60,000 house. They will soon build a third theatre in this town.

Georgetown, Tex.—O. A. Engelbrecht has acquired the Monarch Theatre. He was a former director of the M.P.T.O.

Giddings, Tex.—C. W. Matson, now operating in Rockdale and Caldwell has purchased the Dixie here.

Warner Date-Book Issued by Waxman

An attractive and useful date-book of convenient pocket size has just been issued by Warner Bros. to be distributed to exhibitors with the compliments of the Warner organization. Space is given for bookings from July 29th, 1928 to September 28th, 1929.

The book is printed in two colors with each page of dating faced by another page giving information concerning the product of Warner Bros. and Vitaphone. A. P. Waxman is responsible for supervision of this serviceable exhibitor aid.

said that "such a thing is contemplated but nothing definite has been done to date".

Ziegfeld is reported to have been very favorably impressed with the recent showing of talking pictures, dialogue, songs and other effects on Broadway, and to have seen the value of reproducing a spectacular Broadway revue with its original cast in those far-off centers where such performances have been unavailable.

Should Ziegfeld be the first stage producer to adapt the talking pictures to full-length revues, other producers are expected to fall quickly into line. At the present time Warner Brothers, First National and Fox as well as Photophone are planning to make entire musical comedies in talking films.

M-G-M to Release 7 UFA Pictures

The titles and release dates of the first seven Ufa "Oddities" of the series of twenty-six which will be released by Metro-Golwyn-Mayer during the season of 1928-29 have been announced as follows:

"Eagles Nest," August 18; "Monkey Shines," Sept. 1; "Bits of Africa," Sept. 15; "Murder," Sept. 29; "World's Playgrounds," Oct. 13; "Wives for Sale," October 27; "Lonely Lapland," November 10.

Sound-Color-Dimension Films in 5 Years

Within five years the screen will produce the closest possible imitation of human life; talking, natural-color, stereoscopic pictures, according to John Nickolaus, laboratory head at the Metro-Golwyn-Mayer studios, who discloses that for more than a year experiments in a new and improved color-process have been under way at the big plant, with other experiments for adapting them to "talkies".

FIVE CENTS

OBSERVATIONS

Looking Ahead

With the rumored Ziegfeld deal for the photographing in color and with sound, his entire productions, other producers look over their desks with added interest when a picture representative asks for a price on this or that stage play. We understand that Al. Woods and Dillingham are aroused considerably. They are all pretty much in a panic at present. Dont know what to do.

Time

Its just a question of time now. No doubt about that. A play will be produced in New York, if it is a hit, even a mild one, off to the studio, entire troupe, stage director too, and the picture will be made. Then Oshkosh along with Salina and Kalamazoo will see this New York hit on the screen, original cast, dialogue and everything.

Stage Producers

If this is the correct line up, we will see our larger picture producers, staging their own shows in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and Boston and will see the better stage producers making pictures of their productions. And it wont be long.

That Minimum

Western Electric certainly got the drop on the larger producers. They "panic-ed" them into this minimum contract for their license to make sound. We understand the minimum was $100,000 a year and have them tied for five years. A lot of money to pay for something you do not know anything about.

School

Western Electric has a school. The production heads on the coast are sending studio men (mechanical) for tutoring. Course runs about ten days. We talked to one who had finished his course and was returning to Hollywood. His answer: "Think I know enough to kid them into believing I know a lot".

Business

From present indications The Strand Theatre will hang up a new box office record this particularly hot July week with the first "all-talkie" "Lights of New York". The public is going for sound pictures with as great an enthusiasm as the producers.

WILKERSON

NEARLY $15,000,000 SPENT BY LAEMMLE

By JOE BLAIR

HOLLYWOOD—On the arrival of Carl Laemmle, President of Universal Pictures Corp., in Hollywood yesterday, he stated that:—

"Most of the $15,000,000 allotted for production cost for 1928-29 already has been spent. The first of the super productions to be started will be "Show Boat" with Harry Pollard directing. "Broadway" for which I paid $225,000 because I knew it was worth it, will be made soon. Glen Tryon will play the hooper."

"The coming season will be the greatest in the history of Universal. The program includes 68 features, 260 short subjects and 7 chapter plays."

Mr. Laemmle added that it was his intention of entrusting greater responsibilities to his son, Carl Laemmle, Jr.

UFA-LUCE CARTEL SEEK PARUFAMET U. S. DIST.

By SAM HARRIS

Proprietor "Today's Cinema"

ITALY—Dr. De Feo, general manager of the Luce, which tied up with UFA recently, declares that Italy resented not being asked to take part in the prior UFA-Gaumont British combine, and pressure was brought to bear against Germany to include Italy in the combine.

Italy threatened to bar all UFA-Gaumont British productions in Italy, with the support of the Italian exhibitors behind them in support of their Government. Herr Klitsch of UFA was forced to discuss the problem with Mussolini, and the Luce tie-up resulted.

De Feo states that five pictures will be made the first year in Italy, with UFA producing forces cooperating. He also believes that these pictures will have 100% release in America through Parufamet arrangement. Mussolini will shortly appoint a prominent figure to head the new Italian film industry revival.

Injunction to Prevent M. & S. Service Supreme Ct. to Hear Case July 19

Aaron Sapiro on behalf of the Independent Motion Picture Exhibitors Association yesterday had legal papers served on the Law Department of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Corporation and service was accepted. This action took place as exclusively announced in Exhibitors Daily Review yesterday.

The suit will center around an injunction which will be asked to prevent M-G-M from carrying out a recently made contract with Mayer

"U" BOOKED 100% WITH SKOURAS BY METZGER

Lou B. Metzger, General Manager of Universal Distribution who returned from a trip to the Mid-West yesterday reported the closing of one of the finest deals for pictures in the history of his organization.

Arrangements were made with Skouras Brothers chain for Universal product to play the new season 100% in the St. Louis and Indianapolis houses of the Skouras chain.

Settlement Out of Court Fails—27 Cos. Stand Trial

CHICAGO—Trial of the Marks Bros. restraint of trade suits against Balaban & Katz, Publix, K-A-O and others, which was postponed from June 22nd will be resumed today in the Federal Court before Judge Page.

Attorneys for Publix and Balaban & Katz, headed by Bruce Bromley, asked for additional time to prepare their defense. There was some attempt to settle this case out of court but it fell through.

Marks Brothers claim they have been blacklisted on pictures and presentation artists by the majority of the distributors except Warners and Fox, have been unable to obtain first-run product unless O.K'd by Balaban & Katz and Publix.

J. D. WILLIAMS-HAMMONS SAIL FOR U. S. TODAY

J. D. Williams, managing director of World Wide Films, who left hurriedly a month ago to return to England on a sound production deal for British product, is sailing from London today on the Olympic and should be in New York next Tuesday.

No information was available at his New York office as to Williams' new plans, or whether he will continue his establishment of 36 British Exchanges in this country and Canada.

Earl Hammons, president of Educational Film Exchanges, Inc., is also sailing on the Olympic. He has been in Europe for a month on business and for a short rest, and went over to England on the same boat with J. D. Williams and John Maxwell.

Emelka Sells Out to Gaumont British

LONDON—According to advice from Berlin, the Emelka, German producers, exhibitors and theatre operators, principal rivals of UFA has been sold to C. M. Woolf and Isidore Ostrer, who are said to have made the purchase on behalf of the Gaumont British Corporation of England.

Woolf is chairman of the W. and F. Film Service of England which has released Emelka pictures in England heretofore.

& Schneider Circuit to supply their uptown houses with 1928-29 product. Prior film purchasing contracts are said to exist with the I.M.P.E.A.

The new legal action will come up before a Justice of the Supreme Court the week of July 19th, at which time a temporary injunction may be granted, pending final decision on the merits of the case, or the injunction may be held until October for final action.

NEWSREELS TO BUY "OLYMPICS" SHOTS

Newsreel distributors in the United States have rescinded their original intention to ignore the Olympic Games, which the Luce Company in Italy has sewed up under exclusive rights contract.

All the reels will be offered their pick of shots for simultaneous use with Luce, on a basis of $1.00 per foot for whatever film is used in this country.

It is also possible that attempts may be made to "steal" under-cover shots of various portions of the Olympics, with hidden cameras, but this is a risk most of the reels will not care to undertake, cameras and films will undoubtedly be confiscated.

Smith Resigning from Movietone for RCA

Cortlandt Smith in charge of the technical end of Movietone for Fox-Case in New York could not be reached yesterday for verification of the report in picture trade papers that he would shortly resign his position with that company and take a similar position with RCA Photophone.

According to the story, Sheehan is prolonging his stay in New York for the purpose of straightening out the matter with Smith.

Synchronized Score to "Lilac Time" Ready

Sound accompaniment to "Lilac Time," First National special starring Colleen Moore, is now completed and will be ready with Photophone synchronization when the George Fitzmaurice production opens at the Central Theatre, August 3, for a run, it is announced by General and Production Manager Richard A. Rowland.

"Mysterious Lady" Nears Completion

"The Mysterious Lady" has been selected by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer as the final title of Greta Garbo's new starring vehicle, now in final stages of production under Fred Niblo's direction. This film as formerly known as "War in the Dark," and is a story of Viennese adventure. Conrad Nagel has the chief masculine role and the balance of the cast includes Gustav Von Seyffertitz, the old monarch of "The Student Prince" and Betty Blythe.

Budd Rogers, Vice-president of Gotham Productions, announces that the company's two current specials, "United States Smith" and "Hellship Bronson", have booked first runs in the East.

The first-mentioned, starring Eddie Gribbon and Lila Lee goes into the New York Hippodrome the week of July 23rd.

"Hellship Bronson", starring Noah Beery and Mrs. Wallace Reid, goes into the Philadelphia Fox Theatre the same week.

This will be followed in turn (July 30th), by "United States Smith", thus establishing the unusual precedent of an independent company running two specials consecutively at a first run house.

CALLAN LOSE BLUE LAW FIGHT IN MARYLAND

BALTIMORE—The much-talked about Callan-Blue Law trials in Baltimore have finally resulted in a victory for the State, according to latest reports from Maryland.

The Supreme Court of Maryland has upheld the conviction of John G. Callan, theatre owner, for violating the Sunday Blue Law in Baltimore, and he was fined $100 and costs.

Callan has not commented on this however, and has filed an appeal with the Court of Appeals.

He who laughs last, often runs moving pictures on Sunday.

CORTELLAPHONE IN THEATRES BY SEPT.

Cortellaphone theatre installations of sound equipment will be made within sixty days, according to Ed D. Turner, general manager of distribution.

In addition the new talking film device, a sound-on-disc invention, which weighs less than 300 pounds and costing $500 for installation, will go into quantity production in ninety days so that all theatres can be sound equipped.

The Corporation has studios in New York for the scoring of pictures already made and rental fees for the accompaniments on film will be charged, independently of installation costs.

Cortellaphone will be used on 4 Buck Jones Productions this year.

N. SCHENCK LEASES STUDIO FOR M-G-M

Cosmopolitan Ready for Talkies in 10 Weeks—

Biograph Converted

Nicholas Schenck yesterday announced that a lease for the Cosmopolitan Studio at 129th Street in the city was signed on Tuesday and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Corporation will use the studio for sound production.

The technicians are now at work in adapting the studio to sound production and Schenck believes that they will start shooting within ten weeks.

The Biograph Studios, controlled by J. J. Kennedy, are already being adapted for the RCA Photophone System of recording and shooting is scheduled to begin by August 1st.

The backers of the Biograph-Photophone plan are reported to be representing distributing companies, who have leased the studio from Kennedy, although Kennedy yesterday denied knowledge of any lease.

Paramount is using the Long Island studio for sound experimentation; Fox has its own small studio on 54th Street and 10th Avenue and Warners may produce shortly at the Vitagraph Studio in Brooklyn.

The Cortellaphone Company has its own studio downtown for recording and Photophone have been using a small studio at 411 Fifth Avenue.

Hays Silent on Coast— Answered Charge Last April

The address of Mayor James J. Walker to the Wampas out in Hollywood, in which he asked absolute neutrality in politics on the part of the motion picture industry drew comments from the entire industry yesterday.

The Hays organization made clear the stand of the industry some months ago when it stated that as far as Newsreels go, no favoritism was being shown to either Hoover or Smith and that both were getting the same share of screen publicity.

Their present attitude is the same and since Will H. Hays who is now in Los Angeles, did not deem it necessary to answer Walker's threats of reprisal, the home office likewise felt they had nothing to say.

Editors of the various newsreels pointed out that they had maintained absolute impartiality regarding national politics thus far and had no intention of doing otherwise.

Other prominent leaders expressed the opinion that the Walker demands were "bad taste" and smacked of Tammany methods. "If Hoover were to have two or three good talking pictures on Broadway and in the principal cities at the present time, a great hulabaloo would be raised as to favoritism, whereas Governor Smith has addressed film audiences through Movietone News and is this week declaring his attitude on citizenship at the Roxy Theatre in Movietone," said one official.

BALTIMORE MUSICIANS CONTRACT UP AUG. 1

BALTIMORE—Theatre musicians and managers held a joint meeting here recently to discuss wages and working conditions for the coming season.

The present contract between the union and the theatres expires on August first and the difficulties now coming up with talking picture installations and disposal of musicians' services in theatres will give both sides something real to think about for 1928-29.

CHOSEN TO PLAY "MAGNOLIA" in "SHOW BOAT"
UNIVERSAL'S DE LUXE PRODUCTION FOR 1928-29

The world-wide publicity that has resulted because of this announcement has vastly increased the value of her forthcoming pictures which include "HOME JAMES"... "THAT BLONDE" "THE LAST WARNING"... "ONE RAINY NIGHT"... "DANGEROUS DIMPLES!"

Hollywood News

By JOE BLAIR

Paramount is going to remake "Male and Female", this time with Richard Dix and Florence Vidor in the leads. Harry D'Arrast is to direct.

There has been another change in Tom Mix's director. It is now definitely decided that Eugene J. Ford will handle the megaphone on his first picture which is from an original story by George Pyper. Actual shooting started today.

There are comics aplenty in the "Show Girl" headed by Alice White. The cast includes a half dozen players known more for their comedy than anything else. They are Charles Delaney, James Finlayson, Lee Moran, Donald Reed, Gwen Lee, and Kate Price.

Dick Barthelmess is spending all of his short vacations on his yacht out on the Pacific. At the present time he has gone green turtle fishing off the Mexican coast.

The only girl on board a location ship among 1,200 men was Jeanne McNaughton, script girl for Frank Lloyd. This happened during the filming of Corinne Griffith's "The Divine Lady".

Its seems that the Frederick Lonsdale play "The Last of Mrs. Cheney" will finally be filmed. This time by M-G-M with Norma Shearer in the lead and Robert Z. Leonard directing.

United Artists has bought a German play entitled "Der Koneig von Bernina" which Ernest Lubitsch will direct; John Barrymore, starring and the cast to include among others, Lupe Velez and Camilla Horn.

Frank Strayer has been definitely set as director for "Moran of the Marines", the new Richard Dix picture which goes into production within the next couple of days, Ruth Elder being his leading lady.

Bert Wheeler, the stage comic, has been signed by Harold Lloyd. While nothing definite can be learned, it is understood that Lloyd is going to star Wheeler in a series of two reels.

Although Universal is at the height of production, there are few companies working on the lot due to the fact that nine units are out on location. "The Cat's Claw" in San Diego; "Forbidden Love" in San Pedro; Hoot Gilbon's new picture out in Chicago; "Beauty and Bullets" at Newhall; "The Collegians" in San Francisco; "Wolves of the Pack" in San Bernardino Mountains; and "Show Boat" soon leave for the Sacramento river. Alexander Marky's company is filming "Taranga" in the South Seas.

Reed Howes is completing his role in "The Singing Fool" with Al Jolson for Warner Brothers. He starts next week on his Charles Rogers Airplane Featurettes.

Ben Pivar has been raised to chief film editor by Columbia Pictures.

Richard Tucker, who has completed "Captains Swagger" for De Mille, is now playing with Fanny Brice in "My Man" for Warner Brothers. He starts for First National next week in the "Show Girl". Al Santell.

Hugh Allan, who has not had a vacation in five months is completing "Annapolis" for DeMille and expects a week.

Kathryn McGuire has just completed a western with Bob Curwood for Universal. She will start another within a week.

Frank Hagney is playing the heavy in the present Ken Maynard—First National—as yet untitled.

Virginia Brown Faire is now playing a lead at Metropolitan for the Biltmore Productions. This establishes a record for Miss Faire who has played in eight pictures so far this year.

Clyde Cook is now playing in "Docks of New York" opposite George Bancroft. Von Sternberg directing. Upon completion of this he will return to DeMille to do a picture under the direction of Tay Garnett.

Anders Randolph, who has just completed a principal role in "Me Gangster"—Raul Walsh—Fox, is now playing a district attorney in "The Power of Silence" at Tiffany Stahl.

Bernard Randall, who has been off the screen for two years playing "Honeymoon Lane" on the New York stage, is again back on the screen. He has been added to the cast of "The Show Girl"—Al Santell. First National.

Poodles Hanneford, who has just finished "The Circus Kid"—F.B.O., has just started ten two reel comedies for Weiss Brothers. Between the stage and screen Poodles is booked solid from now until November.

Emil Chautaud and Arthur Houseman have been signed for supporting roles in Gotham's "Times Square".

Howard Estabrook is working on the continuity of the Rupert Hughes story "She Goes to War" which is being produced by Inspiration.

Jack Mulhall will be featured alone in "Applesauce", based on the Barry Connors stage hit.

Esther Ralston, Paramount star, is back from her Hawaiian vacation and soon will begin work on her next picture, "The Case of Lena Smith".

The stage Jane in "Celebrity" is Lina Basquette's first role for Pathe since she completed the role of Judith Craig in Cecil B. DeMille's "The Godless Girl".

Stan Laurel, the lissome lad with the expression of a thwarted oyster, who appears with Oliver Hardy in Hal Roach M-G-M comedies, has purchased himself an ornate igloo in exclusive Beverly Hills.

CHRISTIE TALKIES IN EXCHANGES BY AUG. 11

NORDISK LIQUIDATES COPENHAGEN REPORT

LONDON—Conflicting reports concerning the general meeting of Nordisk Films of Denmark which will take place on July 22nd at Copenhagen are floating about.

One report has it that the company has decided to liquidate while another rumor states that one of the big British film companies may acquire a considerable financial interest in the Nordisk outfit.

Whether the company will reorganize and continue with new capital or go into voluntary bankruptcy will not be decided upon until the Directors meeting.

Film Stocks Drop

Among the film stocks which dropped in the general slump of the market yesterday were Fox Film A, showing a loss of 2¾ points; Paramount 4 points; and Warner Bros. 3¾ points. Fox Theatres was off 1¾ points.

Int. Talking Pictures

The International Talking Pictures Corporation was formed in Manhattan this week and papers filed in Albany. Attorneys for the new company would not divulge what the purposes of the new organization would be.

The new releasing season in the Paramount Exchanges which begins on August 11th, will not only afford exhibitors a large percentage of Paramount features with sound but every Christie comedy will have sound in some form, according to Al Christie.

The producer stated yesterday that the scenario forces including dialogue writers are being especially built up inasmuch as the Christies believe that story situations will be paramount in the new type of sound comedies.

Al Christie also made plain that exhibitors need have no fear that the usual supply of comedies, without sound, will fall short in either quality or quantity, as all comedies made for sound accompaniment will also be presented in straight film for the regular trade and for the foreign market.

"We will devote as much care and thought to the product without sound, as heretofore," said Al.

Pathetone Aug. 1st

The Pathe Talking Newsreel which is being organized is expected to be ready with its first issue about August 1st. The official name of the reel may be Pathetone or Pathephone.

RCA photophone will be used in the process.

FIVE CENTS

OBSERVATIONS

RCA STUDIO FOR COAST

Why Is It?

Why do most of our larger producing organizations, with every known element for the making of good pictures, suffer such astounding reversals in the quality of their product? Having established an undoubted quality one year, they seem unable to maintain that standard the following season. Do they use the same elements in the making of bad pictures that exist in the making of good ones?

Formula

Pictures are not made to a set formula, they can not be manufactured in the same mold. But why, given the same type story, cast and direction, must one be good and the other very bad? Does the fault lie with the producer, the director or the entire organization? Why does it seem impossible for any one organization to firmly establish consistency in their product from year to year?

Reasons?

After spending unlimited time and money, with careful preparation in making a series of excellent pictures, does the producer, sort of, set back on his laurels? Does success go to his head? Does factory-methods ruin the morale of the organization? Does he think he knows it all? Or is the making of successful pictures a matter of luck? What is it? Who is to blame?

Walker

Our New York Mayor, seems to have started something he can't finish in his address to the WAMPAS at Hollywood. His speech with its threat, is being repudiated by every political faction, be it Democratic or Republican. Jimmy has spoken out of turn.

WILKERSON

Fox Playing No Favorites

Campaign speeches of Governor Smith, Democratic nominee for President, and Herbert Hoover, Republican candidate, will be filmed by Fox Movietone cameras wherever they speak between now and next November, and projected in motion picture theatres through the country.

This announcement was made by William Fox, president of Fox Film Corporation, who has assigned Movietone camera crews to follow the presidential candidates wherever they go in their campaign.

These sight and sound records of the political campaign will be shown in theatres equipped to show Movietone pictures.

ARBITRATION BOARD REVERSALS ILLEGAL

SEATTLE — Judge Gilliam here has decided the Warner Brothers-Waldo Ives case in favor of the exhibitor after two arbitration boards had rendered verdicts for and against the theatre owner.

The Justice did not rule on the merits of the case, but merely decided that the award of the first Arbitration Board must stand since there was not sufficient reason for re-opening the case.

Poli to Accept Fox Offer of $20,000,000

NEW HAVEN — Max Schoolman, Inc., owner of the Poli Circuit is reported to have accepted a price of $20,000,000 for the chain of theatres from Fox Theatres.

That the chain has been on the market for some time is generally known and also that the Fox and Keith-Albee-Orpheum were chiefly desirous of talking it over. The only obstacle has been the price, with K-A-O taking the attitude that they could afford to wait until the price was low off to be considered reasonable.

Up to this latest report, the Poli people have sat tight waiting for a showdown, but if the reported purchase is true, it will have paid them to wait.

"MARY DUGAN" SOLD

M-G-M To Produce First All Talkie From Play

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's first all-talking picture will be the play "The Trial of Mary Dugan." Contracts for the screen rights, which include all Movietone and Vitaphone rights, have been signed by Al Woods and Nicholas M. Schenck.

Bayard Veiller, author, will supervise the motion picture adaptation, which will be produced in the near future.

WERNER SEEKING SOUND STUDIO FOR UNIVERSAL

Dave Werner of the Universal Home Office will be temporarily in charge of that company's plans for producing short talking "acts" which artists from vaudeville and the legitimate stage.

Suitable studio facilities for talking production are being sought around New York but nothing has been found yet that meets the company's requirements.

The Universal Ft. Lee Studio might be converted but objection is found to it, in that artists from the Broadway shows may find the studio too far away traveling to and fro at late hours.

Production plans are indefinite pending the final decision as to which talking recording method is to be used. Some of the company's features will be done with Movietone, but every other appliance is being investigated.

Sam Sax Due Saturday With 2 New Films

HOLLYWOOD — Sam Sax, president of Gotham productions, will arrive in New York Saturday morning from Hollywood.

Sax is bringing with him prints of "Companionate Marriage" and "The River Woman".

"Companionate Marriage" was previewed before a large audience the other night at one of the outlying houses and created a sensation.

Anderson Forms New N. W. Exhibitors Ass'n

A new Northwest Exhibitors Association is in process of formation, outside of the plans of the Al Steffes organization.

The first meeting was held in Alexandria, Minn., according to Billboard, and Andy Anderson of Detroit Lakes presided and a drive is on for members from States in the Northwest region.

Engaging Directors, Writers and Technicians on Contracts

By JOE BLAIR
West Coast Correspondent

LOS ANGELES — RCA Photophone company will establish their own producing studios in Hollywood, for the purpose of making Photophone recording and talking film production available to independent exhibitors who have not been licensed by other recording systems.

Due to the almost prohibitive fees demanded by the Movietone and Vitaphone processes, independent producers here have been at a loss as to where they could produce pictures with sound. One such producer has mentioned that he would like to devote 50% of his next year's program to sound, provided he could get reasonable facilities. Other producers are making rush trips to N.Y. and are returning sadder but no wiser.

Photophone is said to be ready to equip theatres and to do musical recording on disc or film at half the cost of other well-known systems, and is also preparing to produce its own features and shorts in Hollywood and is now lining up directors and writers for this purpose on contract basis.

"Trail of '98" Closing Astor Installs Sound

"The Trail of '98", the picture version of Robert W. Service's story of the Alaskan gold rush, concludes its five-months' run at the Astor Theatre this Sunday evening. The Astor will then remain dark for two weeks to complete the installation of Movietone effects for "White Shadows in the South Seas", which will follow. "White Shadows" will be the first M-G-M film with sound accompaniment and a synchronized score.

ENTIRE GOTHAM LINEUP BOOKED BY CAPITOL

Gotham Productions have closed an important booking contract with the new Capitol Theatre in Portland, Ore.

The theatre will play the entire Gotham output of 22 features and four specials to be released on the 1928-29 program.

In addition, four pictures on the remaining 1927-28 program have been booked and will be played as well.

M-G-M Profits Rising Loew Preferred Div.

After deduction of expenditures, the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Corp., showed a net profit of $1,325,254, for the twelve-week period ending June 3rd.

The Loew's Inc., quarterly dividend for the period ending August 15th, will be $1.62½ on the outstanding $6.50 cumulative preferred stock outstanding.

Sloan in Town

Paul Sloan, director, has arrived in New York from the Coast and is stopping at the Astor. He will negotiate a new contract before returning to Hollywood.

BAD BUSINESS CLOSES EVEN VITA. THEATRES

PITTSBURGH—The Olympic and the Regent Theatres of the Stanley Chain have closed down because of bad business.

Loew's Aldine which was closed down some time ago, is being remodelled and will reopen Labor Day.

The Olympic and Regent were the only houses equipped with Vitaphone and since their closing, plans are being made to equip the new Stanley Theatre with Vitaphone. The Davis Theatre also controlled by Stanley may shut down, although A. S. Davis, of the Stanley Circuit considers this improbable.

PIZOR-FITZGERALD IN STUDIO DEAL

James A. Fitzgerald and William M. Pizor have become associated in a new studio project for Kansas City, and have chartered the Imperial Productions, Inc., in Missouri, with a half million dollars capital.

The company expects to produce 8 six-reel features; production to begin in the Fall. Alice Calhoun is mentioned as the first star contracted for. The company is also reported to have on hand 48 features taken over for distribution.

Cast for "Show Boat" Almost Completed

Harry Pollard, director of Universal's "Show Boat," has assigned Neely Edwards to the part of Schultzie. With the exception of two unfilled roles, the cast for this picture has been completed.

Joseph Schildkraut will play the role of Gaylord Ravenal, Laura La Plante, Magnolia; Alma Rubens, Julie; Harry Holden, Means; and Elsie Bartlett, Ellie. The roles of Steve and Mrs. Means are yet to be cast.

Fox-Case Executives Off to Hollywood

Fred Schader, Ben Jacksen and Joe Pincus of the Fox-Case Movietone production department left New York Wednesday for Hollywood to commence the 1928-29 Movietone production schedule on production of features and shorts.

They are taking with them plans originated by W. R. Sheehan, V. P. and Gen. Mgr. for the establishment of a Movietone stock company of stage players.

Reflecting Enterprise

Newsreel No. 54. Just a few of the interesting events featured in International are the Grand Prix won by an American horse; Pres. Coolidge fishing on his 56th birthday; and some impressive scenes, of rescue work being carried on for the marooned Arctic explorers.

Paramount News No. 99. New York hailing Miss Earhart, the Atlantic girl flyer, opens. Also included are thrilling shots of the famous "Rocket" car exploding at Burgwedel, Germany, and Army blimps in spectacular maneuvers at Scott Field, Ill.

Pathe News No. 57 shows Gov. Smith welcoming first voters with patriotic speech in New York; views of Betty Carstairs doing 65 miles per hour in her boat at Windermere, Eng.; and speedy dogs racing for rich Derby stakes at Tia Juana, Mex.

The Prince of Wales presenting new colors to the members of the Honorable Artillery in London, Eng.; Secretary Wilbur of the Navy visiting the Brooklyn Navy Yard on an inspection tour; and A. E. Cunliffe meeting death in his speed test at Southport, Eng.; and many other subjects are offered in Kinograms No. 5411.

M-G-M-News No. 94 gives a very interesting list of current events, the most thrilling of which is Al Faussett going over a cataract 184 ft. high in a frail craft at Silverton, Ore.; women breaking records in the Olympic trials at Newark, N. J.; and pigeon international contest held at Rome, Italy.

Views of the two daring Italian flyers, Ferrarin and Del Prete, just before starting on their record beaking flight to Brazil are present in Fox News No. 82. Of interest, too, is the beginning of the small schooner race from New York to Spain, as well as girl athletes being picked to represent the U.S. in the Olympic contests.

Hollywood News

By JOE BLAIR

Jack Okey, the discovery of Wesley Ruggles, Universal director, at present appearing with Clara Bow in "The Fleet's In" was signed by Paramount for five years following the screening of his first day's work.

People around Hollywood are hardly able to recognize Alice White. With her hair a different color and a decided cut, she does not look like the same girl.

Credit Al Santell, the director for this great change in Alice. He is now directing her in "Show Girl", a First National picture and studio rumor has it, an unusual wow when finished.

Wesley Ruggles has made another discovery. This time, a boy by the name of Freddie Goodwin who resembles Tom Moore.

Ruggles is directing "Salvage" and Junior Laemmle says it will be a surprise picture of the year. Mary Philbin starred, haircut and all.

Paul Seoffield sold a story to the Howard Hughes Caddo Productions for Thomas Meighan.

Malibu Beach, the exclusive movie colony, is in full swing at present. New residents include Alan Dwan, William Powell, Wesley Ruggles and Lonnie Dorsa, Mack Sennett production manager.

Karl Dane a carpenter by trade, has built during his "between picture" time, a very unusual bungalow on the beach.

Mal St. Clair, at present directing Clara Bow in "The Fleet's In" is seen out with his little leading lady. He called her his "hand grenade".

Over on the Mack Sennett lot everything's working at top speed. A snapshot of Lonnie Dorsa grabbing a sandwich for lunch should be a picture for the book.

Sammy Cohen, Marjorie Beebe, Tyler Brooke and Ben Bard are doing their initial work in Movietone at the Fox studio in a sketch directed by William Conselman, entitled "Four A. M."

Nancy Drexel has been chosen for the lead with David Rollins, playing her boy friend, in a John Ford production "Riley, the Cop".

Emil Jannings is all het up by someone starting a rumor that he is to return immediately to Germany. From his own lips, we find he is completely satisfied with Hollywood and everything around.

"Off again, on again" can certainly be applied to Eva Von Berne, the M-G-M foreign discovery. One day she is out of the Jack Gilbert picture and the next day in. Today we find her "in"—tomorrow, well...

The longest-range motion picture scene on record was taken during the battle staged off the Southern California coast for First National's "The Divine Lady". The scene represented a glimpse of the engagement through a telescope and was photographed from a distance of ten miles.

Bob Steele FBO's popular young screen star, is making his debut as a screen writer in addition to his somewhat strenuous activities before the camera. Steele, in collaboration with Perry Murdock, who is his companion in the picture, wrote the original story of "Captain Careless", which is now in production.

Roscoe Karns has been signed by Paramount to play Richard Dix' pal in "Moran of the Marines".

Tenen Holtz has been added to the cast of Marion Davies's new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, "Her Cardboard Lover", which Robert Z. Leonard is directing.

Dot Farley, who helps to supply much of the comedy found in "Celebrity", played Ben Turpin's mother in a dozen Mack Sennett comedies.

Richard Barthelmes is planning to go on location in and about the Panama Canal for exteriors in "Scarlet Seas", his next starring vehicle.

Fox has made the following additions to the casts of three pictures: James Ford and Sherman Ross in "Making the Grade", Robert Peck in "Prep and Pep", and Marcella Corday in "Backwash".

Evelyn Bront, having returned to Hollywood from her recent vacation in the east, is preparing for work in "Interference", in which she will be co-featured with Clive Brook.

Edward Nugent the young man who played the reporter in the M-G-M version of "The Bellamy Trial", is working with Byron Morgan on the comedy construction of "Gold Braid".

Victor Potel, the "slippery Slim" of old Essanay comedies, is appearing in Pathe's "Captain Swagger".

Estelle Bradley, who plays the leading feminine role in the first Educational-Mermaid Comedy of the new season, is keeping herself occupied between pictures by fitting up the new dressing room recently presented to her.

"The Glorious Trail", Ken Maynard's latest western feature for First National, is now nearing completion.

Nancy Carroll's beautiful and unusual golden reddish hair, along with striking costumes and unique desert and mesa scenery will be brought out in technicolor sequences of Paramount's Zane Gray picture, "The Water Hole".

Victor Talkie Studio for All New York Producers

Hollywood and N. Y. Plants Not to Compete But for Service

Having announced the opening of a new recording studio in Hollywood, the Victor Talking Machine Company is also laying plans for a site in New York City for an additional studio, according to R. Fenimore Johnson, executive Vice-President of the company.

This Manhattan plant will not only record music for pictures but also record generally for Victor in the metropolitan district.

At the Hollywood plant, which should be ready by November, actual scenes for productions will be shot with sound and voices.

It is not the intention of the Victor Company to in any way compete with the film producing companies. It will be strictly a service company providing picture producers with sound accompaniments for their photoplays, either in the form of complete synchronized scores arranged and recorded by Victor's expert staff and made after the feature films have been cut and edited, or in sound effects recorded during the actual photographing of the films.

It will also make records for any company which does its own recording. This latter work it has done for some time for the Vitaphone Company.

In addition to its plant in Hollywood it will maintain trucks equipped with recording apparatus which can be quickly moved to any studio or location where sound is to be recorded. Recent experiments with a portable apparatus to record the sounds of an airplane in flight have proven the practicability of the scheme.

Arbitration Board Reversals Illegal

Involved in this dispute, the case received wide-spread notice. Ives who operates a theatre in Anacortes and Mt. Vernon refused to play 5 Warner Pictures alleging substitutions in players, stories or directors.

Warners' defense was that their campaign book was merely advance information for the trade and had no effect on contracts. The contract specified titles only and they offered to deliver pictures with those titles sold.

Gallup declined the nomination, stating that he was forced to turn the honor down because of other arduous duties, but because there was a man in the organization, who was better fitted for the Presidency this coming year. He declined to name the man he would like to have succeed him and requested the nominating committee headed by C. W. Burrell to hold another session and report a second choice next Thursday. Gallup promised his full assistance to the new ticket this coming year.

OBSERVATIONS

Judgment Required

It is our opinion that talking pictures, when perfected, will be a great and wonderful boon to amusement, but only in those instances where the picture itself is suited to that medium or could be strengthened greatly by "sounding" any part of it.

"Patriot" Again

We have been informed (and hope not reliably) that the release of "The Patriot" is being held up by Paramount, in order to impose upon this now perfect picture, a "talkie" sequence. We use the word "impose" advisedly, feeling that in this case it is little short of sacrilege to break the spell of this production which in its present state reaches the very highest of pantomimic art.

Stage Play

The point might be raised that "The Patriot" was a great play and should therefore be adaptable to one or more talking sequences. In many cases, this might be true, but seeing this picture as we did, in about twelve reels, any one who was not swayed by movie world "talking-madness", would realize the folly of jarring, for an instant, the smoothness, the subtlety and finesse with which this play has been transferred from stage to screen.

Flawless

With its flawless direction, its perfect performances, its moments of humor, tenseness and pathos, its beautiful mounting and photography, "The Patriot" stands head and shoulders above any picture, other than one or two great spectacles, ever made. What then, is to be gained by cheapening it with a talkie sequence? Is the art of eloquent pantomime, to which movies have aspired for years, and in this picture have reached, to be cast aside entirely, so that regardless of its adaptability every picture can be turned into a talkie?

"Gild the Lily"

Please, Mr. Lasky, if our information is true, reconsider this action, for if the case of "The Patriot" is any indication of what is going to happen to many pictures that is great in itself, it is a pity to contemplate the many that will be cheapened, if not completely spoiled, by talkie-mad producer's attempts to "gild the lily."

New Stanley Merger Talk Staff Changes Due Monday

JOHN BARRYMORE STAGE VETERAN CAUSING SCRAMBLE FOR SERVICES

Star Decided Warners Signs with United Artists Will Make First All-Talkie in Sept.

According to statement given out by John Barrymore yesterday, negotiations are being carried on with Warner Bros. for the production of the star's first all-talking picture.

"The personal friendship and regard existing between Mr. Schenck and myself is in no way affected by this step. I feel that Warners should do my first talking picture, as they have two year's experience in perfecting Vitaphone and their product," said Barrymore.

Indications point to an immediate start on this production in Hollywood.

HOLLYWOOD — Barrymore's next production for United Artists will begin in September.

It will be a sound device photoplay founded on a European best seller, "Der Koenig der Bernina," by J. C. Heer.

Ernst Lubitsch has been chosen to direct Barrymore in this new role which will make John a hero of the Alps.

Eric Locke will be assistant director to Lubitsch, having been formerly associated with him.

There will be a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Stanley Co. of America on Monday in New York, which was scheduled to be held Sunday, July 15th.

The most important matter coming before the board is a vote to be taken on a further merger with a picture producing company to take place in the near future.

This merging may take the form of even closer relations with Warner Brothers than was initiated some months ago when Wadill Catchings of Goldman Sachs & Co. was elected to the Stanley Board of Directors.

Yesterday, a Stanley official in Philadelphia verified the rumor that vital changes in the personnel of the company may be effected after Monday's meeting, but who is to be affected was not known.

Previous reports had Abe Sablosky resigning from Stanley to take charge of the Booking Department of Keith-Albee-Orpheum Circuit.

KENNEDY SLATED FOR PHOTOPHONE LEADERSHIP

According to Wall Street report Saturday, J. P. Kennedy, President of FBO, and Business Advisor to First National Pictures has been selected by RCA Photophone to become Chairman of the Advisory Board of Production.

One of Kennedy's chief purposes of visiting the coast at this time may be to officially take over the initial operations of establishing the Photophone studio in Hollywood.

BUTLER DEFINITELY TO SAIL—COLLYER RECAST

Coast reports to the contrary, David Butler will sail from New York some time next week with a crew of cameramen and assistants to take scenes for the forthcoming Fox production "Chasing Through Europe".

June Collyer, originally selected for the feminine lead, will return to the coast for an important part in the next Raul Walsh "Behind That Curtain", which, we understand, will have "sound". Miss Collyer made several Movietone tests before leaving the coast and the results proved a very pleasant surprise to Fox officials.

BUYING STRIKE IN N. Y. WORRYING SALES HEADS

The exhibitors buying strike on 1928-29 product is assuming alarming proportions in the eyes of sales managers generally in the New York territory.

They find that probably because of a combination of reasons hardly any contracts are being signed and theatre owners show no signs of anxiety for their future supply of pictures.

One very big exchange executive in the city described the situation precisely when he admitted that all the contracts signed for new product (Continued on page 2)

Television of Moving Objects Accomplished

Moving pictures were exhibited for the first time in a wired demonstration Thursday of the latest improved Television machine in the Bell Telephone Laboratories here in New York.

This development marks a new advance as heretofore only still pictures had been transmitted. This is due to the newly developed photo electric cell of great sensitivity, which enables the machine to transmit with the aid of sunlight, eliminating the lighting equipment previously found necessary.

NEW FOX PRODUCT STARTS ROXY TODAY

The feature of the new Broadway film week will include the inauguration of Fox Pictures at the Roxy and a new Synchronized picture, the first of the Paramount product.

"Street Angel" Fox Special which comes direct from its run at the Globe Theatre will play at popular prices at the Roxy.

Richard Dix in the first Paramount sound picture "Warming Up" will be featured at the Paramount. This occasion marks the first time that the theatre has projected synchronization of sound and film.

Hollywood News

By JOE BLAIR

United Artists are retaking several sequences in a Norma Talmadge picture "The Woman Disputed"; Sam Taylor making the added scenes.

What has become of Jetta Goudal?

John Farrell, one of the new comers on the Lasky lot, is hitting on all high. At the present time, he is writing the new version of "Male and Female".

Ben Lyon has finished his work in "Hell's Angels", which concludes his contract with both Caddo Productions and First National. It is said that Ben will free lance for the time being.

There is quite a lot of activity at Metropolitan Studio. Sets are going up for Harold Lloyd's new picture and both Caddo companies (Hell's Angels) and "The Mating Call") are at work. Chas. Hutchison company is starting on its third picture and Trem Carr Productions are in the midst of a large schedule. Other units on the lot are Burton King Productions, First Division Pictures, Cliff Broughton, Batchelor Productions, Mascot Pictures and Nat Spitzer. Plans have gone forward for a sound stage to be equipped by Western Electric.

Rod La Rocque, after his operation for appendicitis is resting easily at the Pasadena Hospital. His wife, Vilma Banky, is constantly at his bedside.

Jesse Lasky, accompanied by Ben P. Schulberg and Harry Goetz arrived in Hollywood yesterday.

Word comes from New York that June Collyer has suffered a severe nervous breakdown which will delay her trip to Europe with the "Chasing Through Europe" company.

D. W. Griffith now enters his claim as being the first to use sound and synchronization of films. This he claims for his production "Dream Street", made seven or eight years ago.

William Seiter is next to direct "Waterfront" with Jack Mulhall and Dorothy Mackaill for First National. He is scheduled to do "Outcast" with Corinne Griffith after that.

Rex Lease, juvenile actor, and David Kirkman, director, have formed a company for the production of a series of pictures. Their first will be known as "The Candy Kid". Already cast are Pauline Garon, Roy Stewart, Douglas Gerrard, Frank Campeau, Charlotte Merriman and Anne Page.

First National is producing the Owen Davis play "The Haunted House".

Rudolph Schildkraut left Hollywood today for Berlin where he is to enact a new German play in September.

R. Wm. Neill will direct "The Thrall of Leif, the Lucky", a story of Viking days, for Technicolor. Production at Tec-Art studio.

We watched Wallace Worsley directing Belle Bennett in a scene at Tiffany-Stahl. The picture was "Patience" and the scene very effective. Among others in the cast are John St. Polis, Andres Rando'ph and John Singleton.

Lon Chaney is having a great time in his picture "West of Zanzibar". In this picture, his legs are paralyzed and the means by which he is able to get about is a vehicle mounted on roller skates. Tod Browning is the director.

Nina Byron, who was considered by Ziegfeld as one of the most beautiful girls in the world several years ago, has been playing a small part in the current Clara Bow-James Hall picture "The Fleet in" at the Paramount studio.

Warner Baxter is declared to be giving a marvelous performance as the renegade physician in Lon Chaney's "West of Zanzibar", at the M-G-M studios. Some wide awake studio executive is going to be smart enough to cast this former stage star in a "Talking motion picture" and then you'll hear plenty more from Warner Baxter.

Leslie Fenton, youthful character actor, has been signed by Universal to play the role of Buffo in "The Play Goes On", which Paul Fejos will direct under the supervision of Carl Laemmle Jr., James A. Creelman wrote the story.

PICTURE REVIEWS

"THE RACKET"

Paramount

Directed by Lewis Milestone

Featuring.....Thomas Meighan,
Louis Wolheim, Marie Prevost,
"Skeets" Gallagher, Lucian
Prival, George Stone.

Exceptionally well directed story of the underworld. Will win any audience in any type house.

This screen version of the stage play by the same name written by Barlett McCormack, is packed full of action from beginning to end. Most of the action of the story takes place in the police station. It concerns gang and bootleg warfare. There is no sex and very little romance, and the acting is superb by every member of the cast. Wolheim carries all of honors. Meighan satisfactory.

Director Milestone handles every detail with astounding skill. Camera work of Gaudio, could have been improved.

"THE LIGHTS OF NEW YORK"

Warner Brothers

Directed by.....Bryan Foy
Featuring.....Cullen Landis, Helene Costello, Wheeler Oak-man.

As the first "all-talkie" will crowd any house with the curious. Certain box office winner. Strand did tremendous business with it.

As a picture it reminds you of a ten-twenty-thirty melodrama of ten years ago, brought up to date by substituting bootleggers for second story men? It is an old and hackneyed story of the country boy going to the city to seek his fortune and to be near the girl he loves who is now cabaret dancing in the big town.

Gets mixed up with bootleggers and gunmen with bootleg king saving the day and two young lovers return to the green fields and country air. Aside from the entire picture being Vitaphoned, the picture merits no attention. About four reels in length.

"THE COWBOY KID"

Fox

Directed by.....Clyde Carruth

Featuring.....Rex Bell,
Mary Jane Temple, Brooks
Benedict, Alice Belcher, Joe De
Grasse, Sid Crossley, Billy Bletcher.

Western comedy drama. Old stuff. The picture was obviously padded with a lot of hokum comedy, none of which was particularly new, because there wasn't enough story to go around five reels. The here, rescuing the bank roll, the girl, and mopping up the villain, is just regular western stuff. Action picks up a good deal toward the end. Director may know his cowboys, but not his audiences. Bell will be okay in a good story. Mary Jane Temple is a looker but certainly doesn't exhibit any sign of acting ability. De Grasse most at ease.

CONCENSUS OF OPINION

By Blanche F. Livingston

Producers, it seems, have become obsessed with the idea of injecting sound into their films. But, verily, after the reception that "Lights of New York", the first 100% all-talkie Vitaphone picture, received at the Strand this week, we ask, "Are they right, or are they wrong?". This certainly pulled down records for the house, and is a milestone on the road to progress and the future of talkies.

Tommy Meighan stages a comeback. And he knocked 'em cold this week at the Cross-roads' house in "The Racket". The Paramount audience fell hard for this underworld story, and so will any other given group of people.

"The Actress", the film version of "Trelawney of the Wells" which played at the Capitol made acceptable entertainment. The story if dressed in modern clothes wouldn't mean a thing but takes on a charm because of the settings and costumes, and deft direction by Sidney Franklin.

Joe E. Brown, popular stage and vaudeville comedian, does his stuff in the FBO picture "The Hit of the Show" which played at Roxy, and he did it with a vengeance—in fact put over the picture. This film will gather momentum as it goes to the smaller towns.

The Cameo housed "The Loves of Jeanne Ney", a UFA production which will pass as a good meller if the first half is cut out and book as a Russian "red" propaganda film if the second half is eliminated. As it stands, it's far too heavy, with clever camera work, it's only redeeming feature.

"THE GRIP OF THE YUKON"

Universal

Directed by.....Ernest Laemmle
Featuring.....Neil Hamilton,
Francis X. Bushman, June Marlowe, Theodore Lorch, Otis Harlan, James Farley, Burr McIntosh.

Suspense, love interest and action enough to please the fans in the neighborhood houses.

Gold rush type of story where the plot is above the average, and deserved better handling than it got. Setting artificial, and there's not much acting to brag about. Otis Harlan who supplied the comedy probably came out best. Bushman is still a favorite at many points and where this is true, the picture will certainly find a welcome.

"THE CITY WITHOUT JEWS"

Deutsch Films, Inc.

Directed by.....Carl von Santer
Featuring.....Johannes Reimer,
Anna Rilety, Hans Rauscher, Gustaf Fleigel.

A foreign film that gets nowhere. Can't possibly go in any ordinary movie house.

Here is a picture with a theme which might have drawn vast interest, but it is so produced and enacted that it simply flops. The story is taken from Hugo Bettauer's novel which offered a well thought-out problem. The action takes place years hence in an imaginary city and plays with the idea of the improbability of a city thriving without any members of the Jewish faith.

"THE UPLAND RIDER"

First National

Directed by.....Albert Rogell
Featuring.....Ken Maynard,
Marion, Douglas, Lafe McKee, Sidney Jervis.

Ken Maynard scores in a corking western. Can be played big anywhere this type of picture is acceptable.

Credit Marion Jackson with excellent story material which gives Albert Rogell a chance to do some real directing, and Ken Maynard an opportunity to exhibit his ability. There is of course the usual villainy with a government contract at stake, but it's all worked in so smoothly. Even offers a relay race that is a thriller, and Maynard's horse which must not be overlooked.

Sound Featurettes

"BENIAMINO GIGLI"

Vitaphone—Warner Bros.

Excellent. Good number to place in between sketch and jazz.

Gigli, tenor of the Metropolitan Opera Company, is accompanied at the piano by Vito Carezani. The sections are short and sweet—"Bergere Legere", "Mairame Asi", "Come Love With Me" and "O Sole Mio". End leaves tasty flavor in the mouth. The rendition is beyond comment and the synchronization is fine. The only criticism might be that when the voice drops to the whippers, the mechanics of the Vitaphone should have been tuned up a bit so that these can be heard way back in the auditorium. Gigli, himself, is without costume or scenery and appears very much at ease.

"MORRISEY and MILLER NIGHT CLUB"

Vitaphone—Warner Bros.

Featuring.....Will Morrissey,
Midgie Miller, Harry Downing,
Charlotte Lovelace, Vina and Arthur, Sammy Cantor.

Will go particularly well out of the big cities. But good entertainment anywhere.

The scene is in a regular night club with the entertainers doing their stuff. The numbers are "Cinderella Dreams", "It Was Only a Sun Shower", "Rosie-Posie", "C'est Vous", Quartet from "Rigoletto" and "Go Tell 'Em". There is also a little fun on the side in which a bewhiskered man is principalled.

"SHARPS AND FLATS"

Vitaphone—Warner Bros.

Featuring.....Conlin and Glass
A lot of tom-foolery which goes over big.

Conlin's at the piano and Miss Glass accompanies him in song. However, that's just a minor detail. Their big splash comes in hard knocks shoveled out by the Glass woman on to Conlin. Hands back stage help a lot with shouts of "Whoa" every once-in-awhile and much chatter goes on between the two stars. Also fine synchronization.

"REB SPIKES' BAND"

Vitaphone—Warner Bros.

Colored jazz orchestra. Not up to standard but will go as a filler.

The "blues" type of jazz is emphasized and these boys know how to play. Four of them are steppers and go to it fast and furious, but here's where the Vitaphone shows its weakness. These sounds of tap dancing do not come over so well.

"THE LIGHTS OF NEW YORK"

Times: "... Interesting in an experimental way ... can be classed only as an experiment however, for an audience attempting to take it by any other category of merits would only laugh it away."

N. Y. Evening Journal: "... is good entertainment ... is well cast ... is worth seeing."

"THE RACKET"

Evening World: "... the picture play is quite as good as the melodrama on the boards ... which is high praise, indeed."

"THE ACTRESS"

Graphic: "... anticipation far overreached the actual realization was exceptionally well cast."

"THE HIT OF THE SHOW"

Eve. Post: "... an entirely pleasant, quiet entertainment."

N. Y. Eve. Journal: "... Norma Shearer fans will like her in the crinolines ... made a pleasant picture of the famous play."

"THE UPLAND RIDER"

Sun: "... he (Joe E. Brown) will last longer if he gets a new plot."

Telegraph: "... (Joe E. Brown) caused many a laugh and his gift for pantomime and funny facial contortions are developed to the full ... it is an old, old story."

Eve. World: "... a good title story ... Joe Brown makes his bow to the public from the celluloid screen and it is a splendid bow."

"THE LOVES OF JEANNE NEY"

Times: "... are times when the acting of various persons in the cast swings the picture into something more valuable than the story itself can give."

Telegraph: "... Exasperating."

Eve. World: "... rather jumbled."

New York, Monday, July 16, 1928

OBSERVATIONS

There is no industry in the world which loses its head as easily and quickly as does the Film industry. When confronted with a new problem, whether it be upheaval within its ranks or an innovation in which the other fellow might get the jump, our executives seem to go plumb "daffy".

Other industries with greater and less scope in matters of finance and power, being confronted with changes, organize special departments for research and experimentation, some times for years, before foisting these changes in any variation upon the public, so as not to endanger in any way the quality of what is already on the market.

Not Here

But not the picture business. Our executives jump headlong into something they know nothing about, lay everything aside, tear down organization and policy which has taken years to perfect, neglect everything other than the new thought.

Warning

It has taken years to develop the silent drama to where it is today. Has taken a lot of money. We think it nothing short of insanity to neglect this in favor of something, which at present is still in its experimental stages. We are for progress but feel that unless producers get down to earth, stop this mad-scramble for "talkies" until they learn something about it; a business that has taken years of hard effort and millions of dollars to reach the perfection it now enjoys, will crumble and be dragged back ten or twelve years to meet the upward climb of talking pictures. In the meantime what will happen to the public?

Astounded

Cool headed and wise thinking exhibitors throughout the country are astounded at the attitude of the production heads. Feeling with all this added interest, the quality of the "silent drama" will be greatly retarded. They consider that producers can not think of two things on the same day and with all their thoughts centered on sound pictures, the quality of their release of "old fashioned" motion pictures will be greatly injured. They see their business, for next year, go-

RCA Monopoly?

It is unlikely that the Federal Trade Commission will dismiss its charges of monopoly and restraint of trade under the Sherman Anti-Trust Law against the Radio Corporation of America, the General Electric Company and several other allied companies.

After a special investigation of the radio field, counsel for the Commission has filed final briefs in which it is asserted that the above named companies have divided amongst themselves the entire field of wireless and asks prosecution of the case.

BARRYMORE MAY MAKE "HAMLET" ALL-TALKIE

HOLLYWOOD — John Barrymore expects to cash in on Vitaphone popularity and is making an advantageous contract with Warner Brothers for a Vitaphone talking release, to be made before he does his last picture "Conquest" for United Artists.

The star may make a few sequences for former Warner releases immediately, in which he was starred, and which may be freshly released with Barrymore's voice.

While it is not known what the title of Barrymore's first all-talkie for Warners will be, he may be cast for a full-length production of "Hamlet", after he concludes his United Artists picture starting in September.

'SHANNONS' SOLD TO 'U' FOR COMPLETE TALKIE

On Saturday morning, Universal signed contracts by proxy with James Gleason, author and star, for the purchase of "The Shannons of Broadway." The fact that Mr. and Mrs. Gleason were in California and the necessity for providing for the various kinds of rights which moving pictures now require, such as synchronization, dialogue, television, novelization, etc., demanded a new form of legal contract, which has now been perfected by Siegfried F. Hartman, General Counsel for Universal, used for the first time in

DENY INJUNCTION IN MARKS TRIAL

CHICAGO—27 defendants in the conspiracy suit trial now being waged in Judge George Page's Federal Court have scored the first victory against Marks Brothers who allege restraint of trade.

The temporary injunction applied for has been refused and the trial will be resumed today. The attorneys for the plaintiff may find it difficult to prove actual facts of monopoly and an early acquittal for the defendants is expected this week.

1927 Warner Net Doubled Total $1,700,000 by Aug. 31

Earnings of the Warner Brothers Corporation are expanding and it is expected that net profits for the year ending August 31st will be in the neighborhood of $1,700,000, with prospects of even better results for the next twelve months.

Wall Street observers note that during the recent bear market Warner Pictures stock encountered real support all along the line not only from those who covered their "shorts" but from those who did scale buying on the recessions.

This scale buying indicate real strength to the securities as holders are willing to gamble on its future by buying at figures below their own original purchases.

BRANDT MAY INCREASE 1927 APPROPRIATION

Never before has the outlook for the independent producer-distributor been more favorable than it is today, according to Joe Brandt, president of Columbia Pictures.

"By 'Independent' I mean just such a company as Columbia Pictures, which confines all its energies and resources to the making and distributing of motion pictures and has no theatre affiliations.

"In the Perfect 36 we have outlined a greater production schedule than ever before. We have arranged-ed to spend somewhere between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000 to bring this program to the screen.

"We certainly would not have gone to all the heavy investment entailed by a greatly augmented production schedule if we had not received assurances that our product would find a ready market. Exhibitors who played our product last year, and for several years past, told us they would welcome an increased production program from Columbia.

"Contracts coming into the home office from all parts of the country are evidence enough that we are on the right track. So far as we are concerned, Columbia Pictures this year is going to write the biggest business of its history. We know the time has come when performance counts rather than promises—and Columbia has the sort of past record that will stand the closest scrutiny."

Laugh this Off

On December 24th, of the year just passed, a young player was engaged for a small role in "Hell's Angels". His salary set at $150.00 a week. The day he was signed he worked for a few minutes and was told his work would be completed in about a week.

Comes another year and the date July 16th, and the young player is still on "Hell's Angels". Every week drawing his One Fifty. And has not worked a minute since.

Hollywood Previews

"THE WOMAN DISPUTED"

A United Artists Picture

Director Henry King
Cast Norma Talmadge, Gilbert Roland

An excellent picture, and once more Norma Talmadge comes into her own. No exhibitor can go wrong by booking this film, for romance and love played against the background of war are a theme that is always appealing. In this story Norma Talmadge makes it more gripping and charming than ever. Two officers, one Russian, the other, German, save a girl, Mary Ann, from jail when a man commits suicide in her room. Both handsome and gallant, they fall in love with her; then comes the war causing tensely dramatic complications.

"FOUR WALLS"

A Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Picture

Director William Nigh
Cast John Gilbert, Joan Crawford, Carmel Myers, Vera Gordon, Louis Natheaux, Robert O'Connor, Jack Byron.

While the picture can't be classed as the usual underworld type now in vogue, it nevertheless tells the story of a crook's reformation. This film will not be popular fan fare. The action and direction were good, but there were so many inconsistencies in the story as to destroy all plausibility. Joan Crawford and John Gilbert give nice characterizations, as does Carmel Myers and Vera Gordon.

"CODE OF THE SCARLET"

A First National Picture

Director Harry Brown
Cast Ken Maynard, Gladys McConnell, J. P. McGowan, Dot Farley.

This is another of Ken Maynard's open air and vacant space pictures, but it certainly isn't up to his last film effort. There have been so many Northwest Mounted police films that it takes an unusually good story to attract attention to this type. The plot offered here is old; there are no angles or twists, and the only good part were the shots of some wonderful scenery. The only ones who'll come to see this picture are Maynard's personal followers.

"CRAIG'S WIFE"

A Pathe Picture

Director William De Mille
Cast Irene Rich, Warner Baxter, Virginia Bradford, Carroll Nye, Jane Keckley, George Irving, Lilyan Tashman, Ethel Wales.

A picture that is certain to get across in any house, and one that will appeal especially to an intelligent audience. Taken from the stage play of the same name. De Mille has made an entertaining and dramatic tale of the nagging wife who finally drives her husband away. There are a few defects in the story, but these can be easily overlooked. Irene Rich is excellent in her role as the wife; Warner Baxter as the husband is well cast, and the others handle their parts quite effectively.

"THE WRIGHT IDEA"

A First National Picture

Director Charles Hines
Cast Johnny Hines, Louise Lorraine, Edmund Breese, Fred Kelsey, Walter Janes.

This comedy isn't up to Hine's last picture "Chinatown Charlie." Lack of freshness in plot is the main drawback here, and while the beginning of the picture was excellent, the other five reels didn't keep the pace. Much cutting will help this film.

"SAY IT WITH SABLES"

A Columbia Production

Director Frank Capra
Cast Francis X. Bushman, Arthur Rankin, Helen Chadwick, June Nash, Alphonz Ethier, Margaret Livingston.

A picture with all the elements that go over big with the audience. A competent cast, a nice story that tells of a father's love for his son and a woman from the past who returns to cause complications, and plenty of love interest that gets over well. Settings and beautiful clothes will satisfy the ladies.

"THE TOILERS"

A Tiffany Stahl Picture

Director Reginald Barker
Cast Jobyna Ralston, Wade Boteler, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Harvey Clarke and others.

This is one of the finest independent pictures that have been produced this year. The story contains comedy, production value, scenic beauty, a thrilling fight, realistic mining explosions and fires deftly moulded into a dramatic masterpiece of exceptional motion picture entertainment. Barker directed a splendid cast in a flawless continuity. The picture will undoubtedly enjoy a great wave of popularity.

"THE DESERT BRIDE"

A Columbia Picture

Director Walter Long
Cast Betty Compson, Allen Forrest, Edward Martin, Frank Austin, Otto Matiesen, Roscoe Karns.

Good film fare. Romance and adventure in the desert are still going strong with the fans. Plenty of action, intrigue, gripping scenes, together with good comedy places the picture above par and gives it no time to lag. The story reveals the plot of Ben Ali Kassim and his efforts to drive the infidel French from the city of Arabin. Betty Compson heads a good cast.

"CLIMB, BENSON, CLIMB"

A Universal Picture

Director Nat Ross
Cast George Lewis, Eddie Phillips, Dorothy Gulliver, Churchill Ross, Colette Merton.

A snappy picture that the flappers will love and the old folks enjoy. This is one of the Collegian series, and anything that deals with youth and his college pranks is certain to be popular. The spirit of comedy runs riot throughout and though there isn't much to the story, merely telling of the return of the gang to college and the annual Flag Rush, nevertheless the entertainment is clean and wholesome.

Sound Film Era Brings to Light Present Day Pioneers

Excellent Pictures

Ahead of Schedule

Excellent Pictures Corp. has kept consistently ahead of its schedule in the last eighteen months. All pictures have been delivered ahead of their promised dates and production plans for the 1928-29 season are equally advanced.

Prints of "Making of Varsity" are being shipped this week to the franchise holders; while "The Speed Classic" and "Manhattan Knights" are soon to follow.

"Manhattan Knights" is practically completed now and will certainly be ready ahead of schedule. The story is by Adeline Leitzbach.

"King of Kings"

Gross receipts for Cecil B. De Mille's Pathe Picture, "The King of Kings," are expected to exceed the combined gross of "Ben Hur," "The Ten Commandments," and "The Volga Boatman".

After an unusual successful showing in Mexico City, road companies are now meeting with great response in their tour of the country.

Hughes Aid Aviation

Howard Hughes, producer of the ambitious picture, "Hell's Angels", which features aviation quite prominently, has granted leave of absence to Capt. Roscoe Turner and William Stapp, two flyers appearing in the Caddo picture, so they may attempt to bring back to America the air endurance record now held by Germany.

Laemmle Jr. May

Wed Wampas Star

Audrey Ferris, 1928 Wampas baby star, is engaged to Carl Laemmle Jr., according to reports current in the film colony today.

Apropos of the demand for new talent in the production of talking motion picture preferably those with previous stage experience and good speaking voices, there now arises frantic effort on the part of those already in the silent drama to prove their qualification to take part in the new scheme of things.

Stars, directors, writers, gag-men and others are digging up their past and searching the recesses of their memory for some dim recollection of the pioneer era of synchronized pictures, in which they shared. A good many of these people really did have something to do with them, and on the other hand, a good many wish they had.

D. W. Griffith recalls the time, ten years ago, when he synchronized "Dream Street" with the Kellem process. The picture created a sensation according to D. W., but financiers would not invest their capital.

Over at the Publix Circuit, there is a projectionist who really projected synchronized pictures that were road-showed 15 years ago. They were produced by the Cameraphone Company and "Cabiria" was one of the films synchronized, with records.

Phillips Smalley, twenty years ago, directed for the Gaumont Talking Picture Co. and Lois Weber likewise directed "talkies" for Gaumont at that time.

Tom O'Brien, actor, appeared in Edison's first talking picture in 1912.

There are others, perhaps only enough to be counted on a few hands, but they will be heard from right along and that there is a place for them now is not to be doubted, but it depends a great deal on whether they have continued to produce entertainment in motion pictures both silent and sound.

FBO Completes All

Hollywood News

By JOE BLAIR

Ralph Spence, highest paid humorist writing for the screen and a well known playwright, not content with drawing down $10,000 for a picture which he titles, has found a new vehicle for his wisecracking in "Radiograms", a new novelty short reel subject, distributed by Columbia Pictures.

Olive Borden has been signed for a feature role in "The Younger Generation" by Columbia. This is an adaptation of a Fannie Hurst stage play, "It is to laugh". Frank Capra will direct.

Margaret Mann who made such a sensational success in "Four Sons" has been picked by Frank Borzage to play the mother role in his latest production for Fox, to be known as "Backwash". This is from Tristram Tubbers' "The River". Charles Farrell and Mary Duncan have the leads.

Add to the cast of "Riley, the Cop", John Ford's production for Fox, Ferdinand, Schumann-Heink, Tom Wilson, Harry Schnltz, Russell Powell.

It seems that Columbia has every Chinaman in southern California in their picture "Into the Depths" which stars Jack Holt and is being directed by Irvin Willat.

Lois Moran has been selected for the leading feminine role in "The Fog", to be directed by Chas. Klein for Fox.

Douglas Fairbanks has definitely decided not to use any talking sequences in his next picture, now titled "For All Eternity". There will no doubt be a synchronization of music and sound effects.

John Barrymore of United Artists' picture "Conquest" seems to be up in the air for the time being. From present information, it will be done in September.

"The Shannons of Broadway." "The Shannons of Broadway" will in all probability be a complete talking picture. At any rate, Universal has the right to make it such. Furthermore, it will have the services of Mr. and Mrs. James Gleason, who starred in the New York production at the Martin Beck Theatre.

By the terms of the contract, Universal will not be permitted to release "The Shannons of Broadway" before February 1, 1929, although the picture can be completed and held in the exchanges for release on that date, if Universal is so minded.

"Lilac Time" Premier

Many exclusive Movietone features and novelties as well as a wonderful concert program by Carl Elinor's famous concert orchestra will be featured at the premier of First National's picture, "Lilac Time," which opens tonight at the Carthay Circle Theatre in Los Angeles.

Mayor Jimmy Walker of New York has promised to act as Master of Ceremonies for the occasion.

Mary Astor has been cast for the leading role in "The Fatal Wedding" which Irving Cummings will produce for Fox.

James Hall was signed by Caddo for "Hell's Angels". Having finished all the interior sequences, he has in the meantime made three pictures for Paramount and still is not finished in this air epic.

Everybody around the First National studios has a wicked case of the shivers, feeling that a big shake-up is going to happen shortly after Kennedy's arrival. It is the definite belief by everyone that William Le Baron will be the production head.

Gary Cooper has been selected to do the lead in "The Wolf Song" for Paramount, a story by Harvey Ferguson. Victor Fleming to direct.

M. D. Farley has been promoted chief assistant to Sol Wurtzel. His new capacity will put him in charge of western production on the Fox lot.

Mayor James J. Walker will be the honored guest at a meeting of the Association of Motion Picture Producers Tuesday. No doubt, the meeting will be well attended, expecting Jimmy to do some wild talking again.

Thomas H. Ince estate is trying to re-issue six of Charley Ray's most successful productions, two of them being "The Egg-Crate Wallop" and "The Busher".

William de Mille having completed his contract with the Pathe Studio, will make a two-reel talking picture of "The Man Higher Up". Theodore Roberts will star.

It seems certain that George Fawcett will get the coveted role in "Trader Horn", which Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer will soon put into production.

$50,000 Mizner Story Scrapped by Caddo

Howard Hughes, head of Caddo productions, releasing through both United Artists and Paramount, will not do "The Titanic" an original bought from Wilson Mizner for $50,000. Lewis Milestone was slated to direct.

It might be reconsidered at some later date and after being rewritten. The story at present has no love interest and is centered around three gamblers and their exploits on this doomed ship.

Meighan Doing Retakes for "The Mating Call"

After finishing the new Thomas Meighan Caddo picture "The Mating Call", it was decided to retake major portions of it, necessitating the return of Renee Adoree and Evelyn Brent to the Metropolitan studio.

Aside from "The Covered Wagon" and "Old Ironsides" James Cruze has taken longer on this production than any he has ever made. The cost so far has been around $500,000. It is to be released by Paramount.

make thirty so called 'talkies' is a conservative one," said Mr. Rossheim. "It is not at all unlikely that within a month or so all First National pictures will be synchronized.

We are experimenting with pictures in which all the dialogue is spoken, as well as with productions in which the synchronization consists of mostly music and sound effects."

"First National doesn't contemplate sound production in the East at this time," said Mr. Rossheim. "We are sure that the finest equipment and the best talent can be secured in Los Angeles and that Hollywood will soon be built up as a center of sound reproduction."

Among the First National pictures now being prepared for the new process are three additional Colleen Moore specials; Corinne Griffith in "The Divine Lady", "The Barker" with all the sounds and dialogue of the carnival.

"The Whip" a Billie Dove special, "The Good-Bye Kiss"; "The Squall", "Changeling", Corinne Griffith in "Outcast", "Paid For", "Saturday's Children" and one other as yet untitled.

Richard Barthelmess in "Scarlet Seas", "Diversion" and two others. Billie Dove in "The Night Watch", "The Heart of a Princess", "The Other Tomorrow", "Pleasure Bound", Milton Sills in "Hard Rock", "The Spotter", "The Eagle's Trail" and "Captain of the Strong". Alice White in "Show Girl". Three mystery dramas, "The Haunted House" by Owen Davis; "Seven Footprints to Satan", A. Merritt's mystery novel and "Sh! The Octopus", a recent Broadway success.

and the policy in regard to stars and players will be to issue no contracts to anyone for long terms.

Contracts will be for individual pictures or a group of 3 or 4, but certainly no salaries will be paid to stars or players in between productions while being idle. A decided trend toward the selection of players from the free-lance field will be the object for this coming year and when present contracts are up, stars can take or leave the new arrangement.

FIVE CENTS

OBSERVATIONS

Rumblings

A lot of rumors are being shot out of Hollywood about the contemplated changes Joseph Kennedy will make in the reorganization of First National on his arrival there today. All of them are rumors as no one knows but Kennedy himself, what if any changes are to be affected.

Distribution

Those close to Kennedy claim he intends making a great change in the mode of distribution in the three companies represented by him in that he is going to have one office for the distribution of First National, FBO and Pathe. Probably with three separate sales forces and their sales heads, but all under one roof. This will represent a great saving, in office rent, and office help.

Business

Reports from all over the country, report bad business. It is expected to be a bit off this time of the year but not as bad as reports have it. Overseating has much to do with this. This is becoming a very serious question and one that chain organizations and individuals should heed. West Coast and Stanley realizing this are closing or have closed several of their theatres in spots they felt were overseated.

Comedians

What is going to happen to Harry Langdon and Johnny Hines? Both last year and year before with First National. Both producing on their own for F.N. Both excellent comic's but something went wrong with their producing organizations. What are they going to do now? Join the list of free lance featured players or release a series of productions independantly?

PERSONALITIES

JAMES TINLING

James Tinling, whose entire experience in the picture studios has practically been built on a comedy foundation, is being more and more looked to as one of the best directors to handle the megaphone on feature length pictures which depend a great deal on comedy situations.

James Tinling is a product of the west, born in Seattle, Washington, about thirty-five years ago. He attended the Seattle grade school and the University of Washington. During the World War, he was a member of the Sixty-Third Artillery.

His photoplay activities began as a property man at the Century Studios. Making rapid strides, he was soon writing for the screen, turning out many two-reel comedies. Tinling has had ample experience in the stunt division, too, having been one of the most daring stunt workers in Hollywood for more than two years. He has been on the Fox lot for the past few years; was production manager during the filming of "What Price Glory"; and has been working with Howard Hawks as assistant director for two years. "Very Confidential", "Soft Living" and "Don't Marry" have been the three pictures on which he handled the megaphone in his own right.

"Lilac Time" Sellout

"Lilac Time" First National's synchronized special starring Colleen Moore, which had its world premiere at the Cathay Circle in Los Angeles, last night was sold for a week in advance before the opening performance, according to information received late yesterday by Ned E. He also expects to launch soon a new invention with the use of Vocafilm by wireless control in which many theatres can tune in from one central point and eliminates the use of technicians in each theatre.

Vocafilm is also preparing a device in which the volume of sound can be controlled from the orchestra pit instead of the projection room so that sound is distributed evenly throughout the theatre. Installation costs of Vocafilm, Hammons reported, approximate $3,500.

He believed, on the other hand, that the final six months of the year will show a decided improvement, due to the economies of operation now in effect, which has resulted in a par annum saving thus far of $800,000 the approach of cooler weather, and many changes in the direction and management of the company's theatres.

Due to the tremendous changes taking place in the entertainment business at the present time, chiefly through the advent of the talking pictures, theatrical attendance will be materially increased.

Since the last annual meeting 20 theatres have been acquired by fee or lease and 15 others are under construction.

Karch as Steward

At the meeting of the Board of Directors of the Motion Picture Club of New York last week, it was unanimously voted to offer to A. J. Karch the post of steward in the Motion Picture Club.

On Saturday Mr. Karch notified Lee Ochs, Chairman of the House Committee, that he would accept. He will terminate his present connection early in August and be ready to assume the direction of the Club's cuisine on August 15th.

MORRIS SETS RELEASE DATES ON SPECIALS

Release dates were designated this week by Sam E. Morris, General Manager of Distribution, for the first Warner Bros. Vitaphone special for 1928-29 and for the first Warner Winner on the new season's program.

"Lights of New York" will lead off the company's schedule and will be released on July 21st.

"State Street Sadie", set for July 23rd, is the initial Winner for this season's release. This too has extensive Vitaphoning.

Kennedy Plans to Move FBO Studios to Burbank to Paramount Famous-Lasky Corporation.

Another plan that Kennedy will put into operation is the creation of a central distributing unit or bureau to release Pathe, FBO and First National pictures. Headquarters will be in New York but three different sales organizations will continue to sell the respective product, savings being effected chiefly in office rent, examining and shipping of film, etc.

Kennedy's plan to center FBO production in the future at Burbank is based on reasons of economy as well, since the producing forces of both companies will be under one supervision, namely William Le Baron and E. B. Derr.

The use of space at Burbank by FBO producers may occasion a saving in overhead at the First National studio, if a 100% shooting time is effected.

NEW YORK—Walter Wanger of Paramount Famous-Lasky yesterday stated he had heard nothing about the purchase of the FBO Studio property.

R. A. Rowland, General Manager of First National production also denied yesterday that there was any truth to the rumor because there was not enough room at Burbank to produce 100 pictures in a season and also the financing arrangements of both companies on production are totally opposed to each other.

UNIVERSAL Serves 10,327 Exhibitors Every Week!

No. 595—Straight from the Shoulder Talk by Carl Laemmle, President of the Universal Pictures Corporation.

MORE THAN TEN THOUSAND EXHIBITORS IN THE UNITED STATES and Canada get their pictures—all or part of them—from the Universal every week! To be exact—10,327.

NEARLY A THIRD OF THIS VAST ARMY OF THEATRES USES EVERYTHING UNIVERSAL RELEASES!

TO KEEP THESE THOUSANDS OF THEATRES SUPPLIED, OUR EXchanges in the United States and Canada carry over 161,000,000 feet of positive film. And to this we add every week the steady flow of 2,400,000 feet of new positive prints.

NEARLY 900 EXPERTS GIVE ALL THEIR TIME TO THE SHIPPING AND inspecting of these miles and miles of film—that it may reach our customers on time and in good condition. They inspect and ship 79,426 reels of film every week!

WHILE THE FILM IS INACTIVE IT IS STORED IN 110 FIRE-PROOF vaults in all parts of the country.

I COULD GIVE YOU OTHER INTERESTING STATISTICS, BUT THESE will be enough to show you what a vast machine has been geared up to handle your business.

THE AMAZING FEATURE OF THIS STORY IS THE FACT THAT although more than ten thousand customers are taken care of every week; and although more than 79,000 reels of film are inspected and shipped every week; and although millions of pieces of advertising accessories are delivered to our thousands of customers —the mistakes are so few as to be almost unworthy of notice.

THIS SAME EXPERTNESS, THIS SAME EXACTING CARE IS EXERCISED BY UNIVERSAL OFFICES IN EVERY OTHER CIVILIZED PART OF THE WORLD. DELIVERIES OF GOOD PICTURES ARE PROMPT AND IN GOOD ORDER IN SPITE OF THE FACT THAT WE HAVE TO USE EVERY KNOWN FORM OF TRANSPORTATION INCLUDING RAILROADS, AUTOMOBILES, AIRPLANES, HORSES, CAMELS, WHEELBARROWS, AND EVEN THE STURDY SHOULDERS OF HUMAN RUNNERS.

WHILE THIS TREMENDOUS AND INTRICATE MACHINE IS PERFORMING its functions 24 hours of every day, the Universal studios—by far the largest and best equipped in the world—are feeding it its needed supply of fine pictures of every type and length and description, from the mightiest of super-productions down to the one-reel comedy.

IF YOU ARE NOT A MEMBER OF THIS FAR-REACHING FAMILY, WHY don't you join it and partake of its strength?

Pathe Studios Busy on Ten Productions

There are now in active production at the Pathe Studios "Show Folks" and "Annapolis". Lina Basquette, Eddie Quillan and Robert Armstrong are featured in "Show Folks", and Jeanette Loff and Johnny Mack Brown in "Annapolis". Paul Stein and Christy Cabanne are the respective directors.

Editing are "Captain Swagger", "Celebrity" and "Craig's Wife". In preparation are "Marked Money", "Sal of Singapore", "The Spieler" and "Ned McCobb's Daughter".

FAIRBANKS BANS TALKIE EFFECTS IN NEXT FILM

HOLLYWOOD—Carroll S. Trowbridge, personal representative of Douglas Fairbanks stated yesterday that "The Man With The Iron Mask" would have no Fairbanks dialogue in it, but will be synchronized.

Fairbanks has decided that he will not let the use of the sound devices impair the internationalism of his screen productions and the silent motion picture is a greater medium of expression than the spoken word.

The properties involved are the Imperial, Quimby and Schultz Theatres and the Brown organization will now control all the theatres in Zanesville, the other houses already owned being the Liberty, Weller and Grand Theatres.

The Brown chain will no longer be forced to take the entire output of films of the leading distributors but intend now, through greater purchasing power to eliminate the showing of poor pictures and will dicker for the best individual films available.

Al G. White, manager of the Quimby Theatre goes with the Brown company in an official capacity, and Caldwell H. Brown will be in New York Tuesday to line up Fall product probably.

One Ramon Jordansky is suing Famous Players-Lasky for $100,000 claiming his story "Down the Volga River", which he submitted in 1927 had never been paid for. Jordansky claims his story and "The Last Command" were identical.

Tim McCoy is going to make a story concerning the laying of the first continental telephone line across the United States. John Waters, the director. M-G-M the producer.

Dr. Hugo Reisenfeld left town today for New York. The Doctor will conduct an orchestra of a hundred and fifty pieces for the making of synchronization of Sam Goldwyn's production "Two Lovers".

E. Mason Hopper has been engaged to direct Douglas MacLean in his MacLean-Christie picture "The Carnation Kid".

Virginia Valli was signed by Tiffany-Stahl for "The Rainbow" to be directed by Reginald Barker.

Nora Lane has been signed by Tiffany-Stahl to play opposite Ricardo Cortez in "The Gun Runners".

Paramount announces that the following pictures will have sequels: "The Wedding March", "Abie's Irish Rose", "The Patriot", "Canary Murder Case", "Love of an Actress", "Warming Up" and "Wings".

In secret voice tests of players at the M-G-M studio, only four were found satisfactory for talking pictures. They are Marion Davies, Jack Gilbert, Renee Adoree and Ralph Forbes. They say La Garbo sounded like a bunch of dried peas in a tin can.

Universal is quite excited over the young boy, Fred McKay whom Wes Ruggles picked out of the extra ranks for a role in his current picture "Salvage", which picture by the way, seems to have caught the enthusiastic notice of a few executives who have watched the daily rushes.

They say the great romance of Paul Kohner and Mary Philbin has ceased to exist.

Earle Foxe has been cast for an important role in "The Fog", a Fox picture.

The newspaper drama made by M-G-M with Lawrence Gray and Louise Lorraine, together with the famous police dog "Flash" is to be known as "Shadows of the Night", instead of "Deadline".

Jacqueline Gadsen has been signed by Columbia for the important role in "Princess Olga".

Nils Asther is Norma Shearer's leading man in her new starring picture, "The Little Angel".

Gloria Swanson announces August 15th as the tentative starting date for "The Swamp".

Elsie Janis has been seen around the Paramount lot quite a lot. Can it be that Elsie will soon join this organization probably for a talking picture?

M-G-M has bought the Famous French play "Adrienna Lecouvreur".

Universal has suddenly discovered that Mary Philbin has "it". Consequently, they are casting her in different type parts all together. Her new picture, after her present one, "Salvage", is completed, will be "The Summer Shower" written by Iloma Flup. Edward Sloman will direct.

Mae Murray has given up all idea of making a picture in the near future in favor of returning to the Pantages circuit.

Nina Quartaro has been cast for a part in the Warner Bros. picture "The Redeeming Sin". Conrad Nagel and Dolores Costello are co-starred. Howard Bretherton will direct.

Joseph Henaberry will direct Reginald Denny in his next Universal production, "Red Hot Speed".

Coast rumor has Harry Reinhart as Gloria Swanson's leading man in "The Swamp".

Betty Compson has been signed by First National to appear opposite Richard Barthelmess in "Scarlet Seas".

James Murray who just completed a feature role in "The Little Wild Cat" for Warner Bros., has been signed by Universal for the leading part in "Shakedown" which William Wiley will direct.

Louise Brooks, in New York for the past two weeks, is now on her way back to the West Coast to begin work on "The Canary Murder Case".

Bernard Randall, well-known stage and screen player, is the latest addition to the cast of "Show Girl".

Dick Sutherland, famous delineator of "tough" characters on the screen, has been added to the cast of "West of Zanzibar", Lon Chaney's new M-G-M starring vehicle, to play the barkeeper in the African dive.

Captain E. H. Calvert has been cast as a Marine Corps general in Richard Dix's next Paramount picture, "Moran of the Marines".

FIVE CENTS

OBSERVATIONS

Chapter Plays

When we use to sell them, they were known as "serials". Now they have gotten a bit high-hat and are called chapter plays and until yesterday, "by any other name . . .". You know the rest.

Different

Paul Gulick, the genial p.a. of Universal invited us to a showing of the first three episodes of "Tarzan The Mighty" Universal's new chapter play. We were greatly surprised. This one is different and is going to have a wide appeal, in that it is going to create a new audience for this type of entertainment.

The Change

Some one around the "U" office evidently had a bright idea. Figured that serials (beg pardon) "chapter plays" were getting to be known as strictly an entertainment for kids. Exhibitors were booking them for Saturday's and playing them only at matinee's. Something had to be done. And they have done it.

Story

They have taken a story that is plausible, given it excellent direction and a superb cast. But the big kick of the chapters we saw were furnished by the animals. Real actors and have a very important bearing on the story. Animals are always interesting. These more than ever.

Adults

Adults will go for this one with more interest (if possible) than the kids. They will not have to stretch their imagination to be entertained nor will they snicker at the impossibility of the story or situations. The production values have lifted to the par of feature productions in that, the sets and the camera work are superb. Exhibitors would do well to look at this one before booking it. They will forget about the "for matinee's only" and run it all day and maybe more.

are due in New York today on the Olympic.

Producers are being cautioned to go slow with their headlong plans to launch sound-film pictures, particularly with dialogue. Representatives of the talking film equipment manufacturers fear that an over-production of sound films at this time, without proper thought or preparation may cause the new form of entertainment to become just a fad.

If this result develops, the bottom of the talking picture industry will be drained in too short a time and the public will turn from the spoken and sound pictures, unless they are well produced and only in such instances as sound is justified.

According to officials of the Western Electric Company, the public should be given to understand the difference between sound and dialogue and that no impression should be broadcast that there would be a lot of talking sequences in all forthcoming pictures.

Warner Broadcasts

CINCINNATI—The weekly broadcasts of Warner Brothers over Crosley Station WLW are making a hit with fans here. Don't suppose Dietz develops and dries his films from the tail end of the plane!

CUING SOUND FILMS REQUIRE REHEARSALS

It is understood that all theatres installing sound equipment will be faced with the problem of regulating the amplification of sound in their respective houses, depending upon the size and seating capacity.

Sound cannot be regulated to fit both the back and front of a house perfectly as in auditoriums of great depth the problem becomes serious.

Technical experts offer as a solution, the necessity of each theatre holding special rehearsals for cuing the picture, with the manager in the auditorium to direct and the projectionist marking the position of his fader at each point on a cue sheet. They are further cautioned against too much volume.

Charles Pathe Active

PARIS — It is reported that Charles Pathe will recommence the production of French pictures, as well as Leon Gaumont who has formed the "Libera Film" to make 4 pictures.

Competition Closes

West Coast Belmont

HOLLYWOOD. — The Belmont Theatre in the West Coast chain has been closed, the lease of R. H. Davis and Dr. C. H. Archibald having expired. Wesco has not decided what to do with the house in the future.

Reasons given for the failure of the house is that it is too near another big independent theatre which has offered successful opposition through smaller operating overhead.

Hawley Leaves Films

Clifford B. Hawley has opened an office for general dealing in investment securities and corporate financing at 39 Broadway, N. Y. C.

"Uncle Tom" Ready

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" has been synchronized in Movietone with the Fisk Jubilee Singers and a highly realistic accompaniment of sounds of all kinds and is now ready to be heard as well as seen.

SOUND PROLOGUES LASKY PLAN

Del Rio Replaces Talmadge in U. A. Film

HOLLYWOOD — Jesse L. Lasky will create a special department to bring talking-picture prologues to small theatres which cannot afford special presentations at the present time.

There will be produced both in Hollywood and New York; one, two and three-reel short features, comedy skits with vocal synchronization and many other novelties being presented at moderate rentals.

"It is our plan to present a whole show in sound, from the stage unit productions, to the news reel, the comedy, the screen magazine and other subjects," said Mr. Lasky who will personally be in charge of the new department.

Noted stars from the New York musical comedy and legitimate stage will appear in these featurettes, as well as stars of the motion picture world.

Del Rio to Replace

Talmadge in U. A. Film
"The Darling of the Gods" which Morris Gest is to supervise for United Artists will be directed by Edwin Carewe and Dolores Del Rio replaces Norma Talmadge, originally cast for the central role. Sessue Hayakawa will be the leading man.

Doris Kenyon Signed

Doris Kenyon has been signed to play the wife in Paramount's film version of Roland Pertwee's play, "Interference." Miss Kenyon was selected by Fred Datig, casting director, after several weeks of searching for the type required.

Clive Brook, William Powell and Evelyn Brent are other principals in the cast thus far. Lotter Mendes will direct.

Schoedsack-Cooper Back

Refusing any information concerning the "mystery film" they have brought back from Africa, Ernest Schoedsack and Miriam Cooper, makers of "Chang", yesterday arrived at the Paramount studio to cut and assemble shots for which they have travelled many thousands of miles.

Jesse L. Lasky, who met the explorer-cameramen in Paris, declares the result of their journey will exceed both "Chang" and "Grass" their first adventure pictures.

Dick Barthelmess Back

Richard Barthelmess has returned from his yachting vacation and is now busily engaged in daily story conferences with Director John Francis Dillon.

"Scarlet Seas" is a sea story based on an original by Scott Darling and marks Barthelmess' return to ocean-going drama after a lapse of six years. Exteriors will be filmed at Catalina Island.

Marion Title "Oh, Kay!"

George Marion, Jr., whose wit has placed him at the peak of his profession as a title writer, has been engaged to write the subtitles for Colleen Moore's screen comedy, "Oh, Kay!" by John McCormick, producer of her First National Pictures.

STUDIO GOSSIP

By JOE BLAIR

Roy Pomeroy, executive technical expert of the Lasky studios, is conducting a series of tests in the form of short dialogues which are especially constructed to bring out each star's voice and personality.

Vic Fleming has been selected as the director for "Bureslque" and Benjamin Glazer is making the film adaptation. It will be an all talkie picture.

Lupe Velez, United Artists featured player, is threatened with a nervous breakdown. At present, she is only confined to her home.

Mary Pickford has announced that insofar as her pictures are concerned, the silent drama is going to remain silent. Consequently there will be no sound in her new picture.

Montague Love is to be featured in the first of a series of short stories, "The Condemned Woman", to be produced by Famous Short Stories, Inc. Robert Dillon to direct.

Carmel Meyers and Tony Sanford have been added to the cast of "The Man in the Iron Mask", the new Douglas Fairbanks picture.

Charlie Murray starts work next week on his First National picture "Do Your Duty", which will have a talking sequence in it.

Francisco Maran, noted French actor, both on the musical comedy stage and the French screen, will play his first American engagement in "The Last Warning" in support of Laura La Plante. Paul Leni selected him to play the role of Jeffries.

"Smiling Guns", Hoot Gibson's third production under his own management, has been completed at Universal City. The cast includes Blanche Mehaffey, Leo White, Virginia Pearson and Ralph Graves.

and several other Canadian leaders.

Arrangements were perfected in Toronto whereby the Canadian Theatre Owners will join forces with other motion picture interests there and also with the official and civic bodies to make this Convention one of the outstanding gatherings of the present year in that City.

The Special Convention Committee of the National organization consists of the Administrative Committee members as follows: L. M. Sagal, M. E. Comerford, J. W. Walsh, Jack Miller, Jules Michael, William James and Nathan Yamins.

Fox Detroit Ready

Hickman Price reports from Detroit that the new Fox Theatre in Detroit is being rushed to completion for early opening in September. The Theatre will resemble a Hindoo Temple.

WINIPEG-TORONTO TO INSTALL SOUND SOON

N. L. Nathanson, announces that Movietone and Vitaphone will be installed in the Capitol and Metropolitan Theatres in Winnipeg at a cost of $50,000. The Metropolitan will be the first to present synchronized pictures in Winnipeg. The Tivoli in Toronto will also be wired.

The Northern Electric Company, which own the patents for both devices, in Canada, will do the installations.

P-F-L TO BUILD TWO MILLION DOLLAR HOUSE

Famous Players-Lasky Corp., Ltd., will build a 4,200 seat theatre in Toronto at Yonge and Hayter Streets.

Exclusive of the land, the building will cost approximately $1,500,000. Production will start as soon as the architects plans are approved.

OBSERVATIONS

Random Shots

What's going to become of the film salesman? With little less than 2500 independent theatres for him to visit and sell his product and this amount being diminished daily, his duties are becoming negligible. Most all circuits deal direct with the home office or the local branch manager. "Peddling" product is fast becoming extinct. . . . The public swarming in the theatres running talking pictures. Summer business in these houses is turning into a bonanza. "Lion and the Mouse" in its fourth week at Tacoma; Dallas did over $17,000 last week with "talkies". Milwaukee $18,000 and two new records established for this time of the year on Broadway at the Paramount and Strand. Is it curiosity or does the public really like that type of entertainment? . . . "Louie" Selznick back in the picture business. They say he was winging it around town Saturday with a certified check for a million. Lot of money, even for "Louie". . . . What's going to happen to Pathe and Pathe exchanges? Will this organization revert to the type of release that made them famous years ago—short reels? Or will they be washed out entirely in the new Kennedy shuffle? . . . Who owns the basic patent for talking pictures? Are all of the "talkie" manufacturers operating under these patents? What has become of the DeForrest-Fox-Case suit? . . . Paramount News and the Paramount Theatre showed great enterprise in showing a flash strip announcing the assassination of Obregon a few hours after it really happened. . . . Wonder if, before long the theatre will be showing flash news of important events simultaneous with their publication in the daily papers. . . . The Gamby-Hale stepers at the Paramount are a treat for the eye. . . . Dick Rowland the happiest man in the motion picture world. Sitting on top of the heap and enjoying it. . . . Frank Rembusch insisting the industry hold another meeting with the Federal Trade Commission as contemplated last October. . . . Wonder if Joe Kennedy will get a shock when he starts talking with the directors and actors out at First National? At FBO he had a crowd to boss that were not quite so temperamental and hard to handle, those not so far "up in the money" as it were. The crowd at F.N. are quite different. . . . Exhibitors refer to it as a buying strike with the hope that it might frighten the

FRANKLIN BOOKINGS FOR W.C. ANNOUNCED

Fox, Paramount & M-G-M Product Set for 1928-29 Season

Harold B. Franklin, president of West Coast Theatres, who returned to Los Angeles, announced the lineup yesterday of product to be shown first at West Coast Theatres.

William Fox Productions, include "Street Angel", "Four Sons", "Sunrise", "The Four Devils", "The Red Dance", "Fazil", "Me, Gangster", "Mother Knows Best" and others.

Paramount Productions include "Wedding March", "Warming Up", "The Fleet's In", "The Patriot", "Wings" and other notable productions.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Productions include "Excess Baggage", "The Bellamy Trial", "Our Dancing Daughters", Lon Chaney in "While The City Sleeps" and others.

Mr Franklin said that a tremendous interest is being shown by the leading producers in sound motion pictures.

West Coast Theatres, mindful of this development, have quietly been installing the best sound devices in

SELZNICK BUYS OUT CORTELLAPHONE DISC

Lewis J. Selznick, pioneer in the film industry and for the past few years identified with activities outside of motion pictures is said to have acquired control of Cortella Synchronic Pictures Corp., an organization manufacturing sound equipment and productions with sound, both "talkie" and synchronization.

The only producing organization holding a license at present for this form of recording is the Buck Jones company.

What's a Fellow to Do?

Lee Goldberg, theatre operator and exchange owner of Louisville has made a deal with Western Electric to equip his entire chain of theatres for sound pictures. So far so good: BUT Western Electric say they will not be able to furnish the equipment until the first of next year.

TOCC and IMPEA to Merge Interests in Widespread Plan

Sapiro-Ebenstein Line up 150 Houses

It was learned yesterday from several dependable sources that a gigantic independent theatre pool consolidation is under way in Greater New York and Northern New Jersey, which will be headed and guided by B. S. Moss and Aaron Sapiro.

As the plan is laid out, the Theatre Owners Chamber of Commerce of New York, the Independent Motion Picture Exhibitors Association of New York and other independent owners not members of either of these organizations will merge their theatres and resources. Moss will be the operating head and Sapiro the organizing head.

18 PUBLIX N.E. HOUSES OPEN WITH VITAPHONE

Eighteen Publix theatres in the New England territory will open with Vitaphone during the coming month, according to the announcement of Paul J. Swift, general sales manager of the Vitaphone Corporation.

The theatres and their opening dates are as follows:

Fenway and Olympia theatres, Boston, day and date policy, July 8; Strand, New Port, R.I., July 8; Capital, Pittsfield, July 8; Alston, Alston, Mass., July 22; Central Square, Cambridge, July 22; Stadium, Woonsocket, July 22; Opera House, Bangor, July 22; Strand, Brockton, (Continued on page 4)

Simmons Interviews

Buzzell on WEA

Mike Simmons, Eastern Scenario Editor for Gotham Productions, has been invited by the National Broadcasting Company to launch one of his interviewing features next Monday. Simmons has selected Eddie Buzzell, musical comedy star who has just completed a feature role in Gotham's "Midnight Life", for the broadcast.

P-F-L Film Rentals Up

Domestic film rentals at Paramount-Famous-Lasky Corp. in the second quarter were 20% in excess of the corresponding quarter last year according to the Wall Street Journal.

Practically every independent theatre owner in New York and Northern New Jersey is involved in the scheme and approximately 150 theatres in those districts will definitely join the pool.

The scheme may possibly extend to other cities with Moss and Sapiro taking other independent chains into the movement. Such a combination would result in the eventual organization of the largest independent theatre chain in the United States.

Moss has considered the scheme and has agreed to lend his name, time and resources to the new organization. He feels that the theatre business has always been a good one and should continue to be so, and that the new proposition will succeed. He plans to assemble a personnel from the best brains among the theatre operators.

The reason behind the formation of the pool is chiefly one of self-preservation and is an attempt to meet the competition of well-organized chains. The independent theatre owner in New York during the last few years has reached the peak of profitable business.

He finds today that under existing conditions his position cannot get any better and is bound to get worse. Over-building, paralyzing competitors' protection and film rentals are way beyond a reasonable basis and as a consequence his margin of profit is getting smaller and smaller.

In the opinion of several theatre owners approached with the news yesterday, the thought was expressed that the new scheme was an outgrowth of negotiations this past week between the T.O.C.C. and the

UNION-THEATRE WAR SMOULDERS

Owners Demand Cuts in Wages of Musicians and Operators

ST. LOUIS—In anticipation of the expiration of musicians' and projectionists' contracts around August 31st, St. Louis theatre owners are requesting substantial reductions in wages, when the new contracts go into force.

A reduction of $10 a week for orchestra leaders to a straight ten percent cut for projectionists is asked.

Many theatres in this region are continuing to employ their orchestras despite the adoption of sound pictures.

It is expected that the musicians and projectionists will flatly reject the wage reduction proposals when they are officially submitted.

DULUTH—Local operators union here is at warfare with the Blackmore Chain operating the Diamond and Capitol theatres. In retaliation for the suspension of two of its members, the union has called out the other operators.

The theatre owners stated that poor business necessitated the cut, while union officials claim the theatres violated their contract which expires in September 1929.

Under the Minnesota laws, the theatre owners were permitted to operate their own machines, but the union refused to allow its men to work with non-union operators.

MARKS BROS. TRIAL POSTPONED TO OCT. 6

CHICAGO—After several days of testimony by sales representatives of some of the 27 defendants in the conspiracy suit brought by Marks Bros. the trial was postponed until October 6th, with the admonition to Balaban & Katz by the court, not to enter into any contracts with Warners or Fox that might tend to discriminate against Marks Bros.

All the witnesses for the defense testified they were selling product to competitors of Marks Brothers because of higher rentals obtained.

Marks Bros. counsel submitted affidavits which contend that the defendants have formed an unlawful monopoly to prevent competition and that the supply of available films has been cut off from the Marks Chain and that presentation acts have been induced to break their contracts.

The 11th Annual Paramount Week will be celebrated this year between September 2nd and 8th. The Publicity and Advertising departments of the Paramount Famous-Lasky Corporation are now at work on a huge campaign to back up the sold week of Paramount bookings expected, at the theatres in the drive.

One of the first steps taken is the creation of a handsome 8-page broadside announcement "The Whole Town's Talking" which describes the company's 10 years of achievement and the current plans for this year, which will be sent to exhibitors.

Gigantic Theatre Pool

Headed by B. S. Moss

I.M.P.E.A. and subsequent negotiations between Herbert R. Ebnstein and B. S. Moss. It is known that Ebnstein in the past has been closely connected with Moss operations.

Ebnstein who was influential in starting the Sapiro organization and who is likewise understood to be active in the new pool, when called on the phone yesterday, said he has nothing to say about the thing but he also would not deny that such a movement was in progress.

Sol Raives was likewise queried and would not commit himself further than to say that as far as he knew the deal was not set, but that something of the sort must be done to save the independent theatre owner from problems that he cannot solve alone. He indicated he would welcome the idea of a pool, personally, and would probably throw his theatre interests into the scheme.

Another angle of the scheme calls for one of the largest independent producing and distributing companies which has no theatre affiliations at present to join the combination as their producer affiliations.

Further basis for the creation of the pool, it is understood, arises through claims of the independent leaders in New York who find themselves finally on common ground and in agreement to fight the dangers confronting them, through a solid and powerful organization headed by capable executive and exhibitor heads.

It would appear that the formation of the Sapiro group was the forerunner of the new consolidation and showed the way to the small theatre owner what could be done through proper cooperation and organization.

NO TALKIES FOR LEADING STARS

Henabery to Direct Next Denny Film

Fairbanks, Pickford, Lloyd Reject Idea of Talking Film

HOLLYWOOD — Douglas Fairbanks, Mary Pickford and Harold Lloyd have come out with the flat statement that in so far as talking pictures are concerned, they are still making them silent, at least not for a while anyhow. These three leading stars are soon to start new pictures and while each will have sound effects and synchronization, there will be no talk.

Reginald Denny is all set for his first Universal talking picture "Red Hot Speed".

When this story was accepted from Gladys Lehman, there was no thought of sound, but events of recent months have changed this. Miss Lehman together with Matt Taylor and Faith Thomas have whipped it in shape for a "talkie". Joseph Henneberry will direct.

Bathing Beauties

The new lineup of bathing beauties under the Mack Sennett banner are, Elsie Tarrow, Barbara Pierce, Virginia Parent, Olive Hatch, Marion Abel, Topsy and Aloha Porter.

Sennett's Pool

Mack Sennett has finished construction of a magnificent pool on the grounds of his plant at Studio City. Sennett has been without a tank since leaving there last winter. The first production to make use of the pool is "Taxicab", Jack Cooper directing.

Quillan "Hoofing"

Eddie Quillan is playing the part of a third rate "hooper" in the Paul Stien-Pathe production "Show Folks". Quillan was formerly a vaudeville dancer.

"Gamby" with Publix

Maria Gambarelli and Georgie Hale, have been engaged by Publix Theatres to stage dance routines for a series of twelve forthcoming Publix units.

Another for Del Rio

Still another production is announced for Dolores Del Rio. The new one is "Deported" based on an original story by George Scarborough. Edwin Carewe will direct.

Talking Trailers

Warner Brothers are soon to issue talking trailers for all of their extended run productions as well as the 18 Warner Winners.

Carewe and Schenck

Edwin Carewe will meet Joseph Schenck during August in London to discuss forthcoming Carewe-del Rio productions.

Ruggles to Direct "Broadway"

Wesley Ruggles, the Universal director, will direct "Broadway" for that organization. Glenn Tryon will have the part of the dancer, with Mary Philbin having the female lead. Production to start about the middle of August.

its important theatres.

At this time Movietone and Vitaphone have a decided advantage over any other device because of the fact that practically all important producers have committed themselves to Movietone and Vitaphone.

Franklin believes this is going to be one of the biggest years for the motion picture industry as a whole and that the added interest created because of sound synchronization will stimulate a better type of productions than heretofore shown.

Radio Being Used in "Rescue" Filming

For the first time definitely linking a distant "location" with a Hollywood studio, radio has been brought into direct film-making use by Samuel Goldwyn to keep him in constant communication with Santa Cruz Island in the Catalinas where his picture version of Joseph Conrad's "The Rescue" is now being filmed, starring Ronald Colman, with Herbert Brenon directing.

Station KGGZ in the Goldwyn office is in constant contact with Station KGGX on Santa Cruz Island.

Authentic Annapolis Scenes Shot for Fans

F. McGrew Willis' story, "Annapolis", will offer an opportunity to picture patrons of seeing authentic and specially photographed views of the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md.

In "Annapolis" Johnny Mack Brown portrays a midshipman and Jeanette Loff plays the feminine lead with Hobart Bosworth, Hugh Allan and William Bakewell in the supporting cast.

STUDIO GOSSIP

By JOE BLAIR

"The Grifters", a story by C. D. Lancaster, will be put into production by Warners Bros. around August 1st. It will be an all talking picture and Roy Del Ruth will direct.

The Clara Bow unit and Mal St. Clair have returned from location scenes around Frisco. The picture, "The Fleet's In".

Joe Jackson is writing all the titles for the Al Jolson Vitaphone production, "The Singing Fool".

A lot of activity around United Artists with a yes-and-no attitude. One minute they will make sound pictures and the next minute, they won't. The latest is that young Considine, while in New York, will arrange with one of the big musical comedy producers to do an entire musical comedy with sound.

Starting production on John Gilbert's next M-G-M production, "Thirst" has been set back until August 15th.

Tiffany-Stahl has borrowed Dorothy Sebastian from Metro-Goldwyn Mayer for the female lead in "The Devil's Appletree", to be directed by Elmer Clifton.

Fred Kelsey has been added to the cast of "The Last Warning". Paul Leni directing for Universal.

The entire cast for "Born to the Saddle", a Universal Ted Wells' production, is as follows: Duane Thompson, Byron Douglas, Nelson McDowell, David Dunbar and Benny Corbert.

The first picture that Ruth Taylor will make under her new contract will be "The Canary Murder Case" William Powell, Louise Brooks and James Hall are also in the cast.

Louise Brooks has returned from New York after a short vacation.

Betty Boyd is appearing as leading lady opposite Wallace Lupino, the Educational-Cameo Comedies' hard worker.

"The House of Shame" written by Arthur Hoyle, is soon to start production at the Metropolitan Studios. Burton King, director. Principals already signed are Virginia Browne Faire, Creighton Hale, and Lloyd Whitlock.

OBSERVATIONS

Adoree

We wonder why M-G-M do not see fit to star Renee Adoree. This little girl seems to have everything that goes to make a great star. Everything she does seems so compelling and real and she has the rarest of all gifts: a sense of humor. They have given her bad pictures, poor roles, loaned her to companies for pictures of no quality, but with it all Adoree generally gives a performance that saves the day. Her work in "The Cossacks" was a revelation.

Barrymore

Lionel Barrymore, who has given pictures some of its best acting and finest characterizations, in talking regarding producers running to the stage for players for sound pictures says: "The voice is the least consequential thing in talking pictures. It is what the actor has in his head that counts. Joseph Jefferson once said that a fine voice ruined more actors than strong liquor, and he was talking right from the shoulder". Going further Barrymore says: "Even a poor voice can be made attractive by the personality behind it". Atta boy Lionel.

Menjou

And this from Adolphe Menjou regarding stars and the number of pictures they should make. Says Adolphe: "No star has ever made four or more good pictures a year steadily. It is impossible. Every star is continually trying to get a good story to make up for several poor ones which he was forced to make. There are two exceptions, Chaplin and Lloyd. Charlie has never made a poor one and Lloyd makes consistently good ones. But they make few pictures.' As usual Adolphe, we think you are right.

Theatre Pool

The story appearing in this publication regarding the contemplated merger of a number of theatres in greater New York brought a lot of denials from independent operators. But that's our story and we stick to it. Developments in the next few days will prove us right and more.

OKLAHOMA THEATRES IN UNION BATTLE

OKLAHOMA CITY—The Theatre Owners of this city will be engaged in a labor war starting this Saturday night, as the climax of a controversy between the managers and the picture operators.

There are threats of a general walk-out being rumored as well as a retaliatory measure aiming at enforcing an open-shop policy. The Oklahoma City Chamber of Commerce is said to have gathered together enough non-union operators ready to fill vacancies, in any eventuality.

SEIDER SAYS PHYSICAL OWNERSHIP ESSENTIAL

Joseph Seider declared yesterday that the New Jersey theatre group mentioned in the Independent Theatre Combination being planned did not mean the group he and George L. Record are representing in Northern New Jersey.

Seider said he was not in the scheme but is continuing to work along the original lines of his group which is seeking banking support of a real ownership of theatres pool, and upon which, definite action will be taken this Fall.

Arbitration Board Rules Playing Contract Valid When No Films Named

AFFECTS OTHER CASES

Claims are constantly coming before arbitration boards throughout the country by exhibitors who refuse to go through with contracts because of substituted titles or casts in productions, or in some cases no titles at all.

In an important test case before the N. Y. Film Board of Arbitration this week, a decision was rendered which will have a strong influence on similar cases coming up from time to time.

This was to the effect that where a group of pictures are contracted for before actual release dates have been set and even where the pictures are still in production, or prior to that, a theatre owner must pay or play for the group even if a title of a picture is substituted or perhaps not mentioned in the contract. (Continued on page 2)

B. S. MOSS ENDORSES CONSTRUCTIVE PLAN

B. S. Moss yesterday stated to Exhibitors Daily Review, following publication of its exclusive story of an independent theatre pool in New York, that he has been talking to exhibitors for five years along the same lines and is always interested in anything constructive.

He refused to commit himself definitely regarding his participation in the deal and said that nothing tangible or concrete had yet been done about it.

Loew-Schwartz Deal

May Fall Through

The Loew-A. H. Schwartz deal in Brooklyn and Long Island may fall through. It is understood, through inability to agree on terms. The Schwartz Circuit was to play the M-G-M product this coming year and the operation of the combined houses was to be pooled.

The catch is concerned with the new Publix Theatres in Jamaica and Flushing, in which Schwartz was to be given half of Loew's 50% interest.

According to the latest development, Schwartz found that the overhead in running these two houses would be too prohibitive to result in any profit to his chain and this discovery may hold up the entire deal.

PERSONALITIES

M. A. NUNES

Everyone in New England film circles will recognize Nunes for he is not only one of the best known, but one of the most popular exhibitors in that territory. In the game since the age of seventeen, he knows it from many angles.

On May 2, 1897, M. A. was born in London, England coming to this country at the age of six and settling in Boston.

In 1914, he entered the booking department of Universal Film Exchange and stayed there for four years, at which time he joined the Independent Exchange acting in a like capacity. In 1920 Nunes connected with the booking division of New England of the Famous Players Theatre Dept. under Harold B. Franklin and later that same year returned to the independent exchange remaining for three years. Nunes finally and definitely turned to the exhibition end of pictures in 1923 and is now present and manager of the Associated Theatres, Inc. of New Haven, Conn, which operates four theatres in that state.

A jolly good fellow, he is a member of the Masons' the Oddfellows and the Probuss; is married and has one son, Myron.

Crime Stories Ban Asked by Censors As Influence on Youth

DALLAS—Mrs. Boyce of the Dallas Board of Censors has written letters to all producers requesting them to desist in making films that depict crime, stating that such crime films are disastrous to children.

In her letter Mrs. Boyce explains her unusual request in response to the fact that the local public is vigorously against further exhibition of such films because they are influencing youth disastrously.

"I realize the producers are making pictures for the taste of national and international audiences but as Dallas is an unusually enthusiastic theatre-going town and is desirous for wholesome entertainment.

"I trust my request will be accepted in the spirit in which it is meant and that it will bear fruit in forthcoming productions."

KANSAS FILM BOARD TURNS DOWN ZONE PLAN

KANSAS CITY—The M.P.T.O. of Kansas and Western Missouri has presented a resolution to the Film Board of Trade this week against the uniform protection and zoning plan formulated several weeks ago.

Harry Taylor, president of the Board claims the matter of protection is not a Film Board affair but a situation concerning the individual exchanges.

Protection will continue in the same manner it has in the past unless exhibitors and distributors agree on a definite plan.

Warner-Brecher Test Case Decides Names Don't Count

tract when sold.

Leo Brecher owner of the Plaza Theatre brought a case against Warner Brothers, the decision on which was practically a test of the entire system of Warner Brothers contracts.

Brecher claimed that in the group of 26 Warner Winners he bought, there were a number of pictures described as "To Be Announced", and without any other description to indicate what picture would be delivered in this group of unknown pictures. "The Little Snob" originally called "Rebecca O'Brien" was submitted to Brecher for dates. He refused to play it.

Louis Nizer, representing Warner Brothers contended that although the nature of the particular picture was indefinite, both the exhibitor and the distributor were in agreement on the entire contract and it was therefore valid.

Nizer showed that the price per picture of $250, agreed upon was definite and the exhibitor must have known what he was buying (the nature of Warner Winners) when he signed the contract; that regardless of the law, because of the peculiarity of this business, no one ever knew beforehand just how good a picture would turn out and that the exhibitor's contract was not for mere pictures with designated titles but a pledge of the Warner stars, directors, resources, etc., to deliver to him a picture and a series of pictures, and that names didn't matter.

The Board decided in favor of Warner Brothers and said the exhibitor was bound by his contract and would have to pay or play the picture. The decision was unanimous. Two members of the I.M.P.E.A. representing the exhibitors sat on the case.

No "Right Way" PrintsSeized in Film Suit

Lewis B. Alterman, attorney for the Biltmore Pictures Corporation wishes to correct the impression that prints of "The Right Way" a picture over which suits and counter suits have been started, were seized by attorneys representing Benjamin L. Stearns and Portsmouth Film Corp.

On the contrary, no prints were seized and the Biltmore Exchange has sole rights to the picture, according to Alterman. Louis Nizer, attorney for Stearns stated yesterday that a writ of replevin was issued by the court and when the sheriff sent to the Biltmore office to seize the prints, he found they had been transferred elsewhere. Nizer says the issue of ownership will be settled by the courts.

Exhibitors Sound Signal Full Speed Ahead—Crops Astonishing

OMAHA—Encouraging signs are reaching Nebraska and Iowa theatre owners of a prosperous year ahead for the people in the state. The first Nebraska wheat has reached Omaha and an estimated harvest of 50 million to 60 million bushels is expected.

Corn, alfalfa and other crops are also up to standard and the wheat harvest means the annual speeding up of business. Potatoes and truck farming, as well as cattle, sheep and hogs spell good profits this year and 1928-29 is expected to be the banner year in this territory.

Prosperity dissolves all problems, says the "Movie Age" of Omaha and the "jinx" of a Presidential year will mean no more to business in this state than in any other year.

Exhibitors in numerous localities are using the straw ballot scheme on the coming election, as a lobby exploitation stunt.

MENJOU AT P-F-L ANOTHER YEAR

Only Make Two Pictures a Year

By JOE BLAIR

West Coast Representative
Adolphe Menjou has three more pictures to make for Paramount and accordingly will be with this organization at least another year. He denies ever having a business talk with First National or any other company, and will not until the completion of his contract.

Menjou started with P-F-L in 1923 and at the time signed a five year contract.

It is his intention of making only two pictures a year in the future.

FBO have signed Noah Beery and Tom Moore for two pictures. Marshall Neilan will direct the first Tom Moore picture "His Last Haul" based on a story by Louis Sarecky, to be followed by "The Yellowback", director yet to be chosen.

Noah Beery's first vehicle will be "The Red Sword", a story laid in Russia with Beery portraying the leader of the Czar's troops. George Melford will direct. His next picture will be known as the "Love in the Desert".

asking for definite constructive criticisms.

The Herald believes that the publicity man of today has degenerated into some sort of an office executive and that the industry is not being properly publicized.

The AMPA nominating committee was to name its choice for president, which Gallup declined, but Charles W. Burrell of Western Electric was named by Gallup as the man who should succeed to the presidency.

Burrell also declined, due to the press of duties in his organization and the nominating committee will have until August 15th to place other names before the organization.

Olcott Returning

Sidney Olcott, the director, is returning to Hollywood after having spent over a year in England making pictures for the British Lion Company.

Film Players Tax

Failure to pay the tax on theatre box and other amusement sources is charged against more than 20 film notables and business men in "sales tax" liens filed by Internal Revenue Collector Galen Welch.

Among those listed and the amounts said due are: C. C. Julian, $301.88; Mae Murray, $362.75; Millard Webb, $120.75; Lilyan Tashman, $120.75; Edmund Lowe, $120.75; Edward H. Scott Sidney, director, recently with Christie and DeMille, is in Germany making comedies for UFA.

Goudal in Court

The suit charging Jetta Goudal, film actress, with failure to pay a bill of $91.65 assertedly due Melbourne Spurr has been set for August 23 in Judge Myron Westover's court.

Christie Signs Chorus

The chorus girls from "Good News", now playing at the Mayan Theatre in Los Angeles are "dragging" in their best "Varsity" manner in one of the "Confessions of a Chorus Girl" pictures which Christie is filming for Paramount. Bill Holland is directing the girls with Frances Lee, Billy Engle, Eddie Clayton and the other principals in the backstage comedy romance.

Rough Sea's

The "Singapore Mutiny" FBO company are on location in the Pacific on a chartered ship and are experiencing some very rough weather, so rough in fact, they have been compelled to rush to their base, Catalina Island on several occasions. Ralph Ince directing and playing the lead.

Camera Filter Saves Sets

The stage device of changing a setting by substituting one color of lighting for another is now being utilized with success by motion pictures.

It was accomplished by colored camera filters in the filming of First National's picture featuring Alice White, "Show Girl," which Alfred Santell is directing.

A cubistic motif in the decoration of a night club which figures in the picture is, by this method, changed automatically into a woodland scene, effecting a great saving in time and money. The transformation in no way lessens the effectiveness of the original scene as the second scene is invisible until the lights are changed.

STUDIO GOSSIP

By JOE BLAIR

It is most evident that the majority of producers seem to think more of Leila Hyams than do Warner Bros. who have her under contract. Leila is continually being borrowed for very important parts, but while working at the Warner plant, she receives poor assignments. M-G-M have borrowed her for the lead opposite William Haines in "Alias Jimmy Valentine".

Charlie Furchman of Paramount has the laugh on someone. This someone lifted a bottle which was supposed to have contained creme de mint, from his car, but in reality, it contained photographic developer, which or course, is deadly poison.

Ralph Ince, the FBO director, continues to act, direct and what not, in a forthcoming FBO production "Singapore Mutiny". Estelle Taylor has the lead.

Joe Pasternik started in motion pictures as a waiter in the restaurant in the Long Island Paramount studios, but since then, he has studied up on all the whys and wherefores, together with a thorough schooling in picture wise-cracks to the extent that Joe is on the road to something big. He is liked very much at Universal City.

Bebe Daniels returned to work Friday at the Paramount studios. Her new picture is "Take Me Home".

M-G-M will use Movietone in recording the several thrilling scenes in the murder mystery "The Trial of Mary Dugan".

Jetta Goudal now seems willing to play character parts instead of starrng. As such (character leads), there is none better. Her latest assignment is a D. W. Griffith forthcoming production "The Love Song".

Tom Ricketts, character actor, has been added to the cast of "Interference", now in production at the Paramount studios.

Fannie Brice is very enthusiastic about motion pictures and no doubt will remain on the coast for some time.

Fatty Arbuckle having purchased The Plantation Cafe in Culver City, will act as his own Master of Ceremonies in this popular night-club.

Adrienne Doray and Estelle Bradley, "Miss Los Angeles" and "Miss Atlanta" in last year's Atlantic City Beauty Contest, have been engaged by Jack White Comedies.

Myrna Loy has been resigned by Warner Bros. for a long period.

Lya De Putti is authority for the statement that she is soon going to undergo an operation on her nose. It will be Americanized.

Navy to Cooperate on "Dirigible" Filming

According to word received today from Paramount's West Coast studios, Secretary of the Navy Curtis D. Wilbur has promised complete cooperation on the part of the Navy Department in making "Dirigible", Paramount's forthcoming air special based on the exploits of lighter-than-air craft.

Fairbanks at M-G-M

Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., has been signed by M-G-M for the feature male role in the new Garbo film "A Woman of Affairs". This is the film version of "The Green Hat" which Will Hayes originally banned.

FIVE CENTS

OBSERVATIONS

Intensity

Intensity is the greatest single factor in salesmanship. To be intensive is to be diligent, to have purpose and these qualities are the answer for high-power selling.

Salesman

The most intensive salesman we have ever encountered is James R. Grainger. "Jimmie" is anxiously diligent, he has purpose, he has aim. He is ever on the move. Never fully dependent on his branch manager or their salesmen he goes out and makes the deals himself. And makes plenty.

92%

Grainger, with his organization, is already set in 92% of the key centers with the full Fox program. We think that remarkable for this time of the year. We think it's a record and as such should be recorded. Fox is making good pictures and Jimmie, with the help of the production department and his sales organization, is hitting spots (Publix and Balaban & Katz) that have never been touched before.

Here is the boquet Jimmie, take a sniff.

C. B.

We have been informed by our coast representative that Cecil B. DeMille and M-G-M have agreed on terms that will provide for the moving of C. B. and his megaphone over to the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer lot. We would like to see a picture directed by C. B. with LaGarbo as the star. Boys that would be a combination hard to beat, but probably a hard one (in point of expense) for M-G-M to swallow. However Mr. Mayer, you have suggestion Number 1.

Lack of Interest

One coast producer gave as his reason for the mad rush to talking pictures" on the part of all production heads, "the public's growing lack of interest in the silent drama". And if you listen to us, the reason for this lack of interest is due to the producers themselves in making and permitting to be made pictures of inferior quality. There was not lack of interest in "Seventh Heaven", "What Price Glory", "The Big Parade", "The Last Command" and many others. Come on, Mr. Producer, 'fess up, it's all your fault.

Talking Pictures More Silent Than Ever Now

From Paramount Publicity Dept.—The sound films have brought another revolution which has overthrown the director's megaphone. Now its an electric-tipped baton which Monta Bell will wave at the actors over at the Paramount L. I. Studio.

Directors must keep silent in producing sound pictures, which will be an awful handicap to most. But Monta will now work off his nervous energy by waving the rhythmic stick, in deaf and dumb language.

3 ASSOCIATIONS TO FIGHT TALKIE MENACE

J. W. Weber, Pres. of the Federation of musicians has been conferring with the Actors Equity Association and the Associated Actors and Artists of America, on the problem of the musician and the talking films.

Cooperative action by the three organizations may be taken to combat the "menace" to the musicians, whose presence in motion picture orchestras is made unnecessary, by the "talkies".

In his statement to the Times yesterday, Weber said: "The movie business has already to an extent, destroyed what was formerly described as 'refined vaudeville' and has (Continued on page 2)

Whether for publicity purposes or what, the fact that Ernest Schoedsack and Merian Cooper, have been given a cutting room in a remote corner of the Paramount lot in which to cut the results of their three months work in Africa, it is causing a lot of talk, particularly on the part of the gang around Paramount, and that means the whole industry is talking.

Botsford Returning

A. M. Botsford, head of the Publix publicity department, will return to New York by the end of this week from South Bend, Ind., where he prepared the advance publicity ballyhoo for the new Publix house, The Colfax Theatre, which is to open on Aug. 4th.

An analysis in layman's language of the purport and possible effect of the Canon Chase-Hudson bill, latest of the legislative proposals to inject government bureaucracy into the motion picture business, is being prepared and will be ready for the trade press, the Film Boards of Trade and others interested, in about two weeks, C. C. Pettijohn, general counsel for the Film Boards of Trade, announced yesterday.

Otto B. Mantell, former branch manager for United Artists in Geneva, Switzerland, has been appointed Eastern Business Representative for Mary Pickford.

Mantell will leave today for Hollywood to confer with Miss Pickford.

Pettijohn, Hess and Special Counsel Defend Credit Committee Methods

The U. S. Federal government Sherman Anti-Trust suit filed on April 27 against the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America Inc; Ten leading motion picture producing companies and 32 Film Boards of Trades, was answered by the Credit Committees of the Film Boards, yesterday, by Cadwalader, Wickersham and Taft and Gabriel L. Hess and Charles C. Pettijohn.

In effect the answer strongly sets forth as an illustration, 3,950 theatres changed hands in 1927, involving outstanding uncompleted contracts with distributors, totaling $8,081,000. That, further, these uncompleted contracts are caused by the new buyers refusing to play out the old schedule of pictures and credit adjustments must be newly made.

NEW PICTURES SCARCE FOR BWAY NEXT WEEK

Whether it is because of the good pictures or because of a shortage of good ones, only three new pictures will be playing in Broadway film houses next week.

Ramon Novarro in "Forbidden Hours" will be at the Capitol as well as Hal Roach's new comedy "Their Purple Moment". Bebe Daniels is expected at the Paramount in "Hot News". A new sound feature will be Edgar Guest's "Song of the Builder".

Eddie Gribbon in "United States Smith" will be at the Hippodrome Monday. The Cameo will have an arctic seal hunting picture as well as an African hunting picture.

Holdovers include "Lights of New York" at the Strand; "Street Angel" at the Roxy; "Warming Up" at the Rivoli; "The Racket" at the Rialto; "The Lion and the Mouse" at the Warner and "Wings" at the Critterion.

tract with an exhibitor," says the answer, "for pictures which are to be delivered in the future the distributor in fact advances a form of credit to the exhibitor, because after the contract is executed the distributor is prevented from contracting with a neighboring or competing theatre for the same run of the same pictures.

He is precluded by the terms of the contract from doing so. During the life of the contract the distributor agrees to give the exhibitor 'protection' for the period specified in the contract against the exhibition of any of the photoplays named in the contract at theatres in the immediate neighborhood or vicinity of exhibitor's theatre.

If the exhibitor later repudiates the contract the distributor will not be able to replace the pictures in that vicinity for the reason that the competing theatres will be completely booked with other pictures. Therefore the total amount of rental involved in the average contract for 20 to 60 pictures which represents the entire earning power in that particular neighborhood of all the pictures named in the contract, is a form of credit which the distributor has given the exhibitor and the distributor acts in reliance on that credit.

"As nearly all contracts are concluded in the spring or early summer of each year and cover pictures to be released at regular intervals during the year beginning the following fall, there are comparatively few cases of the transfer of a theatre

First Garnett-Pathe Production Goes Over

Tay Garnett has landed on both feet with his new megaphone. Pathe officials who have seen his first directorial assignment, "Celebrity" are extremely enthused and are looking forward to his next picture, "The Spieler" which will feature Jacqueline Logan and Alan Hale.

Tay was supposed to have directed Bill Boyd in "The Flying Fool", but this has been temporarily postponed due to Boyd's present engagement in the Griffith picture, "The Love Song".

practically driven the roadshow to the wall. Now it would substitute photographs of vaudeville acts and talking screen drama for the originals. If they succeed in this, why may not even Broadway be greatly deprived of legitimate drama?"

in which there are not outstanding uncompleted contracts at the time of the change in the ownership of the theatre.

The answer is emphatic in regard to the purposes of the Credit Committees.

"In the course of each year there are numerous transfers of theatres made for the purpose of avoiding existing contracts. An improvident or unscrupulous exhibitor finds he has signed contracts for more pictures than he has available play dates in the season within which to show them; or decides that there are other pictures more desirable than those he has contracted for. Instead of negotiating an honest settlement or adjustment of his contracts he sells or transfers the theatre to a revelation or dummy who notifies the distributors that he has acquired the theatre and thereupon solicits new contracts for pictures in total disregard of the existing obligations of the real owner of the theatre.

"With the transfer of his theatre the previous owner or operator loses the capacity to complete the performance of his existing uncompleted contracts with distributors for the reason that each contract calls for exhibition at the theatre which he has transferred and as he is no longer the operator of that theatre he no longer has the authority to say what pictures shall be exhibited there. The contract does not permit the exhibition to take place at any other theatre than that specified in the contract.

"Failure of the exhibitor to make a condition precedent to the change of ownership that the new owner, lessor or operator shall assume his uncompleted contracts results in a total loss on such contracts to the distributors in many cases.

Committee system gives full protection. The answer declares that the Credit Committee to all responsible and honest exhibitors.

"Defendant distributors at all times," respondent companies say, "have been and are ready to complete existing uncompleted contracts entered into with the previous owner of a theatre and to deliver pictures under such contracts to the new owner or operator without demanding of the latter that he deposit security under such contracts or any of them."

STUDIO GOSSIP

By JOE BLAIR

I wonder if you would be interested in knowing who is going with whom? All right, here it is—

Chaplin is rushing Lupe Velez . . . Ben Lyon is showing Ruth Elder the sights of Hollywood . . . Marshall Neillan and Patricia Caron seem to be great pals . . . Walter Bryon, the new Garbo leading man, is rushing Alice White.

Mark one down for Earl Foxe. He has put up four medals for swimming prizes in events ranging from 25 to 5,000 yards for the Urban Military Summer Camp at Lake Elsinore.

Ramon Novarro's new picture after "Gold Braid" will be one temporarily titled, "The Pagan".

Katherine Albert formerly publicity writer on the staff of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, has been engaged by Mark Larkin to write for the Quirk publications, which include Photoplay, Smart Set, McClure's and Opportunity.

For some reason or other Mae Murray always finds herself in hot water. After winning a recent suit with reference to buying of a house, she has now started a suit for the payment of a note of $2,558. We think Mae gets a great kick out of these legal tangles.

Pauline Starke and House Peters have been chosen for the star roles in the first feature length picture to be made by Technicolor, "The Thrall of Leif, the Lucky". Jack Cunningham is writing the continuity and adaptation.

Sam Rork, First National producer, who has been laid up for the past three months suffering from arthritis, is improving to such an extent that he will be at his desk again in about three or four weeks.

It is whispered around that the title of the next Norma Talmadge production will be "My Woman". Added scenes on "The Woman Disputed" are being taken now at the United Artists studio.

Paul Lukas has been signed for a heavy role with Richard Arlen and Nancy Carroll in the first of a series of Paramount pictures which will co-feature the young players.

The temporary offices of Back Jones Productions have been moved from the Universal studios to the new Cherokee Building. Jones and his business manager, Donn McElwaine, leave in a few days for New York.

Davis Editor-in-Chief

Owen Davis has been appointed editor-in-chief of Paramount's Long Island studio on the production of sound films. The announcement was made by Monta Bell.

PICTURE REVIEWS

"WARMING UP"

Paramount
Directed by Fred Newmeyer
Featuring Richard Dix,
Jean Arthur, Philo McCollough,
Roscoe Karns.

Banners outside of the Paramount herald the fact that "Warming Up" is Paramount's first "talkie". If this is any example of what we might expect in the future, our advice to Paramount is to stick to the silent drama. "Warming Up" is a good reason for not using sound in pictures for whatever quality it might have had (and that was very little) was taken away by an insane desire on the part of Paramount, after the picture was completed, to inject talk, effects and music. All are horribly done.

The picture, without the talk and synchronization is just a fair program attraction. Nothing unusual in direction, acting or camera work.

"POWER"

UFA
Directed by Arthur Weine
Featuring Emil Jannings,
Hannah Ralph.

The name of Jannings is the picture's only point of vantage, and to show this where star is popular would undoubtedly kill said popularity.

Once more Germany sends us one of her old pictures and one which can't even boast of unusual camera work. Certainly the direction, acting, lighting and continuity are all considerably below par. The theme is entirely symbolistic and worst of all with the dawn came a strong flash of a great moral—that work and happiness are after all found far greater than power and wealth. A good word should be printed for the shots of the machine which Jannings dreams he has invented, a machine solving perpetual motion and thus giving him power over all the earth. Will please neither the capitalists nor the socialists.

"LADIES OF THE NIGHT CLUB"

Tiffany-Stahl
Directed by George Archainbaud
Featuring Ricardo Cortez,
Barbara Leonard, Lee Moran,
Douglas Gerrard, Cissy Fitzgerald.

A money-maker. Sure to click out of the first-run houses. Story of the clown-with-the-breaking-heart variety, but well treated.

While the plot has been done over and over again, the picture never palls. The clown is not one in costume, but is the male member of a double act in a night club, which role Lee Moran plays with sincerity. The rich boy who gets Dimples, the other member of the team, is Ricardo Cortez who hasn't much to do, but is always a knock-out with the ladies. That good old-timer, Cissy Fitzgerald goes a la Texas Guinan and gets a hand. Director Archainbaud digresses little from the script and makes an appeal through the simplicity of the theme. Subtitles are new and good and evoke laughs.

"TELLING THE WORLD"

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer
Directed by Sam Wood
Featuring William Haines,

One of Haines' breezy comedies. Certain to evoke almost continuous laughter from any type of audience.

Having become renowned for his smart-alecky ways more than anything else, William Haines again reverts to type in "Telling the World" and gets away with an awful lot as a newspaper reporter. But he's likeable nevertheless. And then, in this picture he has something he never had before—Anita Page as his leading lady, and she goes down as a sure comer. Haines-Page team is excellent. In this flicker there is action aplenty with the scope covering many foreign ports; there is love interest; good gags, and above all, right smart titles.

"KING OF KINGS"

Synchronized with Photophone
Pathe-DeMille
Directed by Cecil B. DeMille
Featuring H. B. Warner
Jacqueline Logan, Rudolph and Joseph Schildkraut.

Spectacular dramatization of Biblical theme, originally rereleased as straight road-show attraction and now synchronized with special music score and sound effects by RCA Photophone for general release. First-rate symphony orchestra for the little exhibitors.

A beautiful and moving piece of production work that brings to life the story of Jesus, at the time of the Crucifixion, the Resurrection and Ascension. Chiefly notable heretofore through the thrilling work of H. B. Warner and the direction of DeMille, the synchronized effects make the production most impressive in the portions in which the voices of the mob are heard and in the sounds of the terrific earthquake and thunder storm at the Cross.

"THE HOUSE OF SCANDAL"

Tiffany-Stahl
Directed by King Baggot
Featuring Dorothy Sebastian,
Pat O'Malley, Harry Murray,
Gino Corrado, Ida Darling, Lee Shumway, Jack Singleton, Lydia Knott.

Crook comedy-drama. Good production, but misses fire because story falls flat.

Weak ending on this film leaves flat taste in the mouth and spoils an otherwise good picture. The green Irishman who comes to this country and on the quiet slips into a cop's uniform belonging to his brother, is the cause of many humorous situations which make the fun fast and furious in the beginning, and even this turns into convincing drama for the majority of footage. Dorothy Sebastian as the female lead gives a very nice performance and both Pat O'Malley and Harry Murray help a lot. Also King Baggot has wielded the megaphone a wise eye always on the box-office.

CONCENSUS OF OPINION

By Blanche F. Livingston

There certainly was a dearth of new pictures this week. Undoubtedly the theatre managers realized that most Broadway movie goers during the summer months are out-of-town-ers, to whom these hold-over pictures seem as new as previews.

There's a breeze about M-G-M's "Telling the World" which doesn't come from the Capitol's cooling system. It's watted from the picture itself; from William Haines and his wise-cracks; and from Anita Page, a swell new-comer. Try this on your program if you need to build summer patronage.

Neither flesh, fish nor fowl, "Warming Up" came to the Paramount this week and is one of the best answers yet to what sound promiscuously injected can do to a mediocre picture. That was one of Paramount's gravest mistakes and there is no reason why exhibitors should pay for it.

Again a Laugh-Clown-Laugh story is on exhibit. "Ladies of the Night Club" at the Hippodrome. And done by Tiffany-Stahl. True, it's only been made for the third and fourth rate houses, but so neatly has it been produced that it ought to make a lot of jack for these exhibitors.

What the New York Critics Think

"TELLING THE WORLD"

World: "... funny enough to keep an audience laughing for an hour and a half."

N. Y. American: "... is called an 'epic of the wire service'... is all this and more—much more."

Times: "... unfortunately it is not very amusing."

Sun: "... the film cannot be numbered as one of his (Haines) best efforts."

"WARMING UP"

Eve. World: "... welded together expertly for the most part... one of the best pictures Richard Dix has put out in months."

Telegraph: "... in addition to being the most thrilling sort of entertainment, it is ace-high demonstration of how sound can be effective."

N. Y. American: "... aside from the story... there is a whimsical love theme, much action and excellent direction."

Post: "... result is a confused medley, which sounds for all the world like a group of stage hands at work and play behind the scenes... Aside from its noise-making apparatus, "Warming Up" is an ordinary baseball comedy."

Sun: "... What is thrilling, however, are the crowd noises during the game... is an ordinary little baseball yarn."

"LADIES OF THE NIGHT CLUB"

Telegraph: "... virtually another version of the popular Pagliacci theme, and not a very good one at that... should make this good box-office for the small towns."

Times: "... is a symposium of typical movieisms, none of them very well done."

Sun: "... Little slices of 'Excess Baggage' and 'Burlesque' to say nothing of 'Broadway'... give it that fresh and fragrant air that so permeates all direct imitations."

Eve. World: "... rehash of every vaudeville backstage picture ever made... the thing is stereotyped."

Featuring Mitchell Lewis,
Jason Robards, Elizabeth Page.

Thumbs down on this dramatic playlet.

The howling storm that is exhibited with the exterior shots of the ship seems suddenly to subside for interior scenes, even while the cabin door remains open. The captain, a mate and a girl are evidently the only three left on board and the men play cards for the loser's life. However, the captain takes his own when he discovers the girl really loves the younger man. Story unconvincing and words do not help. Lewis is natural but supports seem over conscious of the microphone.

"GUS ARNHEIM and HIS AMBASSADORS"

Vitaphone-Warner Bros.
Good jazz band number.
Gus Arnheim introduces himself and his orchestra. Allows many members to do solos and certainly gets the most out of the whole troupe. Selections could have been a bit more startling. "I Ain't Got Nobody", "If I Can't Have You", "Mighty Lak a Rose".

"THE NOTRE DAME GLEE CLUB"

Vitaphone-Warner Bros.
Principally effective in college towns.
The famous choral society from Indiana evidently makes its initial screen bow. Four more or less collegiate songs are well rendered, but should have been toned down at times by the mechanical end.

"THE SONG A MINUTE GIRL"

Vitaphone-Warner Bros.
Featuring Winnie Lightner

A winner on any program.

Winnie Lightner possesses that valuable something of knowing how to put her song across, and boy, she certainly does her stuff with a vengeance. "Heaven Help a Sailor on a Night Like This", "Raise Myself a Papa" and "We Love It" are the three peppy and original numbers she herein offers. She is an old hand at musical comedy and gestures appropriately. Too bad, of course, that Vitaphone lisp still persists to pursue us.

OBSERVATIONS

Sentiment

There is little sentiment in any business, less in motion pictures. Rivalry too intense, competition too keen. But there is always an exception and even in this industry this is true. The case we have in mind is sentiment, not for an organization nor for a cause, but for a person who, through his years of upward plugging and fair play, has become a personage—a dearly loved one.

Laemmle

He is often referred to as "the little Napoleon", "the mighty atom", "the Patrick Henry of motion pictures" and hundreds of others, but to us the name of "Uncle Carl" is better fitted to Carl Laemmle than all the rest. In this industry his name is written in mighty letters on the first page of its history; to the public the name of Laemmle stands for a brand of pictures which during the past few years have risen to a place in the sun with the best.

The Star

He is the production head, the sales head, the financial leader and the star of all Universal attractions. His name means more to a production than the combination of everything that goes into the making of it. His name stands for independence, fair-play and good sensible product. He has been and always will be, the exhibitors' friend. At one time he delt off fifty One Thousand Dollar bills to assist their cause. And it was not with a blare of trumpets, it was not with the air of one offering a bribe; it was an honest assistance and only recognized as such.

Exhibitor

The attitude of the exhibitor is a glowing compliment to "Uncle Carl". We venture the guess that more theatres are running some part of the Universal program than that of any other organization. Laemmle is the star, he is the attraction. The pictures are sold before the salesman enters the theatre. All he has to do is "sell price, not the product".

No Wrong

At one time we were in the employ of "Uncle Carl". We were in contact with him quite a bit. We said then and say now, Carl Laemmle has never knowingly committed a wrong. He is always ready to assist any cause or any person. He is your

Pathe May Avoid Showing Deficit on Books by Stock Reduction

The Pathe Exchange, Inc., will hold a special meeting of stockholders today for the purpose of authorizing reduction in the stated value of Class "A" preference stock and common stock on the balance sheet, to $1 a share. Stock has been carried at a stated value of $3,743,935.

Pursuant to recommendation made in the annual report a special reserve of $3,000,000 has been set up against advances to outside producers, inventories and other contingencies.

It has therefore been deemed advisable to reduce stated value of the capital stock in order to avoid showing a balance sheet deficit. Capital consists of 251,753 Class A and 705,876 shares common, both no par.

Purchase of 22 Houses in New England Brings Grand Total to 285

$20,000,000 PRICE

William Fox has purchased the Poli Circuit of 22 theatres in strategic first-run locations in New England, from the Max Shoolman Syndicate, and actual papers will be signed today or tomorrow, it was learned after several long-distance calls to the circuit headquarters in New Haven.

This deal, in which approximately $20,000,000 will pass hands, will now give the Fox Theatres and the product of the Fox Film Corporation a total of 285 theatres in the U. S. and a firmer hold in the East than heretofore.

The Poli Chain with 16 theatres in Connecticut, 5 in Massachusetts and 1 in the District of Columbia, has been on the open market for months. The Fox purchase has practically been set for the past two weeks but a mass of details connected with the straightening out of

"HEART TROUBLE"

A First National Picture

Director Harry Langdon
Cast Harry Langdon,
Doris Dawson.

When this picture is cut to its proper length and a few changes are made, it will be excellent comedy. Here is a good story with plenty of funny and original gags that come quick and fast enough to keep the audience in high spirits and continuous laughter. The story is about a hero worshipper who wants to get in the army and fight for his country. Of course he never gets to France or even into a complete uniform. Doris Dawson has little to do, but what little romance there is, is pretty enough for the role. The burden all rests on Langdon, who more than carries off the honors.

"THE GATE CRASHER"

A Universal Picture

Director William Craft
Cast Glenn Tryon,
Patsy Ruth Miller, T. Roy Barnes.

This picture can be classed as only average entertainment. The main trouble was due to lack of good story material, even though Glenn Tryon and Director Craft did their utmost with the hackneyed plot. The beginning was poor for the first two reels but improved as it continued. The gist of the story is about some stolen jewels and the complications that a youth, who is mistaken for the thief, gets himself into when he tries to avoid arrest. If it hadn't been for the clever cast of Tryon, Barnes and Patsy Miller, plus the good title and two funny episodes, the picture would have been flat.

"SWEET SIXTEEN"

A Rayart Picture

Director Scott Pembroke
Cast Helen Foster,
Gertrude Olmstead, Lydia Titus,
Gladden James, William Tooker,
Reggie Sheffield.

A genuinely enjoyable picture. The theme of adolescence isn't anything new on the screen, but the treatment of this story, together with splendid characterization and a nice plot make this entertainment above the average. The plot unfolds the troubles of a young miss who thinks she is quite grown up, therefore she rebels against parental authority. Helen Foster as sweet sixteen is excellent, this also applies to Gertrude Olmstead; while the others hold their parts well. Director Scott has done very well by this film.

Capitol Reduces Staff

The Capitol Theatre of New York recently eliminated five stage hands from its stage staff. This was in accordance with the economy drive which the Capitol has started. No trouble is expected from the local union as a result of this move by the theatre.

Fliesler UFA Editor

Joe Fliesler has been made film editor and title writer for all the UFA pictures to be released in America. Fliesler was formerly booker with the Fifth Avenue Playhouse.

"NONE BUT THE BRAVE"

A Fox Production

Director Al Ray
Cast Charles Morton,
Billy Butts, Farrell McDonald,
Sally Phipps, Tom Kennedy.

Light comedy mixed with romance that will furnish entertainment for the whole family. This breezy type of picture about the smart young man who wisecracks and gets himself into numerous difficulties is going big at this time. This particular plot tells about a college athlete who gets a job selling insurance. He tries to sell insurance to a hard-boiled business man who owns a summer hotel at the beach. The usual complications result but everything turns out right in the end. The whole cast deserves credit for the spirit with which they played their roles.

"THE BELLAMY TRIAL"

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer

Director Monta Bell
Cast Leatrice Joy,
Betty Bronson, Edward Nugent,
George Darraud, Kenneth Thomson,
William Tooker, Charles Hill Mailes.

A fairly good program picture. Monta Bell tried to give the story a novel treatment, but a plot that has to be told in retrospect isn't anything new. No doubt many of the technical errors witnessed in the preview will be eliminated, also a good bit of cutting should be done. The version of the trial is given through the eyes of a news reel reporter and is quite exciting. Continuity and direction were good, and a splendid cast, headed by Leatrice Joy, gave excellent characterizations in their various parts.

"SMILIN' GUNS"

A Universal Picture

Director Henry MacRae
Cast Hoot Gibson,
Blanche Mehaffer, Virginia Pearson,
Leo White

A good western with plenty of comedy, action and intrigue to satisfy the fans who crave this type. The story isn't new, but it is the kind that is certain to get across. It tells of a cowboy who falls for a society girl. Realising his lack of polish, he starts to acquire some, incidentally forcing his views upon his cowmen. There is a villain who plans a robber and tries to abduct the girl, but Hoot foils these schemes. Gibson is a good comedian, and the rest of the cast carried their parts well. The picture is good material for the neighborhood theatres.

Nat Steinberg and Tom Tobin of the Premier Pictures Corporation of St. Louis have closed with Buck Jones Productions for territorial rights on all Buck Jones pictures in Southern Illinois and Eastern Missouri.

LATEST TALKIES TO HAVE NAT. SCREEN TRAILERS

National Screen Service announces that in collaboration with the Exploitation and Publicity Executives of Paramount and Publix, they have created a sound trailer on Richard Dix in "Warming Up" which is now available for all theatres that are using the sound version of this production.

Experimental and research work in the matter of sound trailers and plans for sound trailers on synchronized and talky pictures are now reaching a definite conclusion.

The company is now collaborating with First National in the making of a sound trailer for the Special "Lilac Time" and with all producers for sound trailers on their productions.

Gene Buck Office Pooh

Poohs Talkie Menace

As a result of an appeal to the Society of Authors, and Composers by the Federation of Musicians, J. C. Rosenthal, manager of Gene Buck, Inc., president of the Society, stated that he did not fear the spread of talking motion pictures.

"Good theatres will always use musicians. When the talking movie is perfected, and it must take five years more, audiences will get better music than afforded by the musicians in small theatres. We may get more money for the band, or we may charge playing rights. I look upon the "talkies" as added rather than substituted entertainment," said Rosenthal.

Paramount Is Rushing Sound Clarence Brown to Direct Garbo

Rounding up Complete Sound Program from Soup to Nuts
OPEN NEW OFFICES

By JOE BLAIR
Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD—Following the announcement of last week Paramount today added further details to its statement concerning sound picture activities.

Among recent developments is the decision to establish offices in 9 cities in this country from which feature and short feature sound pictures will be distributed. Another item is the decision to make trailers with sound accompaniment for those pictures so equipped.

As previously announced Paramount will produce a minimum of 25 to 30 feature length productions with sound accompaniment. In addition the Christie product for the year will have sound accompaniment as will Paramount News and many novelty short features produced under the supervision of Emanuel Cohen director of the short feature department.

"Warming Up", starring Richard Dix and "The Loves of an Actress", starring Pola Negri, are the first two feature length productions complete with sound. Others now in work are "Abie's Irish Rose", "The Patriot", "The Canary Murder Case", William Powell, Louise Brooks, Ruth Taylor and James Hall; "Wings", and "The Wedding March", Erich von Stroheim's masterpiece.

Short features complete with sound are "Dizzy Diver" and "Hot Scotch", two of the Christie series of two reel comedies.

Douglas MacLean's first feature length picture for Christie will be made with sound accompaniment at the Christie studio where the Electrical Research Products is now erecting a sound-proof stage. The title of this picture is "The Carnation Kid".

Construction of the sound proof stages at the Paramount Long Island studios is progressing and it is expected that they will be completed within a fortnight. The novelty subjects will be filmed there as well as the longer pictures.

Clarence Brown Chosen Fox Next Garbo M-G-M

There has been a switch in the director of "A Woman of Affairs" ("The Green Hat") to be done by M-G-M with Greta Garbo starred. This assignment has been turned over to Clarence Brown, marking his first production since "The Trail of '98".

In "A Woman of Affairs" the M-G-M star will attempt a new type of role, appearing as an English society girl. The locale of the picture is London of the present day. Bess Meredyth, scenarist for Miss Garbo's recently completed vehicle, "The Mysterious Lady," is now adapting Arlen's story to the screen and production is scheduled to begin in about two weeks.

Al Jolson Signed to New Warner Contract

Before leaving for New York, Al Jolson signed a new contract with Warner Brothers for the making of three new feature length Vitaphone subjects, at the rate of one a year. Jolson is expected in New York this week to begin work on "Mister Bones" his new show.

Haines Cast Complete

The cast of "Alias Jimmy Valentine," William Haines's new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer starring film, has been completed with the addition of Harold Hickman. Principals in the picture, adapted from the popular stage melodrama, include Leila Hyams, Lionel Barrymore, Karl Dane and Tully Marshall.

Dix at Work

With the addition of Charlotte Mineau to the cast of the new Richard Dix picture, "Moran of the Marines", Frank Strayer the director has started camera work.

Sennett Plant Hums

The Sennett Studio at Studio City is working at top capacity on the making of the series of two reelers for Pathe. They are far ahead of their schedule.

STUDIO GOSSIP

By JOE BLAIR

Myrna Loy has been designated by Warner Bros. to play the lead in the new all-talkie picture "Hard Boiled Rosie".

Fanchon Royer is leaving Hollywood today for New York with a print of her first picture "Life's Like That" which was directed by Raymond Cannon.

It seems that they have finally finished "Hell's Angels" and by strange coincidence the only person injured on the flying field last Sunday was Dr. Stuart Nolan who had been engaged by the company to care for any others who might be hurt.

King Vidor while in Nice wrote a yarn for pictures. He will probably do it sometime in the Fall for M-G-M.

Dolores Del Rio in company with her mother will leave Hollywood for New York tomorrow. She will remain there several weeks before leaving for Europe about the middle of August.

Fanchon Royer is planning a series of features co-starring Grant Withers and Wade Boteler.

Howard Hawks and Mrs. Howard Hawks have returned from their honeymooning in Hawaii.

Edwin Carewe together with his brother Finis Fox and Mrs. Finis Fox are leaving for Europe next week.

Metropolitan Studios signed contract yesterday with the Austin Co. of California, engineers and builders, for the erection of a large sound proof stage.

While over at United Artists yesterday, we encountered James J. Walker, New York Mayor, being tested, for what we don't know.

Edgar Lewis, Tiffany-Stahl director, has started work on Ricardo Cortez's picture "The Gun Runners".

Virginia Pearson has a prominent part in the Wallace Worsley Tiffany-Stahl picture, "Patience". Belle Bennett starred.

Everything is quiet along Hollywood Boulevard since the departure of the New York Mayor.

They now call it "incandescentitis" instead of Kleig eyes.

AROUND THE LOT with JIMMY WALKER

It is one p. m., in front of First National Studios, Burbank, and two thousand motion picture people, executives, stars, extras, carpenters, electricians, stenographers, are milling about . . . Bunting . . . Flags . . . Confetti . . . Microphone and loud speaker . . . Mayor Jimmy Walker of New York City, the sartorial smart-cracker beloved of the movie folk, is preparing to attend a luncheon in his honor at the studio . . . The crowd begins to throw streamers impatiently, for the mayor was late . . . as usual . . . Notables are mixed liberally in the crowd . . . Colleen Moore, petite, mingling through the crowd of pretty stenographers . . . Ned Marin, a producer and an old friend of Walker's, curly-haired, handsome, buzzing around the microphone, for it is he who is to present His Honor to the crowd . . . Richard Barthelmess, quiet, soft-voiced, dignified . . . Charlie Murray just home from visiting his grandchildren in Florida . . .

Here he comes . . . Canons booming, flags waving, confetti streaming . . . And His Honor gets out of a large car, escorted by four motorcycle cops . . . Amid cheers he saunters over to the microphone in company with Colleen, where he makes a short witty talk while the streamers continue to pelt him . . . Then everyone crowds inside and the executives, stars and notables make their way to the studio cafe . . .

A flower-decked table in the form of a U in the studio cafe . . . Scores of prominent newspaper writers and photographers . . . Colleen Moore is on one side . . . Ned Marin on the other side . . . Dick Barthelmess is a seat away . . . Now His Honor is speaking—largely on the subject of how he so often happens to be late to appointments . . . Says counting time is not so important as making the time count . . . Lauds Charlie Murray for having represented the highest and cleanest form of entertainment on the stage for many years . . .

The gathering breaks up . . . And now the Mayor goes to one of the dressing-rooms to put on makeup, for he is to appear in various scenes, to be photographed for his private film collection with Miss Moore, filming "Oh, Kay!", and others . . . He visits the "Show Girl" set, where Alfred Santell is directing Alice White . . . Her hair has changed color again . . . This time she is wearing a snow-white wig for her cabaret dance scenes with Donald Reed . . . It used to be red . . . Then she was a blonde . . . On the set . . . His honor proves himself a good actor . . . Is directed by Mervyn LeRoy . . . Santell puts on some night club scenes from "Show Girl" for him . . . Alice White and Donald Reed dance . . . And before he leaves, Walker is shown movie scenes of his arrival.

Mergers

Everybody doing it. Fox taking Poli, Western Electric and General Electric getting together, Moss whipping the New York independent crowd in shape. A few more of minor importance. They all have to do it sooner or later. This is the day of big operations. Ordinary movements won't get a notice in the picture news of the day.

Moss

B. S. Moss is one of the great showmen of this or any other industry. Still an exhibitor. Owns the Colony. Has sound ideas and a born leader. Holding daily conferences with the T.O.C.C. and Sapiro members. Pointing out to them why they should pool their interests. Their only salvation. As individuals they can not exist. Must get together. They will and are.

Movement

This movement on the part of Moss and his associates will spread throughout the country. Murmurs now in the Middle and South West. They expect to form a chain from coast to coast and probably tie in with the Principle Theatre-Sol Lesser-Fred Levy combination. Maybe they will and maybe they won't. But one thing is a cinch, the small independent operator does not have a chance any more. His life is threatened. Either he must sell out to the larger theatre chains or combine with other independent chains.

Sound Rumblings

If they are not already together, Western Electric and General Electric will be, and very soon. We hear that Western and General have agreed to make a projector and sound reproducing apparatus that will be interchangeable permitting theatres to run "talkies" whether they be, Movietone, Photophone or Vitaphone. This will be a step nearer. Now the thing to do is get equipment made fast enough to enable the exhibitor to run these "talkies". In accepting contracts for installation, neither organization will promise better than a six months delivery and even that is doubtful.

CHOOSE DEPINET TO SUCCEED ROWLAND

By JOE BLAIR
West Coast Representative

HOLLYWOOD -- Coincident with the visit of Joseph P. Kennedy at the First National studios here, it was learned that Ned E. Depinet was the choice of the First National Executive Committee to succeed R. A. Rowland as General Manager of First National.

The committee, it is understood, will officially announce the selection of Depinet, now General Manager of Distribution, about August 15th, when Kennedy will return to (Continued on page 4)

UNIV. DOUBLES SOUND STAGES APPROPRIATION

HOLLYWOOD—Carl Laemmle has authorized twice the amount of money appropriated for sound film stages to be built at Universal City. Where it was planned to erect two sound studios, four will now go into construction.

In addition it has been decided to adapt the Ft. Lee, N. J. studios to sound stages and the construction work will start in the near future. (Continued on page 4)

"Street Angel" Exceeded Only by "Glory" Receipts

Only one picture has exceeded the business done by "The Street Angel," Fox Production, at the Roxy in its first week. This was "What Price Glory" which played to $144,000 in its biggest week.

"Street Angel" last week did $125,994, minus war tax which the theatre is not charging now; "The Jazz Singer" did $119,000 and "7th Heaven," $116,000.

The picture may run three weeks.

Raives Calls Directors to Discuss B. S. Moss Inde. Pool

Since publication of the exclusive story in the Daily Review concerning the B.S. Moss—T.O.C.C. Independent Motion Picture Exhibitors Ass'n combination of theatres, this office has been deluged by inquiries from exhibitors who doubt the existence of the pool and seem to be in the dark concerning its operation.

In an interview with Sol Raives, head of the T.O.C.C. yesterday, in which it was learned a special Board of Directors meeting of his organization will be held today, Raives expressed extreme confidence in the plan and insisted that in his opinion, the move was the only logical one (Continued on page 2)

"Mary Dugan" May Be 1st in Cosmopolitan

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer yesterday signed a long-term lease on the Cosmopolitan Studios where the company will do its Eastern talking-film production.

"The Trial of Mary Dugan" may be the first talkie to be done there, but no definite decisions have been made. The company will be ready to start shooting by the end of August. No studio manager or technical staff has been chosen yet.

May Center on Mutual Projector—RCA to Supply Amplifiers—W. E. Handling Photo-Electric Cell

Both the RCA Photophone and the Western Electric Movietone-Vitaphone are planning to bring out a new projector shortly and their respective staffs are reported working on the models at the present time. A meeting was held in New York yesterday to discuss the plan.

If the rumor is true, it is probable that both these talking picture companies want a projector that will carry their synchronizing apparatus as a unit, if necessary—not merely (Continued on page 4)

Final Documents Signed for 20 New England Houses —325 Now in Fox Theatre Chain

ADDS 45,000 SEATS

The purchase of the Poli Chain of theatres in New England by Fox Theatres Corporation was announced personally last night by William Fox.

The Poli Chain with a valuation of $26,000,000 was the oldest privately owned circuit in America operated for thirty years by Sylvester Z. Poli.

A budget of $1,000,000 has been set aside by Fox Theatres Corporation to renovate and modernize the entire chain particularly with regard to the installation of Movietone projection apparatus.

FINANCIAL STATUS OF WARNER PROFITS

Wall Street Journal reports that Warner Brother Pictures, Inc., and subsidiaries report for quarter ended May 26, 1928, net profit of $512,762 after interest and miscellaneous charges, equivalent to $2.56 a share earned on 199,780 no-par shares of Class A stock, on which no dividends have been paid since February 1926. After allowing for regular quarterly dividend requirements on Class A stock, the balance is equal to $1.25 a share on 350,220 no-par shares of Class B stock. This compares with $608,496 or $2.54 a share on Class A and $1.23 on Class in preceding quarter and $109,090 or 54 cents a share on Class A and 9 cents a share on Class B stock in quarter ended May 28, 1927.

Net Profit for nine months ended May 26, 1928, totaled $1,123,947 after above charges, equal to $5.62 a share on Class A and $2.56 a share on Class B after regular dividend requirements on Class A. This compares with net loss of $99,966 in the nine months ended May 28, of previous year.

facing the independent exhibitor of New York today, and hopes the deal has an early fulfillment.

It is true that the number of exhibitor leaders who have been approached on the deal and who know about the plan are few, but this has been because a myriad of details are being ironed out and the entire plan being taken well in hand before general announcement is made to those concerned.

Raives stated that today was the day of big mergers in every industry and on every hand and large and powerful organizations do not continue warfare with each other but combine instead, thus making for greater efficiency, buying power, brain power and general success, whereas when standing alone they face trouble.

The exhibitor leader admitted that not all the individual theatre owners might favor the plan, not having perhaps the foresight of the leaders who see such a combination as the only solution, but he did think that in time as the plan is brought home to them, they would readily pool their physical holdings in favor of cooperative management and sharing in the profits of the whole.

Miller Buys Chaldean

The Chaldean Theatre in Portland, one of the houses owned by the Multnomah Theatres chain, has been bought by O. J. Miller who will personally manage it.

Philadelphia Court Decides Picture Censors Cannot Rule on Plays

PHILADELPHIA—Judge Harry S. McDevitt of the Court of Common Pleas has ruled that the Pennsylvania State Board of Censors has no right to assume censorship over language used in conjunction with motion picture film.

The ruling is opposite to the first decision of President Judge J. Willis Martin who decided in favor of the censors in the Vitaphone. It is expected that the censors in the action against Fox-Case Movietone will appeal to the Supreme Court, as well as in the case of Vitaphone.

The New York State Censorship Commission has announced its intention to censor talking pictures, but was withholding actual supervision and licensing until rulings were had in the Supreme Court.

$140,000,000 REPRESENTS BRITISH INVESTMENT

By SAM HARRIS
Proprietor "Today's Cinema"

LONDON — Taking stock of the British Film Industry, it was recently estimated that an investment of $140,000,000 was represented therein.

Fifteen public companies concerned in the production of British films hold between them a market value on stocks of about $50,000,000. The picture theatre section of the industry has a nominal capital of over $90,000,000.

The investments represent confidence on the future of the industry on the part of the public, as none of the producing companies has reached the end of its first financial year. 26 British pictures have been booked by theatres in the first six months of this year, which number will be more than doubled by the end of the year.

The new Fox Theatre at Nevins and Flatbush Avenues in Brooklyn which plans a Labor Day opening is entirely complete but for the installation of theatre chairs.

Large signs over the theatre announce the house as "The Aristocrat of Theatres" under Direction of William Fox. It is understood that Roxy is under contract to run the theatre.

The Fox Theatre Grand Orchestra of 70 musicians will furnish the music.

Motion Picture Capital Corp. Profits Lower

The statement of the Motion Picture Capital Corporation for the first six-months of 1928 shows nearly $60,000 net profit less than a similar period in 1927.

The figures were $140,273 the year before and $86,099 for the first half of 1928, after deduction of losses, interest and amortization of debt discount.

Educational Program

For the week of July 22, Educational Film Exchanges, Inc., is releasing "Listen Children," a Hamilton Comedy in which Lloyd Hamilton is seen as an instructor in a military school for small boys; "Jungle Bungles," a Felix the Cat animated cartoon comedy from the Pat Sullivan studios, and the usual two Kinograms news reel releases.

Baird Invents Sight and Sound Pictures on Record

John L. Baird, inventor of radio-television has perfected the "Phonovision" device by means of which a phonograph record, using two sets of grooves and two sets of needles will both record the human voice and pictures of the artists.

The invention will be demonstrated in New York shortly, the American-Baird Television Corporation offices in the Paramount Building state, and manufacturing plants will be established in New York and Chicago for making televisors.

KENNEDY AND FORD REORGANIZE DEPT'S

The re-organization of the Keith-Albee-Orpheum executive and booking departments and the co-ordination of the personnel of the two great vaudeville circuits — Keith-Albee in the East and the Orpheum in the West,—is about completed.

Joseph P. Kennedy, chairman of the Board of the merged circuits, and his personal representative, J. J. Ford, have made many changes throughout the chain of theatres and the result is a closely knit organization which should function with great efficiency and with the specific duty of each official clearly defined.

The United States and Canada have been sub-divided into four important sections with an expert official in charge of the theatre conduct in each zone, as follows: L. E. Thompson, Greater New York and Eastern; John Royal, Middle West, from Pittsburgh to Denver; Harry Singer, the Pacific Coast houses; and Henry Taylor, the Boston groupe. Joseph M. Franklin, of Ottawa will be the representative of the zone managers in their respective Canadian territories.

SUNDAY BLUE LAW DEFIED BY EXHIBITOR

PEEKSKILL, N. Y.—The Colonial Theatre last Sunday defied the blue-law ban on motion pictures, recently voted by the Village Trustees, and gave complete shows.

The owner of the Colonial has sued for a court order restraining the authorities from interfering with Sunday shows and a decision is pending in Judge George Taylor's section of the Supreme Court.

"Hell's Angels" Finished Douglas Fairbanks Completes Cast

HOLLYWOOD—Actual shooting, other than a few inserts, on the Howard Hughes-Caddo-United Artists production "Hell's Angels" was completed Saturday.

This production was started last October, with Luther Reed directing. All interiors were finished in December and Reed left. Howard Hughes, the youthful producer, took up the megaphone in the making of the exterior and air shots.

The completed picture will represent a cash outlay of well over two million dollars and it is hoped to have it cut and ready for showing in November.

The interior sequences are all cut and matched but there are over three million feet of the exteriors uncut and unmatched. The work of cutting and matching this immense amount of footage will begin immediately. Frank Lawrence, will be in charge of the cutting, of course, under the supervision of Howard Hughes. Fred Fleck who has been assistant and sort of production manager for the company, will also assist.

The cast of the Douglas Fairbanks picture, that is to be a sequel to "The Three Musketeers", is completed with the exception of two characters, that of the Queen and Richelieu. Otto Matiesen will play Armas, "Tiny" Sanford, Parthos; Leon Bary, Athos; Ulrich Haupt, De Rochefort; William Bakewell, Louis XIV; Rolfe Sedan, Louis XIII; Marguerite De La Motte, Constance; Dorothy Revier, Milady de Winter; Lon Poff, Father Joseph and Charles Stevens Planchet.

Alan Dwan will direct.

METROPOLITAN STUDIOS RETAINED BY LLOYD

Harold Lloyd will continue to produce his pictures at the Metropolitan studios for the next two years, at least. William R. Fraser, general manager of the Lloyd Corporation, has just concluded negotiations with Phil Ryan representing the Metropolitan studios, to retain the same product the comedian has used since he started as an independent producer, exactly five years ago.

Movietone will be the method used on all the Universal production, "The Last Warning" now being treated that way. "Show Boat" will follow.

GROUND BROKEN FOR CHRISTIE SOUND STAGES

HOLLYWOOD—The Austin Company is starting work this week on the first group of buildings for Christie Brothers including the first stage 76 x 106 feet, a second stage of equal size or larger to be added after construction of the next unit, which will be a recording and monitor building 64 x 119 feet in dimensions at the Metropolitan Studios.

Important features of the group will be the sound proof walls and roof, ventilating systems, vibrationless foundations for the mechanical and machinery buildings, fireproof construction, and a compact building of 11 rooms which will house the various technical groups required for recording.

Western Electric equipment will be installed throughout in the new group of buildings. Christie recently signed contracts covering the use of Western Electric's film and disc methods of sound recording which will be used in the entire Christie product including the Douglas MacLean features, the Confessions of a Chorus Girl series, the Sandy MacDuff Comedies starring Jack Duffy, and the Billy Dooley and Bobby Vernon comedies.

Charles Rogers Chosen for 1st Par. Dialogue

Paramount has announced that its first picture carrying actual talking sequences will be Charles "Buddy" Rogers' first starring vehicle, "Sophomore".

This film will not only have dialogue but orchestral and sound effects. The scenes that are very strong in dramatic appeal, will naturally be the ones in which dialogue will be injected and those to do the talking besides Rogers will be Chester Conklin, Mary Brian and Phillips Holmes.

Music Box Opens

The opening of the Music Box, the John Hamrick Theatre located in Seattle, is scheduled to take place on August 2.

WHO PAY'S?

Howard Hughes, head of Caddo Productions, hired a Ryan-Monoplane and suggested to Ben Lyon that he go up in it, fly over the Breakfast Club and pull a spill, for the benefit of the crowd in attendance at this club.

This was O.K. with Ben and the pilot, Roscoe Turner. Anything for publicity. They did a "nifty", almost killing themselves and wrecking the plane.

Now Hughes has suggested that Ben and Roscoe dig in and pay, each a third, for the wrecking of the plane. Hughes paying the other third.

Big hearted of Hughes!

STUDIO GOSSIP

By JOE BLAIR

The John Barrymore-United Artists picture "Tempest" will open the United Artists Theatre in Los Angeles beginning next Wednesday, July 25th for an extended run.

Much jubilation around Paramount studio! Emil Jannings has progressed so far with his study of English, he is now able to carry on a telephone conversation of six words.

Janet Gaynor, Fox film star, and her mother left by a western air express for San Francisco for a short visit.

Lewis Stone has been selected by Clarence Brown for a very prominent role in the Greta Garbo picture, "Woman of Affairs" ("The Green Hat").

Dorothy Sebastian, the M-G-M player, is to be starred by Tiffany Stahl for three pictures. They are "The Devil's Appletree", "The Million Dollar Doll" and "The Spirit of Youth".

Walter Hiers, a slim comedian, arrived in Hollywood last week with the news that he had gained ten pounds. If he had said "tons", we would have been more likely to believe it.

Mary Pickford will entertain with a dinner in honor of Our Girls Club next Tuesday evening at 7:30. There have been more than a hundred and fifty guests invited to "Pickfair".

Word comes from the M-G-M lot that "Nize Baby" adopted from Milt Gross' comic strip, will have some dialogue sequences. They won't have much trouble getting voices around the M-G-M lot for this dialogue. Lois B. Mayer refuses to have a test.

George Galewski, the Berlin exhibitor, with Frau Galewski, is visiting Hollywood.

This should be news. Shooting on "Hell's Angels", the Howard Hawks-Caddo $2,000,000 German air picture, has ceased. Work started last October.

Demmy Lamson informs us that Edmund Breese, after finishing his part in "Salvage" at Universal will immediately start work in "Conquest" at Warner Bros. . . . that Montague Love upon completing "The Last Warning" for Universal starts work in "The Condemned Woman" for Famous Short Stories, Inc. which will be followed by a part in "The Haunted House", to be directed by William Christenson for First National . . . that Ian Keith will play a leading role in "The Lookout Girl" for Quality Distributors . . . and that Pauline Starke looks gorgeous in the first few shots of her Technicolor role in "The Thrill of Lief, the Lucky".

BROWN TO DO "HAMLET" AS FIRST M-G-M TALKIE

Talking pictures will give Clarence Brown an opportunity to accomplish something he has wanted to do for some years.

Ever since the success on the stage three seasons ago of "Hamlet" in modern clothes Brown has wanted to transfer it to the screen. The reason he has hesitated doing it is because he realized "Hamlet" as is, is not what is called "screen material," without a mass of subtitles. Talking characters will take away this serious drawback.

Three pictures have been determined so far for the well known director's schedule at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Studio. He hopes to follow these with the modern version of "Hamlet."

1700 EXTRAS USED IN 4 NEW "U" PICTURES

HOLLYWOOD — Seventeen hundred extras were used yesterday by Universal, in what was one of the biggest production days for that company in many months. They were divided among four units.

Harry Pollard, in "Showboat" used 900 extras for interior theatre scenes. William Wyler used 300 in scenes for "The Shakedown." Wesley Ruggles used another 300 in "Salvage", Mary Philbin's new picture. The Third Collegian series of two-reelers, directed by Nat Ross under the supervision of Carl Laemmle, Jr., accounted for another 200.

FIVE CENTS

OBSERVATIONS

New Worlds

Bill Fox, in shirt sleeves plus cigar, with the nonchalance of one who had accomplished nothing, taking twenty-five years to do it, announced the acquisition of the Poli chain of theatres in New England. The importance of this $20,000,000 buy seemed to bore him. In making the announcement, he seemed to be thinking of other things. Other circuits he would acquire, new worlds to conquer.

Three Wise Men

Fox's start in pictures, his original capital, the desertion of his two partners, his gradual and certain rise, has been told many times. Horatio Alger never conceived a better yarn. Fox, of course is the "leading man" in this show. But how about the rest of the cast? What parts have they played? What of his "three wise men of the east" and sometimes west?

Tremendous

Sheehan, Grainger and Zanft, (in any order you choose to name them) are the supporting cast. And Oh! Boy, what a support. Any show, with this gang, would be a hit on any street. Sheehan on production, Grainger on sales and Zanft on theatres, are tremendous. All artists in their particular field. Fox would never have made the strides without them.

More Sound

And still more sound. 95% of all press copy is sound. Producers talking nothing else, artists clamoring around as a result of it, directors snapping to and at it, sales heads, salesmen, writers, musicians, exhibitors and poor editors (so called and otherwise) deluged with it. The public being surfeited. How are the producers going to get their money out of the present expenditures. Will the expense of this added production be met in experience? Certainly they can't get it out in play dates. Not at this time. Maybe a year later.

SAPIRO AND SWAIN BATTLE IS ON IN M-G-M INJUNCTION SUIT

Song Publishers May Use Sound Films in Plugging New Hits

New York music publishers have tumbled to a scheme brought about by the talking pictures, which resembles the early days of song plugging in motion picture theatres with colored slides.

New song creations coming out this season may be picturized and sung on records, for distribution in wired houses. The possibilities of this angle were brought out by exclusive new songs being written for Warner Brothers by such writers as Irving Berlin and Billy Rose.

Berlin is writing a song for Jolson in "The Singing Fool" and Rose a number for Fanny Brice in "My Man". Berlin will also write exclusive songs for United Artists. Rose is reported to have perfected the "Cinevox" for the purpose of picture song recording.

Probably the first use of the new song plugging method was made at the opening of "Lilac Time" in Los Angeles last week at the Carthay Circle. While not actually employing sight and sound on the same records, the song theme "Jeannine, I Dream of Lilac Time" is part of the synchronized picture and First National is rushing a Victor recording of the song to the Coast to be sold in the lobbies, and in future, houses using non-synchronous devices will have the record available to cue in, when "Lilac Time" is projected.

The reported invention of J. L. Baird, whereby the song and motion pictures of a singer are reproduced on one phonograph record, may be the method chosen by the music publishers. The Baird company is planning immediate manufacture of such records in Chicago and New York.

DECISION PENDING

The result of the first court clash between the Independent Motion Picture Exhibitors Association of New York and the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Corporation yesterday remains in "status quo".

Judge Sherman of the N. Y. Supreme Court, before whom the injunction proceedings against M-G-M filed by Aaron Sapiro came up, has reserved decision and has taken the papers home for further study. A decision in a day or two is expected.

New Gaiety Opening

"Lost in the Arctic" latest Fox production will open tonight at the Gaiety on a two-day schedule. There will be a movietone talk by Explorer Stefansson, a demonstration of color-sound pictures and a movietone by Robert Benchley on "The Sex Life of the Polyp;" and Will Mahoney.

The film is a very timely one because of the tremendous romance and interest caused by the Noble Expedition and rescues.

Poli Theatres to Show Fox Anniversary Pictures

COLOR DISTORTS SOUND BY MOVIE TONE METHOD

James A. Fitzpatrick has decided to stick to the sound-on-disc method of recording for films, claiming that experience has proven that method superior to sound-on-film.

Fitzpatrick refers to quality in photography as well as music. The disc method furthermore does not interfere with tinting, toning and coloring on the film, while up to the present, color has a tendency to distort sound-on-film.

The producer has made one of the "Schubert Series" for Paramount on the disc method and another for Fox, on movietone.

To Renovate and Run 20 Theatres on Roxy Plan

All of the theatres in the Poli circuit in New England which was purchased this week by Fox Theatres Corporation will show the silver anniversary group of pictures of Fox Films throughout the coming year, it was announced yesterday by William Fox.

The 1928-29 schedule includes fifty-two pictures, 22 of which will be in sound. In addition, the Fox Movietone News, Fox News, and other shorts including 35 short subjects in sound will be shown in all the Poli Theatres.

The twenty Poli-Fox Theatres will be operated along the lines of the Roxy in New York. "We want to give the people of New England the best entertainment possible and that is why we are taking the Roxy as our model," said Mr. Fox yesterday. "Nothing will be left undone to make them the last word in modern equipment and up-to-date management. The elaborate stage effects achieved at the Roxy will be worked out for presentations to be given in the various Poli theatres."

COLUMBIA FILES REPLY IN SHEFFIELD SUIT

DENVER—Columbia Picture Corporation has filed its answer in the suit brought by J. T. Sheffield of Salt Lake City, who claimed unfair competition through infringement of Sheffield's trade-name "Columbia Exchanges".

Columbia contends that Sheffield had a contract to distribute Columbia Pictures in his territory and that his right to the name was to cease with the termination of the contract, and that Sheffield has breached and terminated the agreement.

They further contend that by use of the name "Columbia," Sheffield is deceiving the public and that their own corporation is an established producing and nationally advertised trade-mark with an investment of about two million dollars. A hearing on the case is expected at an early date.

The question of free movies in the mid-west is against agitating the Northwest Theatre Owners Association and reports that free pictures are being given in Windom, Minn.; and Bladen, Nebraska, in which towns shows are given two nights a week, will be dealt with at the next meeting of the Association.

"Dress Parade" was one of the films reported shown free at Windom.

LOS ANGELES—"Lilac Time" in its first week at the Carthay Circle, is in for a run that will break all box-office records here.

The first week's receipts of the picture were more than $2,500 in excess of the previous record at the Carthay Circle.

Exhibitor-Fire Chief Must Serve Six Years for Burning Rival Theatre

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — Earl Powell, Gurdon Theatre owner, must serve a six-year prison sentence imposed on him in the Clark circuit court following his conviction as an accessory before the fact of arson in connection with the burning of a rival theatre in Gurdon, the supreme court has held.

Powell was found guilty of hiring Marcus Faulkner, who pleaded guilty, to set fire to the Wright theatre last January. Powell was chief of the Gurdon fire department and witnesses testified at his trial that the fire truck would not run on the night of the fire and the door of the engine house has been nailed. The state sought to prove that Powell was responsible. The supreme court found no error in his trial and affirmed the conviction.

FRENCH FEAR RUSSIAN FILM COMPETITION

PARIS—The French industry is looking on the Russian film program as a serious competitor in the near future. An enormous studio covering 150 acres is being constructed near Moscow and the Government has advanced 5,000,000 roubles toward the project.

The Russian industry expects to produce 160 pictures in 1928. Another studio is being built at Kiev in the Ukraine and a schedule of 40 pictures laid out. Another plant is to be built in Georgia (Caucasus).

PFL AGAIN USES GLYN-BOW

Warner-Vitaphone Makes 2 Negatives

"It" Combination Will Work Again in "Three Week-Ends" by Elinor Glyn

By JOE BLAIR
West Coast Representative

Paramount has announced that they will again combine the pen of Elinor Glyn with the acting of Clara Bow in "Three Week-Ends". Ever since the success of "It", a Madame Glyn story and a Bow starring vehicle, the company has been seeking to reunite this box-office combination. Long before this, these two were coupled when Metro produced Elinor Glyn's "Six Days", in which Bow appeared.

Neil Hamilton has been selected for the male lead and Chester Conklin has also been assigned a part in "Three Week-Ends".

Warner Bros. are not entirely losing sight of the smaller exhibitor, and are therefore going ahead and making two negatives with every picture produced with Vitaphone—one with and one without the sound device.

By this method the company will be able to take care and to furnish prints on their bigger films to those theatres which have not as yet installed a sound film device, and at the same time, this will not prevent them from continuing to concentrate their efforts on the developing of the Vitaphone talking pictures.

"Damaged Goods" famous stage play by Eugene Brieux may be revived again for talking pictures, it is understood from plans overheard along 45th Street. No indication is to be had at present as to who will produce it.

1000 Voices on U. A. Movietone "Love Song"

One thousand voices of film soldiers will sing "La Marsellaise" in movietone for D. W. Griffith's "The Love Song", raising their voices in the din of a battle that will be recorded in sound.

Another oral high spot in the production will be the singing by Lupe Velez of Irving Berlin's "The Love Song", written especially for this production.

Wells Root Writing Dialogue for "Varsity"

The first writer to break forth as a creator of dialogue for sound production on the Paramount lot is Wells Root, who is working on Charles "Buddy" Rogers' first starring picture, "Varsity".

In addition to Rogers, the voices of Chester Conklin, Mary Brian and Phillips R. Holmes are being synchronized with the picture.

Federal Trust proceedings, appeared as counsel in this case for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, while Aaron Sapiro appeared as counsel for his organization.

Swain's briefs presented four lines of defense, one of which was the claim that the I.M.P.E.A. action was in violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust Law; was in violation of the Donnelly Act; that M-G-M had not induced Mayer & Schneider to breach their contract with the Sapiro organization, as they were informed by M & S that the I.M.P.E.A. was not empowered to buy film for that circuit; and lastly that contrary to common practice in the industry, exhibitor members of the Sapiro organization intended to allocate among themselves product in this zone, that would tend to stifle competition.

The court action lasted about an hour and no time was allowed for Sapiro to file counter-claims.

The genial and ever charitable Al Jolson will do his stuff on the evening of the 26th at the Breakers Club for the Midsummer Night's Frolic of the Junior Service Council.

A busy and able title writer is Harold Tarshis. He is now on work at Universal on the "Collegian" series and some of Hoot Gibson pictures and is making rapid strides to the foreground.

Evidently Gloria as well as gentlemen prefer blondes, for John Reinhardt, who will be her leading man in "The Swamp" has bleached his hair for the part.

Neely Edwards is replacing Eddie Boland who is busy on another lot, as Schultzy in Universal's "Show Boat".

Norman Kerry, one of Hollywood's prodigal sons, will return from Europe around the middle of August. While abroad he made a picture in England.

In "Beggars of Life", which Paramount will synchronize, Wally Beery will be heard singing a song. This news has heaped a lot of kidding on Beery's head.

Gary Cooper and Nancy Carroll will be co-featured in "The Shop Worn Angel" which Paramount will produce from the story by Dana Burnet. Howard Estabrook is making the adaptation and F. Richard Jones is slated to direct.

The talking movies will prove another case where it's going to be hard to keep women quiet. Now M-G-M has announced that Norma

MASCISTE FILM FOR "U" THRILLER IN 1929

Universal Pictures has imported a new Masciste film for release next season. The picture, made by Pittaluga Films, is entitled "The Hero of the Circus" and besides the famous hero of "Cabiria" and other noted pictures, has a cast of 3,000.

Paul Gulick has retitled and Sydney Singerman re-edited, the film.

Shearer as Mrs. Cheyney in "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney" will have some speaking lines.

"Runaway Girls" will go into production on the Columbia lot immediately after the film of "The Scarlet Lady", with Shirley Mason and Arthur Rankin in the leads. Mark Sandrich will direct.

The Schildkraut family will be prominent in Universal's production, "Show Boat". Joseph has already been cast and now his wife, Elsie Bartlett has been selected for the part of Elly.

Once again Mae Murray breaks into print because of legal action. A beauty specialist has brought suit against the star for $2,125 for asserted services.

Nothing less than a 180-foot schooner will be blown to pieces in Sam Goldwyn's "Rescue". Up goes the cost of production.

Nancy Denver who has been taken from the stage, has been promoted from small parts in Christie comedies to play leading woman opposite Bobby Vernon in his next comedy.

FIVE CENTS

OBSERVATIONS

Wide Awake

In what other field of industry will we find a trade press so wide awake, so alert and so well informed regarding the inner works as are the publications in the motion picture industry? In what other line of business endeavor could a publication, devoted to that business, inform its readers "52 days ahead" of a transaction so massive and far reaching as the acquisition of the Poli circuit of theatre by the Fox Theatres, Inc.?

Astounding

And this is what happened in this case. As a matter of fact, this news printed "52 days ahead" of the acquisition, so astounded Mr. Fox and Mr. Poli that it is reported Mr. Poli called Mr. Fox on the phone and said: "See here Bill, I understand from the public prints within our industry that I have sold my chain of theatres to you." Says Fox to Poli, "Yes Sylvester, I also read it." Says Sylvester to Bill, "That's a good thought, even if it is not true. Let's talk it over." Mark you, we suggest this conversation was reported to have taken place, but no doubt, our information is not based on fact, for what was printed "52 days ahead", turned out to be true. And there is no disbelieving the truth when we have to weigh it with ordinary reports.

More News

The trade is further informed by the same publication who published this story "52 days ahead" that "progress toward creation of a national chain" on the part of the Fox organization, "continues". This tip, no doubt based on fact will set this old business humming. And inasmuch as this publication makes every effort to be classified as an organ for the dissemination of news, we resent the fact that another publication receives the news "52 days ahead" of the authoritative announcement of the closing of a deal.

Resentment

When Bill Fox calls us and advises he has an announcement to make, on arriving we hear that he has bought other theatres, thereby creating a "national chain". We will rise in our seat, a sandwich in one hand, and a high-ball in the other and shout "That's a lot of 'hooley' and certainly not news, we read it six months ago in publication".

ROSSHEIM RE-ELECTED STANLEY HEAD NEWMAN, LOFT, Inc. V.P., MADE TREASURER

In an election of officers by the Stanley Company of America yesterday, at a Board of Directors meeting in N. Y., Irving D. Rossheim was re-elected president, Abe Sablosky and Simon H. Fabian were chosen Vice-Presidents; Morris Wolf, Sec'y; Joseph Sloan, Ass't Sec'y; and James J. Newman, Treasurer and James M. Brennan, Ass't Treasurer.

After his election, Rossheim again expressed an optimistic feeling as regards the company's present financial condition and prophesied a bright future, and reiterated that all the plans laid out at the meeting on July 16th would be carried forward with definiteness and dispatch.

A finance committee, consisting of Wadill Catchings, Chairman, John A. McCarthy, Albert L. Smith and Louis J. Kolb was appointed. The new Advisory Committee consists of J. F. Fabian, Chairman, Rossheim, ex-officio, McGuirk, Sablosky, Crandall, Mark, S. H. Fabian and Silver.

The election of Mr. Newman as treasurer is looked upon as giving considerable additional strength to the personnel of the executive offices of the Stanley Company. He is Vice-President of Loft, Inc., New York City, and an outstanding figure in financial circles.

One of the actions of the meeting was the elimination of the post of Chairman of the Board of Directors, a place occupied by John J. McGuirk, a former president of the company.

RCA FILES DENIAL TO MONOPOLY SUIT

Radio Corp. of America has filed a general denial to the Federal Trade Commission's complaint charging monopoly and unfair trade practices in distribution of vacuum tubes for radio sets through licensing agreements with 25 radio manufacturers.

Corporation asked a dismissal of the complaint, and challenged jurisdiction of commission and indicated that it would contest any order that would tend to prohibit continuance of the present system of distribution.

$5,000,000 REPORTED SPENT BY FBO SO FAR

Following Joseph P. Kennedy's announcement of the $30,000,000 production budget that has been set aside by FBO Pictures Corporation for the next three years, the Hollywood Studios of the company report that over 50% of the first year's product (1928-29 program) has already been completed, with an expenditure approximating $5,000,000 for the half year's product.

It is expected the remaining half of the 1928-29 product will be completed before the first of the year, thus rounding out the $10,000,000 yearly program planned by the company.

Pantages and Stanley Book Stern Comedies

The Pantages Theatre, Toronto, has booked three consecutive weeks of Stern Brothers Comedies with "George's School Daze" one of the "Let George Do It" comedies featuring Sid Saylor. At the same time, the Hippodrome in Toronto also set in another George Comedy, "George Meets George."

Another first-run showing just reported is that of current "Mike and Ike" comedy release in the Stanley Earle Theatre in Washington, D. C.

cording, the small exhibitors have therefore been practically closed out and must wait at least nine months to a year before they can obtain equipment.

Aside from Warner Brothers and Fox, no company on the coast is reported to have received their recording apparatus either for Photophone or Movietone as yet, although Universal reports they have one sound unit apparatus waiting to go into their new sound stage as soon as it is ready.

First National and Paramount's first sound films have been recorded by Victor in Camden with records, and one reason that even the large companies cannot obtain Western Electric apparatus at this time is a report that it may possibly be because of a definite agreement with Fox-Case to give that company priority in the use of the instruments.

REISMAN REPORTS BIG DEMAND FOR "KINGS"

Phil Reisman, General Sales Manager of Pathe, leaves this week on a trip that will take him to Chicago, Milwaukee, Toronto and Montreal. He has just returned from a visit to the Albany branch.

Reisman reports the Pathe branches are receiving requests for bookings on "The King of Kings." There is every indication, Reisman states, that this picture will break every record for distribution in the United States.

Other Pathe sales executives on the road are J. F. McAloon, Manager of Exchange operations, who is visiting Chicago, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, Des Moines, Omaha, Kansas City and St. Louis; E. J. O'Leary, Feature Sales Manager, who is making the round of the Boston, Washington, Charlotte, Atlanta, New Orleans, Dallas, Oklahoma City and Memphis branches; and Harry Scott, Short Subject Sales Manager, who is at present in Kansas City on a tour of the Mid-West branches.

Butterfield Blames High Rentals on Producer-Chains

price it will be sold for," is Butterfield's claim.

"Where a producer has a 100% customer, no matter whether it is a circuit of theatres in which they are financially interested, or only a lone exhibitor who is taking 100% of their product, their price must be based on the cost of the picture and not on the fact that it has some draft to it."

"The poor production of pictures last year and the demand for high rentals was caused by the fact that all the producing heads were busy taking over theatres, and in order to protect their investment in the theatres, they attempted to get this cost out of the sale price of pictures."

"Are the producers desirous of making their profit in theatre ownership and operation, or in making productions? The answer is that the theatres, most of which are now new, built of steel and concrete, should last fifty years and will be here when the producing units and companies will be dead and buried and new ideas advanced for entertainment to go into these theatres."

"Hardly any of the producers who are chain theatre owners are giving this question much consideration, although there is a precedent already set up for it."

"Dramatic and legitimate producers years ago, who were smart enough to see that the profits were to be made in theatre operation, created circuits for themselves and today there are only two left, the Erlanger and Schubert Circuits."

"As long as these circuits encouraged the production of attractions for these theatres, they were successful; but in the last three years when they proceeded to stifle them and to make most all of the profits from a producers branch, they brought on the condition that exists today in their field."

To Build 6 Big Art Theatres in Growing Pinanski Chain

2,200 SEATS EACH

The New England Theatres Corporation, with a string of over twenty theatres in New England, will push their operations further with the construction of six 2,200 seat houses patterned after European and Oriental motifs, according to Samuel Pinanski, president.

Announcement has already been made of the erection of a Spanish atmospheric theatre, the Seville, in East Boston, Massachusetts. This house is well under way and will be open to the public some time in September.

The foundation of a new theatre to be erected in Brighton, Mass. has been started. This second house is to be entirely Egyptian atmospheric, in both architecture and appointments.

Plans for 4 more houses, practically unlike anything of their kind in the country, are nearing completion and ground will soon be broken on choice locations for their erection. One of these theatres will be entirely Oriental in appointments and architecture, and the other theatre will be copied from Persian architecture, and from street lobby to back-drop that mystic country will be drawn upon for atmospheric appointments.

Mr. Pinanski also announces that plans are well under way for two more houses of individual style. Entirely distinctive, these shrines of the films are to be, one an Italian and the other an Arabian atmospheric theatre.

CAL. M.P.T.O. FIGHTS NEW FIRE ORDINANCE

SAN FRANCISCO—Approximately sixty exhibitors from this territory attended a hearing on new theatre fire ordinances which threaten theatre owners this coming year, which was held before the Fire and Police Commission.

The exhibitors' side of the hearing was conducted by A. B. Lamb, Business Manager of the Northern California M.P.T.O. The measure is scheduled to come up again before a full board of the City Council shortly. Representatives of the West Coast Theatres spoke in support of the new ordinance while Lamb led the opposition.

Apology

We feel we owe our readers an apology, inasmuch as we only printed the Fox-Poli story ONE DAY AHEAD of Mr. Fox's announcement and not "52 days ahead". We will make every effort to do better, with future announcements. And as an instance of our industry we hereby announce that, William Fox and Carl Laemmle have joined hands to fight the Motion Picture Patents Co.

UNIVERSAL is All Set and is Taking Contracts on These Synchronized PICTURES

No. 596—Straight from the Shoulder Talk by Carl Laemmle, President of the Universal Pictures Corporation.

NO GUESS WORK BETWEEN YOU AND UNIVERSAL.

NO CRAZY STATEMENTS ABOUT SYNCHRONIZING. NO ATTEMPT OR intention on our part to stampede you with a lot of bunk and nonsense.

NO PROMISES OF THINGS WHICH ARE IMPOSSIBLE TO PERFORM.

NO CHAOTIC CONDITION.

UNIVERSAL IS IN THE ENVIABLE POSITION OF BEING ABLE TO MAKE YOU DEFINITE PROPOSITIONS AND SIGN DEFINITE CONTRACTS FOR SYNCHRONIZED FEATURES.

UNCLE TOM'S CABIN IS ALL SYNCHRONIZED RIGHT NOW!

THE MAN WHO LAUGHS IS BEING SYNCHRONIZED.

THE LAST WARNING IS BEING SYNCHRONIZED.

THE GIRL ON THE BARGE WILL BE SYNCHRONIZED.

GIVE AND TAKE WILL BE SYNCHRONIZED.

THE COHENS & KELLYS IN ATLANTIC CITY WILL NOT ONLY BE SYN-chronized with music and sound effects but we are planning this to be partly a talking picture.

REGINALD DENNY IN RED HOT SPEED WILL BE PARTLY A TALKIE AND fully synchronized with music and sound effects.

MAN, WOMAN AND WIFE WILL HAVE MUSIC AND SOUND EFFECTS.

IF WE ADD TO THIS LIST, WE WILL NOTIFY YOU. MEANWHILE WE are ready this minute to sign contracts as outlined above.

DON'T GUESS. DON'T WAIT TO GUESS LATER. PLACE YOUR COMPLETE reliance on Universal, now as in the past, and cut down your synchronizing worries and your other worries, too.

UNIVERSAL HAS MORE FINE QUALITY PICTURES TO OFFER THIS YEAR THAN ANY OTHER COMPANY AND THE SOONER YOU FIND IT OUT, THE BETTER FOR YOU!

Laemmle Moving Cautiously on Talkies--Fort Lee Plans Laid

Denny, Schildkraut, Tryon, Veidt and Hersholt Voices O.K.

ROY HUNTER HERE

"In the development of our sound activities at Universal City, and at New York, we have been proceeding cautiously, with a view to making our sound pictures as technically new and advanced as a new art deserves to be," states Carl Laemmle in California, "to my mind, talking pictures present an entirely new situation. Moving pictures did not become an art until they entirely divorced themselves from the stage method of telling a story.

"Now, with the new dimension, as it were, our organization is struggling, as probably every other one is, to fit it in artistically, effectively and in a manner which will be purely moving picture and not theatric.

"In carrying out this plan, Universal has experimented not only with its authors, scenarists and literary people, but with the various media which are available at the present time. Under our contract with the Electrical Research Products, Inc. we are officially using a process similar to the Movietone process. Equipment for two sound stages, Monitor room and projection rooms has been received at Universal City.

"Several weeks ago we broke ground for three units in a space in Universal City which we have been saving for years for emergency.

The buildings we are erecting now can be enlarged to two or three times their capacity. In addition to the apparatus installed at Universal City, we will proceed immediately with plans for converting the studio at Fort Lee into a sound-proof studio. It is certain that we will need a studio as well as laboratory and projection room in New York, and it is fortunate that we have such a splendid frame-work upon which to impose the sound-proof studio as we have in Fort Lee. When this studio was built, it was acknowledged to be the finest in the east. And while it has been ante-dated in many of its features since that time, it has not been allowed to run down.

"Roy Hunter, the expert at Universal City, who will have charge of the mechanical end of our sound processes, has been in the east for the last three weeks, going over the apparatus with the Electrical Research Products' engineers and with them mapping out the requirements for equipping the Fort Lee laboratory and studio. It will be several months before the work of equipping these will be completed, although the laboratory work is well under way under the direction of Irving Stolzner.

"At the same time, elaborate tests of actors' voices have been undertaken with the apparatus which is going to be used for 'Show Boat' and which is now installed on one of the sets for 'The Last Warning'.

"Joseph Schildkraut, Reginald Denny, Glenn Tryon, Conrad Veidt and Jean Hersholt have all had splendid stage experience and their voices register 100%. Kathryn Crawford, the new beauty also registers splendidly, as might be expected of the star of 'Hit the Deck'. There are a number of players, also, who have had stage experience, like Otis Harlan, Eddie Phillips, Hayden Stevenson and John Boles and whose tests have all been splendid."

MILWAUKEE EXHIBITORS ELECT NEW TICKET

At the closing session of the annual convention of the Motion Picture Theater Owners' Association of Milwaukee, an entire new slate of officers and members of the executive and arbitration boards were elected.

Steve Bauer was chosen president. Others elected were Fred Seegert, vice-president; Ernest Langemac, treasurer; Max Krofta, recording secretary; Henry Staub, executive secretary; E. Langenmach, treasurer; George Beyer, sergeant at arms. Directors named were George Fisher, John P. Adler, T. McWilliams, W. L. Ainesworth and T. E. Wolcott.

Among the theatres which will open with "Warming Up" on the 28th are: Metropolitan, Boston; Olympia, New Haven; Buffalo, Buffalo; Palace, Ft. Worth; Colorado, Pueblo; Minnesota, Minnesota; Denver, Denver; Globe, Kansas City; Des Moines, Des Moines; Columbia, Davenport; Victoria, Salt Lake; Manchester, Manchester; Howard, Atlanta; Imperial, Charlotte; Rialto, Lincoln; Queen, Austin and Texas; San Antonio.

26 TWO-REEL COMEDIES REPLACED BY SOUND

Sound pictures are pushing two-reel comedies into the discard. Fox Film Corporation executives have decided to eliminate twenty-six two-reel subjects planned for the coming season.

The short subject requirements will be taken care of by fifty-two Movietone entertainments. One, "The Family Picnic", has been shown on Broadway, and two, "The Mystery Mansion" and "Four A.M.", are completed.

Lazarus at Wampas on "Movie Season"

Nearly the entire evening of the Wampas meeting held last week was devoted to the topic of the coming "Greater Movie Season" to be celebrated on the west coast. Jeff Lazarus of the West Coast Circuit, acted as master of ceremonies. Unusual plans are now on the wing for bigger and better "Greater Movie Seasons".

Maryland M.P.T.O. in Annual Picnic Aug. 2

BALTIMORE—The Motion Picture Theatre Owners association of Maryland will have their annual picnic at Harve De Grace on August 2nd. President J. Louis Rome has appointed a committee to arrange the details.

95% UN-WIRED HOUSES CAN PLAY UNITED ARTISTS FILMS

Synchronization and sound effects will be employed in each of the eighteen United Artists new pictures, and the technique of making films will remain unchanged so that the 95% of American film houses that are not "wired" also can properly exhibit the new United Artists Pictures, according to Al Lichtman, sales chief.

Voices of Gloria Swanson, John Barrymore and Ronald Coleman may be heard in their new pictures; the voice of Lupe Velez will be heard singing in "The Love Song", D. W. Griffith's film; Dr. Hugo Reisenfeld will arrange synchronized scores and sound effects; Irving Berlin is under exclusive contract to compose new songs for United Artists Pictures and already he has contributed "Marie" for Vilma Banky's new picture and "Where is the Song of Songs for Me" for "The Love Song".

Lichtman says the producers of United Artists have assured him that no imperfect sound pictures will be foisted on the public and exhibitors, that "the golden goose is not going to be killed by haphazard sound pictures that only injure all use of sound."

Voices of Mary Pickford, Norma Talmadge, Dolores Del Rio, Vilma Banky, Charlie Chaplin and Douglas Fairbanks will not be heard in their next United Artists Pictures.

United Artists Pictures will be so constructed from the production angle that they can be played either way, with or without sound. This gives an equal and fair break to large and small houses."

Baltimore First-Runs

Cancel Musicians

BALTIMORE—The Rivoli Theatre which re-opened here on Saturday the 21st, will use no orchestra this season, Vitaphone, Movietone and a non-synchronous device having been installed.

By July 28th, half of Baltimore's first-run houses will be operating without musicians, as the present manager-musicians' contract expires on that date.

Carewe-Del Rio

Mexican Tour off

HOLLYWOOD—The Mexican goodwill tour planned by Edwin Carewe and Dolores del Rio, in which the star was to act as ambassador of goodwill for the Latin Republic, in much the same fashion as Lindbergh's visit to Mexico and Central America, may be called off, on account of the turmoil the country may find itself in.

The tour was cooked up by Harry Wilson, director of publicity for Carewe, who went to Mexico and arranged with Obregon for the idea.

Carewe, Del Rio and her mother, may leave Hollywood on July 30 and sail on the Ile de France for Europe on August 18.

C. B. DeMILLE TO DO "MYSTERIOUS ISLAND"

Noted Producer to Make Second Start on Under-Sea Film

Although no one around M-G-M studio, will confirm the fact that Cecil B. DeMille has transferred his megaphone to their lot, we have it on very reliable information that C.B.'s first assignment will be "Mysterious Island".

This production was started almost two years ago. Maurice Tourneur was the director, with the Williamson Brothers handling the under-sea work. The company was caught in a tidal wave on location at Nassau, Tourneur took sick, Benjamin Christensen replaced Tourneur. Conditions were bad at that season of the year for under sea work, and further work was postponed.

Gibson to Chicago

Hoot Gibson, will soon leave for Chicago with a company that will include Catharine Crawford, "Slim" Summerville, Joe Girard and others, to do the rodeo shots for his forthcoming production "Rodeo".

Edwards and Falaise

An independent motion picture unit has been organized by Harry D. Edwards with Henry Falaise, (Marquis de la Falaise) and an all star cast to appear in "Yours to Command." The husband of Gloria Swanson has signed a long-term contract with Edwards to appear in a series of productions.

Production headquarters will be at the Metropolitan Studios on Santa Monica Boulevard, work to start within two weeks.

Another "Lone Wolf"

Bert Lytell, who created the role of "The Lone Wolf" for Columbia Pictures, in the series of photoplays based on Louis Joseph Vance's mystery stories, has been selected by Harry Cohn, Columbia vice-president in charge of production, for the lead in "The Lone Wolf's Daughter", a Columbia "Perfect 36" scheduled for early release.

Veidt in Talkie

Conrad Veidt, former German star, whose last was "The Man Who Laughs" film, is to do a talkie for Universal, under present plans.

It will be a vehicle called "The Plays Goes On".

Film Laemmle Slogan

Arrangements have been completed for the immediate production of "It Can Be Done," a Universal Jewel the title of which is the famous and favorite motto of Carl Laemmle, President of the Universal Pictures Corporation.

Sue Carol has just been chosen as the heroine and the selection okayed by Laemmle after seeing her work in "The Cohens and Kellys in Paris". Glen Tryon is the hero.

Lake Finishes Fourth

Arthur Lake who is making thirteen one-reelers titled "Horace of Hollywood" for Universal, has just completed his fourth. Edward Luddy, handling the megaphone.

COHENS-KELLYS TO START PROD. AUG. 6

"The Cohens and Kellys in Atlantic City," will go into production August 6th. This picture will be produced at Atlantic City and the Universal company headed by William Craft, the director, is slated to leave California August 1st for the East. Sidney will remain in New York and join the company in Atlantic City a week from next Sunday.

"The Cohens and Kellys in Atlantic City" will be made with sound and will lay great stress upon dialogue. George Sidney's interpretations of Jewish character and dialogue are known from Coast to Coast, through his many years on the stage as Busy Izzy.

J. Farrell MacDonald may use his Irish brogue in the role of Kelly and Kate Price will play Mrs. Kelly to Vera Gordon's Mrs. Cohen. Matt Taylor is preparing the dialogue.

New Paramount High Reached on Exchange

tation is had in P-F-L circles that this stock will reach a high mark of 150 before the year is out, based on a quiet accumulation of the stock by certain Wall Street interests who intend to hold on to it, in anticipation of Paramount's biggest year of profits.

First National Has 8

Done-Starts 4 More

The First National new season's product is coming out of the studios fast and thick. Eight productions are now in the cutting room, while four new pictures were started last week. In the first group are: "Oh, Kay!", "The Divine Lady", "Out of the Ruins", "The Night Watch", "Heart Trouble", "The Wright Idea", "The Phantom City", and "The Whip". Those pictures on which shooting has just begun are: "Outcast", "Scarlet Seas", "Do Your Duty" and "The Haunted House".

Janet Gaynor's Next

Janet Gaynor's next starring picture for Fox is to be based on an original story by Tristram Tupper. No title has been selected as yet, but, according to announcement from Winfield Sheehan, it will be a Cinderella tale with settings in Holland. William K. Howard will direct the production.

Murray A Cop Again

Charlie Murray, who started in films as a Keystone Cop, is a cop again in "Do Your Duty", which is now being screened at the First National studios in Burbank. William Beaudine is directing.

Monty Ridin' Pretty

LONDON—Monty Banks is completing interiors of "My Wife's Husband" for British International Pictures at Elstree, and has purchased an Isotta Fraschini with which he will tour Paris, Nice, Monte Carlo, etc.

STUDIO GOSSIP

STUDIO GOSSIP

Bradley King has been signed to write the continuity for Richard Barthelmess' forthcoming starring vehicle, "Scarlet Seas".

Appreciating his work on "The Little Wildcat", J. L. Warner has again handed the megaphone to Ray Enright, this time to be used on "Stolen Kisses". The picture is to be filmed with extensive use of Vitaphone.

For the next couple of weeks Paul Leni, director of Universal's "The Last Warning" will devote himself to the cutting of the film which was completed last Saturday night.

"Show Folks" which is making the Pathe folks puff out their chests a bit, will be synchronized, and new musical scores written by Chris Schonberg will be introduced for the original dance numbers.

"Court-Martial" which is on Columbia's "Perfect 36" schedule for 1928-29 has just been finished. Starring Jack Holt and directed by George B. Seitz.

Activity around Educational studio is at its height. In fact production has gone forward so rapidly in the past two months that the company has completed nine two-reel and two one-reel comedies and is now working on five more.

F. Harmon Weight has been signed to direct "Hard Boiled Rose", a new Warner Bros. Picture. Cameras will begin to grind just as soon as all members of the cast have been chosen.

Winifred Dunn who wrote the continuity on "The Patent Leather Kid" is preparing Dorothy Mackaill's next picture, "The Girl in the Glass Cage".

To the cast of "It Can Be Done" have been added Richard Carlyle and Richard Carle, the musical comedy star. Fred Newmeyer is to direct the production which will go into work in a few days.

The woman of it—Ruth Elder was heard to confess that the Atlantic hop was nothing compared to facing the movie cameras of Hollywood for the first time.

Final scenes were completed this week on Audrey Ferris' newest starring picture for Warner Bros., "The Little Wildcat".

Getting down to authenticity, Universal's "Show Boat" will have Stephen Ficht, the colored actor, in the part of Joe, the low comedian of the "Cotton Blossom" galley.

John Farrell is fast stepping to the top as ace writer for Paramount.

Educational-Ideal Comedies have engaged Christine Montt, the winner of a beauty contest in South America for one of the important roles in a forthcoming production. Miss

COLUMBIA DECIDES ON TEN FOR SOUND BILL

According to Joe Brandt, Columbia Pictures has decided to synchronize at least ten on their Perfect 36 schedule. However, the problem is now to choose which method of synchronization the company will use, and the reason for the delay is given in these words of Brandt's:

"In order to meet exhibitor preferences, it may be necessary to synchronize our pictures under more than one method—both film and disc. We shall do whatever exhibitor judgment indicates is the proper thing to do."

Montt comes from Chilean aristocracy.

Brandon Hurst has been cast as a police inspector in Paramount's film version of "Interference", the Roland Pertwee play. Evelyn Brent, Doris Kenyon, Clive Brook and William Powell are principals. Lothar Mendes is directing.

Eleanor Boardman is wearing her hair down her back like a school girl. Ha, ha!

Ship ahoy, the McCormicks are off again! Terra firma has no lure for Colleen Moore, popular First National star, and her husband, John McCormick. Their latest sea voyage will start in a few days and take them from San Pedro to South America, touching land at only a few appealing points being out for about two months.

After seeing the preview of Tiffany-Stahl's "Lingerie", we feel there is a good word due for Alice White, Malcolm McGregor and Mildred Harris.

Moran-Mack Signed for "U" Talkie Film

Universal yesterday could not confirm the report that Moran and Mack, blackface team, had been signed to do a full-length talking picture for that company. The story called for a script by Octavius Roy Cohen.

Brown at Columbia

Columbia has signed up Karl Brown to make a number of pictures for this company and he is to have absolute freedom as to choosing of story material and method of direction. Brown, once a cameraman for James Cruze, made a sensation in directing "Stark Love" and has since handled the megaphone on some Pathe-DeMille pictures.

Fitzroy Signed

Tiffany-Stahl has resigned Roy Fitzroy as assistant to John M. Stahl under another year's contract. This shows appreciation of his work, for since May 1st eight pictures have already been completed.

Senarists Sell Play

William Le Baron and Luther Reed have collaborated on the writing of a mystery play which they have sold to Edward Everett Horton, who will use this as his next starring vehicle on the legit.

Mr. J. R. Grainger,

New York City.

Dear Jimmy:

That certainly is a rare line-up of pictures you have for next season. As you know, I have booked Fox 100%, and I'll tell you why.

To start with, Fox is the only outfit in the business that has six big Broadway hits for a kick-off --- "Street Angel," "Four Sons," "Mother Machree," "Sunrise," "The Red Dance," "Fazil." I had to have those. In fact, I always book everything that Borsage, Ford and Walsh turn out.

My patrons are crazy about Movietone, and I'm aiming to give them what they want. They got started with that first Lindbergh and Coolidge subject. Now they want features. In addition to these six Broadway pictures, I couldn't miss Victor McLaglen in "The River Pirate" and Madge Bellamy in "Mother Knows Best," both with Movietone. Then I glanced down the list of features with Movietone synchronisation you are planning. Before I realised it, I had copied down all of the twenty-two you have scheduled, "Plastered in Paris," "Me Gangster," "The Air Circus," "The Baggage Smasher," --- I want them all.

I have "Win That Girl" scheduled at the start of the football season. "High School Hero" went great here. I'm going to show "Prep and Pep," too. To make a long story short, I have booked them all, including Fox News, Variety, Movietone News and several of the Movietone Entertainments.

Keep up the good work.

Yours as long as you click like this,

OBSERVATIONS

The Hit

We have been viewing pictures for many years, but never have we enjoyed an evening's entertainment of motion pictures as much as the program arranged by the Fox organization on display at the Gaiety Theatre, which opened Wednesday evening. The hit of the program was the Robert Benchley Movietone lecture on "The Life of the Polyp". The audience laughed so long during parts of the "lecture" that much of it was lost to the ear. Why not anticipate these laughs a little more in making subjects of this kind in order that a semblance of quiet might be maintained. Better spacing to this end would certainly help this subject. But even as it is, its a WOW.

The Snow Picture

The photographic record of the Arctic expedition of H. A. and Sidney Snow contains more real drama than many pictures which are so advertised on Broadway today. It was the objective of these explorers to solve the mystery of what happened to the ill-fated crew of the Karluk which disappeared in the icy wastes some years ago; and this they have done, gathering on the way thousands of feet of film, chock full of thrills, interest and beauty.

Excitement

The picture makes no attempt to be a saga nor an epic, but shows us many incidents occurring on its long, northward trek, each of which would furnish sufficient excitement for any one picture. Whether Snow, having witnessed other records of polar expeditions, decided to steer his camera away from everything that had been "shot" up there before, I do not know, but his picture abounds with originality and scenes he must have risked his life many times to get. The battle with an eighty ton whale; the walrus hunt and the chase and capture alive of the polar bear, are the high-lights. "Lost in the Arctic" is entertainment completely in capital letters.

Titles

Whoever wrote the set of titles for this production should get a medal. Never have we seen titles quite so excellent. They always preserved the beauty and spirit of the picture.

ROCKETT FIRST NATIONAL BOSS

J. P. Kennedy Announces Definite Appointment of Studio Head

AL CREATES STARS

By JOE BLAIR
West Coast Representative

Al Rockett is in charge of all studio activities as well as of actual production at First National's Burbank studios, according to an announcement made yesterday in Hollywood, Calif., by Joseph P. Kennedy, special advisor to the company.

Mr. Rockett has been in charge of production at the studios for the past year and has made an enviable record maintaining the stellar supremacy of Richard Barthelmess, Billie Dove and Milton Sills and was instrumental in conferring actual stardom upon Dorothy Mackaill, Jack Mulhall, Alice White and Charlie Murray.

In addition, Mr. Rockett has fostered a number of younger players including Molly O'Day, Donald Reed, Thelma Todd and Loretta Young. He has also developed new writers and directors.

Wallace Directs Rogers

Paramount has signed Richard Wallace to direct Charles Rogers in his next starring vehicle, "Just Twenty One", soon to follow "Varsity" in production.

Mary Brian, Chester Conklin, Jack Oakie and William Austin are members of the Rogers cast thus far selected.

Howard Finishes

William K. Howard has finished shooting "The River Pirate" at the Fox studio. In its "rush" stage it looks like a winner. If it is otherwise it will be a novelty for Howard, for he has yet to make a poor one.

Norton with Jannings

Barry Norton, remembered as "Mamma's Boy" in "What Price Glory", has been signed by Paramount for a role in "Sins of the Fathers", Emil Jannings' next starring vehicle. Norton will play Jannings' son.

"Girl" on Sound

"The Godless Girl", a Pathe-De-Mille special and which is scheduled to open on Broadway toward the latter part of August, is now having sound and dialogue added.

Lina Basquette's stage experience will stand her in good stead for these talking sequences.

Walker Stars

When First National's picture "Lilac Time" starring Colleen Moore opens at the Central on August 3rd, it will be preceded by a short feature taken at the film's premiere in Los Angeles and in which Mayor James J. Walker of New York is starred.

Davis with Mermaid

George Davis, who is under contract to appear in four Educational-Mermaid Comedies this season, will begin work on his first laugh production in this series. Stephen Roberts, who has directed Davis in many of his comedies, will act as director of this picture.

The comedian has been appearing in feature productions for Fox and Metro-Goldwyn since he completed his last comedy at the Educational Studios. He had an important part in "Four Devils" and just recently finished a featured role with Vilma Banky.

Devore Ready

Dorothy Devore, Educational's star comedienne, has arrived in Hollywood after a four-month vacation in Europe and New York City. She will start her initial two-reel comedy in her series of six starring vehicles on the new season's schedule about August 1st. Miss Devore plans using several new gowns, most of them Paris creations purchased while abroad, in her comedies this year.

The financial statement for 13 weeks period ending March 31, shows gross income of $10,725,472, and net income after charges, depreciation and Federal taxes of $547,364 available for use of the parent company.

The balance books of the company, as of March 31, show properties valued at $63,182,219 and value of leased properties at $12,333,342.

Argosy Buys 44 U. S.

Films for England

LONDON—The Argosy Films announced the purchase of 44 American feature productions from Richmond Pictures of New York, in addition to the series of British Quota films which they are making.

STUDIO GOSSIP

Producing over at the Chadwick studios, are the Master Pictures Productions, a company making 26 features and 26 one-reelers. They are now at work on their third feature called "The Woman's Law" with Gaston Glass and Neva Gerber in the leads and Ben Wilson directing.

August 10th is the date set for production to begin on Henry Lehrman's next Fox picture "Homesick". The comedy team of Sammy Cohen and Jack Pennick will again be featured.

Despite a severe injury to his right leg, sustained while working on "Son of the Golden West", his first super-western feature for FBO, Tom Mix refuses to hold up production and goes through his daily routine before the cameras.

The scenic effects for John Barrymore's next picture will be made by no less a personage than the imported Walter Reimann, noted German motion picture art director who has joined the staff at United Artists.

John Boles who because of his excellent speaking and singing voice has been very much in demand these days, has now been cast by Fox to play the male lead opposite Mary Astor "The Woman," which Irving Cummings will direct.

Conjectures are being tossed around as to what Fred Thompson will do when he has completed "Kit Carson" for Paramount and the bets are heaviest on his leaving the screen, temporarily anyway.

Since Ruth Elder landed in Hollywood, no time has been lost on shooting of "Moran of the Marines" in which Richard Dix co-stars. The company is now on location at the Naval Marine Base, San Diego.

Just heard that David Hampton who used to direct for the Cliff Broughton Productions and is now connected with a motion picture publication, was married to Virginia Royce, one time also under contract to the above producing outfit.

Lilyan Tashman and Danny O'Shea have been signed up for the Arlen-Carroll starring film now in production by Paramount as thus far untitled.

They're giving Evelyn Brent the breaks these days and she deserves them. In her last half dozen pictures, she gave decidedly outstanding performances. The latest news is that she will play Katherine Cornell's role in the screen version of "The Letter".

Douglas Fairbanks has a good idea if it works. His "The Iron Mask" will be the best parts of the three Dumas' novels—"D'Artagnan of the Guards", "The Man in the Iron Mask" and "Twenty Years After".

Fox seems to be out to acquire a lot of Latin feminine types. Lia Tora, winner of a beauty contest in Brazil has now been added to their "Making the Grade".

FIVE CENTS

OBSERVATIONS

Equipment

New York hotels are housing more exhibitors at the present time, than ever before in the history of the motion picture business. Most of them are here, trying to get equipment for sound in their theatres. On finding it will take from six to eight months to get installation, they are offering every kind of inducement to hurry it along, but regardless of this, neither Western nor General Electric will give them further encouragement. Both companies, no doubt, are doing everything possible to hurry this equipment, but rush as they might orders are being accepted with delivery dates that are far ahead.

Big Business

Exhibitors generally, are well informed. They know what is going on. They know that sound pictures are doing business, whether it is caused by the curiosity of the public or a better form of entertainment or a combination of both. Business they claim is bad, has been bad for the past year and with the added interest on the part of producers for sound, their big salvation rests in getting sound installation.

Go Slow

That sound pictures are doing business can not be denied. They are standing them out. We feel that the public generally are attracted first by curiosity and after getting in the theatre hoped to be entertained. Our experience has been good and bad. We feel the producer is taking this matter too much on the jump. They should take more time, do quite a bit more experimentation. Play with the thing a little more and not announce that half their product will have talk, music or sound. Synchronization is fine, sound effects excellent, but going into dialogue is something different.

In The Interval

While this experimentation is going on producers should never, for a second, neglect their "silent" productions. One exhibitor said to us that "producers should set aside a separate department for the experimentation on sound, shove this department away from silent units and not bring them together until every one is satisfied of what's what in so far as the success is assured and the theatres have

Earnings and Economies Cause New Paramount High Level

WARNER PROFITS ON SOUND PICTURES AND ROYALTIES

Interests in the "street" believe now that the production of films is gradually getting on a sound economic basis, which would inspire greater investment confidence in the industry.

Analysis of the Paramount Famous-Lasky Corporation common stock by financial experts of the Wall Street Journal, reveals that it is one of the most conservatively priced stocks in relation to its earnings of the 20 industrials used in the Dow-Jones averages.

Buyings of good character have been induced recently in Paramount by economies in operation which have had a helpful effect on earnings. The stock this week reached the highest level of the year, at 134 1/4.

The Wall Street Journal estimates net profits of Warner Brothers stock, for the year ending August 31st are expected to be about $3.50 per share on 500,000 shares of common.

The impression that talking pictures are making on exhibitors in the Central and Mid-west territories is reflected in a general analysis by W. S. Butterfield, head of the Butterfield Michigan Circuit.

New Eastman Surprise to Be Shown Monday

George Eastman will show his new motion picture process for the first time on Monday in Rochester to a few intimate guests, among whom will be Owen D. Young, Thomas A. Edison, Michael I. Pupin, General Pershing, Hiram P. Maxim, F. E. Ives, Maj. General Harbord and others.

The new process may take the form of a motion picture color camera.

Definite plans are being laid by Pathe Exchanges, Inc., to release "The King of Kings" day and date, nationally, on October 1st.

Over 300 prints are being prepared, with or without sound accompaniment to go direct to exhibitors.

The picture will go out with Photophone synchronization, exactly as was shown at the Rivoli Theatre run in New York. While no definite number of sound prints to be made can be arrived at at this time, prints will be furnished to those theatres equipped for sound and actually contracting for these prints.

be the big act of the picture program the same as they have a big feature act in the vaudeville program, or a big star in a big musical or dramatic production."

"We are installing talking motion picture units ourselves, but with the idea of never giving up the silent picture unless the picture producers forget the art of making silent pictures for a lot of clap, trap noise-making talking pictures by poor actors and actresses, and we only hope the time will come when the cast in a New York production, either dramatic or musical, can be transferred to a studio in New York at the end of its New York run and make their production intact for the talking picture equipment."

This to my way of thinking will be the acme of success, and then the big producer will be able to get back some of the enormous cost of production, and the small town exhibitor will be in position to say to the small town theatre goer, "I am going to show you next week Mr. Ziegfeld's Follies with one hundred and twenty people on the stage with talking pictures for Fifty Cents, the same as you would see it in New York for $19.80, and By Gosh, Boys, I can guarantee this because Mr. Ziegfeld himself, personally, with all of the Company made this production themselves at Mr. Paramount's studio. (Or whatever company made the picture.)"

bined "A" and "B" stocks. Profits next year will be considerably more than this, due largely to earnings from Warners' own talkies.

The Class A stock is entitled to a preference dividend of $1.50 a share and to conversion share for share into the Class B so that its value depends entirely on earnings on the total capitalization.

While the advance in Warner Bros. to a high of around 64 has much more real basis than the fireworks which took place in this stock a year or so ago, buyers may do well to study the entire situation.

A guess at profits next year of around $6 a share is probably the best estimate that can be made at the moment. Basis of royalty which Warner is to receive from the other talking movie producers has never been announced definitely, but one thing seems fairly certain—that the big producers in the industry such as Paramount and Loew will not pay any huge royalties on their gross film rentals. These companies apparently pay a flat sum of $500 a negative reel with a minimum guarantee of $100,000 annually to Western Electric which pays a share of this Warner.

equipment to run them". And further, "They should concentrate on the silent drama until they feel certain they are right, for as it is, the only thing we can see for next year are a lot of poor pictures, due to the fact every one centered in production are thinking only of making talkies."

Negotiations which have been pending for several months were concluded yesterday when it was announced that the studios of the Paramount Famous-Lasky Corporation in Hollywood will house the new 5000-watt super-power radio broadcast station, KNX, and that the new station will be known as "KNX, Paramount Pictures—Los Angeles Evening Express Station".

For the first time in its history. The Paramount organization will have oral contact with millions of picturegoers in all sections of the country when the new station makes its debut on the air early in Sept.

It will be Paramount's policy, through KNX to maintain a closer touch with the exhibitors showing Paramount pictures, and to make this super-power station a direct and valuable aid to them. In addition KNX will keep them, as well as the public, informed of the latest developments in the capital of filmdom.

JOHNNY HINES' LATEST "WRIGHT IDEA" ARRIVES

The first print of "The Wright Idea", Johnny Hines' latest First National comedy, reached New York yesterday and was pre-shown to First National executives.

National Day and Date Campaign

The sound prints, naturally cost more to produce and the supply will be based on actual and anticipated sales contracts. A check will be made a month or so before the release date, to ascertain how many will be made.

A national advertising campaign is being lined up to support the picture, which is expected to be Pathe's biggest money maker in many years, based on business done by road-show companies in the first part of 1928.

PICTURE REVIEWS

"HOT NEWS"

Paramount
Directed by.....Clarence Badger
Featuring.....Bebe Daniels,
Neil Hamilton, Paul Lucas, Alfred Allen, "Spec" O'Donnell,
Ben Hall, Mario Carillo.
Bebe scores in a dandy comedy-thriller.

Even though there be a cycle of pictures depicting the adventures of the newsreel cameraman, it will take no glory from "Hot News". Regardless of subject matter, it's right there with action, thrills and love interest, to say nothing of Bebe Daniels at her best. And by golly, the film even has good subtitles. And in regard to subject matter, it's got the stuff, because the public will always be interested in what goes on behind the scenes, and here is inside dope on newsreel "scoops". Neil Hamilton in a light part such as this is much more appealing, and Director Badger has done himself proud on the megaphone end.

"LOST IN THE ARCTIC"

Fox Film Corp.

Directed and photographed by H. A. and Sidney Snow.

Cast.....Made up of natives and ships crew.

This is entertainment and great for any type theatre or audience. Has more thrills than ten ordinary pictures and is certain to do business under any condition.

It is a photograph record of the H. A. and Sidney Snow Arctic expedition. All done in a very novel manner abounding in thrills. If you are equipt for sound, the introductory done by Vilhjalmur Stefansson in Movietone is extremely instructive. But with or without it, don't miss this one. It has no story but during the progress of the picture, a drama is enacted, more tense than ever a writted word could reveal.

"THE LOVE PIRATE"

UFA
Directed by.....Dr. Arthur Robinson
Featuring.....Paul Richter, Rudolph Kleine-Rogge, Egode Nisson.

Appeal in title won't carry the picture. Old-fashioned meller in costume.

Here is a rather bemuddled tale of sea-faring pirates which takes place back in the days of the Corsairs and has most of its scenes laid on land. Many sequences flash throughout the film showing love in a most savage form that these lads have for their women, and yo, how their love for drink. However, it takes a girl the captain has kidnapped to arouse his gentle side and to stir real love in the bosom of the lieutenant. The very peaceful scene at the finis makes this flicker a little bit more unreal than it appeared heretofore. Most of the acting consisted of striking effective pictures, and there is nothing much to be said for the technical treatment.

"UNITED STATES SMITH"

Gotham
Directed by.....Joseph Henabery
Featuring.....Eddie Gribbon,
Lila Lee, Mickey Bennett, Kenneth Harlan, Earle Marsh.

Every member of the family will enjoy it.

As a theme song, the Sharkey-Riley boxing match is played through the entire film to a crescendo finish. This is undoubtedly directed toward the interest of the male sex, but don't think the women won't enjoy it. They will. The picture which is a trifle slow at the start, quickly picks up speed and maintains it all the way through. It stirs your patriotism, your sense of humor and your sympathy. Eddie Gribbon, as the marine with the hard-boiled exterior, does an excellent and natural piece of acting and is well backed up by Mickey Bennett, Lila Lee and Kenneth Harlan, and Henabery has contributed clever direction.

"FORBIDDEN HOURS"

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer
Directed by.....Harry Beaumont
Cast.....Ramon Novarro,

Renee Adoree, Dorothy Cummings, Edward Connelly, Roy D'arcy, Alberta Vaughan, Maurice Cannon.

This is a mythical kingdom yarn in which, a young, ill mannered king (at least the director made him so) attempts to sacrifice all for love but is saved the trouble by goings on the audience never finds out about. The direction is extremely poor, in that Beaumont permits his players to do impossible things. The talents of Novarro and Adoree are completely wasted on a silly story.

Why an organization that has been responsible for so many wonderful pictures, permits a picture to be released with an ending such as exists in this one, is a mystery to us.

"ROADHOUSE"

FOX
Directed by.....Richard Rosson
Featuring.....Maria Alba,
Warren Burke, Lionel Barrymore, Julia Swayne Gordon, Tempe Pigott, Eddie Clayton, Jack Oakie, Joe Brown.

Reckless youth theme with moralistic flash makes a fair program picture.

Director Rosson has undoubtedly joined forces with the scenarist in deciding that an attractive title, playing up the jazz-mad generation of to-day a court-room scene, and a very pointed moral at the end make a box-office picture. Most of the story is told through a flash-back and it leaves several characters unaccounted for at the speedy finish, and the boy convicted of a murder he never comitted. Yet the chosen b.o. ingredients are there. Maria Alba, acclaimed one of Spain's beauties, has a good way to go to compare with our own Venuses. Warren Burke gives an adequate performance, and Lionel Barrymore as usual scores.

CONCENSUS OF OPINION

By Blanche F. Livingston

Although "Lost in the Arctic", the new Fox picture at the Gaiety playing at $2.20 top, sounds like another epic or simply a travelogue, it surprised many by turning out to be an A-1 film backed by real story material as well as excellent camera work. Coming at this time when there is so much discussion about the missing airplanes, it is particularly acceptable.

The Paramount patrons got a big kick out of "Hot News" dealing with the trials and tribulations of the newsreel "scooper" and packed with action and daring feats. Bebe Daniels puts in a lot of hard work and good looks.

M-G-M presented at the Capitol "Forbidden Hours" which is just one of those plays placed in some imaginary kiugdome where the young man of royal blood does not choose to marry a princess. Nothing new. Too bad for Ramon Novarro and Renee Adoree who do their best.

"United States Smith" is charged with honor to the Marines, sentiment, hard-boiled humor and a heavyweight champion boxing match. Because these ingredients have been nicely commingled by Gotham, the picture projected this week on the Hippodrome's screen, delighted the audiences.

What the New York Critics Think

"LOST IN THE ARCTIC"
Times: "Interesting . . . main assets are the facts that it solves a mystery, tells a story and has some excellent photography."

World: ". . . nothing ever posed before a camera in the prearranged fiction of the studio could thrill you half as much."

Post: ". . . is easily the most thrilling picture of the sort every brought to Broadway."

"HOT NEWS"

Eve. World: ". . . only a little better than fair to middling."

N. Y. Eve. Journal: ". . . a rather lame comedy . . . despite the idea that it has an entertaining idea and Bebe works hard at it."

Sun: ". . . is amusing."

"FORBIDDEN HOURS"

Telegraph: ". . . If you are one of those who can believe anything . . . you are going to thoroughly enjoy 'Forbidden Hours' . . . if you are one of the very few who can retain logic and sense . . . you will find the story very trite."

Post: ". . . summer movie fare."
World: ". . . dreary and depressing in the extreme."

"UNITED STATES SMITH"

Eve. World: ". . . crammed with a lot of sentimental, patriotic hokum . . . which all professional Americans will cheer."

Sun: ". . . a somewhat leisurely sentimental piece."

Telegraph: ". . . a well-out from the word go . . . is simple but thoroughly human and sincere."

Sound Featurettes

"WHY BE SERIOUS?"

Movietone-Fox
Featuring.....Will Mahoney
Short but sweet. A dandy number for any house.

Mahoney has a very attractive personality and the moment he steps on the stage, the audience is with him. And he doesn't let them down. Explaining that he is going to give an impersonation of all the "Mammy" songs rolled into one, for a minute he turns his back to the audience until he gets on his colored make-up. Then comes a good burlesque song number with the familiar Al Jolson gestures. For an encore he brings on a kid (baby goat) who doubles with him and choruses an original "mammy".

"SEX LIFE OF THE POLYP"

Movietone-Fox
Featuring.....Robert Benchley
Book by all means and under any condition. The best thing done in the featurette line to date.

Robert Benchley in his "Treasurer's Report" was acclaimed as a hit, a wow and what-not, and probably the only thing that could possibly have surpassed this number would be another and better sketch featuring his inimitable manner of seriousness combined with burlesque. And it has been done in "Sex Life of the Polyp". Not only is the subject matter extremely clever, but Mr. Benchley's delivery is absolutely without equal. A highlight that brought added mirth was Mr. Benchley's slide illustrations.

"COMMUNITY SINGING"

Vitaphone-Warner Bros.
Featuring.....Lynn Cowan
Better for the smaller houses and towns.

Lynn Cowan who is known in the west as a master of ceremonies at Sid Grauman's Egyptian Theatre, has that same disarming and get-together manner by which all in his profession are afflicted. Therefore, he is just the type to quickly make the whole house just one big family. Old time songs are herein favored and with Cowan leading, everyone sings "East Side, West Side", "After the Ball", "Take Me Out to the Ball Game", "My Gal Sal", "Alexander's Rag Time". Should put audience in agreeable mood for what's to follow.

KENNEDY APPOINTS GLAZIER SOUND HEAD

"Changelings" to Be First Talker with George Fitzmaurice Directing

By JOE BLAIR
West Coast Representative

Joseph P. Kennedy, announced the appointment of Benjamin Glazier, as head of the new sound department. The first talking picture under this new arrangement with Glazier at the head will be "Changelings" from the story of Donn Byrne with George Fitzmaurice directing.

Kennedy also announced that First National had no idea of retiring from the production of motion pictures and as evidence of this he cited the fact their schedule for next year will be sixty pictures, many of which will be talking pictures.

Kennedy is returning to New York August 8th, and will, shortly after that, leave on a pleasure and business trip to Europe.

Paramount Active

The Paramount studio is unusually active with eight new productions either in work or are about to start. Those already started are, the Richard Dix picture "Moran of the Marines", "Interference" with Clive Brook and "The Canary Murder Case" with William Powell. Soon to start are, "The Case of Lena Smith, with Esther Ralston, "Divorced Bound" with Florence Vidor, "The Wolf of Wall Street" with George Bancroft and the Emil Jannings production "Sins of the Father".

UNIVERSAL FINISHES "SHOW BOAT" CAST

After six months of careful choosing, Universal has now completed the cast of "Show Boat". Included are Laura La Plante, Joseph Schildkraut, Alan Rubens, Emily Fitzroy, Otis Harlan, Neely Edwards, Jack McDonald, Elsie Bartlett, Gertrude Howard, Jave La Verne, Ralph Yearsley, George Chesebro, Harry Holden, Max Asher, J. Thornton Baston, Jim Coleman, Carl Herlinger, Frank Whitson and Harry Lorraine.

STUDIO GOSSIP

Sam Taylor is a very much sought-after director around the United Artists studio, for having worked on some retakes for "A Woman Disputed". Norma Talmadge wants him for her next picture and Mary Pickford has taken him away from "Love Song" to direct her next production.

And when you talk about being busy, Chester Conklin is that in the superlative. He is making re-takes at FBO and Paramount, working as co-star at First National studio and about to play n Clara Bow's "Three Week-Ends".

Edna Murphy gets a hand and a contract. Because of her work as Fannie Brice's sister in that star's forthcoming Warner-Vitaphone production, the company has signed Edna up for three pictures, one of which is "Stolen Kisses".

Since both Frank Borzage and F. W. Murnau wanted Mary Duncan in their forthcoming Fox productions, "Backwash" and "Our Daily Bread" respectively, a decision was brought in to keep location points on both pictures close together and therefore allow Miss Duncan to play in both pictures at the same time.

Marceline Day has joined the freelancers; that is, probably until someone signs her up. Her contract with M-G-M has expired.

Sally O'Neill's going to get three of Tiffany-Stahl choice morsels this season—"The Flating College", "Applause" and "The Big Top".

Fred Beers, casting director at M-G-M, has had one tough job handed to him and he's begging everyone he meets to send him dwarfs if they know of any. One of the new M-G-M pictures calls for a hundred.

Rumors are going the rounds that the producer, Edward Small, is to get in line and connect with the talkies, and Fannie Brice's name is linked with this item.

Lewis Milestone is on the lookout for a good story for the Lous Wolheim-Ray Griffith team which he will direct for United Artists.

After several weeks in New York where he went to confer on the subject of the Movietone, W. R. Sheehan is back at the studios and we await further developments which will surely follow.

"The Butterfly Chaser" has been chosen as Harold Lloyd's next vehicle. As before decided upon, this of course will be accompanied by sound.

Gilbert Roland's past discloses the fact that his real name is Luis Antonio Damaso and being the son of a toreador, took up the art of bullfighting before his cinema career.

Doris Hill says she should have been twins. She's now appearing before the cameras in two Paramount productions — "Take Me Home" and "Interference".

Ruggles Assigned

Wesley Ruggles has been assigned to direct the new Mary Philbin picture "No Place to Love". Fred McKay, Ruggle's new discovery, will play opposite.

Norma, Good Samaritan

One of the many human interest stories in this business, comes from the United Artists lot where "A Woman Disputed" is being shot. It seems a little stage-struck boy who comes from Alaska and has been hanging around for a number of days, has caught the interest of Director Henry King and Norma Talmadge; has been clothed, fed and given a part in the picture.

Pass "Womanhood"

The N. Y. State Board of Censors has O.K.'d a revised print of "Womanhood", according to Col. Wingate, head of the Commission.

This picture was submitted several times for approval and after suggested eliminations had been made, was finally passed. The picture is controlled by Joseph Klein of the States Cinema Corporation.

NEWS FROM THE UFA STUDIOS

The following foreign stars and directors are now busily engaged in production at the Ufa Studios in Berlin; directors, Alexander Wolkoff, Dr. Rabinowitsch and Noe Bloch, artists, Marcella Albani, Agnes Peterson, Margit Mansted, Gina Manes, Warwick Ward, John Stuart, Rina Marsa, Irena de Liguoro, Suzy Vernon and Arlette Marchal.

The following manuscripts have been secured by Ufa for production shortly; they are "The Girl from Downstairs" a novel by Joseph Delmont; "The Daughter of the Coffeking" a comedy by Robert Misch and "The Model from Montparnasse" by Michael Linsky and Franz Schulz.

Director Hanns Schwarz, under the supervision of Erich Pommer, has just started shooting the exterior scenes for the new Ufa Production, "Hungarian Rhapsody". The leading female roles in this picture are being portrayed by Lil Dagover and Dita Parlo. Willy Fritsch has the leading male part.

The Intimate Story of the Unpublished Secrets of the Movies, Past, Present and Future!

MUCH has been written about the movies, but here at last is the book that gives the only authentic version of the origin, growth and development of the movies as told by the pioneers of the industry themselves—men of vision, who early recognized the immense possibilities of the motion picture, nursed it through its cradle days, ventured their all of capital and energy upon its future, and reaped great rewards as the infant grew to a giant. Never before have the intimate secrets of filmdom been told so clearly, yet simply. One by one, men like Will Hays, Adolph Zukor, Jesse L. Lasky, Milton Sills, Sidney Kent, Samuel Katz and a host of other outstanding movie personalities talk as face to face with you, answering practically every important question on how motion pictures are made, sold, and shown.

FIVE CENTS

VOL. 24 No. 24

New York, Monday, July 30, 1928

OBSERVATIONS

Danger

Reports from several sections of the country indicate that exhibitors, in an effort to stimulate business are cutting admission prices. Our experience, personal and otherwise, has been that this is a very dangerous procedure and should be approached carefully.

The Public

The public have always been willing to pay for what they want. If, in their estimation, the attraction seems to have sufficient entertainment, they will buy. Poor pictures, at reduced prices hold no inducement. Never have and never will.

Another Angle

It never pays to give big values and play to more people with less revenue at the box office; nor does it pay to cheapen the industry and demoralize your theatre by slashing admissions. There is nothing the exhibitor can do that will so upset his patrons as the switching of prices. One price today or this month and another later, then back to a different scale, has an effect of "jobbing" and one that is a certain loss.

Competition

In most every section today, exhibitors have competition. It has always proved the height of folly to start a price war with your opposition. We once had a very sad experience with such a fight. In this instance, it was a three way fight.

The Fight

Things were not going so well and our pictures were not of the best. We reduced our price to Ten cents. The effect was great. Did big business. Our nearest competitor felt the strain on his box office and he cut to my price. Business continued good but not as good as it had been before the other fellow joined us in slashing the admission. Then the third house reduced his price to meet ours. Business reverted back to the position it maintained before we cut the price. We were playing to the same number of paid admissions, but with fifty percent less revenue. The result being we were forced out altogether, as we found it impossible to reinstate the former admission and get the same attendance we had before the cut was instituted. (Continued on page 2)

$3,870,000 BIGGEST P-F-L NET PROFIT

First Six Months Breaks Previous Records—Most Prosperous Year

Paramount Famous Lasky Corporation estimates its profit, after all charges and taxes, including its undistributed share of earnings of the Balaban & Katz Corporation, a sixty-five per cent. owned subsidiary, for the six months period ending June 30, 1928, to be the sum of $3,870,000 and for the quarter ending the same date, to be the sum of $1,605,000.

These earnings amount to $5.63 per share for the six months' period, and $2.33 per share for the three months' period ending on that date, on the 687,443 shares issued and outstanding.

A comparison of the six months' figures for 1926, 1927 and 1928 shows $2,587,500 in 1926; $3,532,300 in 1927 and $3,870,000 in 1928, which last figure is approximately 9% ahead of the corresponding six months in 1927.

EASTMAN-KODAK SEWS UP CHEMICAL SUPPLY

The Eastman Kodak Company has assured itself of a plentiful supply of chemicals necessary in the manufacture of its raw stock, by the establishment in 1920 of the Tennessee Eastman Corporation, whose products make the Eastman Kodak company independent of any emergency.

The enterprise is located in Kingsport, Tenn., a model city, and the company owns 30,000 acres of timber land in Southern States the products of which are turned into methanol, acetone and other constituents of film manufacture.

UNIVERSAL EARNS $1.94 PER SHARE FOR 6 MOS.

The Universal Pictures Company, Inc., and subsidiaries report for the six months ended on May 5, 1928, a net income of $651,133, equivalent, after all charges and Federal taxes, to $1.94 a share on 250,000 common shares outstanding. This compares with a net income of $543,814, or $1.46 a common share, for the same period last year.

As now defined, Stanley Jacques, manager of the Central Division, has the Chicago, Cincinnati, Des Moines, Indianapolis, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, Omaha, Kansas City and St. Louis offices under his supervision.

L. W. Weir, manager of the Western Division, the Denver, Los Angeles, Portland, Salt Lake City, San Francisco and Seattle offices; Dan Michalove, manager of the Southern Division, the Atlanta, Charlotte, Dallas, Memphis, Oklahoma City and New Orleans offices; while the Albany, Boston, Buffalo, Cleveland, Detroit, New Haven, New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Washington offices are supervised by the Home Office, assisted by L. J. Hacking.

Dowling Closes FBO Deal for Cuba Rights

Ambrose S. Dowling, manager of FBO Export Corporation this week closed a deal with the Cuban American Film Company of Havana for the distribution of the FBO product in Cuba.

Negotiations were consummated between Mr. Dowling and Pedro and Serafin Saenz, through their New York representative, Felipe Mier.

Remodelling Central for "Lilac Time"

First National Pictures is remodelling the lobby of the Central Theatre for the premiere of "Lilac Time," Colleen Moore's special George Fitzmaurice production which begins an extended run at that house on August 3. The decorative motif will be lilacs and air-planes, reflecting the love symbol and aviation sequences in the picture.

Five Distributors Win Bicycling Award

Newsreels. Sam Boyd of Washington was attorney for the exhibitors and Louis Nizer of New York for the plaintiffs.

The exhibitors filed motions with the Arbitration Board claiming that the complaints should be stricken out because they were indefinite in detail and also because they requested damages under the copyright law.

The Board decided against these motions and upheld the complaints, the reason being that motion procedure would not be recognized before arbitration boards since it would drag in the legal technicalities of law courts, which would destroy the chief object of arbitration, viz, the elimination of time delay.

Exhibitors contended that they had oral agreements with the distributors but Nizer held that such agreements were invalid and that the exhibitors and distributors stand united on one thing, and that is stamping out dishonesty from the business.

The decision was in favor of the distributors for awards totaling $4,553, the largest amount ever granted in this territory.

Hollywood Previews

"CELEBRITY"

Director Tay Garnett
Cast Robert Armstrong,
Lina Basquette, Clyde Cook, Dot Farley.

After some cutting and editing, should go over big in any type of house. Splendid acting and good direction put it where it is. Believe Garnett will go a long way after seeing the way he has handled the megaphone on this one. As to the acting, honors can almost be equally divided among Robert Armstrong, Lina Basquette, Clyde Cook and Dot Farley. Armstrong is the dumb prize-fighter who gets his publicity by pretending to be a literary hound and a home boy. There are some new and good gags; some dandy titles and a strong finish.

"THE WHIP"

A First National Picture

Director Charles Brabin
Cast Dorothy Mackaill,
Ralph Forbes, Marc McDermott,
Lowell Sherman, Anna Q. Nilsson, Albert Gran, Louis Payne.

Lavishing produced, "The Whip" looks like one of the "ten best". Director Charles Brabin has turned in a perfect piece of work, if there be such a thing. Here is a tale of old England among the aristocracy; a tale embellished by beautiful women, exquisite settings, and an exciting race. Dorothy Mackaill has never been seen to such good advantage, while each member in the cast throws himself into the part and makes for a fine whole. Good continuity, lighting and photography lend the make this a quality picture which even discriminating audiences will find to their taste.

"LOVE OVER NIGHT"

A Pathe Picture

Director Edward H. Griffith
Cast Rod La Rocque,
Jeanette Loff, Mary Carr, Richard Tucker, Tom Kennedy.

This is light, airy stuff that is certain to please any audience. There isn't much substance to the story, but it is fast moving, with plenty of comical situations that will please. The plot has all the complications in it that could possibly be thought of. The film opens with a dumb young man who works as a money changer in the subway. He strikes up an acquaintance with a pretty girl, poses as a poet, is taken for a crook, has a swift romance and many other exciting adventures. The cast is quite good, but honors go to Tom Kennedy.

Give Thought

Exhibitors should give plenty of thought before rushing in with an admission slash. The public will pay Twenty-five cents for a good attraction much quicker than Ten cents for a poor one. And if you give them too much for a set price to stimulate poor business, the effect of returning to a program that will not offer as much entertainment, when business returns to normal, will never prove satisfactory.

WILKERSON

"CALFORD IN THE MOVIES"

A Universal Picture

Director Carl Laemmle, Jr.
Cast George Lewis,
Dorothy Gulliver, Eddie Phillips, Churchill Ross, Hayden Stevenson

This is one of the Collegian series and can be classed among the best of these productions. Dorothy Gulliver and George Lewis again take the leads and are extremely at home in the parts. In fact they carry more love interest in this one, than must of those in the past. It would have been a hard job for Director Ross to go wrong in this one because the college gang all go into the movies, and he certainly should know what situations can result from this move.

"THE GHETTO"

A Tiffany-Sthal Picture

Director Norman Taurog
Cast George Jessel,
Kwen Lee, Margaret Quimby,
William H. Strauss, Rosa Rosanova, Richard Tucker, Gayne Whitman, Mary Doran

Has splendid box-office values. This is again a story of the ghetto and in actual story material, is not so different from its cousins. It is about the boy who would not be a jeweler because of his urge to go on the stage, which he does making such a success that his parents are satisfied. But regardless of that Georgie Jessel is so much in earnest that he simply hypnotizes you and puts the story over with a bang. His supports are also well chosen. Congratulations are due Taurog for this is his first feature length directorial effort and he knows his stuff.

"GOLF WIDOWS"

A Columbia Picture

Director Earl C. Kenton
Cast Very Reynolds,
Harrison Ford, Sallie Rand, Kathleen Key, Vernon Dent, John Patrick, Will Stanton.

Doesn't click. Lacks originality. Too jumpy. The title "Golf Widows" is particularly attractive and should have been backed up with a better story, and certainly one claiming some right to the word "golf". It is the case of a rose-by-any-other-name, for the tale is just one of wives who believe turn-about is fair play and go after other men when their husbands neglect them, and this has been done before whether the reason be golf or no. Comment on the acting would be useless because no one is given a chance.

"BEAUTIFUL BUT DUMB"

A Tiffany-Sthal Picture

Director Elmer Clifton
Cast Patsy Ruth Miller,
Charles Byer, Gretel Yoltz,
George Stone, Bill Irving.

Probably not first-run material, but will delight audiences in second and third rate houses. This story is revolves around the many comic situations arising when the staid secretary earns her letters in the art of love and goes after her very matter-of-fact boss. Director Clifton has given this just the character it needs. Patsy Ruth Miller is excellent in the lead and both Charles Byer and Gretel Yoltz turn in good performances. Photography's good but settings are a little overdone.

Joe Brandt, President of Columbia Pictures Corporation, announced this week the opening of the company's own exchange, located temporarily at 3330 Olive Street, St. Louis. It is to be known as the Columbia Midwest Exchanges.

Rosenbaum to Start

Million Dollar House

Spokane's long promised Million Dollar Theatre seems about to materialize at last, according to rumors now current.

Mr. L. N. Rosenbaum, who heads the interests, says that in the very near future construction will start and the contracts are now being made.

HUGHES TURNS THUMBS DOWN

Angel of "Hell's Angels"
High and Dry — It's Crackers and Milk Now

By JOE BLAIR
West Coast Representative

Howard Hughes, young head of Caddo productions and as such producer of "Two Arabian Knights", "The Racket", "The Mating Call" and "Hell's Angels" is on the war path. No doubt Hughes, has lived and has learned. He has ordered cuts in every department of his production organization and what was formerly the "great Gatsby" of production and the most lavish spender ever seen in Hollywood picture circles, is now dealing them out in nickles and dimes.

There is wailing and moaning on all sides. Christmas is over and Santa Claus has gone. Beautiful limousines that formerly carted them to location work on Caddo productions are now supplanted with an old Reo bus. The banquet lunches are now sandwiches and milk and extra checks have dwindled from the Fifty-Forty and Thirty Dollar variety, to the mere Seven Fifty a day.

Hughes has sunk around Five Million in four pictures. Half of them with a negative advance from the distributor of only Four Hundred and Fifty Thousand. It will take him a long time to get back anything near his actual cost on such advances.

Fox Retiring from

Westerns Market

Fox Films have issued a denial that Fred Thomson or any other Western star had joined the organization. Rex Bell has completed "The Girl-Shy Cowboy", the third of his productions for Fox, and will appear in seven Westerns for release next season.

No other Western pictures have been scheduled for production or release by Fox Film Corporation, which appears to be retiring from the Western market.

"Motherhood" Passed

To correct a wrong statement of a film submitted by Joseph Klein to the Censors for license, the name given in Friday's issue was "Womanhood". The title should have read "Motherhood". It was passed.

Rice Appointed

D. E. Rice has been appointed district manager of the Universal-California Theatres succeeding Manny Feldstein, resigned. Rice will have supervision over the Yost Broadway, Spurgeon and West End Theatres in Santa Ana, the Scenic and Strand Theatres in Whittier and the Rialto and Mission Court Theatres in Fullerton, California.

Hold over "Crime"

"The Perfect Crime" an FBO special production with Clive Brook and Irene Rich in leading roles, has been held over for a second week at the United Artists Theatre, Detroit.

This theatre also booked "Hit of the Show" for a week's engagement.

KENNEDY MUST SLICE
1ST NAT'L. PROD. COSTS

Joseph P. Kennedy seems to have served notice on everyone connected with First National studios because the tremendous production costs that have existed in this organization in the past will have to be cut and in cutting the cost, he doesn't intend that production values will be lowered accordingly.

With this in view, contracts of stars, players, directors and writers hereafter will be based on a series of pictures or for single productions. In other words, a guaranteed weekly salary is a thing of the past. This, of course, will go in effect only on completion of the contracts of the various stars, players, writers and directors.

Kennedy seems to feel that methods employed at the FBO studio will work with equal effect at First National.

Not only will stars, directors, actors and writers be cut, but the personnel of every department will be reduced to a minimum. It being Kennedy's impression that efficiency will of necessity not be accomplished by a great number of employees in any specified department. Accordingly there is hardly any question but what the axe has only started to fall at First National.

Production at "U"

Reaches New Peak

With thirteen productions being filmed and four in the final stages of preparation, activity on the Universal lot has reached a new peak for the year, according to an announcement by Pres. Carl Laemmle.

Production of "Show Boat" has been started; "The Last Warning" is in its final stages; and Edward Sloman is winding up work in "The Girl on the Barge".

William Wyler has just completed "The Shakedown". Leigh Jason is directing "Eyes of the Underworld" and Josef Levigard is directing "Born to the Saddle".

Sup. Court Denies

M-G-M Injunction

now be.

He felt that there are justifiable grounds in asking the injunction and intimated that he would probably renew the motion on another basis satisfactory to the Court.

Robert T. Swain of Cravath, Henderson and DeGersdorff represented M-G-M in the controversy. Should further appeals for an injunction by the I.M.P.E.A. fail, the court may set a definite date for trial of the case, grounds for which will probably be conspiracy to induce breach of M & S contracts.

Rothacker Enroute

LOS ANGELES—Watterson R. Rothacker is enroute to New York where he will sail for Europe in August.

$500,000 House

DARBY, Pa.—The largest theatre in Delaware County, seating 2,500 has been started here. It is the Parker Theatre which will cost $500,000. Opening will take place October 1st.

STUDIO GOSSIP

"Humming Wires", the first of Tim McCoy's starring Indian pictures, will go into production within the next few days. This will be followed by "Sioux Blood". Both will be directed by John Waters at the M-G-M studios.

After learning that Phillip Holmes, the Princeton sophomore who was given an important part in Charles Rogers' Paramount picture "Varsity", we further discovered that he is no other than the son of Taylor Holmes.

There is a great changed Gilbert Roland over at the United Artists' studio where "The Woman Disputed" is being filmed. By the close-cropping of his wavy, black hair, he has taken on a steamer appearance.

Carlyle Blackwell, Benita Hume and Gordon Harker will be featured in the Gainsborough production, "The Wrecker" under the direction of G. Bolvary.

Majorie Beebe wins the feminine lead in "Homesick", the latest Fox picture to go into production. It is an original story by Jones Stone.

But we do know this much—that Fox has established Helen Ware the actress from the legitimate stage as head of a Movietone department which will train the company's players for voice recording.

And that her husband, Fred Burt who came East with her and is also known on the stage will in all probability appear in some Movietone numbers.

My dear Mr. Grainger:

Why did I buy the Fox pictures?
For the very good reason that we couldn't afford to pass them up.

We played the Fox pictures this last season and were so well pleased with the quality of production, the stars and the box-office results that with the pictures announced for the coming season, we could not afford if we were to continue as the leaders in the local field, to permit your output to go elsewhere. With such outstanding successes as "Street

"Fazil," "The Red Dance" on your list of forthcoming releases, already proven their worth at the box-office, we know that we have attractions already sold when they reach our theatres.

Very truly yours,

OBSERVATIONS

A Body Blow

The refusal of Judge Sherman in the Supreme Court to grant an injunction in the case of the Independent Motion Picture Exhibitors Association vs Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, is a body blow to that organization in general and Aaron Sapiro in particular. Much importance is attached to this decision for had it been granted, this independent group would have shown sufficient strength to carry-on where other similar organizations had failed. But as it is, it seems the beginning of the end.

Hope

There is still hope though. That hope rests in the possibility of Sapiro, after being able to serve the Mayer-Schneider group, getting an injunction to restrain M. & S. from buying pictures from M-G-M or any other distributor as per their contract with the organization he represents. But this hope is faint in view of the decision just granted, it practically covers the same ground and, no doubt, the same judge or even another one, would be guided by this decision in adjudging the merits of the other.

Curtains

In retaining Sapiro, this independent group of exhibitors realized that he did not know pictures, but he did know organization and would accordingly organize them and keep them in line. They figured if any of their number slipped out the side door, as was the case with Mayer & Schneider, he could pull them back in the front way and failing in this, could muster enough strength to compel any of the distributors from dealing with them. He has failed in both and failing, it looks like curtains for him.

Another Course

In so far as this decision is concerned, Sapiro could appeal to higher courts, but this could not be heard until December. Without the appeal he could insist on trial and this could hardly be accomplished before a year. In either case, very few of the exhibitors would care to wait for that length of time.

Merger

Sapiro and his group evidently sensed reversals such as has just occurred, for B. S. Moss has already been recruited with the thought of forming a stronger

Herbert R. Ebenstein yesterday pointed out that the Court did not deny the right of injunction in the M & S and M-G-M matter.

"The determination of the issue will not be long delayed," said Mr. Ebenstein, "when the courts finally come to the point of considering the merits of our case, which they have not yet done."

"There is little doubt in our minds and in the minds of our attorneys as to what the decision will be."

The net profit for the year ending 1928, of the Fox Film Corporation may total $8.00 a share on the 767,216 shares of capital stock now outstanding, as compared with the $6.24 per share earned on 500,000 shares last year.

Contracts for films with theatres owned by Paramount-Balaban & Katz-Publix group will bring additional income of well over $1,000,000 to the Fox organization, starting next Fall.

The Poli Theatres are also expected to add from $500,000 to $750,000 to Fox's film gross rentals next year and the full benefit from the company's expansion in production and

Felix Feist Declares Decision Only Just One—Full Text Appended

According to Aaron Sapiro, the I.M.P.E.A. will probably ask leave of the court to renew the motion asking an injunction against Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, but may concentrate all efforts to get a certain kind of service on Mayer & Schneider before doing so, as the Court seems to think that it is most important that service take place on M. & S. This may be the first step taken.

peal from the Sherman decision to Appellate Division of the Supreme Court nor would he serve notice of trial on M-G-M, at this time, preferring to pursue the M. & S. matter first.

Felix Feist, General Sales Manager of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Corp., yesterday stated that the decision was the only one that could be rendered under the circumstances, in his opinion. "M-G-M has breached no contracts or done anything illegal, improper or unethical. They have proper contracts with Mayer & Schneider, who claimed they were not members of the Sapiro organization, when they signed the contracts."

The full text of the decision follows:

"Independent Motion Picture Exhibitors Ass'n, Inc., vs. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Distribution Corp'n et al.—The equitable relief sought by plaintiff upon this motion cannot be granted. Only one defendant, the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Distributing Corporation, has been brought into court; the injunction order, if granted, would forbid defendant, a producer and dealer in motion picture films for exhibition in theatres, to deliver film to the unserved defendants, owners of theatres who have purchased the product from the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Distributing Corporation for exhibition in their respective theatres. Such a drastic order which might cause grave damage to these theatre owners manifestly should not issue without their presence in the suit.

Moreover, the matter set forth in the moving papers as ground for injunctive relief, which charges the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Distributing Corporation with having induced these several unserved theatre owners to break their contract with plaintiff, is denied. Therefore, even if it were assumed that the statements contained in the moving papers are sufficient as averments of fact to set forth a cause of action, an issue of fact is presented. Under these circumstances there is no occasion to inquire at this juncture into the interesting questions of law which are presented by briefs, for the well settled practice of this court requires that such a dispute of fact shall be determined not upon a motion for an injunction pendente lite, but upon the trial of the action.

Exhibitors Co-Operative, Ltd. Merges 50 Theatre Owners

Baillie, Toronto Theatre Man Heads New Group—Lennon Film Buyer

TORONTO — Forty to fifty independent theatre owners in this district have combined their general activities in a new company called Exhibitors' Co-Operative, Ltd., and through the merger hope to improve service to their customers and secure the opportunity of buying pictures to better advantage. No exchange will be frozen out and it is expected the public will reap the benefit of increased profits and earnings.

Personnel of the new company includes J. Earl Lawson, Toronto lawyer, Bill Baillie, exhibitor, Pres., Nat Taylor, Sec'y-Treas. and Bud Lennon, film Buyer. The company is affiliated with the Coleman Electric Co. for the purchase of all theatre supplies. A Board of Directors with 31 members has been formed to manage the affairs of the company.

An outline of the new co-operative enterprise, divulges that it is organized under the Co-operative laws of Ontario for mutual protection and benefit of exhibitors; is organized on a basis of collective film and supplies buying to obtain strength in combined buying power; to buy film for individual members at prices they will specify; to split the profits among the members in ratio to their film purchases for the year and in accordance with the laws of the province.

Artclass Finish 3 "Embarrassing Moments"

Three of the novel comedy series, "Embarrassing Moments", announced a short time ago by Weiss Brothers' Artclass Pictures Corporation are now completed and ready for release, according to Max Weiss, president and general manager of the company's sales and distribution activities.

Territorial rights are still open in a few sections and the series may be booked at any time during the course of production. To get full value from their audiences, however, theatres booking early will secure the greatest results.

Julius Joelson, Bronx exhibitor, has given up the lease on his Ritz Theatre at 180th Street & Boston Road which is owned by the Consolidated Amusement Co. The theatre will be closed indefinitely.

MIZNER COINS A NEW ONE

Wilson Mizner, worlds wit, realtor, gambler, author, playwright and more recently, dispenser of expensive stories for motion pictures, has coined a new one. This time it is "tell-shock".

Wilson says, "I have told so many stories and sold so few, I am suffering from an acute attack of "tell-shock".

SPRING-STAUSS DENY SEVERANCE FROM F. N.

In direct reverse to a Coast report that Sam Spring, Sec'y-Treasurer of First National Pictures and Florence Strauss, head of the scenario department would resign from the company, both officials yesterday strenuously denied that such was the case.

Mrs. Strauss stated she expected to remain with the company for a long time and Mr. Spring was also emphatic in the untruth of the rumor.

Pinanski Gets Gorman Theatre Interests

BOSTON—The L. P. Gorman interests in the Maine and State Theatres of Portland, Me., may be purchased by the New England Theatres Operating Corporation, headed by Samuel Pinauski.

The Netoco group will probably have a chain of over 30 theatres with the acquisition of the Gorman theatres. The State in Portland is being built.

"STREET ANGEL" GARNERS $121,616 SECOND WEEK

"Street Angel" in its second week at the Roxy Theatre has gone and done it again, ringing up $121,616.25 in receipts.

The Capitol Theatre had a good come-back, doing $72,434.60 with "The Forbidden Hour" and the Paramount Theatre taking in $70,900 on Bebe Daniels in "Hot News" followed close behind.

"Warming Up" at the Rivoli, a hold-over, did $29,600 and "The Racket" also a hold over at the Rialto did $29,100. "The Lion and the Mouse" at the Warner Theatre played to $13,145.

Other receipts were $10,450 at the Globe with "Red Dance", $11,200 at the Criterion with "Wings"; $7,895 at the Embassy with "Tempest"; $8,976 at the Gaiety with "Fazil" and $4,780 at the Cameo with "Hunting African Game" and "The Seal Hunt".

PRINT OF LANGDON'S LATEST IN TOWN

The first print of Harry Langdon's latest First National comedy, "Heart Trouble", has just reached New York. In the cast are Harry Langdon, Doris Dawson, Lionel Belmore, Madge Hunt, Bud Jaimison, Mark Hamilton and Nelson McDowell. The story was written by Arthur Ripley. In "Heart Trouble" Harry is seen as a military man who can't fight his way into the big fight.

have not been overcome, although our chemists are working on the problem."

The new natural color process is reported to be so revolutionary as to place it alongside the invention of motion pictures. In principle, totally different from previous experiments, it gives an accurate and brilliant reproduction of every color and tint in nature.

The radically new element in the process is the film, which instead of the usual smooth surface, the side opposite the sensitive coating is embossed with cylindrical lenses so minute as to be invisible. They run lengthwise of the film and are 1-559 of an inch wide.

Effect of these invisibly small lenses is to separate the rays of light coming through the three segments of a three colored "light filter" into the camera. Each of three colors of the filter—red, green and blue—lets into the camera only the light rays of its own color. The three different colored light rays register on the film only as black and white; but each tiny lens embossed on the film so distributes the light rays falling upon it that the different colors register on the sensitive film emulsion as a distinct black and white impression for each color at that point.

Then when light from the projector passes through the film, through the tiny film lenses and through the projector lens, each ray is directed through the proper color on the light filter, to fall on its proper spot on the screen. The combination of the three colors, red, green and blue, gives practically every natural color.

Starting August 3rd, the Fanchon & Marco shows at the Fifth Avenue Theatre in Seattle will be transferred to the Seattle Theatre and the Fifth Avenue will go into a long-run policy.

A number of new Fox productions with sound, as well as the big ones from Paramount and First National will go into this house early in August and September.

At Portland, Ore., the F. & M. revues in the Broadway Theatre were transferred to the Portland, beginning yesterday and the Publix stage shows now playing in the Portland will be eliminated.

The Broadway now becomes the "roadshow" house playing big specials with movietone synchronization. Floyd Maxwell states that the change in policy of both houses is a good move and should stimulate business.

FRED THOMSON LEAVES PICTURES

Westerns Ease off — Big Contracts Scarce and Fred has a Boat

By JOE BLAIR
Hollywood Correspondent

It looks as if Fred Thomson is finished with pictures, temporarily for certain and most likely for good.

With the finish of "Kit Carson" for Paramount, his contract with this organization is completed. He disbanded his entire unit and is now busying himself with his thirty foot speed boat. He expects to enter it in the San Diego motor boat races.

Joseph Kennedy, who had Thomson's contract with Paramount and financed the productions, wants Fred to go over to Pathe for a series, of course at a greatly reduced salary, but Fred is not of the same opinion.

WARNER BROS. FINALLY FINISH "NOAH'S ARK"

After several months actual shooting, "Noah's Ark", probably the most ambitious production this organization has yet made, has been finished.

This production in its screen dramatization embraces two stories, a biblical one and a modern one and between them is a drawn parallel by showing how a decadent world was first cleansed by the visitation of the deluge and later by the visitation of the World War.

Livingston Resigns

Beulah Livingston has resigned as head of publicity department for Joseph M. Schenck productions. Russell Phelps has been named Miss Livingston's successor.

"Two Tars" for Roach

The latest Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy comedy has been titled "Two Tars" and has been shipped East for M-G-M release. Supervising director Leo McCarey has assigned James Parrott to direct their next.

Gleason Buys Idea

Mrs. Nancy Smith, mother of Dorothy Dwan, has sold an idea for a story to James Gleason for the sum of $5,000. Gleason intends to elaborate on the idea, produce it as a play and later dispose of picture rights.

Denny Wins

Reginald Denny has evidently won his argument with Universal as to who is to be his leading lady. Announcement has been made that Bubbles Steiffel, the future Mrs. Denny, will appear opposite him in "Red Hot Speed" Bubbles is known on the screen as Betsy Lee.

Tiffany-Stahl Expand

John M. Stahl has announced that plans are now being made for considerable improvements in the size and facilities at the Sunset Boulevard studios for Tiffany-Stahl Productions. A sound stage is being constructed and apparatus for talking pictures will be installed.

"IRON MASK" LAUNCHED WITH GREAT CEREMONY

Robert Fairbanks, General Manager for his brother Douglas, officiated at the ceremony at which the new production, "The Iron Mask" was launched.

This took place on the Fairbanks lot where the first set representing the Palace at St. Germain and a section of street is under way. When finished, this will be one of the most elaborate of its kind ever constructed.

It represents the combined talent of the Fairbanks technical department in addition to Lawrence Irving, the famous London painter and Maurice LeLoir the celebrated French authority on Seventeenth Century art and architecture.

Actual shooting on "The Iron Mask" is scheduled for August 15th.

Farrell-Duncan Set

The question of Mary Duncan and Charles Farrell playing two pictures almost simultaneously was arranged amicably today between F. W. Murnau, the director of "Our Daily Bread" and Frank Borzage who is to make "The River", both Fox productions.

Both of them will take exterior locations in Oregon—Murnau in the wheat fields and Borzage on the Columbia River, thereby having the featured players in both productions near at hand for a call from either director.

Laemmle's Honored

Carl Laemmle, Sr., and Junior will be honored at a testimonial dinner given by an association of foreign writers at the Roosevelt Hotel, Wednesday evening. Sid Grauman, Charles Chaplin, Sam Goldwyn, Emil Jannings, D. W. Griffith, B. P. Schulberg, Winfield R. Sheehan and others will be in attendance.

Universal Signs Another

In the two-reel release "The Collegians", evidently Universal has a great school for star material. The latest to be signed by this organization from the ranks in this series is Rayne Du Val.

equipment process to have access to all the big Broadway plays and the Vocafilm equipment will probably be the only machine to be installed in the legitimate theatre circuits of such producers as The Shuberts, the Woods, Bradys and other houses. Hammons is to have full charge of the installations.

Whether the plans of the stage producers call for immediate production of next season's stage successes in films for the outlying districts is not known, but it is expected that first work will be started on successes of former seasons and with the original casts, to be played in road-show theatres for long-runs at prices from 50c to $1.

STUDIO GOSSIP

Virginia Brown Faire continues going strong. She is just completing her ninth picture this year, this time for Chesterfield.

Two Fox productions have been started at the Hollywood studios; one is "Fog" in which Lois Moran and George O'Brien will have the leads with Charles Klein directing; and the other "The Woman" with Mary Astor and John Boles under the direction of Irving Cummings.

Princilla Bonner has announced her intention to take up the married life. She says she will wed Dr. Bert Woolfan on the first of September.

Harry Carr, w.k. columnist and film critic, has been engaged to write the titles of First National's "The Divine Lady".

The cast on Warner Bros.' "Hard Boiled Rose" has been completed and the names include William Collier, Jr., John Miljan, Gladys Brockwell, Edward Martindel, Lucy Beaumont and Ralph Emerson.

Anders Randolph is preparing to don Bole Armenia. He starts "The Thrall of Leif the Lucky", Technicolors first feature production, next week.

As previously printed in this column, Larry Kent will not play the juvenile role in "Do Your Duty" Charlie Murray's starring vehicle for First National. Charles Delaney has taken his place.

Theodore Roberts is now fully recovered and everyone will be glad to see him walking without his cane. He declares he now feels fit to play a juvenile role.

"The Boy Friend" is the title of the Roach all-star comedy just completed. It was directed by Fred Guiol and the cast includes Max Davidson, Ed Kennedy, Marion Byron, Gordon Elliott and Fay Holderness.

This week finds Lois Wilson again a member of the motion picture colony. Because shooting began on the Vitaphone production in which she was to appear, she had to terminate her activities on the legitimate stage.

Flora Finch is now playing in "The Haunted House", a First National production; Christensen directing.

"Into the Depths" has been changed by Columbia Pictures so that the final title for this Jack Holt starring vehicle will be "Submarine".

Pauline Fredericks who knows her Hollywood arrived last week from the East to escape the unbearably warm weather. She will, of course, return to the legitimate stage in September when she plays Detroit.

"Big Boy" Williams has gone and got himself engaged for an important role in F. W. Murnau's "Our Daily Bread", a Fox production.

Reed Howes has been signed for

"White Shadows in the South Seas", the M-G-M first sound picture will open at Grauman's Chinese Theatre, Friday night, August 3rd.

SEBASTIAN CONTRACT FOR HAYAKAWA FILM

HOLLYWOOD—Sessue Hayakawa most famous of Japanese actors is going to stage a comeback. Harry Sebastian has signed a contract with Hayakawa, whereby he is to spend approximately a half-million dollars in producing "The Bandit Prince" as a talking-motion picture, using technicolor for many of the important sequences.

"The Bandit Prince" is from the pen of Hayakawa himself. It has been definitely decided that sound synchronization will be used for the picture, but a decision has not yet been reached as to which one of the several devices on the market will be used.

Mr. Sebastian plans to leave for New York in a short time to settle definitely on a releasing arrangement.

the lead opposite May McAvoy in Warner's "Stolen Kisses" which goes into production this week, and upon the completion of which Howes will return to Charles Rogers for another aviation picture.

Now a director in his own right, George Crone is handling the megaphone on "The Floating College" for Tiffany-Stahl.

From all indications, Charles Rogers' second starring vehicle for Paramount will be a comedy. Richard Wallace, known for his direction on the light side of the movies, has been signed as director, and the picture will also have in the cast, Mary Brian and Chester Conklin.

The principals to play with Dolores Costello in "The Redeeming Sin", her new Vitaphone special, will be Conrad Nagel, Georgie Stone, Lionel Belmore, Nina Quartaro, Warner Richmond and Philippe Delacy.

OBSERVATIONS

Alarm

There is cause for great alarm on the part of producers and distributors due to the refusal of exhibitors throughout the country to sign for next years product. Never in the history of the industry have so few contracts been signed. The reasons are many and the effect, although not felt now, will cause some consternation later.

Unusual

We were talking to a distributor yesterday who informed us that his Chicago office had only signed twelve contracts for their next years output. This is unusual and astounding. The product of this distributor has always been very satisfactory and the Chicago territory is one of the most lucrative. What's going to be the answer?

The Blame

Producers have themselves to blame for the most part. They have, in every case, tried to "out-announce" their competitor regarding sound pictures. Everything seemingly will have sound, a large portion will contain talk. This is very confusing to most exhibitors in that they neither have an equipment for sound nor can they get it. They don't seem to realize that most of the producers have been carried out the back door on a sound wave and the majority of this talk is being whispered through their vest pockets.

Quandry

Most of the theatre owners are in a quandry. They don't know which way to turn. They are afraid to buy right now, they want to wait. And this wait is going to cost the producers a lot of money. There does not seem any necessity for it. This sound thing is being clarified quite a bit, it is getting down to a more sensible basis, part of the mania is leaving it.

A Way Out

We think the best thing to accelerate contracts is for the producers to devote a little of their paid advertising space to the "straight movie" and inform the publicity department to send out a few stories backing up these ads. Give the exhibitor some encouragement. Give him something to tie his wagon to. Help him make his decision. The sooner the better.

Listen, Mr. Exhibitor----

"Come on, don't hand me that 'gag'. I'm a film salesman. I've been in the game a good many years and for the past three, have always sold you. I've tried to play fair and always sold you at the right price. Every other time you have listened to me; you listen now. You said last year you could not pay the price. I showed you how you could and you did. You say yourself you did not do so bad. I've always been on the level with you and I am on the level now."

"Don't pay any attention to those ads you see in the papers about talking pictures, about sound effects and musical accompaniment, it's all the bunk even though my boss does put those ads in. Forget about it and let's talk business. Come on let's be on the level with each other. Down in your heart you know that talking pictures are a long way from perfect. Don't be fooled by the reports you get from New York about the public storming the doors to get in to see the talkies. Sure they did business but its a 'gag'. Those people were just curious to see what it was all about. Even if they were good, you could not get them, for the manufacturers of sound equipment are so swamped with orders it would take you two years to get an installation."

"So why not sit tight until talking pictures become an accepted and perfected means of entertainment. You still have that theatre of yours to operate. And you must have good pictures—you must continue to build more and more of a patronage. Film men have better propositions for you now than ever before. Let's get back to arguing our heads off about the kind of pictures that will mean better business for all of us. Now is the time."

"But don't, for the love of Mike, pull that 'talkie' stuff on me!" "Look over your records. Get out your pencils. Give your pet film men the glad hand. Buckle down to business. You've got to have film and you've got to keep people coming to your theatres. Cut out the worry. Cross your bridge when you come to it. I'm here to serve you and you're on the job to serve your public. Let's get together."

PERSONALITIES

TOM REED

"Titled by Tom Reed" is nowadays simply equivalent to—this picture has a dandy set for titles. Such is his reputation, which has been earned by delivering the goods.

Reed's a writer—has turned out some good magazine stories and one-act plays; is under a long term contract with Universal Pictures and is credited with titling "Lonesome", "Finder Keepers", "Thanks for the Buggy Side", "Good Morning Judge", "Out All Night", "Stop That Man!", etc. Now is he working on the spoken dialogue for the first named picture.

Tom Reed was born in Shelton, Wash., December 25, 1903, and attended the high school of that city and later a private military academy in Los Angeles. He connected with a newspaper and combined motion picture press agenting with this work. Later he became a theatre manager and then again went back to publicity. He exploited and publicized for Samuel Goldwyn, Mary Pickford, and the now defunct California Theatre. Following this, he worked for First National, Joseph M. Schenck and eventually became personal representative of Thos. H. Ince. With Ince's death, Reed joined Carl Laemmle as Director of Publicity for Universal on the west coast, from where he graduated into title writing.

His wife is a non-professional and their little daughter, Alison, of two and a half years, is still too young to think of a career.

"Man Who Laughs" Synchro Pleases "U"

Executives of Universal Pictures Corporation yesterday viewed the completed Fox-Case Movie-tone synchronization of "The Man Who Laughs" and several declared the picture now was twice as effective as heretofore.

A large variety of sounds have been used in the picture which are particularly effective in the circus scenes.

COAL WAR END TO BRING ILL. PROSPERITY

ILLINOIS—Motion Picture Theatre Owners in this State are very happy over the settlement of the difficulties between the United Mine Workers of America and the coal operators, which is the first step toward the revival of the coal mining industry in Illinois.

Theatres operating in the mining communities look for continued prosperity, the new wage scale for the workers tending to better business conditions all around.

The plan includes no charge for installation in theatres, but adds a weekly rental fee for all synchronized pictures furnished. A Mr. Rogers is said to be the inventor and a Mr. Ettinger, the promoter.

The only thing reported to be holding the invention back from distribution at this time is lack of manufacturing facilities and suitable distribution arrangements.

used and several theatres in New York, Boston, Chicago, Omaha and other centers will open the Fall season shortly after Labor Day, completely equipped for talking pictures. The Palace may be one of these.

Officials of the company admitted that a limited allotment of machines will be furnished by Western and General Electric, other houses in the chain being equipped from time to time as additional orders are completed.

Steps have already been taken by the two manufacturers preparatory toward the production of a new projector with built in talking attachments and interchangeable for all three systems.

Anderson Arrives

John Murray Anderson, theatrical producer for the Publix Theatres Corporation, arrived in New York yesterday on the Majestic, following a two months' tour of Europe.

His next stage show for Publix, "Parisian Nights," will open at the Paramount Theatre in a few weeks.

Paramount will release five feature productions and eight short feature pictures, exclusive of Paramount News, in August. Of the feature productions three will have sound accompaniment and a like number of short features, Christie comedies, will be equipped with music score, sound effects, and in some cases, dialogue.

"Warming Up", will be the first feature release with sound for the new season, ready for bookings August 4th.

"Forgotten Faces", will be released August 11th. This picture is considered one of the strongest in the Paramount line up for the Whole Show program.

"Loves of an Actress", will be released August 18th. Also scheduled for release on August 18th is "The First Kiss".

The last feature release for the month, produced with sound accompaniment, is "Sawdust Paradise". It will be released August 25th.

FLADER RECALLED FROM EUROPE FOR NEW POST

F. A. Flader, veteran Universal theatre man, has returned to New York from Europe and will fill an important post in the home office of the Universal Chain Theatres.

An expert on theatre operation, he recently was recalled by Carl Laemmle from his theatre activities in Berlin. Certain re-arrangements in the direction of the Universal chain houses and an enlargement of the executive personnel brought about the new shift.

It is understood that the synchronization of many of the Universal houses was largely responsible for the contemplated change in operating policy.

TEXAS FILM OPERATORS IN 2 FIRE TRAGEDIES

Two theatre-fire tragedies occurred in Texas Theatres recently which resulted in the loss of one operator's life and the severe burning of the other.

Guy Metcalfe, operator in the Plastex at Pleasanton, Texas gave his life in a heroic attempt to prevent panic in the theatre, when fire reached films in his booth. As the box of films exploded, Metcalfe attempted to smother the fire but was showered with flames and a stream of burning celluloid. He jumped out of a second-story window but died in the hospital. No patrons were injured.

At Mabank, Texas, F. H. Rike, Jr., operator at the Ritz Theatre was severely burned by a fire resulting from contact of a hot carbon with film on the re-wind table.

He was hemmed in against the booth wall, with the entire blaze cutting him off from escape. The owner claimed 9,000 feet of film were burned and booth and equipment damaged. There was no insurance.

U.A.-PARAMOUNT FIRST ST. LOUIS TALKIES SAT.

ST. LOUIS—The Ambassador and Loew's State Theatres will be ready on August 4th to begin their first talking feature policies. Loew's State plans to open with United Artists "Two Loves" which is being synchronized and the Ambassador will have "Warming Up," Dix-Paramount film. The orchestra and stage presentations will be eliminated at the Ambassador.

$300,000 House

CHICAGO—Foundations have been completed for the new Capitol Theatre to be erected in Anderson, Ind. The theatre will seat 1,500 and will cost $300,000 to construct advises Harry Muller, owner.

40,000 Chairs Sold

The Heywood-Wakefield Company has constructed a special auditorium chair for de luxe Publix houses and has a contract to furnish 40,000 theatre seats for that circuit.

Indianapolis Misses

Music Fight for Year

INDIANAPOLIS—The Indiana will offer its first sound picture on August 4th, when "Four Sons", a Fox Movietone will be shown at the Indiana Theatre. The Palace Theatre expects to open its talkie program on August 11th, with M-G-M's "White Shadows of the South Seas".

Present contracts between the musicians' union and the theatres will not terminate before August, 1929, and the local musicians are watching closely the effect of the new programs at the Indiana and Palace, pending further decisions from the national musicians' Federation.

"Fortune's Fool"

Lou Rogers' Jannings film "Fortune's Fool" will begin a run at the Cameo Theatre starting August 11th. The picture will open at the State, Schenectady on August 10th.

Missouri Blue Law

COLUMBIA, Mo.—A Sunday movie war is threatening this town where a survey is being made by leading citizens to reopen theatres on that day. The claim is made that inhabitants of the city are flocking to outside towns, such as Boonville, Moberly and Jefferson City in order to see pictures on Sunday. The clergy are opposed to any re-opening.

"King of Kings" Gets

Good Chicago Booking

Pathe's "The King of Kings" has been booked by the United Artists Theatre in Chicago. This is the first outside picture to be booked for the theatre since it was acquired by United Artists.

John Flinn, Vice President of Pathe, is now in Chicago completing plans with Hugo Reisenfeld for the opening of the picture on August third.

Wilmer-Vincent Buy

"President" Group

First National Pictures, Inc., it is announced by Ned E. Depinet, general sales manager, has closed a contract for its President Group of pictures for 1928-29 with the Wilmer & Vincent Circuit, embracing first runs in Reading, Harrisburg and Allentown, Pa.

Labor Day to Precipitate Chicago Musicians' War

CHICAGO—Labor Day will probably see a showdown between the theatre owners and the musicians' union, as most contracts will expire at that time.

The fight will most likely center around the larger circuits such as Balaban & Katz and Lubliner & Trinz, with Marks Brothers and the National Playhouses, now in receivership, staying on the other side of the fence and retaining their present orchestras.

The Ascher Brothers, National Theatres, both struggling to regain a foothold, may have to obtain court permission to make a decided stand one way or the other in the musical war.

Local musicians who ordinarily count on employment by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra are without work due to the disbanding of the orchestra, and these men added to the theatre unemployed, 16 and 18 men being employed where 40 were formerly, the situation will become serious.

There may be some relief for the musicians in the possibility that many theatres now counting on installing talking picture apparatus may not get delivery in time for the new season and may be forced to enter into a new yearly contract with the union.

Actress Divorced

Virginia Brown Faire wis divorced from Jack Dougherty, one time husband of Barbara La Marr.

LEDDY SUIT AGAINST OMAHA BOARD UP SOON

OMAHA—The Omaha Film Board of Trade has been charged with restraint of trade in a suit filed in the District Court of the U. S. District of Nebraska, by Thomas H. Leddy, for $105,000.

Beside the Board, Columbia Pictures, Educational, P-F-L; Pathe, P.D.C. and U.A. are mentioned as having conspired to close the plaintiff's theatre, the Garden, in Omaha, and force him out of business.

Action is not probable before next November. The controversy involves non-payment of deposits and unplayed pictures on old contracts of former owner of theatre.

MIZNER FINISHES "SOAPY SMITH" TALKING PATHE NEWS READY

Author Completes "Skagway" for Fox Release

By JOE BLAIR
Hollywood Correspondent

Wilson Mizner, has finished his story "Soapy Smith" for Fox and it will go into production at an early date under the title of "Skagway".

This yarn is an original by Mizner and a true story of one of the most famous characters of the early Klondike days. Mizner says, "Soapy" was a friend of mine, and I am a bit self-conscious at having to make public his dark and sinister career, but as he was a burglar and stick-up man of deep understanding, I will confront his wraith with some fortitude, as he himself would do anything for money."

Guinan for Vitaphone

Texas Guinan, the queen of the night life around New York, has been engaged by Warner Brothers to do a Vitaphone.

Fairbanks Thinks Not

Although no definite announcement has come from either Cecil B. DeMille or Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer regarding C.B.'s affiliations with that organization, it seems certain.

Douglas Fairbanks does not believe it. He is trying to persuade C.B. to reconsider his decision and join United Artists.

Wilson With Fitz

Carey Wilson, who wrote the scenario and adaptation of "The Private Life of Helen of Troy" and of Colleen Moore's new stellar vehicle "Oh, Kay!", has been assigned by First National Pictures to prepare the continuity of "Changeling," a talking picture which George Fitzmaurice will direct with Dorothy Mackaill in the leading role. The picture will open with a court-room scene containing the spoken dialogue.

Orman Finishes Script

LONDON—Felix Orman, scenarist, has completed an original story dealing with juvenile crime called "Haunted Lives", and is now negotiating for its production.

HALL-RCA NEWSREEL 100% REPRODUCTION

Sound Separate from Camera in Recording— Wider Prod. Range

Ray Hall, Editor of the Pathe News, has been working for weeks on the details of an organization that will apply sound effects to the Pathe News. His technical staff now believes that most of the difficulties have been solved.

"The news reel will be the best, the most effective, of all phases of sound reproduction," says Mr. Hall. "All the technique of motion picture photography has been first evolved by news reel cameramen. They have pioneered the whole industry in this respect. While in the studios the cameramen are able to work under ideal conditions, the news reel men have had to meet and overcome the handicaps imposed by the most trying conditions. Our men have been so trained as to meet every problem on their own initiative. In consequence news reel photography is probably higher in quality than in any other branch of the business.

"When it comes to getting into sound and applying a new technique to the old, it is natural that the news reel men should pioneer.

"In my opinion sound in short subjects is more easily applied, is more effective than with features. I also believe that the RCA system provides an elasticity in application to photography that will enable us to produce a much better news reel than would be possible with other systems. With the RCA the sound recorder is separate from the camera. With the others sound is photographed in the camera. As a result with the RCA we have the opportunity of fading out from one sound recorder to another. That will enable us to make the sound record match the camera angle."

Added to "Shakedown"

Three new players have been added to the cast of "The Shakedown," the prize-ring, back-stage, oil field story being directed by William Wyler, with James Murray and Barbara Kent in featured roles. They are George Kotsonaros, Jack Raymond and Harry Tenbrook. The cast also includes Mary Nolan, Harry Gribbons, Wheeler Oakman and Jackie Hanlon.

Charles A. Logue wrote the story. It is Wyler's first feature since "Anybody Here Seen Kelly?"

"Scandals" in Film

The George White Scandals may be boiled down to a 25-minute talking film, which may be used as a feature of the stage producer's next production in the Winter.

Kathleen Collines Signed

Kathleen Collines will be the leading woman for Ted Wells in that western star's next Universal feature, "Grit Wins." It will go into production next Monday under the direction of Joe Levigard. Al Ferguson, Buck Connors and Nelson McDowell also are in the cast.

STUDIO GOSSIP

"Port of Dreams" now in the cutting stage is a Universal production starring Mary Philbin and which had the working titles of "Salvage" and "Forbidden Love".

Louise Fazenda, for a long time a great favorite of ours, has been selected by Fox to play the leading feminine role in "Riley the Cop". And it's a Munich barmaid, Miss Fazenda will be.

The Vitaphone staff which worked on Warners' first all-talking picture, "Lights of New York" will be kept intact as far as possible for the making of "The Home Towners" an all-talkie based on George M. Cohan's stage play.

Greta Garbo will have Sidney Franklin as her director in her next picture, "Romance". This to follow "A Woman of Affairs".

Judging from the rushes, Columbia officials think they have a powerful box-office attraction in "Runaway Girls" which is now being completed under the direction of Mark Sandrich.

Mack Swain has been added to "The Cohens and the Kellys in Atlantic City" which company leaves Universal City for the east on Wednesday. This picture is being prepared with dialogue for sound reproduction.

"Number Please" will be the third Paramount production in which Neil Hamilton will appear as Bebe Daniels' leading man. The combination evidently works well at the b.o.

Jack Warner has just announced that the title of another picture soon to be made as a big Vitaphone feature with dialogue and sound effects will be "Stark Mad".

Brown in "Affairs"

One of those casts which in the language of the movies are "all-star" or at least "notable," apparently is being put together to assist John Gilbert and Greta Garbo make "A Woman of Affairs."

Johnny Mack Brown, Lewis Stone, and Marie McDermott, are the latest players assigned to this picture, which Michael Arlen wrote, and Clarence Brown is directing. Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., is in the cast.

A change of plans gives Paul Lukas the role of the husband in "The Letter" in which Clive Brook was originally cast. Lukas was discovered in Germany by Adolph Zukor and recently appeared in "The Loves of an Actress".

Harry Carr who acted as authority on naval matters and also assisted in the writing of "Old Ironsides" has been chosen by First National to title and again advise on the sea sequence in Corinne Griffith's "The Divine Lady".

"Dirigible", the Paramount epic of the United States naval air forces will be backed to the fullest extent when production starts, by the Navy Department. It is even likely that many scenes will be shot at North Island, San Diego.

Linton Wells author of "Moran of the Marines", Richard Dix's next starring vehicle for Paramount, states that the story is based upon his own experiences. Wells is a newspaperman, war correspondent, and globe trotter.

Harry O. Hoyt has returned from Europe; has opened offices at the Tec-Art studios; and will make a series of pictures for Excellent. His first is "The Passion Song" on which he did the continuity, adaptation, besides directing and supervising it.

FIVE CENTS

OBSERVATIONS

"White Shadows"

M-G-M's "White Shadows of the South Seas" is another "travel drama" from the other end of the world than the one reported upon last week, into which, however is woven a love story. We feel that this picture would have reached epic proportions, had not so much of the original book, with its historical value and astounding information, been sacrificed for the sake of aforementioned love theme.

It is nevertheless a great picture. Never have we seen more beautiful photography, made more so by the very locale itself. The one fault of the production to our way of thinking, is that its most thrilling scenes come at the beginning, a repetition of which must have been hoped for.

Interesting

Showing as it does (though not enough) the lives and customs of the ancient Marquesans, now almost exterminated by "civilization", their courage, and daily battles with the terrors of the ocean bed, it is vitally interesting all the way.

Remarkable among the under-sea "shots" were those of the pearl divers, and the rescue of one of them from the grip of a giant rock clam. The dominance of the white man over these simple, child-like and once magnificently care-free people, is pitifully brought home to us in these and other scenes in which the natives daily risk life and limb to satisfy the white man's lust for pearls.

The End

The wind up of the picture is superb in that it doesn't go "movie" by sticking on a happy ending; showing us instead the futility and hopelessness of trying to preserve this earthly paradise against the corruption, disease and rule of our so-called civilization.

The entire cast, made up mostly of natives, and technical staff have contributed the very best of work, and M-G-M is to be congratulated.

Surrounding Program

The surrounding program, furnished by Fox-Case and Movietone. The latter was very poor, but the Movietone news reel was as always highly interesting. The synchronization on the feature subject was the best we have heard.

Stage Producers Admit Talking Film Menace--Resent Star Grab

J. J. Shubert, Al Woods and William A. Brady yesterday announced the purchase of Vocafilm Corporation of America, with the object of producing talking moving pictures of Broadway plays with the stage casts. This move was forecast by Exhibitors Daily Review on July 18.

While admitting that the transaction is the first answer of the spoken drama to the increasing importance of talking and sound pictures as entertainment, the move is a virtual admission that the film industry had become of sufficient menace to the legitimate stage, not to be ignored

"Lilac Time" Vitaphone Show Held Up

synchronization will not be used on the opening night is because of installation difficulties between labor unions and somebody else, of the Vitaphone apparatus.

That somebody else may be the electricians of the Building Trades Union, the Electrical Research Products or the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees, with the principal insurgent probably pointing towards the Buildings Trades people.

From First National quarters, it seems to be a dispute between the Building Trades Union and the I.A.T.S.E., each claiming that it was their respective right to do the installation.

Inquiry at the I.A.T.S.E. headquarters revealed that they have no dispute with anybody over the installation, that their only concern is proper supervision of the operation and maintenance of the apparatus, after installation.

Western Electric officials insist that the dispute lies between the building trades and the stage electricians. Suffice to say, Electrical Research Products engineers have been prevented from installing the Vitaphone and no one knows when it will be.

screen when transferred to the screen."

There will, necessarily, be a large producing and technical staff, details of which are to be announced. Negotiations are under way for an arrangement with one of the first line distributing corporations. In the deal, Vocafilm Corporation was represented by Mr. David R. Hochreich, President. Mr. Hochreich will remain in this capacity.

Among Mr. Woods productions on his schedule for the coming season, which are to be filmed, are: "Jealousy", starring Fay Bainter and Glenn Hunter; Florence Reed in "The Legacy", the new Shipman-Hymer play; "Fast Life", "A Man With Red Hair", "Scotland Yard", "The Great Jewel Robbery" and "The Censor's Holiday". Other Woods productions to be screened are: Florence Reed in "The Shanghai Gesture", "Crime", Ann Harding in "Stolen Fruit" and the Potash and Perlmutter series.

All of Mr. Brady's impending plays are included in the program, such as "Camera" and Grace George in "Dance a la Mode", and in all probability, those of Brady and Wiman.

The Messrs. Shubert will present all of their forthcoming productions on the screen. These include the two Willard Mack plays "Gang War" and "Paid Off", the Marcin-Shipman play "Trapped", "Big Pond" in association with E. H. Knopf and W. Farnsworth and "Congratulations", the Stanley Veyman operetta, "The Red Robe", "Chopin", the operetta based on the life and music of the composer of this name, "A Good Fellow", a musical play from the French, the new Kalman operetta now running in Vienna entitled "The Duchess of Chicago", and numerous others that have not yet been announced for stage production. "My Maryland", "Countess Maritza", "Lovely Lady", and "The Silent House" are also included.

Pays Installation Costs

BEECROFT SIGNS

By JOE BLAIR
Hollywood Correspondent

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is reported to be paying $100,000 a year rental for the Cosmopolitan Studio in New York where they will produce sound pictures. The contract is for a term of 10 years and Hearst will pay the costs of reconstructing the studio interior for sound acoustics while M-G-M will pay for the wiring and apparatus.

Chester Beecroft yesterday signed a term contract with Major Bowes, as studio manager. The agreement will run from year to year. It is also understood that Warner Bros. were after the Cosmopolitan Studio last year, but couldn't obtain clear title.

Vitaphone Breaks

Darryl Francis Zanuck, Associate Executive of the Warner Studio, has announced the signing of Claude Gillingwater and Guinn Williams, each of whom will appear in two future Warner releases. Gillingwater is now at work in May McAvoy's latest starring picture, "Stolen Kisses" and Williams is pleasing the Warner executives by the performance he is giving at present in the supporting cast of Fannie Brice's Vitaphone special, "My Man".

'FINAL RECKONING' 100% UNIV. TRAINED SERIAL

Everyone connected with the serial, "The Final Reckoning", started his career and received the major portion of his or her training at Universal City.

"The Final Reckoning" was designed as a boy adventure chapter-play. Since it was planned to star Newton House, Universal's boy star, a story by that great adventure novelist, G. A. Henty was purchased. Henty probably has the biggest boy audience of any author in the world.

The other principals of the cast are Buffalo Bill, Jr., although making serials for other organizations, had his start on the Universal lot; and Louise Lorraine who started with "U" with Stern Brothers comedies. Roy Taylor, the director, has never been with any other company.

not definite at this time, although the house is 99% completed and ready for opening. He may decide to let his own circuit, which controls 30 houses, run the theatre, but it would probably not be done without the cooperation of the Springer Circuit of Broadway theatres, in a buying combination for product against Loew and U.B.O.

Failing in this, Small will probably lease the house to an independent operator who will have to rely on a combination of First National-Universal of Warner first-run product, to put the theatre over. Al Gottesman, New Haven exhibitor is one of the independents reported after the theatre.

Of the original plans of the Roxy Theatre Corporation for three New York theatres besides the Roxy, ground has been broken at 58th Street and Madison Avenues and the Brooklyn house will open in September under direction of William Fox.

Film competition in the upper Broadway section is intense, what with Loew, K-A-O and Fox houses in the immediate vicinity and the new theatre will play an important part in changing the complexion of things in this district.

STUDIO GOSSIP

Alice White's making the grade on high and Jack Mulhall's stepping along. He says he is going to play in her second starring vehicle for First National, "Ritzzy Rosie" which Mervyn Leroy will direct.

Upon completion of "Take Me Home", Bebe Daniels will leave for the East. She thinks this will be about the middle of August and boy, what she's planning to do to those New York shops!

Ray Taylor has been chosen to direct "The Final Reckoning", a Universal chapterplay.

There is much elation being shown by Russ Farrell, Charles R. Rogers, Harry J. Brown and Reed Howes, all of whom had a hand in making "The Skywoman", the first of a series of aviation pictures being produced for Educational.

Cornelius Keefe has the lead in the James Oliver Curwood story "Thunder God", a Morris Schlank Production. Charles Hunt, directing.

Back home and rested, Billie Dove, First National star who has been spending some time at Coronado Beach, returned ready for work.

With "Show Boat", "The Collegians", "Forbidden Love", "The Shakedown", "The Play Goes On" and "It Can Be Done" all being made at Universal City, it looks like an extra's haven.

George Irving has been signed by Paramount to play a judge in "The Docks of New York".

Robert Armstrong formerly a prominent member of the legitimate stage has been cast for the part opposite Irene Rich in "Ned McCobb's Daughter", to be a Pathe-DeMille special.

Richard Barthelmess is planning to go on location in and about the Panama Canal for exteriors in "Scarlet Seas", his next for First National.

Good dialogue writers being in much demand, Warners have signed up Francis Powers, well known for many years as a playwright, an actor and a director. He will also write titles for a forthcoming Vitaphone special.

"Uncle" Carl knows his Greek. He saw Elena Aristi, an extra at Universal in some "rushes" and put her under contract. To our knowledge, she will be the first featured player of Greek origin.

Now that he's finished with the titles for "Beggars of Life", Jim Tully says he'll be leaving shortly for a trip abroad, and while he's in dear old England, he plans on interviewing the George Bernard Shaw.

Hugh Roman is the latest addition to the cast of First National's "Show Girl" being directed by Alfred Santell.

"BIG HOP" BUCK JONES FIRST GETS ONCE-OVER

Donn McElwaine, production manager of the Buck Jones Corporation, arrived in New York Sunday morning with the first print of "The Big Hop", Buck's initial independent production.

The star, will arrive next week, bringing with him a finished print in which the fade-ins and final title revisions will be perfected. The picture will then be shown to exhibitors and the press.

The technicolor sequence, in which aviators in uniform and attractive women in fashionable evening attire disport themselves at an aviation ball preceding the Big Hop, lasts about five minutes.

The Picture will be put into work immediately in the synchronizing laboratory of Cortellaphone.

Ray Doyle Scenarizes

"Madonna of Avenue A"

Ray Doyle has been assigned by J. L. Warner to write the script for the forthcoming Vitaphone Road Show, "Madonna of Avenue A" in which Dolores Costello will star following the completion of her current vehicle, "The Redeeming Sin". Doyle's latest work at adaptation was "White Shadows of the South Seas".

Wilson with Vitaphone

Lois Wilson, has been engaged by Warner Brothers for the female lead in their "all-talkie" Conquest, soon to start in production.

FIVE CENTS

OBSERVATIONS

"Lilac Time"

Last night we attended with much expectation, engendered perhaps by glowing advance notices, the opening of the First National picture, "Lilac Time". To our mind, this is one of the industry's greatest examples of waste. Had the original play been adhered to, it might have turned out excellently, but looking at "Lilac Time" as it reaches us now, what do we find?

Wonderful Airshots

We find several aeroplane sequences magnificently done, used as the background for no story at all. Outside of these expert shots and some beautiful photography generally, there is nothing, absolutely nothing in the picture to list it out of the class of a program attraction. The original play, which earned its success because it was good and exciting drama, with an original and pathetic twist, has been thrown out entirely. We have instead, innumerable and unending close-ups of the star, and countless "hammy" titles.

Fitzmaurice

We do not believe the fault lies with director George Fitzmaurice. It is quite evident the material he had to work with was so fragile that it is surprising he was able to make a picture at all; and perhaps it's not his fault that we are treated to the overabundance of tiring close-ups. We wonder why, though, that a little more originality could not have been shown in two particular sequences, which were more than reminiscent of the "Big Parade".

Might Click

This may prove a great tear-wringer, and make a lot of money for First National, but looking at it from the other side of the fence, and contemplating the vast sums spent upon the picture, it is our idea of one of the things that's "wrong with the movies".

BUY SELZNICK OUT OF CORTELLAPHONE

A reorganization of Cortellaphone was held last night, which was attended by Cortella, the inventor of the process; Hefferman, Boston banker, Col. Hawkins and Russell Parrish, and the sound device is to be put in the market immediately.

No affirmative details could be learned but it is being whispered around that Lewis J. Selznick may make his exit almost as fast as his entry.

Col. Hawkins, general manager of Picturetone or Cortellaphone could not be reached but Parrish admitted a statement would be mailed out.

Canon Chase Favors Gov't. Distribution of Film

C. C. Pettijohn, General Counsel for the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America has made an analysis of the Hudson Motion Picture Bill, which is being sponsored for introduction in Congress by Canon Chase, professional reformer.

Pettijohn describes the measure as by far the most radical and revolutionary measure affecting the motion picture industry ever brought before Congress.

This Bill is fundamentally wrong because it is predicated on the false premise that this industry is a Public Utility. Its terms and provisions are vague, ambiguous and contradictory. It is useless because it is an attempt to create a new agency to enforce the anti-trust laws already on the statute books and being ably and diligently enforced by competent agencies which have been functioning for years. It puts the government into the motion picture business. It is contrary to public opinion, because the people of America are opposed to censorship and it is impracticable and unworkable because it would be an utter impossibility for such a proposed Bureau to obtain the services of men and women competent and able to carry out its aim and purposes.

Hudson Bill Would Make Film Industry Public Utility

It provides for the creation of a Commission, which would supplant the Federal Trade Commission, with power to control, regulate and dominate the whole industry, producers, distributors and exhibitors.

The commission would be composed of six people, two of whom are to be lawyers, two teachers, one dramatic critic and one person with picture experience, under supervision of the Civil Service Commission. The Commissioners will hold office for life.

A reading of the bill convinces Pettijohn that it is nothing more or less than an attempt to put into office six political appointees, with no knowledge of, or experience with the mechanics of the industry, to tell leaders of the film business who have devoted years to the task how to better production and distribution.

The chief harm in the bill lies in its first section which declares that the motion picture industry is hereby declared to be a public utility. This means that all the concerns engaged in any branch of the motion picture industry are by one stroke of the pen to be transformed into public service companies.

None of the component parts of the industry have the necessary essentials or attributes of public utilities and Congress cannot change their character and functions by merely passing a law declaring them to be that which they are not.

Pettijohn reasons that if this industry can be transformed over night into a public utility, then in like manner could the automobile, clothing and other industries be brought under governmental control, regulation and operation.

The bill further provides specific practices which shall be considered unlawful.

They are: (1) For any dealer (which includes anyone connected with the industry) to use a contract containing the present arbitration clause. (2) For any dealer to re-issue old pictures under new names. (3) For any dealer to increase the price of film or admission fees to theatres to any undue or unreasonable degree, (which is price-fixing pure and simple); (4) For a distributor to sell an affiliated theatre without affording all competing theatres and non-theatrical accounts a chance to bid on the films in free and open competition.

(5) Illegal to Block-book; (6) Practices of exclusive dealing contracts, price discrimination, price fixing or manipulation apportioning product that would restrain trade or create monopoly; (7) Unfair competition to export trade.

Other new provisions are:

(8) Taking jurisdiction away from Federal Trade Commission; (9) admits filing of petition of complaint by any person on anything done or omitted to be done, after which hearings are held, orders entered and then complaints thrown into the courts; (10) Bureau to determine reasonableness of rates; (11) Filing persons $500 for failure to obey any order of the Commission; (12) Permitting court injunctions against failure to obey orders; (13) The creation of a distributing agency by the commission to manage rent and lease all films in interstate commerce; (14) to create a percentage basis of payment of rentals; (15) to classify the theatres of the country and to fix prices for corresponding classes; registration of all persons in the industry and trade associations and other remedies.

PICTURE REVIEWS

"WHITE SHADOWS IN THE SOUTH SEAS"

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer

Directed by W. S. Van Dyke
Featuring Monte Blue,
Raquel Torres, Robert Anderson.
Really a special!

It's a sin that this just misses being a really big picture. It contains perfectly beautiful photography; natural locations with the aboriginal tribes of the Marquesas Islands forming settings worthy of the photography; and Frederick O'Brien's story, the keynote of which is that civilization makes a prostitute of these virgin islands using them only for extracting the material assets. And Van Dyke never bores us with the continuous flashes of the customs of these islanders. But he should have either played less or more attention to the actual story. It is anticlimactic. Monte Blue seems a little too depressed by it all, but outside of this expression, fits nicely into the role. Raquel Torres is absolutely perfect as Fayaway and Anderson does all that's necessary. Natives formed the rest of the cast.

"LOVES OF AN ACTRESS"

Paramount

Direction Rowland Lee
Cast Pola Negri,
Nils Asther, Paul Lukas, Richard Tucker.

The first half of this picture, taken from the life of Rachel, is excellent. The second half very poor, sinking into almost maudlin theatrics. Had the idea been planted from the start that the story was authentic, being taken from the life of this renowned character, a great many incidents would have been more plausible and enjoyable. Though very good work is done by the entire cast the picture remains less than fair, only the first half having any audience appeal. Miss Negri, never looked better. The direction of Rowland Lee was spotty. The photography by David Milner was fair, the titles by Julian Johnstone were poor. The Paramount synchronization in this production is the least satisfactory of all we have heard.

"BEAT BROADWAY"

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer

Directed by Malcolm St. Clair
Featuring Lew Cody,
Aileen Pringle, Sue Carol, Hugh Trevor, Heinie Conklin, Kit Guard, Jack Harriek, James J. Jeffries.

Will draw on strength of stars and background, but story which has been hewed from many branches turns out to be a weak sister.

While the title is not fitting and the humor and sub-titles are trite, these do not form the main trouble with the picture. It is the story which founded on the very good idea of exhibiting the private life of the biggest fight promoter of the day, is poorly connected and trails from one thing into another, until at the end you have little substance. Aileen Pringle has nothing whatsoever to do and Sue Carol who was rated as one of the best bets among newcomers, is not quite at ease because the script makes her too naive for belief.

CONCENSUS OF OPINION

By Blanche F. Livingston

Regardless of weather conditions, picture openings are still "big events" along Broadway and "White Shadows in the South Seas" drew the usual mob scene in front of the Astor. M-G-M almost had a super film. The photography is exquisite, the naturalistic settings and customs are made extremely interesting and the story itself is there, but the trouble is the last item has been treated with dulled eyes. However, it certainly warrants a $2.20 top.

The Negri fans will find "Loves of an Actress" which run at the Paramount, just the berries. To those who seek a picture for the picture's sake, it will prove a very average film.

Pathe's "At Yale" served as amusing fare for the Strandites, and it will undoubtedly do the same wherever it plays. Breezy and romantic with Rod La Rocque. But the older folks couldn't see much sense to it.

"Beat Broadway" didn't get half as much rise out of the Capitol audience as the heat did out of the thermometer. M-G-M has put in too many angles with too little effort in making them coherent.

"The Port of Missing Girls", a Brenda production played at the Hippodrome, although it has all the earmarks of a small town picture. Nor does this flicker teach any great lesson, if that's what it started out to do, although I doubt if it ever had such honorable intentions.

What the New York Critics Think

"WHITE SHADOWS IN THE SOUTH SEAS"

Sun: " . . . odd mixture of epic tragedy and old-fashioned movie melodrama."

Eve World: " . . . exotic settings of breath-taking beauty . . . an artistic screen version."

Post: " . . . a canny, rhythmic piece of work, aided considerably by the restrained use of sound effects."

"LOVES OF AN ACTRESS"

Times: " . . . can be called only another motion picture."

Telegraph: " . . . story trite and unoriginal but the entire action is forced and slow."

World: " . . . a picture lopsided with love and kisses."

"AT YALE"

N. Y. Eve. Journal: " . . . mediocre material."

Post: " . . . various quotas of entertaining comedy, dragged-out sequences, good direction and terrible puns."

Sun: " . . . one of two episodes are rather funny and there is a pleasant air of spontaneity about the affair."

"BEAT BROADWAY"

Eve World: " . . . Cody and Pringle have made pictures which were more entertaining."

Times: " . . . it trembles on the edge of being intelligent, but alas, never quite makes the grade."

Telegraph: " . . . picture starts from nowhere and arrives at that point."

"THE PORT OF MISSING GIRLS"

World: " . . . all so vague and so unatmospheric that it grows siller."

Eve World: " . . . some of the picture is quite entertaining. It is a little too long."

N. Y. Eve. Journal: " . . . is an obvious and crude aim at the box-office."

Featuring Charles Morton,
Sally Phipps, Farrell MacDonald,
Sharon Lynn, Billy Butts,
Alice Adair, Tyler Brooke.

Will go over where William Haines hasn't put in an appearance. Lively without hitting any high spots.

We are evidently in for a cycle of pictures wherein the little kid eggs on the big man to better things. This film also belongs in the class containing a smart alecky hero who gets away with a lot of wisecracks and other things. The twist that is "different" is that he really doesn't get the insurance policy he starts out to sell. The picture needs cutting, but what it has is a lot of pep, good settings, a Technicolor sequence and showy direction. Farrel MacDonald takes acting honors with Tom Kennedy in second place. Sally Phipps is okay but Charles Morton, while pleasing, has to force his stuff a bit.

"THE BEAR'S WEDDING"

Sovkino

Directed by K. V. Eggert
Featuring K. V. Eggert,
Vera Malanovskaya.

A raw piece of work which will not be accepted by American audiences.

Even those paying-patrons who are wont to sit through a poorly made picture just to enjoy the few risqué scenes, will not extend this category to "The Bear's Wedding", for it is distinctly of the crassest nature and that it got by the censors, is just another one of those miracles. For the heaven's sake, don't play it if you cater to a family trade. The director saw to it that a thorough job was done all 'round, for he is also starred. The picture is sugar coated by the fact that it is a supposed legend depicting the outcome in the son when his mother had been bitten by a bear shortly before his birth.

"AT YALE"

Pathe

Directed by Edward H. Griffith
Featuring Rod La Rocque,
Jeanette Loff, Hugh Allen, Joseph Cawthorn, Tom Kennedy, Lawrence Grant, Oscar Smith,
Jerry Mandy.

Not an epic of college life, but amusing as screen entertainment.

Director Griffith is wise in keeping the pace at a high tempo throughout, because should one be left a moment of rest to sit back and think about the probabilities of the story, everything would be lost. As it stands, however, with the hero entering at the last moment and winning "the big game" for Yale; with its many gags and Tom Kennedy, Jerry Mandy and a clever little monkey to carry off the comedy; and with Rod La Rocque and Jeanette Loff who looks okay as a newcomer, holding up the romantic end, the picture will be well received.

Sound Featurettes

"THE MOVIE MAN"

Vitaphone-Warner Bros.

Featuring Charles Rogers,
Violet Palmer, Walter Rodgers,
Louise Carver, Natalie Warfield.

A playlet burlesquing the motion picture in the making. Fair.

This playlet is given in two scenes, the first being taken outside the casting office where Charlie meets Violet, both applying for a job. Their make-up also burlesques their particular types. The next scene is on the set where the director is making a very teary melodrama and puts these two in the leads. From then on the thing goes pretty much slapstick, but has a strong finish with the words in limerick style.

"THE HONOR SYSTEM"

Movietone-Fox

Featuring Clark and McCullough.

Best where this team is a particular draw, because without their reputation the thing isn't as funny.

Clark and McCullough, two crooks suspected of a big pearl necklace robbery, are brought before the Sergeant, who believes that all crooks can be made to deliver the goods if they're given a chance. Therefore, after allowing the pair of comedians time for some new and several old lines, he asks them to place the necklace in his hat while the lights are out. The lights go up again with the place is a clean sweep, Clark and McCullough literally having kidded the pants off the officer.

"THE SONG OF THE BUILDER"

Paramount-Publix Music Dept.

Only for the audience which will accept the high-brow canned.

This is taken from the Edgar Guest poem, picturing on the screen, various phases of the builder of skyscrapers. The accompanying sounds and the voice reciting the poem have been synchronized on a disc. Result, noisy.

KENTUCKY JUBILEE SINGERS

Movietone-Fox

Good harmony by negro group. Will be appreciated in the better class house.

Makes a restful number with this group singing this time such melodies as "Down Virginia" and "Shout All Over God's Heaven".

CLARENCE BROWN TO DO 'HAMLET'

Will Produce Modern Version for M-G-M

By JOE BLAIR
Hollywood Correspondent

Clarence Brown, it is definitely understood, will direct the screen version of "Hamlet" similar to the stage version presented several years ago in New York in that the characters will be brought up to date. The title of this version was "Hamlet in Modern Clothes". This will be Brown's first talkie picture.

Columbia Signs Writers

Harry Cohn, vice-president in charge of production at Columbia announces that under the editorship of Harold Byron, the scenario staff has been greatly augmented and will be working under full speed for some time to come. The newly added writers are Beatrice Van, Sonya Levien, and Lillie Hayward.

Sign Clark-McCullough

Winfield Sheehan is certainly losing no time in getting all available stage talent running around loose for Movietone production. The latest he has signed up are Clark & McCullough, noted comedians, on a long term contract.

Harlan Thompson, dramatist and his wife Marian Spitzer, widely known writer, have also been placed under contract by Sheehan.

Moran-Gribbon Team

Polly Moran and Harry Gribbon have been teamed by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio officials for the production "Greasepaint" which is to be directed by Herman Raymaker. It is an original story by Jack McGowan who wrote "Excess Baggage".

men. Instead of buying for this foreign territory as they had represented, they made the purchase in order to cover themselves for the "Bootlegging" rights.

Episode No. 3. A representative of one of the small laboratories, it is said, bribed one of the employee's of the laboratory who was doing the printing for Gold-Hawk, and sneaked a print over to his lab, making a dupe negative, later returning the print used.

Episode No. 4. The gunmen having had some experience with the Chicago Dempsey-Tunney fight pictures, finding out this representative had a dupe negative, crashed his office with the threat of "taking him for a ride" if he sold any prints from his dupe, as they had paid $12,500 for the bootlegging rights and they would see that their rights were protected.

Episode No. 5. Gold-Hawk have seized five prints in upper New York state and are prosecuting Albert Kauffman owner of the New Empire Theatre Syracuse, claiming he had bought five prints of the picture from some one in New York who did not have the right to sell them. They seized one print at the New Empire Syracuse, one at the Rome Pleasantville, another at the Palace Buffalo, one at a theatre in Oswego and another at the Arverne Theatre at Arverne, Long Island.

the corporation yet but had merely taken an option on it until such time as they could investigate its merits.

Hochreich stated, that production of apparatus, much of which would be portable until such time as theatres were ready for the big equipment was about 50 to 100 complete devices per week and that within the next twelve months, they would equip five thousand theatres.

In referring to the film production of stage plays, Brady is quoted as saying: "I think that the encroachment of the motion picture producers on the province of the legitimate theatre with their talkies is the biggest issue Equity has ever faced in its existence and if they don't speed up some protective action it is going to work irreparable injury on the organization as well as the legitimate theatre".

STUDIO GOSSIP

Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy have entered upon another production, this to be supervised by Leo McCarey with James Parrott direction. Their most recent finished picture is "Two Tars".

And speaking of this team, reminds us that Stan Laurel is the most popular individual around the Hal Roach studios and that includes Hal Roach also.

The option on Clive Brook's services has been taken up by Paramount for another six months.

Universal executives who have been fortunate enough to see the rushes on the Wesley Ruggles production "Forbidden Love" are extremely enthusiastic about the work of Mary Philbin.

Harry D'Arrast has finished "Dry Martini" for Fox. The cast included Albert Gran, Mary Astor, Sally Eilers, Mat Moore, Albert Conti and Tom Ricketts.

Ben Reynolds, cameraman, has been signed to a three year contract by Warner Bros.

Henry King is having trouble selecting the proper cast for the Inspiration-Halperin production "She Goes to War" which will be released by United Artists. So far, he has selected Gary Cooper and Ivan Lebedoff. It is thought that Camilla Horn will play the female lead.

Dorothy Dwan has deserted pictures temporarily and signed a year's contract with Henry Duffy to appear in stage productions on the coast.

Ralph Dietrich has been appointed head of cutting room operations on Movietone productions for Fox.

Alfred Green has finished his latest Fox production "Making the Grade" taken from a George Ade story. Edmund Lowe and Lois Moran are in the cast.

W. S. Griffith started shooting "The Love Song" yesterday at United Artists Studio.

Harold Byron has been appointed scenario editor for Columbia Pictures. Byron has been reader and scenario editor for Fox.

Jean Herschell's next picture for Universal will be "The Blaise Cendrars", a Saturday Evening Post story called "Sutter's Gold".

Frank Austin will essay the role of Abraham Lincoln in Columbia's forthcoming production, "Court-Martial".

Both Carroll Nye and Ralph Graves have been assigned to roles in "Gold Braid", M-G-M's naval aviation film starring Ramon Navarro.

Typewriters are humming over at the Christie studios and the new hands pounding them are Henry McCarty, Reed Heustis and Harry Freed.

NEWS FROM THE UFA STUDIOS

UFA Productions will shortly start work on "A Scandal at Baden-Baden" starring Brigitte Helm, well known for her portrayals in "Metropolis" and "The Love of Jeanne Ney". This is an Alfred Zeisler production and will be directed by Erich Waschneck, who directed "Sajenko-The Soviet", also an Ufa film, featuring Michael Bohnen celebrated star of the Metropolitan Opera House and Suzy Vernon.

Director Joe May has commenced preparations for the third Erich Pommer feature, "Asphalt", an UFA Production, and actual work will begin at Neubabelsberg soon. Gunther Rittau, the camera wizard credited with the success for the trick photography and camera stunts in "Metropolis", will be in charge of the camera on this production.

The educational department of UFA Productions has just completed two animal films at the famous Hagenbeck Zoo of Stellingen, near Hamburg. In this zoo the animals have no cages or iron bars, all including the man eating lions and tigers are living as if they were free. They are separated by deep canyons which they cannot surmount.

FIVE CENTS

OBSERVATIONS

Not Kennedy

We venture the opinion had Joseph Kennedy been at the helm of First National at the moment "Lilac Time" was contemplated, there would have either been no "Lilac Time" or a different picture altogether. And we feel certain the results would have been greatly different from the offering now on view at the Central Theatre.

Waste

Kennedy would not have permitted the purchase of a play, no doubt for quite a nice sum, merely to use the title. He would not have permitted a production head and a staff of writers to alter a manuscript that as originally written would have been good picture material and an excellent vehicle for Miss Moore. He would not have permitted any organization to spend the amount of money on a picture, for a star with the drawing ability of Colleen Moore, that was spent on "Lilac Time" even providing the picture was good. There was no necessity for it; there was no reason for an expenditure of approximately $750,000.

Colleen Big Draw

Miss Moore is one of the best box office "draws" in this business. She is an excellent actress and does not require a stupendous production, with the lavish production cost that would of necessity have to go with it. The story of "Lilac Time" as seen on the stage would have been an excellent vehicle for her and, produced with a semblance of good business judgment and a rather strict adherence to the original story, would have done as much, if not more, business than the present picture and at a cost of may, many thousands less.

Futile

This production proves again, as has been the case many times before, the futility of one organization, recognizing the success of a picture of a competitor, attempting to grab this idea and make an even better attraction. What is true with two different organizations is more so with productions from the same studio. Seeing that a certain type of story went over with a bang, the same organization, same direction and in many cases the identical cast were put to work on a duplicate. The second always suffers in comparison to the first. But producers do not seem to want to believe it.

PORTLAND RE-OPENS ARBITRATION CASE

PORTLAND, Ore.—Although there have been rulings established by the courts that a case in film arbitration may not appeal from the decision of the Board, or the case be re-opened after a decision has been granted, a re-hearing of a case decided here in 1927 was held by the Film Board of Arbitration.

It was the case of FBO vs J. B. Sparks of Moro and Grass Valley, Oregon. Sparks has reinstated the case on the ground that he had not been present or represented at the original hearing.

The first award was sustained in favor of the exchange, however, the board deciding that Sparks was guilty of breach of contract in failing to play pictures legitimately contracted for.

HAL ROACH TO SHOOT LOCAL 'OUR GANG' FILMS

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has sent out four crews to different territories throughout the country, in Hal Roach's campaign on the "Our Gang" comedies, to select a winner who will be given a contract to appear in "Our Gang".

Irving Browning of the Browning studios left New York Saturday on a trip to Norfolk, Richmond, New Orleans, Houston, St. Louis and Kansas City to shoot a stock comedy with local talent.

A special stock scenario is being used by the four crews to make the comedies. Ten days after a picture is shot, the film is sent to New York to be put into shape and then sent back to the local Loew house to be screened for the home folks, and to

The consolidation of the majority of New York's independent theatres is progressing rapidly and is nearing its culmination under leadership of B. S. Moss.

Moss Pool in Checker Moves Against "Big 3" against increasing mergers in production and distribution.

They now see that they must salvage their investments by combining their interests so that collectively they can make checker moves to combat the moves of the big companies.

As one exhibitor expressed it, perhaps no better opportunity than the present has ever been given them in the past, to organize their wealth and put it on a marketable basis, whereas under present conditions that wealth is becoming less valuable.

The Moss movement looks serious. The initial moves have been kept in the dark but they are now coming to light. Under the practical leadership of B. S. Moss, probably the only man of note available at this time, a man who knows his business well enough to handle a group of 150 Moss houses in the successful manner in which he established his own theatres, the exhibitors feel they are finally on the right track.

There will be elimination of certain theatres in over-seated zones; a rearrangement of operating details and an important producing tie-up, as part of the preliminary plans.

The survey also shows the belief by many exhibitors that there seems to be an unwritten treaty among Paramount, Fox and M-G-M, to play each others product in their controlled houses, with the idea of rendering themselves independent of either independent producers or exhibitors, and guaranteeing themselves sufficient return on their investments.

The Moss pool through its association with an important producing company, will assure themselves of good product, and together with their combined purchasing power and availability of product, plan to make their interests independent of the Big Three.

They count on the fact that the sound film era will place big stars on the shelf for the time being, those with unsuitable voices, and at the end of a year's time, the independent faction hopes to gather these big stars of the silent screen into their fold.

Hollywood Previews

"COMPANIONATE MARRIAGE"

A Gotham Picture

Director..... Earl C. Kenton
Cast..... Betty Bronson,

Alec B. Francis, Heddy Hopper, Richard Walling, June Nash, Edward Martindel, William Welsh, Sarah Padden, Arthur Rankin.

This film does great credit to the intelligence of all those who had a hand in its making. First of all, let's mark down Beatrice Van's adaptation as an excellent piece of work for it has strictly adhered to the original theory in the book of the same name by Judge Ben Lindsey. Director Kenton has also submerging the love theme to the bigger matter in hand. The story, of course, points out a moral, but it is none of this cheap preaching which has been so overdone. June Nash plays the girl who marries in a moment of recklessness with such finesse as to put her several pegs ahead in the game. Hedda Hopper, Betty Brons, Alec B. Francis and Sarah Padden also give outstanding performances.

"THE TERROR"

A Warner Picture

Director..... Roy Del Ruth Cast..... May McAvoy,

Edward Everett Horton, Alec B. Francis, Holmes Herbert, Louise Fazenda, John Miljan, Mathew Betz, Otto Hoffman, Joseph Gerrard, Frank Austen.

As a mystery drama, it's a thriller. One sequence follows closely on the heel of another, piling up incidents until, it seems there can be no solution. Of course, there is, but to disclose any of this would spoil the picture's reason for being. Yet, on the other hand, Horton's entering the home of May MacAvoy's father and almost at once gaining her confidence, seems a bit forced, and the director should have tread a little more slowly here. The film will undoubtedly be a sensation and is acted with conviction, Horton and McAvoy particularly scoring.

"A BIT OF HEAVEN"

Excellent Pictures

Director..... Cliff Wheeler
Cast..... Lila Lee,

Bryant Washburn, Martha Mattox, Lucy Beaumont, Jacqueline Gadson, Richard Tucker, Otto Lederer.

Undoubtedly a quickie, which will turn into money. This flicker is splendidly cast and has a good box-office story. The "bit of heaven" is the baby born at the end of the picture to a chorus girl who had married a man she loved in spite of his indifference to her stage life. There are also other obstacles in her path of happiness before the closing scene such as another woman in the case and a hateful aunt. Too bad the technical treatment is so poorly and cheaply carried out.

"THE CIRCUS KID"

An F B O Picture

Director..... George B. Seitz
Cast..... Frankie Darro,

Joe E. Brown, Helene Costello, Poodles Hanford, Sam Nelson.

A story of the "big top" that's going to burn 'em up and make money for the exhibitor. Frankie Darro's an acknowledged draw, but never has he had such good material to work with, nor such troupers as Joe Brown and Helene Costello to back him up. Nearly the whole of the action takes place in the environs of the circus which Darro has joined and where Brown used to be lion tamer before he lost his nerve, and this in itself is a draw. George Seitz has done some very clever megaphone handling and Phil Fannura goes down as an A1 cameraman.

"GREEN GRASS WIDOWS"

A Tiffany-Stahl Picture

Director..... Al Raboch
Cast..... Walter Hagen,

Gertrude Olmsted, Johnny Harron, Lincoln Stedman, Ray Haller, Hedda Hopper.

When you advertise this as a "golf" picture, you can sit back with an easy conscience, because it really exploits "golf". And what's more, you have Walter Hagen himself, who turns out to be a good screen bet. It's worth the price of admission just to see this pro swing a club. But wait, you ain't heard nothing yet. The background is formed by college life with a darn good tale to make it go, and a cast that knows how to put it over.

"KIT CARSON"

A Paramount Picture

Director..... Lloyd Ingraham
Cast..... Fred Thomson,

Nora Lane, Dorothy Janice, Raoul Paoli, William Courtright, Nelson McDowell, Raymond Turner, Al Frisco.

Here is a picture that's going to go big. With Fred Thomson enacting that prominent American figure and doing so with real sincerity, his fans and he has many, are going to mob the theatre. But besides Thomson, this film has romance which is carried off with a flair for the beautiful and even aesthetic. Every member of the cast turns in a splendid performance and the director has combined history with the box-office elements. And the cameraman also deserves a big slice of praise.

"HEARTS OF MEN"

Morris R. Selhauk Production

Director..... James P. Hogan
Cast..... Mildred Harris,

Thelma Hill, Cornelius Keefe, Warner Richmond, Harry McCoy, Julia Swayne Gordon.

Just another picture that will do as a filler, or for the double feature program. The story, which involves the eternal triangle, this time made up of two men and a girl, starts out coherently enough, but somehow goes blooey after awhile. The scene shifts for the final sequences to a desert which is well photographed. Mildred Harris turns in a nice piece of work. Warner Richmond made an acceptable villain and Cornelius Keefe will satisfy the so-called weaker sex. The titles are particularly strong and by far too numerous.

talker, secured an interview with him regarding his present activities. "Yes" said Mr. Selznick "I certainly am deeply interested in the application of sound to motion pictures from every angle. From my talks with many of the leading exhibitors throughout the country and visitors from abroad, the public demand for both synchronized and talking pictures is wide spread and insistent.

"As to my present activities, and future plans, I am not ready to make a full and complete statement, but I will say that with so many methods and patents and 'near' patents, in the field, it has required time and intensive study and investigation to pick out the ways and means to best produce the results that will create the effect of the actual presence of the talker, singer or orchestra before the audience. In addition I have picked a personnel of experts in every department of this new development of the motion picture art.

"Representing a group of prominent financial men, I have acquired and am now concluding negotiations for basic patents and methods which will enable us to produce and install equipment in theatres for both synchronized and talking motion pictures of a tone quality that will be a revelation to the public, and at a price within the reach of every small exhibitor.

"No matter what experts and critics say, nor how they may differ, the public is the real judge and I am considering them only, in the quality and effects that our apparatus and methods will afford.

"Shortly I shall be ready to make a full and complete announcement of my organization and plans to produce and distribute real sound pictures."

WESCO DEFENDANTS FILE GOV'T. ANSWER

The West Coast Theatres, Inc., have answered the Federal Trade Commissions charge of unfair competitive methods, by filing a brief with the Commission, challenging its jurisdiction in the case. The original complaint was filed on May 29, 1925.

The respondents are the West Coast Theatres, Inc., the West Coast Theatres, Inc., of Northern California; Venice Investment Company, Hollywood Theatres, Inc.; All Star Feature Distributors, Inc.; Educational Film Exchange, Principal Pictures Corporation, H. M. Turner, Fred Dahnken, C. L. Langley and F. W. Livingston, partners doing business under the name of Turner, Dahnken & Langley, and A. L. Gore, Michael Gore, Sol Lesser, Adolph Ramish and Dave Bershon.

The California theatres contend that the complaint, accusing them of combining for the purpose of preventing producers or distributors of films in other States from leasing their films to competitors of the West Coast Theatres, Inc., and allied groups and from shipping said films into California, has not been proved.

The charge that the theatre organizations prevented competitors from negotiating for the films and leasing them by employing threats, coercive measures and other co-operative and individual means was denied.

The movie men declare in their brief that the Federal Trade Commission lacks jurisdiction over the case because, among other things, the respondents are not engaged in an interstate business. They also assert that actions in restraint of trade have not been revealed by the evidence offered.

Malcolm Strauss Uses New Sound Process

"WORLD WIDE" SOUND LIBRARY IN NEW HOME

The fifth floor of the Mills Building has been taken over by the World Wide Music Corporation to house the library of world rights now being compiled under the supervision of David H. Broekman, music editor.

The floor will contain files for the reception of thousands of orchestrated numbers, sound proof studios for composers who have been engaged to create original compositions for the library, other studios for orchestral arrangers and a large office for the compilers.

Original composing will be done to suit the pictures which are to be scored and synchronized by World Wide. This policy will give motion picture producers a collaboration of well known composers on each picture, Mills stated. Numbers composed especially for film productions will afterward become the permanent property of the library.

"ELLIS ISLAND" FOR JANNINGS

Work on Emigrant Story to Start Soon

By JOE BLAIR
Hollywood Correspondent

Paramount has selected the next story for their big star, Emil Jannings. He is to do an epic of the immigrant, and is to be titled "Ellis Island". No director has, as yet been selected nor a cast assembled.

Bessie Love Signed

Bessie Love, after a week's try-out in Seattle has been signed for a tour of the West Coast Theatres and will draw $2,250 every week for her trouble. This is quite a bit more than Bessie was getting in pictures.

Visitors Not Allowed

All the studio's on the coast are turning thumbs down on visitors. This includes, mostly visitors from other studios. This is due to the "talkies" and all the secrets most of them seem to think they have and want to keep. At Fox, no one other than those employed on Movietone is permitted near a sound stage. At Warners a guard with a "sawed-off" shotgun patrols the entrance of the "squeaking" stage.

Daniels to N. Y.

On her arrival in New York to spend her vacation, Bebe Daniels plans to visit Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Meighan, at their Great Neck, L. I. home for a week.

Printed reports that Miss Daniels had rented the Meighan place for the summer were branded as ridiculous by both Mr. Meighan and Miss Daniels.

Brower on Location

Otto Brower, recently advanced to directorship, left Hollywood on Saturday on a location scouting trip in Arizona. Brower will direct Jack Holt in "Avalanche" as his first megaphone effort.

Carver with Griffith

Kathryn Carver, Mrs. Adolphe Menjou, has been assigned a very important part in the First National Corinne Griffith picture "The Outcast".

Sign Stryker

LONDON—"Paradise" written for British International Pictures by Sir Philip Gibbs, novelist, is being directed by Denison Clift. Joseph Stryker, who portrayed St. John in "The King of Kings" has the leading role.

Le Baron Signs Owen

Moore—Marceline Day

William Le Baron, vice-president in charge of production, has signed Marceline Day and Owen Moore for the two leading parts in "Stolen Love" a story by Hazel Livingstone. The film will have the advantage of being shown simultaneously with the serialized version of the story in all the Hearst papers throughout the country.

Lynn Shores is scheduled to direct.

STERN COMEDIES MEET EMERGENCY BOOKINGS

Abe Stern, vice-president of the Stern Film Corporation, makers of Snookums and other two-reel comedies for Universal release, has just announced an arrangement by which the entire line-up of Stern Brothers Comedies on hand for next season, an imposing list of twenty-seven two-reelers, now in all Universal exchanges, awaiting Fall and Winter release date, are to be made available to exhibitors for emergency booking beginning right away.

"In the late summer the exhibitor is fighting to hold his clientele—fighting against hot weather, against out door amusements and general summer lassitude. It is this period of the year when heavy entertainment fails to pull with its maximum strength at the box-office. Light entertainment is necessary to catch the jaded and wilted interest of the movie public. Screen comedies are the ideal fare.

But to put on added comedy programs means picking around among the tag-ends of the un-booked pictures of the current season. That is unless the exhibitor has access to a fresh new supply of good comedies. That's why we are going to make it possible for showmen to make emergency bookings from our big-line-up of completed comedies, twenty-seven of which are now in the exchanges for previewing and awaiting release date.

Ben Lyon Picked for FBO's "Air Legion"

Cashing in on the prestige, popularity and publicity that accrued to Ben Lyon as star of the United Artists' air-epic "Hells' Angels", William Le Baron, vice-president of FBO in charge of production, signed Ben for the leading role of "Air Legion".

Antonio Moreno and Martha Sleeper will appear in featured roles. Bert Glennon, director of "The Perfect Crime" FBO's first "talkie" now playing at the Rivoli Theatre, New York, will direct.

The Film Guild Cinema being constructed on West 8th Street by the Film Arts Guild will have foundations installed first week in August. Several new international features are being booked ahead for presentation for the opening of the little theatre next September.

STUDIO GOSSIP

Raymond Doyle who wrote the screen story of "White Shadows in the South Seas" has been signed by Warners to write an original for a Vitaphone production which will star Dolores Costello.

We have finally won an admission from Ben Lyon, who is now doing free-lance work, that his engagement to Miss Marilyn Miller has been definitely broken.

Paramount has announced that they will star Emil Jannings in an epic of the immigrant to be titled "Ellis Island".

Georgia Hale, remembered as Charles Chaplin's leading lady, has signed up with Tiffany-Stahl for six pictures. Her first will be "Floating College".

Madge Bellamy is seen scouting around the beauty parlors of Hollywood getting some inside dope for her next Fox picture "Wise Baby" in which she will be a manicurist. It looks as if Perry Nathan who wrote the story will get more assignments from this company.

First National has borrowed Eve Southern from Tiffany-Stahl for an important role in their "The Haunted House", a mystery sound picture.

"Submarine" with Jack Holt, Dorothy Revier and Ralph Graves is in its final week of filming at the Columbia Studios.

Doris Hill gets a break in Paramount's "The Avalanche". She has been playing minor roles right along, but in this gets the feminine lead with Jack Holt.

Earle C. Kenton who has a flair for sophisticated direction, has been assigned to Columbia's forthcoming production, "Greenwich Village".

Jack Richardson, one of the old-timers and who has been enacting villain roles for nineteen years, has been signed to play scoundrel in "Marked Money".

Edward Halperin, one of the producers of "She Goes to War" a United Artists' release, has left with his wife on a belated honeymoon. En route to New York, he will visit many of the key centers with regards to this picture.

Millard Webb has been assigned to direct "The Power of the Press" for Columbia Pictures.

Another South Sea story from the pen of Frederick O'Brien is in the offing. It is being written for George Bancroft and will be one of Paramount's specials. O'Brien is author of "White Shadows of the South Seas".

When Sam Saxe saw Blanche McHaffey now returned from her trip and very much rested, he immediately signed her to do a series of pictures for Gotham.

Danny O'Shea who made a name for himself in the Mack Sennett comedies, is going to appear as the

Dave Bader Sings New Tune on "U" Accessories

Now that the industry is wild over synchronization, I am expecting any day that we accessory guys will have to start worrying about synchronized accessories. Photos may soon have to talk, posters may soon sing and heralds chant! Banners may have to croon mammy songs.

If so—the poor 24 sheet will have to be a 100 piece symphony orchestra or it won't attract a bit of attention! Ye Gods!

This is a "sound" business, anyway—so why be "silent" about it.

Cineromans Pooling

Cineromans are credited with a plan to unite all French producers into one organization for pooling resources, such as the use of sets, furniture, etc. Individual producers will continue to work separately, and will have no financial connection, but the association would give each command of much wider resources.

of the seven-year old suit. If the court denies the Government's request, they have a right to appeal.

The Government's complaint does not seem to be so much against actual 'block booking' of pictures, as the courts have decided that any industry has the right to sell its product in wholesale quantities. But it is afraid that block sales sold to exhibitors might carry with them a rider for the inclusion of short subjects and newsreels and other product which would determine if exhibitors are to get the features they want.

A prominent attorney in New York believes that there will never be any satisfactory solution of the Government's case against Paramount Famous-Lasky, because of the presence of so-called 'jokers' in the case, such as orders to cease illegal theatre building, when it cannot be proven that to continue building theatres, without any direct threat to competition is illegal, and to cease block booking when no court can prove that it is illegal to sell an block.

comedian in Paramount's "Manhattan".

Clarence Brown is doing his location scouting for "A Woman of Affairs" by airplane.

Everyone's keeping an eye on this new Universal picture Dr. Fejos is producing, "The Play Goes On". It's expected to be "something different". Fred Mackaye and Gustave Partos are the most recent players added to the cast.

Jerry Drew, featured comedian in Ideal Comedies, is being surrounded by a group of pretty girls in each of his new series of Educational comedies. Blondes, Brunettes and redheads alike all vie for the privilege of obtaining a part in these pictures and consider it quite a mark of distinction if they meet the standards fixed by Jack White, supervising director of these comedies.

FIVE CENTS

OBSERVATIONS

Mr. Joseph P. Kennedy,
Any Motion Picture Office,
New York, N. Y.

Dear Mr. Kennedy:—

A lot of things have happened since you left a few weeks ago for California and we feel your return at this time is of great importance. Nothing seems to be moving in the right direction, everything has become "sound stagnated" and people who use to be able to tell the time of the day with a glance at the clock have become so "sound goofy" they now insist the clock must speak.

We feel you will get the spirit of these things ten minutes after you arrive and a few minutes later normal conditions will begin to shape themselves, but what is going to be done about the perfect crime wreaked on your FBO picture at the Rivoli this week? We went up to see it yesterday and, to state it calmly, we are durned mad, because a good FBO picture is being ruined by a lot of insane and unnecessary talk.

You no doubt saw this production as a silent picture. If you go up to the Rivoli, our bet is ten to one, you will not be able to recognize it in its present form. That prologue was murder, and what could have been the most vital sequence, the court room scene, was completely ruined by "that talk". You could see the actors were saying something entirely different from the words heard and several times these same actors had stopped talking altogether, but not the talking machine. It was wicked and caused the audience to laugh several times during these scenes.

We were just getting to like the picture and was keyed with quite a bit of excitement when all of a sudden and for no reason and right at the time one of the most important titles was spoken, the machine burst out with a song. We thought we were hearing things but kept saying "NO! it can't be". But on the song went and since nobody attempted to stop it we concluded this was "synchronization".

This is the most astounding example of a good picture being completely ruined by sound. Walking out of the theatre we found ourself laughing, as many exhibitors who have not been able to get an installation for talking pictures, will laugh, for they will be able to run "A Perfect Crime" as it should be run and as a result will have a good picture to show their patrons.

We feel you will be glad to developing talent for the new mode of expression.

Prominent players signed include Chic Sale, Clark and McCullough, Lumsden Hare, Gilbert Emery, Clifford Dempsey, Sylvia Field, Ben Holmes, Arnold Lucy, Helen Twelvetrees and Paul Fung.

"An entertainment revolution is in progress," Mr. Albert Lewis who has been engaged to supervise casting of players for Movietone, said in discussing his new activities. "In a short time dramatists will be writing for the screen and adapting their works for stage presentation. All previous novelties have worked their way to the front in spite of opposition. Sound pictures have suddenly swept the country with unlimited financial backing.

"It is a great opportunity for those who grasp its significance. A new type of writer is required and a new type of actor. Many men and women now successful on the screen will be lost in the new medium due to poor voices. Only about ten percent of stage players will be fitted for screen work, even with their trained voices. The world will have to be searched for actors with the combined talents of voice, appearance and personality."

MUSICAL TALKIE FEATURES SMALL PLAN

All Features of B'way Musical Comedies to Be Used in Films

By JOE BLAIR
Hollywood Correspondent

Edward Small, until recently a producer for First National, is going to make a series of feature length "talking" musical comedies.

Small believes in the union of the arts of the speaking and singing stage with the screen for a new entertainment medium of universal appeal and box office effectiveness of permanent and profitable nature.

"The future production of screen projects will be handled as big New York presentations are developed," said Small. "Into the continuity will go the combined talents of from four to ten collaborative elements. There will be the song writer, the melody creator, the lyrics author, the dialog specialist and the screen constructionist, gag men and directorial head."

Milt Gross has been engaged by Small to write originals for these productions. Billy Rose, popular song creator is working on the lyrics and music.

Ruth Chatterton Starts

Ruth Chatterton, for many years a star on the Broadway legitimate stage, faced Hollywood cameras for the first time on Saturday. She has the feminine lead role with Emil Jannings in "Sins of the Fathers", the German star's next Paramount production.

Lloyd Installs Sound

Harold Lloyd has installed a complete talking equipment outfit in his new home.

WAGNER'S OPERAS TO BE FILM SYNCHRONIZED

Wagner's Operas may be produced in sound pictures, according to officials of the German Grand Opera Company, who will produce the Wagner cycle in New York next year.

These films, using color and synchronization will be the first operatic pictures with the new methods, in screen history, although there have been previous record synchronizations of "Carmen" and other operas in 1910. For the pictures an orchestra of 125 musicians under Eduard Morkie, will be used.

MacLean Film Cast

The cast for "The Carnation Kid", a Christie-MacLean picture for Paramount release is complete. Aside from Douglas MacLean the star, Frances Lee will have the female lead and Lorraine Eddy, William B. Davidson, Charles Hill Mailes and Francis McDonald have the other important parts.

Brooks in "Redskin"

With "Redskin" and "The Canary Murder Case" scheduled to begin at the same time, Paramount production executives have found it necessary to withdraw Louise Brooks from the cast of the latter picture. She will have the feminine lead with Richard Dix in "Redskin".

Mary Brian has been assigned to the role in the mystery story left vacant by Miss Brooks. She will play Alice, chorus girl friend of the murdered "Canary".

William Powell has the Philo Vance part, and Ruth Taylor is the "Canary". Malcolm St. Clair will direct.

Luther Reed Director

Signs with Fox

Advices from the coast are to the effect that Winfield R. Sheehan has signed Luther Reed to a long termed contract. Reed, who has written quite a few plays, will write and direct talking pictures.

Arkush of the Arkush Circuit, Sol Levis of the Strand Theatre, L. R. Greenfield of the Greenfield Theatres, Sam Levin of Levin's Theatre Circuit, and Joe Blumenfeld of the Blumenfeld Circuit.

STUDIO GOSSIP

Due to some bit of friction or other between House Peters and Technicolor, Donald Crisp has been substituted in that company production, "The Thrall of Lief the Lucky".

Booth Tarkington's well known story "Geraldine" is being prepared by Pathe for production by Hector Turnbull, Eddie Quillan and Jeanette Loff to be featured. George Dromgold and Sanford Hewitt are working on the continuity now.

Paramount's going to have a mystery thriller, and with sound effects too. It will undoubtedly be "The Ghost House" with James Hall and Ruth Taylor in the leads.

After ten years of conscientious work around the Warner Bros. studio, "Doc" Solomon has been appointed by J. L. Warner to the post of assistant studio manager.

Kenneth Harlan and Mrs. Kenneth Harlan or in other words, Marie Prevost, are now planning a visit to New York when they have finished vacationing at Malibu Beach.

The "big three" who scored in "Flesh and the Devil" will be again united in M-G-M's "A Woman of Affairs". Clarence Brown will direct John Gilbert and Greta Garbo.

As soon as Bebe Daniels returns from New York, work will begin on "Number Please" in which she plays the part of a telephone operator. That wasn't hard to guess. Sam Mintz has written the story.

"The Bachelors' Club" is being shot in the General Pictures Corp. Studio, San Mateo and has the athletic Richard Talmadge starring. Anthony Coldeway is the author and Noel Smith's on the megaphone.

The fifth picture in the series on "Horace in Hollywood" starring Arthur Lake, has been started. These are being made by Universal and directed by Edward Luddy.

Tay Garnett will direct "The Spierler" which Ralph Block is now preparing for Pathe. Alan Hale and Jacqueline Logan to be featured.

Roy D'Arcy will again impersonate the big bad man. This time in Tiffany-Stahl's "The Family Row".

Warners have signed Gladys Brockwell for "Hardboiled Rose" which in all probability means that they'll give her a speaking part as they have already discovered that she registers well over the Vita-phone.

Before Cornelius Kiefe, the juvenile in "The Cohens and the Kellys at Atlantic City", arrives August 12 to join his Universal unit at that seashore resort, he is spending a short time with his parents who live in Brookline, Mass.

Claude Gillingwater and Hallam Cooley have been added to the cast of Warner Bros.' "Stolen Kisses".

Clyde Cook will no doubt have his big chance at being funny enough to make a corpse laugh in his part as hearse driver in Paramount's "The Docks of New York".

At the premiere of "White Shadows of the South Seas" at Grauman's Chinese Theatre, a reel was filmed by James Cruze showing the celebrities, Fred Niblo as radio announcer, and a troupe of Pacific Island entertainers.

Gene Towne has been assigned to write the titles for "Waterfront", First National Picture, nearing completion under the direction of William A. Seiter and featuring Dorothy Mackaill and Jack Mulhall.

When "Big Boy's" latest starring comedy, "Kid Hayseed" is released by Educational in August, the old familiar triangle will take place, in that the four-year-old star will engage in a real ring battle with Jackie Levine, because of their rivalry over pretty little Lorraine Rivero.

FIVE CENTS

OBSERVATIONS

"Broadway"

Advices from Universal City are to the effect that the much discussed production of "Broadway" will soon be under way. It is no doubt the intention of this organization to make this one their ace production of the year and considering the price paid for it, it should be one of the big pictures of the industry.

Hold Up

The sale of this popular stage success was announced late last winter but it was not generally known that according to the terms of the contract, Universal was not permitted to start production until Oct. 1 of this year. Since buying it, Universal officials have seen parts of this stage play in twenty or thirty pictures released by other organizations. No doubt Universal used some themselves. Accordingly what kind of picture will it make now with the meat being shown so many times?

Good Regardless

It should be a very good picture regardless of this pirating. We have only to consider the case of "The Big Parade" and "What Price Glory" for almost a parallel. After Fox bought "Glory", Laurence Stallings was engaged by M-G-M and wrote an original "The Big Parade" and after its release everyone figured Fox would be killed with his picture. But instead of hurting it, it helped in that the M-G-M picture helped create a following for "Glory".

Great Play

"Broadway" was a great play and can't help from being a good picture if the big moments of the play are not washed out in the adaptation. We feel certain this will not be done.

Director

Carl Laemmle is reported after one of the big directors of the business to make this production. If we were Uncle Carl we would not go off the Universal lot in handing out this assignment. We would give it to Wesley Ruggles, a very good director when it is considered that the program pictures he has been turning out for Universal have all been better than the average with little material, cast and money to work with. Our reasoning is if Ruggles can do that good with nothing, what could he do with a real story, a good cast and a little money to spend.

As the result of the 8-hour meeting of the theatre owners of the T.O.C.C. and the I.M.P.E.A. yesterday, it was ascertained that a formula of consolidation will be reached within ten days, and that preparations are being made for appraisals and audits.

Recognized people will be engaged shortly for the appraisals and audits of the various theatres in the B. S. Moss pool, that is auditing and appraisal firms with recognized standing by the bankers will do the work of preliminary organization.

These appraisals will ascertain the value of the physical theatre properties and then will follow audit certification as to the past and present earnings of the theatres.

From these reports and with approximately 150 independent theatres in this territory which will be in the pool, the new company will issue to the various entities, stock in relation to their physical assets and their earnings.

SYNCHRONIZED "UNCLE TOM" SHOWN EXHIBIS

A special trade showing for New York exhibitors and representatives of the trade press of the synchronized version of Universal's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" was held yesterday morning in the Globe Theatre, 46th Street and Broadway. It was the first official presentation of Universal's first Movietone picture. The epic was synchronized with full orchestral and sound effects.

In addition to the musical setting, supplied by an augmented New York Symphony Orchestra, the famous Dixie Jubilee Singers were used for the plantation sequences. Other excellent effects were obtained in sound in connection with the river steamboats, the dances, the blood-hound chase of Eliza, the Slave mart, and in the scenes of Little Eva's death. Dialogue is used in several effective places.

Season of
TIME FILED
1928-1929

Send the following message, subject to the terms on back hereof, which are hereby agreed to

To Mr. Exhibitor:

The season is rife with 92-karat promises. Promises offered in gaudy settings, promises cut into many facets, scintillating in brilliant tints!

If pages upon pages of printers' ink, impressive art work and unique engraving make a promise worthy of its bond, then Glory Hallelujah! exhibitors of America are in for 600 certified box-office winners, at least 150 surefire specials, and not a single flop!

Nevertheless, a promise IS worth something—depending, of course, on who makes it. The sensible exhibitor knows this, and builds his hope of future prosperity on the promises made by reliable producers. Whether printed matter runs to acreage or a single page, the exhibitor's reaction is based on the likelihood of the producer living up to his agreements.

In this very spirit, Gotham presents its line-up of product for 1928-1929. It has scoured the country for the best stories. It has already contracted for the engagement of a number of the foremost box-office stars. It has retained directors and studio personnel who have been responsible for such first run successes as "HELLSHIP BRONSON," "UNITED STATES SMITH," "BARE KNEES," "SAN FRANCISCO NIGHTS," "THE GIRL FROM RIO," "THE SATIN WOMAN" and others. It points with pride to its record of achievements in the last five years and the certainty of future delivery based on this record.

With this in mind, Gotham invites your attention to the following pages, confident you will find therein a guide to profitable bookings for 1928-1929.

Furiously funny farce by the versatile author of Gotham's big special, "The River Woman."

"SAN FRANCISCO AFTER DARK"

By Harold Shumate

The showmanship instinct that has created such successful specials as "Hellship Bronson" and "United States Smith," and the other Shumate smashes here reveals a bizarre, realistic story of modern Frisco that is bound to appeal.

"LAW OF THE BLUE RIDGE"

By Allen Swinburne

The yearning human quality that made "Tol'able David" one of the most sensational pictures in the history of motion pictures will be found in this brand new story of the mountain country.

"THE GIRL FROM ARGENTINE"

By K. T. Kelson

A legitimate successor to the box-office winner, "The Girl from Rio," with all the glamor and exotic passion of a Latin-American love theme.

"VIOLENCE"

By Norman Houston

A smashing indictment of crime and criminals by the famous motion picture writer and ex-police reporter, Norman Houston.

"UNDERWORLD LOVE"

By Gregory Lang

Love among thieves—two universal themes that will hold the interest of human beings wherever pictures are shown.

"MOTHERS OF TODAY"

By Henry G. Lloyd

A gigantic appeal to the mothers of America in a heart-interest story that contrasts the mothers of today with the mothers of yesterday.

"HOMELESS PARENTS"

By Gerald Beaumont

Adapted from the "Red Book" magazine story, "The Trouper." To be backed up by one of the greatest exploitation tie-ups in screen history—with insurance companies and banks throughout the country!

"THE FIRE CALL"

By Adele Buffington

An action picture from first to last, with a "natural" tie-up with the fire-chiefs that will mean the exploitation help of every fire-house in America!

JOSEPH HENABERY

Noted for his directorial efforts with Douglas Fairbanks and the late Rudolph Valentino, and the Gotham special, "UNITED STATES HELLSHIP BRONSON."

OUR PLEDGE

I REALIZE only too well the responsibility of making a promise to exhibitors who have made Gotham's success possible by their diligent support these past five years. At this time of the year, when pictures are still in the offing, I shall not insult the exhibitor's intelligence by telling him precisely how each picture will turn out. But if past performances stand for anything; if five years of consistent growth and progress mean anything; if the development of a high-class producing personnel, studio technicians and the most popular fiction writers of the day have any bearing on future results, then GOTHAM has the foundation upon which the 1928-1929 structure of box-office entertainment has a great start. To build for the essential prosperity of exhibitors, I sincerely pledge myself.

Samuel Sax

President,
GOTHAM PHOTOPLAYS CORP.

EXHIBITORS have been telling me for a number of years running that Gotham Productions have made money for them. Comments of this kind are the priceless pearls that keep a producer digging to deserve them. Thus, I have every incentive in the world to bend every effort to maintain the reputation that Gotham has established. It is both good business and a complimentary trust. To make each exhibitor's problem my own will be a privilege. To guarantee the best that goes to make a picture successful at the box-office—from the moment we cast the stars until that time when we co-operate by launching enterprising exploitation and advertising campaigns—will be my stern endeavor. This, I can sincerely guarantee.

5,000 BOOKINGS MADE ON BARTHELMESS FILM

In the six months that have elapsed since First National released generally its Richard Barthelmess special, "The Patent Leather Kid," last January, 5,000 theatres have booked it.

A large proportion of them have already shown it. Ned E. Depinet, general sales manager for First National, estimates that this is about half of the theatres which will show the production.

If the saturation point of "The Patent Leather Kid" is 10,000 theatres, that will place it close to "The Sea Hawk" as First National's biggest seller.

FOX NEWS SHOWS OLYMPIC OPENING

Scenes and ceremonies attendant on the opening of the ninth Olympiad in Amsterdam are shown in the current issue of Fox News. There is a panoramic view from an aeroplane, which circles the huge bowl, of the crowd inside and hundreds pouring in from the streets.

The opening parade, in which the pick of athletes of many nations march around the circular track; the massing of the contestants to hear the address of the Prince of Netherlands; the taking of the Olympic oath and the release of a great flock of pigeons that marks the beginning of the historic games are contained in the reel.

$400,000 Suburban

House for Okla City

OKLAHOMA CITY—Ground has been broken for another suburban theatre here which will seat 1,000 and will be promoted by local capital. Ground was broken last week for the new Victoria, which will cost $150,000.

R. F. J. Williams, Mr. Emenheiser, G. A. Nichols and John J. Culberston are interested in the financing of the playhouse.

REBUILD FIRE LOSS

"Metropolitan" Builders Get Durfee Contract

FALL RIVER—Contracts have been awarded for rebuilding the Durfee Theatre which was destroyed by fire in February. The Olympia Construction Co. of Boston, builders of the Metropolitan in that city, was awarded the contract.

The theatre will seat 2,500 and will be one of the most beautiful in New England.

Reisman Closes Deals

Phil Reisman, General Sales Manager of Pathe, has just closed a deal with the Coston Circuit of Chicago for all Pathe features and short subjects. This is but one of a number of contracts secured on a trip to Chicago and Buffalo, from which he has just returned.

Nocal Sells to Salem

R. J. Nocal has sold the Hollywood Theatre in Sales, Oregon, to the Salem Amusement Company. Vern McIntyre and George Guthrie are supposed to be among those interested in the acquisition.

films made by the Movietone and the Photophone processes, RCA Photophone has now adopted a sound track 80 mils in width, but which retains the Photophone method of recording. Tests made in studios and theatres with a variety of sound motion picture subjects prove conclusively that Photophone films not only play interchangeably on Movietone projectors but also give normal and satisfactory speech and musical quality perfectly synchronized. The 80 mil Photophone sound track requires no modification whatever of the Movietone sound projector; neither is the operating procedure of Movietone changed in any way.

"I know of no reason, technical or otherwise, why sound films recorded by the Photophone process cannot be satisfactorily played on either Photophone or Movietone machines installed in theatres. Also the Photophone Company has no objection to sound films recorded by the Movietone process being played on Photophone machines installed in theatres."

Third F. N. Picnic

to Be Held Aug. 11

First Nationals third annual outing will be held at Indian Point, on the Hudson, on Saturday, August 11. William P. Mullen will again be master of ceremonies because of the big hit he made in that capacity at last year's outing. There will be tennis, dancing, swimming, a baseball game between married and single men, various races for both men and women and other events.

in Blue Law Fight

TEXAS—The Charles Brothers, theatre operators of Alice, Texas, are making a valiant fight to legalize Sunday motion pictures. They started the ball rolling last month, with free shows on Sunday and organized petitions to be signed by the citizenry, 700 of whom have signed the roll.

T. Mathewson Joins

Pathe Review Staff

Tracy Mathewson, one of the most famous cameramen of the Southland, has transferred from Pathe News to Pathe Review. He has been in New York for conference with Terry Ramsay, editor in chief of eastern production for Pathe, and for a study of the current sound picture offerings on Broadway.

Dan Finkelstein and Frank Rubel have formed the National Operating company, with headquarters at 321 Loeb Arcade, Minneapolis, to handle the distribution in Minnesota, North and South Dakota of the sound device, the Han-A-Phone, a disc equipment for the synchronization of motion pictures.

Mr. Finkelstein made a thorough investigation of available sound equipment before contracting for the distribution of the Han-A-Phone, giving much study to requirements and needs of both large and small theatres. The Han-A-Phone equipment can be attached to any make of projector, according to Mr. Finkelstein and the cost of installation is well within the reach of the small theatres, the distributors claiming the machine can be paid for out of added profits within four weeks.

true will continue at the Criterion until New Year's, at least, according to A. Griffith Grey, head of the Paramount Road Show Department.

A whole week, commencing Sunday, is to be known as "Wings" Anniversary Week and distinguished figures in aviation will be among the audiences as guests of honor each night. On Sunday, Commander Richard E. Byrd, who attended the presentation of "Wings" a year ago, will return to see it a second time.

Only four other motion pictures ever have run for a year on Broadway—they being "The Ten Commandments," "The Covered Wagon," "The Big Parade" and "Ben Hur." The DeMille Biblical film and "Ben Hur" occupied two theatres, while "Wings," "The Big Parade" and "The Covered Wagon" remained in the same house throughout their runs.

CANADA PRODUCING OFFICIAL GOV'T. FILM

OTTAWA—Canada is making an official National Scenic picture which Frank Badgley, director of the Motion Picture Bureau of the Canadian Government at Ottawa is directing.

It will be called "Seeing Canada". Badgley has just returned from a six week's tour of the Pacific Coast and the Western Provinces and has shot thousands of feet of film.

CONTRACTS MUST BE WRITTEN SAYS LEADER

"Do not make oral agreement with film salesmen or others in the purchase of your product" warns R. F. Woodhull, President of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of America.

"I am impelled to sound this warning once again because of two or three recent decisions rendered by Arbitration Boards against exhibitors.

"In the first place, very few concerns in any line recognize oral statements by their representatives; secondly, it is an unsound way of doing business as one party or the other may die, change positions or break faith.

"Any exhibitor who is following this practice is travelling toward a dangerous situation. While the agony can be postponed for a time this hit or miss policy can end, only in loss of money and in many instances lifelong friendships will be broken.

"Have all special understandings reduced to the old 'black on white' and see that every copy of the application reads the same. If you are buying pictures for one house and running them in another, by special oral agreement, both yourself and the salesman know it is wrong.

"At least, it is unbusinesslike and your business structure is surely being built on shifting sands. Start with your next purchase and have all special concessions, if any, plainly stated in your approved copy of the contract."

WM. DeMILLE RETURNS TO PARAMOUNT

Will Associate with Pomeroy on Sound Film Production

By JOE BLAIR
Hollywood Correspondent

After an absence of more than two years William De Mille will again affiliate himself with the Paramount Famous Lasky Corporation, it was announced today by Jesse L. Lasky, first vice president in charge of production.

The pioneer producer and director will return to Paramount to associate himself with Roy J. Pomeroy, director of sound effects, in the development of audible motion pictures in the Hollywood studios. For the past two and a half years De Mille has been connected with the Cecil B. De Mille company, having left Paramount to join his brother's organization.

Korda to Direct Sills

Alexander Korda will be at the megaphone on Milton Sills next production to follow "Hard Rock," it is announced by First National Pictures. The tentative title of the new production is "Comedy of Life." No supporting cast has been assembled as yet. Korda is responsible for "The Private Life of Helen of Troy" among other recent First National productions.

Pickford's New Story Gets Under Way

Mary Pickford's writing staff has gone to work in earnest on her new story, the title of which has not yet been announced. John Grey and Allan McNeil are collaborating with Sam Taylor on a dramatic comedy said to give Our Mary a chance to display a new phase of her ability in the role of a young girl whose true love runs with proverbial lack of smoothness.

New Menjou Director

Adolphe Menjou will have a new director with his next Paramount picture. Frank Tuttle has been assigned to handle the next Menjou vehicle, the script for which is now being prepared by Ernest Vajda.

GEORGE O'BRIEN CAST IN COP ROLE IN "FOG"

George O'Brien is playing the role of a policeman in "Fog," now in production at the Fox West Coast Studios. If he needs any technical advice, which he thinks he doesn't, he intends to call upon his father, Chief Daniel J. O'Brien of the San Francisco police department.

"Fog," is being directed by Charles Klein. It is an adaptation of Charles Francis Coe's story. In the cast are Lois Moran, Fritz Feld, Andy Clyde, Earle Foxe, Crauford Kent, Robert E. Homens, Don Terry Maria Alba and John Kelly.

Adolfi Directs

"Sinners' Parade"

Columbia Pictures has signed John Adolfi, who did "The Little Snob," "What Happened to Father" and other Warner pictures, to direct "Sinners' Parade."

Adolfi is working on the script with Beatrice Van who recently joined Columbia's Hollywood forces.

Jones to Direct

Charles Rogers

F. Richard Jones has again been signed to direct the next Charles Rogers picture for Paramount.

Jones, a graduate of the Mack Sennett comedy institution, directed Mabel Normand in several of her biggest successes, and a few months ago came to Paramount to handle "The Big Killing". The results on that picture gave him the chance to handle the megaphone work on Zane Grey's recent picture, "The Water Hole".

John Boles Cast

in New Fox Film

John Boles, a "discovery" of Gloria Swanson, who selected him for the lead in her starring production, "Sunya", has the important role of "Stephen Ramson" in Irving Cummings' current production for Fox films, tentatively titled "The Woman".

Ben Bard and Mary Astor have the leading roles with Oscar Apfel, Lia Tora and Helen Lynch in the supporting cast.

Theatre Owners in 8-Hour Session-Appraisals-Audits

The plans include drafting the best brains of the existing theatre circuits for the personnel operating the pool. Efforts are being made to start the new scheme before the start of the new season in September.

Reports are being circulated that members of the Sapiro organization will deal individually with distributors, in view of the nearness of the coming season, but this was strongly denied by the Sapiro association yesterday, which it is asserted will continue as steadfast as ever, despite contrary reports or the formation of the new pool.

STUDIO GOSSIP

D'Arrast who both wrote and directed "The Magnificent Flirt" will again direct Florence Vidor in her next Paramount production, "Divorce Bound".

Actual shooting has been completed on First National's "Show Girl" and the film is now in the cutting room.

Anita Page one of M-G-M's favorite featured players has added a course on interpretation to that of voice culture at the University of Southern California. She's going to be prepared when the time comes for her to star in a sound picture.

William J. Cowen, well known as a writer has been promoted to the position of director at the Pathe studios and his first assignment is "Ned McCobb's Daughter". In honor of his new duties, Leonore Coffee, or Mrs. William J. Cowen if you choose, presented him with a megaphone.

B. P. Schulberg announced the purchase of Harvey Fergusson's novel "Wolf Song" by Paramount and that it will be prepared by John Farrow to feature Gary Cooper.

Gertrude Messenger has been signed by Universal to play opposite Arthur Lake in the "Horace in Hollywood" series of one-reelers.

In choosing William Haines to star in "A Man's Man", the stage play by Patrick Kearney, Metro evidently looks for real histrionic ability from this young man. We only hope he can live down his past parts and put this over.

Frank Lloyd will direct Billie Dove's next picture for First National. He has just completed "The Divine Lady".

Julian Johnson will title "The First Kiss", Wray-Cooper's picture for Paramount. The major portion of the film was shot in Maryland.

Edmund Cobb and Frank Clark have been added to the cast of the new Universal serial "The Final Reckoning" in which Newton House and Louise Lorraine have the leading roles.

After bothering to establish the reputation of one of Hollywood's chief free-lancers, Lewis Stone has gone and signed a long term contract with M-G-M. He is now playing in "A Woman of Affairs".

Additions to the cast of "Outcast" the new Corinne Griffith production for First National comprise Edmund Lowe, Huntley Gordon, Louise Fazenda, James Ford, Frank Chew and Kathryn Carver.

Doing the "vamp" to perfection, Paramount is again placing Lilyan Tashman in a menacing role in Nancy Carroll's and Richard Arlen's co-featuring sound picture.

Eddie Nugent, that new juvenile find of M-G-M will appear as an aviator playing with Ramon Novarro in "Gold Braid".

'THE LAST WARNING' FINISHED BY LENI

HOLLYWOOD — Final scenes of "The Last Warning", Universal's mystery production starring Laura La Plante under direction of Paul Leni, have been photographed and the picture is now in the cutting room, according to an announcement by President Carl Laemmle.

The production, which was supervised by Carl Laemmle, Jr., has a strong cast including Montagu Love, Margaret Livingston, Bert Roach, John Boles, Roy D'Arcy, Mack Swain, Burr McIntosh, Carrie Daumery, George Summerville, Torben Meyer, D'Arcy Corrigan, Bud Phelps, Tom O'Brien, Fred Kelsey and others.

"The Last Warning" is adapted from the stage production of the same name by Thomas F. Fallon. The story revolves around the staging of a play in a haunted theatre, unoccupied for years. The picture will have sound effects.

Wallace to Direct

"Shop Worn Angel"

Richard Wallace, who directed the far-famed "McFadden's Flats", has been signed by Paramount to handle "The Shop Worn Angel", the Gary Cooper-Nancy Carroll co-featuring vehicle soon to go into production at the Hollywood studios.

FIVE CENTS

OBSERVATIONS

Popping

This sound business is popping. History is being made every minute. Everything is fast and furious. What seems a distinct departure today is an antique tomorrow. Mergers are coming, have come and will continue to come. No one would dare prophesy progress, or lack of it, from one hour to the other. At times you figure it as a lot of bunk and a little later feel it is here to stay.

Paramount

Realizing their inability to get sound approaching a perfection in time necessary for them to compete with Fox, Paramount has made a definite offer to Warner Brothers for controlling interest in Vitaphone. The price has now reached Eighteen Million, with an additional million added every few hours. The Warners are sitting in the kings seat and realize it. Paramount wants Vitaphone, Warners know it and Paramount will pay and pay and pay.

Zukor Yells

Tuesday the DAILY REVIEW got wind of this move on the part of Paramount. We phoned Paramount and Warners for confirmation, knowing there would be a denial, and got just that. Later Mr. Adolph Zukor phoned to suggest, if we published the story (it was to be in our issue of yesterday) he would see that we were all put in jail and threatened a thousand other reprisals. In fact his "denial" was so emphatic it turned, what we believed a substantial rumor with some truth and justification into a sensational bit of news, so sensational in fact, we decided to hold off publication in order to permit us time to get more and greater details.

Scooped

This morning we decorated our desk with yards of beautiful crepe surmounted with garlands of lillies. Our sensational story was published by two other film journals. We owe our readers an apology but as a result of being scooped on this yarn, we have strengthened our position, for if Zukor makes good his threat, as he certainly will, we will, very likely be the only publication on the street tomorrow, unless arrangements can be made for the two journals that carried the story to publish from convenient jails.

$1,250,000 FRENCH PHOTOTONE FORMED

By SAM HARRIS
"Today's Cinema"

PARIS — The French Phototone, Ltd., has been formed and a capital stock issue of $1,250,000 will be floated. The company controls the British Phototone patents and the Board of Directors includes Max Lopez, managing director of French Brunswick; A. George Smith, managing director of the British Phototone and Clayton Hutton of the same company.

French Phototone proposes to produce talking film in France on a reciprocal arrangement between the British and French companies and will erect talking film studios.

Cinema music in France at present is at a very low standard and the opportunities for sound films and Panatropes in theatres are increasing, states a representative of the French Brunswick Co.

THREE BIG ONES FOR GENERAL P-F-L RELEASE

Three of Paramount's biggest pictures will be released generally to bolster up the showing which the company plans to make at the commencement of the new season.

"Wings" will be released in September; "The Patriot" on August 17th and "The Wedding March" in October.

Pathe Editor Sails for Italy Aug. 15

Joe Sullivan editor of "The Pathe Sun" house-organ of Pathe Exchanges, Inc., is sailing for Italy on the Colombo, August 15th, where he will arrive in time to hear his wife's debut in grand opera in Milan.

Sullivan will visit Switzerland, France and England and will be gone for six weeks.

Warner Stock Breaks Suddenly—Leak in News

Whether the leak of news in the negotiations which are going on between Paramount Famous-Lasky and the Warner Brothers was responsible for a drop in Warner shares yesterday, or whether it is the result of a rapid over-inflation, is not definitely known, but after two weeks of steady climbing, the Warner "A" stock lost 3¼ points on the Exchange and the "B", 2¾ points on the Curb.

REISMAN AND WEIR SIGN STANLEY—W.C.

Pathe has just put over double-header sales deals in the East and West involving two of the biggest circuits, through Phil Reisman, General Sales Manager, closing with the Stanley Circuit for the full line of Pathe product simultaneously with L. S. Weir, Western Division Sales Manager's similar deal with the West Coast Circuit.

"King of Kings" Breaks U. A. Theatre Records

"King of Kings" Pathe feature is breaking records at the United Artists Theatre in Chicago, the company reports. 500 theatres will show the film simultaneously day and date the first two weeks in October.

Boles Gets 5-Year Universal Contract

Carl Laemmle, president of the Universal Pictures Corporation, has signed up John Boles, leading man, on a five year contract for talking and singing pictures.

He is said to have an exceptional singing and speaking voice.

P-F-L-WARNER BROS. MERGER IMMINENT—STATEMENTS MADE

Officials Deny and Confirm Report—Price Not Agreed Upon

Feeling that sound is here to stay and because both Fox and Warners have outguessed and outmanipulated them in this new and distinct departure and with the added realization their own progress with sound is quite feeble, Paramount is said to have made a very definite offer for the control of Warner Brothers. The bidding at present is said to have reached $18,000,000 with Warners giving them the angry stare at the audacity of such a small offer.

On the heels of the sensational rise of 55 points in the Warner stock since the first of the year, strong reports emanating from several Wall Street institutions early this week indicate that Paramount-Famous-Lasky Corp., sought and is still seeking to buy control of Warner Brothers.

Synchronize Player Piano to Pictures

An interesting invention has been demonstrated abroad. It is a synchronized player-piano, invented by Hindemith, which should be an important addition to the many sound-film systems now in operation and of value chiefly to smaller theatres now using organs, orchestrations and the like.

The piano record roll is synchronized perfectly to a picture, the notes always corresponding exactly to a particular image on the screen.

P.F.L.-Warner Bros.

Merger Imminent

producing organization but which would allow Warners to continue operations because of their superiority and showmanship in sound pictures, is the recognition that they are far ahead of anybody else in this field, having definitely lined up their plans for actual accomplishment for the next two years.

Added to this is the pressure being brought to bear upon Zukor by his sales forces who see a vanishing box-office without the talkies, for the P-F-L houses, and the fact that the Warner estimated receipts in the next two years will total from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000.

Wall Street financiers are gathering in every share of P-F-L common stock available on the Q.T., in anticipation of profits that are to accrue as the result of the Warner investment and the splendid financial prospects of the Paramount company. This movement has been gathering momentum since July 1st.

Despite denials yesterday by representatives of both companies the Wall Street informants maintained late yesterday afternoon that the deal still had a chance to go through and that Paramount Famous-Lasky is desirous of having at their disposal the experienced organization of talking picture production which Warners have developed, in order to avoid wasting tremendous sums this coming year in the pitfalls and difficulties surrounding the making of the new type of entertainment.

Adolph Zukor, head of Paramount Famous-Lasky was vigorous in his denial of this report and threatened reprisals against any publication running such a story, stating it was a great injustice to his company and to Warner Brothers.

Harry M. Warner, President of Warner Brothers has admitted receiving offers for the company whereby it would change hands only on consideration that it be allowed to retain its identity and the price was right.

The Warner Stock reaction this week shows that traders in the "street" are backing up their information on the coming merger, and as a result the stock has broken all records this year.

Brokers who are handling the Warner stock report that the "A" stock which is convertible into the common, is callable at $17 a share and that it is anticipated by interests close to the corporation that this stock will be called in shortly.

After reaching a new high price, Warner Brothers A stock met profit taking. The company's fiscal year ends August 31 and earnings for the period will be about $3.25 a share on the combined A and B stocks. The Street has heard rumors of calling of the A stock, but this cannot be done first, until the notes are paid off on October 15, and, second, until a capital surplus is shown.

At present the company has a capital deficit. The A stock could be retired on December 1 were it not for the capital surplus provision.

Company officials refuse to hazard a guess on earnings for next year, beyond predicting that they will be much better. Pool interests, however, are less modest and mention figures which leave the Street, which has seen pool movements in this stock before, a bit skeptical.

Traders on the 'street' are hustling to get in on the P-F-L common stock before the 3 for 1 split actually takes place in anticipation of the Warner profits to accrue to P-F-L stockholders if the deal finally goes through.

Niblo Sounds Warning to Stem Sound-Film Stampede

Bern Starts Pathe

Duties on Aug. 15

The appointment of Paul Bern as Pathe producer is of great importance to future Pathe product, in the opinion of executives at the Pathe Studios. He will assume his new duties on August 15.

Bern comes to Pathe from M-G-M, where he was first scenario editor-in-chief, and more recently supervisor of story-production activities. For the last two years he has been identified with M-G-M's finest product.

The acquisition of Bern is indicative of the determination of Pathe to have on its program the very best features that can be made.

"State Street Sadie"

for Kansas City

KANSAS CITY—The Midland Theatre will dispense with its stage shows on August 17th and will inaugurate its talking picture policy with "State Street Sadie," and Movietone News.

The Midland is the second theatre here to change to sound films and will supplement that form of entertainment given at the Globe. Consequently Loew-Publix presentations are temporarily out of the scheme of things.

Dunham Buys Theatre

The Hawthorne Theatre, Portland, which was recently closed, has been sold by Tex Allbright to F. M. Dunham who has re-opened it.

Fred Niblo is looking to talking pictures through anything but rose-colored glasses. "Go slowly and cautiously" is the advice of this director of the first rank.

"I would like to sound a warning against this stampede. At least let us take time to consider where we are going.

"I do not believe that public interest in the silent film is flagging to the point where innovations are demanded. The trouble lies in theater over-development, more seats than can possibly be filled. Turn half our theaters into garages and there will be no complaint on the score of patronage.

"The silent drama has a great clientele. Shall we jeopardize this by tinkering with the type of pictures that has built up this following? Shall we drive film patrons from theatres by presenting them with mediocre talking pictures?

"What will the actors say? Who will write it for them? As it is, there is a shortage of good writers in the industry. Where will we find Oscar Wildes and Bernard Shaws to write dialogue for the 'talkies'?

"The public loves youth and beauty on the screen. Shall we sacrifice youth and beauty to voice? And a good voice in a talking picture will be a canned voice, nevertheless.

"What will become of our foreign market? What will become of our foreign stars with imperfect knowledge of our language? And what will become of some of our greatest actors, who are not especially favored as to voice?"

Now you can see how perfect a Synchronized Picture Can Be

No. 598—Straight from the Shoulder Talk by Carl Laemmle, President of the Universal Pictures Corporation.

AND NOW "THE MAN WHO LAUGHS" IS READY FOR YOU TO HEAR AS well as to SEE.

NOW YOU WILL HAVE THE BEST OPPORTUNITY YOU HAVE EVER HAD to realize how much a glorious picture—perfect in itself—can be improved by the addition of cleverly directed sounds.

WITH ALL THE WILD TALK ABOUT SYNCHRONIZATION WHICH HAS had the whole industry standing on its head, it is no wonder that confusion has been worse confounded.

AND NOW, OUT OF THE CHAOS OF GUESS-WORK AND GOSSIP, COMES the supreme achievement which will prove without the shadow of a doubt that when even a perfect picture is properly synchronized with all due regard for theatrical effects, it can be made even better than perfect!

NEVER HAS THERE BEEN A MORE CONVINCING DEMONSTRATION OF the possibilities of the movietone process than you will get when you SEE AND HEAR "THE MAN WHO LAUGHS".

DURING THE SCENES AT THE FAMOUS SOUTHWARK FAIR, YOU WILL hear the cries of the barkers, the shouts of the happy people, the blowing of their horns and the throbbing of their other merry-making noise-machines.

THROUGHOUT THE SCENES WHEN GWYNPLAINE IS AMUSING HIS audience—that audience which rocks with laughter—you will HEAR the gales of laughter and you will hear the tumultuous cries "Gwynplaine! Gwynplaine!"

IN THE MOB SCENES, PANDEMONIUM IS LET LOOSE AND THE MOVIE fan does not live who will fail to get a terrific "kick" from this grand combination of eye and ear entertainment.

THE MUSICAL SCORE IS A GEM IN ITSELF, BRINGING OUT WITH EVEN extra emphasis the fine points of this exquisitely directed picture.

AND ONCE MORE I WANT TO SAY TO THOSE EXHIBITORS WHO HAVE no sound equipment in their theatres just this:—Whether your patrons simply SEE "The Man Who Laughs" or whether they both SEE and HEAR it, they will be entertained and uplifted in spirit as no picture has aroused them for a long time.

WHETHER THEY'RE SILENT OR WHETHER THEY'RE OTHERWISE Universal has the pictures!

SENNETT STUDIOS COMPLETE PROGRAM —PLANT SHUT DOWN

Producer to Make No More Silent Comedies—Lines up Release

The Mack Sennett studio's have closed down as a result of their having completed the series of two reel comedies for Pathe release for 1928-29. The organization started about the middle of May on this series and shot them fast and furious in as much as Pathe only permitted them a $10,000 negative advance.

This will no doubt be the last of the two reel silent comedy in so far as Sennett is concerned as it is his intention of going in for sound comedies and novelties modeled on lines a bit different from the short subjects of Movietone and Vitaphone.

Sennett is in New York at present working out details for a release and lining up talent.

STUDIO GOSSIP

By JOE BLAIR

Ben Lyon has been receiving some very complimentary offers from eastern stage producers for his services for the coming season, but Ben has seen fit to turn them down and stick with the movies.

"East Side", Universal's all-talkie is now under way at the studios with Leigh Jason directing. The cast includes Jean Hersholt, Walter Long, Mary Nolan, Grace Valentine and Tom McGuire.

Back Jones left a couple of days ago with Ted Brooks, his assistant director, for a quick auto trip to New York. He is figuring on doing it in six days and nights and we hope he makes it.

Since Estelle Taylor left for New York, the company shooting "Singapore Mutiny" for FBO under the direction of Ralph Ince, has become a "stag" organization.

Reports coming from the Pasadena Hospital where F. W. Murnan was operated upon last week for appendicitis, are most favorable. The Fox director counts on leaving there in another week.

Douglas Haig, formerly a member of Hal Roach's "Our Gang", and Dawn O'Day have been signed by Paramount to play children's roles with Emil Jannings in "Sins of the Fathers".

Almost equalling the famous silk hat story of Belgium's Lowenstein, is the case with Ramon Novarro who commutes daily by airplane from his San Deigo tailor who is making him uniforms for "Gold Braid" to M-G-M studios.

William H. Turner has been added to the cast of Paul Fejos' Universal feature, "Eric the Great" which is now being prepared. Conrad Veidt and Mary Philbin will head the cast.

FIVE CENTS

OBSERVATIONS

Watch Out

We were talking to a gentleman who has made a very close study of "sound" for one of the larger organizations and among other things he said, "it seems to me we are not in sound as much as the sound companies are in pictures". To us, those few words have a lot of significance in that the large producers should give quite a bit of thought to the entry, even only in a seemingly small way, of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, Radio Corporation of America and Western Electric.

Years Ago

Quite a few years ago exhibitors were stumbling over each other in their effort to buy the product of one of the better producing and releasing organizations. They were outbidding each other. Rentals shot up. It was not long before this same producing and releasing organization approached many of these exhibitors for higher rentals, this refused they offered to buy the theatres and being refused this, they threatened and in some case actually did build opposition houses.

Parallel

We feel the mad scramble of the producers to sound and sound manufacturers is almost a parallel to the above and anticipate that the money (and that means a lot) being thrown in the direction of the A. T. & T. Co., Western Electric and others, might revert back to shoving a few of these producers out of the business. Certainly these gentlemen with unlimited finances of their own, controlling the patents and the delivery of sound apparatus, both recording and amplification, being satisfied of the money-making propensities of their patents, might want to go a few steps further and make pictures themselves. That's logical. Even in the face of the ten and fourteen year contracts they are passing out. We don't think there is anything in their contracts that might prevent their making pictures.

Mayer & Schneider attorneys will today answer the plea by the I.M. P.E.A. for a temporary injunction, before Judge Crain in the Supreme Court.

The theatre circuit was served after several weeks and they will be asked to stop buying film from distributors, except through the Sapiro organization, and from carrying out their contract to play M-G-M pictures.

H. M. WARNER SPURNS OFFERS—WILL CARRY ON

Harry M. Warner again made clear his stand on the reported offers made to buy Warner Brothers. He stated yesterday that he was not interested in selling out, and that maybe they will buy some companies.

Warner spoke of their intentions to finish the job they had started in putting the company where it is today and that there was not enough money in the picture industry to buy them out.

He also ridiculed a reported statement from one of the industry's leaders who is supposed to have stated that there will be no talking pictures in four or five months, and expressed surprise that such a great leader in this business should be so shortsighted.

ONLY 3 FOR PATHE

According to Wall Street report from confidential sources close to E. F. Hutton & Co., and Blair & Co., the second step in the plans which have been made to merge Pathe with FBO and perhaps First National, which was predicted by Exhibitors Daily Review back in March, is about to take place.

This next development comes almost after the entire depletion of what was once the best-known trademark and picture organization in the business. Today the company is embarking on what will probably be its last three features; all future work of this type being done by the FBO organization and bearing that trademark. Only Pathe News and Pathe Review will remain. The consolidation of three exchange systems into one, handling the product of three companies will be the first step under consideration today. PERSONALITIES

GUY I. BRADFORD

Back in the days of 1916 when exchanges weren't the organizations they are today, Guy Bradford stepped into the field, and finding his rightful place here, remained; in fact remained to climb to his present position of branch manager at Kansas City for Tiffany-Stahl.

His work began as salesman in this same city with George Kleien Co., being transferred by them to Atlanta. When this concern closed their national branch offices, Bradford returned to Kansas City as salesman with Pathe, later being made feature sales manager for that district. He next connected with Associated Exhibitors as manager of their Atlanta exchange and remained here until Hodgkinson's offices opened up and he became manager in St. Louis. When this company was sold, Bradford went with United Artists and then to Tiffany-Stahl. After five months as salesman with this organization, he was promoted to his present office.

His home now is in Kansas City, but he is a native son of Adairville, Kentucky, born there October 31, 1885. His family consists of wife and two daughters.

Pathe-First National-FBO Merger Nearing—"Street"

With the passing of DeMille and the stars who were under personal contract to the producer, only a few of the bright lights remain on the Pathe roster and these contracts will probably be allowed to lapse shortly, without renewal. They include such names as Robert Armstrong, Lina Basquette, William Boyd, Junior Coughlin and Allen Hale. Rod La Roque's contract expired and has not been renewed.

Joseph P. Kennedy may shortly move FBO production activities over to the DeMille studios which he has acquired and sell FBO studio properties to Paramount Famous-Lasky Corporation which has made repeated offers for it. Kennedy, it is understood, will not renew production contracts with the Larry Darmour organization for short product, and will make room for Mack Sennett sound shorts on his program.

Rumors have been circulating for two weeks that banking interests were working out the merger plans for Pathe-FBO-First National and meetings of the First National franchise holders are being held today at the home office with Kennedy, Rossheim, A. H. Blank, Ruben, Skouras and others conferring on the transfer.

Two officials in the Kennedy family are reported to be soon transferred from FBO and Pathe to First National. They are Colvin Brown, Executive head of Pathe and E. B. Derr, financial man of FBO. Brown's chief concern will be to jack up First National sales and Derr's, financial advisor to the company.

GERMAN THEATRES PLAY TO WEEK-END CROWDS

The estimated total seating capacity of motion picture theatres in Germany is from 950,000 to 1,770,000, the houses being divided into the following classes: 6 seating from 2,000 to 2,500; 17 from 1,500 to 2,000; 106 from 1,000 to 1,500; 137 from 750 to 1,000; 473 from 500 to 750 and 1,207 with less than 500.

Since a great majority of these houses operate only on Saturdays and Sundays, the estimate can't be put at one definite figure.

LeBaron Delayed on

W.C.—Here Monday

William Le Baron, vice-president of FBO in charge of production, leaves Hollywood today and is expected in New York the beginning of next week.

It was previously announced that he would arrive today with Joseph P. Kennedy, president of FBO, but the heavy production schedule kept the FBO vice-president in Hollywood until today.

Harry Rapf Sees Sound As Advance in Entertainment

Motion picture players without voice training can master sound picture technique easily, beauty and personality will remain as now at a premium, and motion pictures will continue to be primarily motion pictures enhanced with dialogue and sound effects, backed by good judgment and seasoned showmanship; that is the summation of the beliefs expressed by Harry Rapf, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio official in the first interview given out by him on his arrival in New York in regard to sound pictures.

"If it makes pictures more entertaining, audiences will demand it and producers will use it in every picture," Rapf said, "but if it doesn't help the entertainment value of a photoplay it'll be deadlier than a dodo in a short time."

"We have all the players we need."

Motion picture companies aren't going to disrupt the stage by a grand rush for legitimate actors. The camera is the same harsh critic it always has been, the camera still rules, and always will rule, in pictures.

"The sound pictures may best be likened to the radio. Timing is the most important feature in speech, and we will get timing through direction."

"I know there has been a feeling, even among producers, that the era of beautiful faces on the screen will pass before the sound reproducers. Don't you believe it. I say that screen personalities will last as long as the screen lasts. The eye requires beauty, and beauty it's going to have."

"There is no idea of transferring any of our production activities to the East. If we had a production which we thought should be made in part in New York we would make it here, just as we always have done on special occasions. Only short sound features will be made in New York."

There were two very important previews in Hollywood this past week. They were the Colleen Moore First National attraction "Oh, Kay" and the Dolores Del Rio picture "Revenge" which is to be released by United Artists.

"Oh, Kay" seems a cinch hit for both Colleen Moore and First National. The production was capably directed by Mervin LeRoy from a scenario by Carey Wilson and titled by George Marion, Jr. Sid Hickox and Al Ketchel photographed it.

"Revenge" is a gypsy romance of fire and passion and the best thing the team of Del Rio-Carewe have yet turned out. The scenario was furnished by Finis Fox.

Bronson to Germany

Betty Bronson is scheduled to sail for Berlin on September 15th where she will make "Peer Gynt" for UFA, and will remain there four months as it is to be an elaborate production. Before leaving, she will have completed her role in "One Stolen Night" for Warners.

Harry Lauder at Work

Sir Harry Lauder is actively at work at Cricklewood studios, London on his new production "Auld Lang Syne", under the direction of George Pearson for release by Welsh-Pearson-Elder Films, Ltd.

Sound for "Wreckers"

British Acoustic sound devices will be used by Gainsborough Pictures, Ltd. of London in their feature, "The Wreckers", which is now in production. Mr. Metcalfe of the Gaumont Company is in charge of the sound effects.

Scott Back in N. Y.

Harry Scott, Pathe Short Subjects Sales Manager, has just returned to the Home Office from a trip to Chicago, Milwaukee, Des Moines, Kansas City and St. Louis.

Fox Coast Studios Starts 6 New Films

With a good portion of the 1928-29 releases already completed the Fox West Coast studios are humming with renewed activity as five new productions begin occupancy of the various stages. A sixth company is making a tour of Europe's principal cities which will lend their color to its backgrounds.

Director John Ford is working on "Riley the Cop". Irving Cummings is directing "The Woman".

A new director, Charles Klein, has launched his first Fox picture, "Fog".

Two comics are teamed in "Home-sick," Henry Lehrman's latest directorial effort.

Frank Borzage is about midway in production of "Backwash".

David Butler, director of "The News Parade" is taking "Newsreel" Nick Stuart through the big cities of the Continent for "Chasing Through Europe."

In addition to these pictures actually in work before the cameras, the company has in preparation "Our Daily Bread," which will be F. W. Murnau's next production.

Pictures now undergoing editorial polishing and Movietone synchronization are "Mother Knows Best," Raoul Walsh's "Me, Gangster," George Ade's story "Dry Martini" and "Prep and Pep".

Arbuckle Opens Cafe

By JOE BLAIR

HOLLYWOOD — Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle, opened the Plantation Cafe, at Culver City, Calif., last night to an immense gathering of stars, near stars, directors and producers in the motion picture industry. It was the largest assemblage ever seen in this popular night club.

Arbuckle was master of ceremonies and chief fun maker, he was assisted, for the evening only, by Al St. John, James Cruze, Tom Mix and Lew Cody.

"Fatty" on his return to the coast a short while ago was offered a directors contract for pictures at a weekly salary of $1,000, but turned it down in favor of this night club assignment.

Among other present were, Norma Talmadge and Gilbert Rowland, Jack Mulhall, Bebe Daniels, Lina Basquette, Constance Talmadge and Buster Collier and Eddie Sutherland and Ruth Rowland.

De Gresac Adapting

"She Goes to War", the Rupert Hughes story of womanhood in the late conflict, is being adapted by Madame Fred de Gresac.

Henry King is directing this Inspiration picture for United Artists, and Howard Estabrook is writing the scenario.

Chinese Co. to Start Production Here

The China Star Film Production Co. has been organized in New York to produce films with Chinese casts. Production will be divided between the U. S. and China. Capital stock is $25,000.

STUDIO GOSSIP

The Dane-Arthur team in making "Rookies of the Sea" for M-G-M will have Charles Reisner at the megaphone.

Jack Perry who is one of the sailors in Phyllis Haver's new Pathe picture, "Sal of Singapore" was middleweight champion of the U.S. Navy during the World War.

Eddie Schroeder is cutting a European made film called "Zero" preparing it for First National release here.

Rin-Tin-Tin's latest picture for Warner Bros. has been completed. However some prints will go out with sound sequences and on these Director Ross Lederman is still working.

Work has been started on Universal's "It Can Be Done" starring Glen Tryon, with Fred Newmeyer directing.

Shooting of "Hard Rock" has been completed and the production is in the First National cutting room.

Wells Root is now engaged writing dialogue for "Varsity", Charles Rogers' first starring vehicle for Paramount. Speaking and sound effects are to be added to the finished picture.

With the signing of Otto Hoffman for "Hard Boiled Rose", a Warner Bros. production, the cast is complete.

"Changelings", First National's first talking picture, will go into production in about ten days. Shooting will start at the Burbank Studios and then George Fitzmaurice will take the company to the Hawaiian Islands to film the sequence of a shipwreck on a desert isle.

George Irving says he knows all the tricks and only needs his degree. He played the doctor in "Ladies of the Mob" and Paramount has now cast him as the naval physician in "Moran of the Marines".

Counting up his recent successes, First National has decided to hand Mervyn Le Roy the megaphone on their forthcoming "Ritzy Rosy" which will feature Alice White and Jack Mulhall.

Dorothy Devore is starting her first starring comedy in the series of six she is making for Eudational. Charles Lamont is directing.

Gwen Lee who has appeared with Norma Shearer in all of her M-G-M starring productions will again play with her in "The Little Angel". This story is by Leroy Scott and has been adapted for the screen by Carey Wilson.

The famous old Lasky barn who was moved to the present Paramount lot a short time ago, has again to be moved to make room for the new sound projection stage system.

La Rocque with U.A.

Rod La Rocque's first free lance effort will be in United Artists' "The Shop", an all-talkie. He should register 100% in this, because before entering the movies he was looked upon as good talent on the legitimate.

Glazer with Swanson

Benjamin Glazer, recently appointed "Supervisor of the Productions" by Joseph P. Kennedy has been given his first assignment. It will be on Gloria Swanson's next picture, tentatively titled "The Swamp".

Kennedy is financing the Swanson pictures.

"Debureau" for Fox

It is reported that following initial tests of Lionel Atwill made in the New York Fox-Case studios, "Debureau" the vehicle in which Atwill starred some years ago, will be made as a Movietone feature.

FIVE CENTS

OBSERVATIONS

"Wall Street" Confused

Things are happening so fast in our industry that even the Wall Street Journal with its great analytical powers are gasping for breath. They say in a recent issue, "the welter of gossip surrounding the moving picture companies and the talking movies is getting so involved, including consolidations and new inventions, that the Street has a hard time keeping pace with it. Undoubtedly a lineup of new organizations gradually will evolve from the mixed situation with small companies going into larger ones—".

Cameramen

It has always been strange to us, why cameramen are given so little credit in their work. We always read plenty of the stars, directors, writers, supervisors, etc., but hardly ever anything about the fellow responsible for the camera work. Their responsibilities are on a par, probably a bit more so, with those of the director. A good cameraman is more often responsible for good directors than the director's work itself. They rarely are given credit for the lightings, the shooting angles, formations and groupings, and in nine out of ten cases these results, good or bad, are inspired by those in control of the camera. Step up boys and insist on a few bows, they are coming to you.

Mail

Our accumulation of exhibitor mail regarding sound pictures is becoming tremendous. We have to do something about it. Accordingly in an early issue we are going to begin the publishing of quite a few of these letters. Producers of sound and those not interested in this departure will be greatly interested in the reactions of the fellow behind the box office window. There are a lot of funny slants, some good, some bad. But the big point is confusion and a poor understanding. This is true with the producers, and in fact everybody else in the business.

FABIANS SEEK CONTROL OF STANLEY COMPANY

$5,000,000 Represents Largest Individual Investment

With the Stanley officials denying any reports that the Fabians were seeking control of the Stanley Company of America, with a possible tie-up with Fox, observers around Philadelphia believe that the recent election of Si Fabian as Vice-President, and Jacob A. Fabian, Chairman of the Advisory Board, has strengthened the Fabian hold (Continued on page 3)

AUSTRALIAN CHAIN SEES AMER BOYCOTT

Hoyts Theatres, Ltd., of Australia have entered a protest against a boycott established by American film exchanges in Australia because of the running of an all-British film program recently in Sydney.

George F. Griffith, Managing Director of the Circuit, claims the American interests have arranged their contracts so that practically every American film coming to Australia in 1929 should be given only to exhibitors who did not show British films.

The Hoyts chain have purchased $500,000 worth of films from the British Dominions Films Proprietary, Ltd., and assert they are forced to deal direct with producers in New York for additional product, through the home-bau.

KOHNER LAEMMLE REP. SAILING FOR GERMANY

Following the recently announced engagement of Mary Philbin, Universal star, to Paul Kohner, comes word that Carl Laemmle, president of the Universal Pictures Corporation, has appointed him personal representative.

Kohner is scheduled to arrive in New York this week on his way to Germany, where it is expected his new duties will keep him about a year.

KENNEDY-1st NAT'L. MOVE STARTS HUGE COMBINE

With the announcement of control of First National management passing to J. P. Kennedy and associates, belief is strengthened in film circles that a huge combination is in process of formation, to include First National, the Stanley Company, Keith-Albee-Orpheum, Pathe, FBO, Warner Brothers and RCA.

Back of such a combination are the banking interests of Chase National Bank, Blair & Company, Jeremiah Milbank, and Goldman Sachs & Company.

There is also reported information leading to the Warner affiliation in this group, through a dicker being made by Keith-Albee-Orpheum for Warner Brothers Vitaphone specials, to strengthen the K-A-O picture lineup for next season.

Previously announced product to play the K-A-O circuit, such as Pathe, FBO, Paramount and M-G-M still left much to be desired on the new style of box-office talking-picture successes, the Warner specials being probably considered the biggest draws of any of the product already booked, and being therefore greatly desired to bolster up the program.

Sam Morris, Warner Distribution Chief admitted there was talk of a deal but there was nothing set, and that the company would sell its product to anybody who wanted it. Many of the K-A-O houses are being equipped now with Movietone and Vitaphone apparatus as well as RCA Photophone.

Hollywood Previews

"SHOW PEOPLE"

A M-G-M Production

Director King Vidor

Cast Marion Davies

William Haines, Dell Henderson, Paul Ralli, Tenen Holtz, Harry Gribbon, Sidney Bracy, Polly Moran.

Undoubtedly "Show People" will be a hit, and without another doubt, the cause lies at King Vidor's feet. Again he has shown what a director can do with a simple tale, may even with a threadbare tale. He has turned it this way and that and made it shine anew. Audiences everywhere will eat it up because it is about the cinema capitol; and because it catches glimpses of many famous celebrities of the screen; and because its principal members are all A-1 players; and because it contains innumerable laughs. Marion Davies, always the comedienne, is of course much better in her lighter moments; in fact, she completely overshadows William Haines. The supporting cast all do exceedingly well. First class photography, titles and continuity throughout.

"THE RIVER WOMAN"

A Gotham Production

Director Joseph Henaberry

Cast Jacqueline Logan,

Lionel Barrymore, Chas. Delaney, Mary Dugan, Sheldon Lewis, Arthur Thalasso, Frank Howard Clark, Jimmy Quinn, Harry Todd.

Gotham again goes to bat and knocks out a fast one in "The River Woman". It is well produced and should make any exhibitor happy. Jacqueline Logan plays the part of the "river woman" to perfection, if there be such a thing. Charles Delaney also walk away with a good part of the acting honors. There are just a few scenes that impress one as being rather improbable from that type of person, and we can't tell whether it's the script of Henaberry that's at fault here.

"SALLY'S SHOULDERS"

An FBO Production

Director Lyne Shores

Cast Lois Wilson,

Edith Chapman, Lucille Williams, George Hackathorne, James Mason, Huntley Grodon.

While this only rates as a program picture, it is high up in its class. The settings and background to the story are attractive and Director Shores has packed the picture full of box-office essentials. Lois Wilson is far more appealing in the scenes where she serves dinners than in the night club hostess role. Lucille Williams who plays "Millie" is worth watching. She struts some of the swellest stuff we've seen in an age. The end of the picture goes the way of all good movies with the heroine saving the family honor, etc., and winning the hand of the gal. In a picture of this sort, the titles should be much more powerful.

"CLOUD DODGER"

A Universal Production

Director Brice Mitchell

Cast Al Wilson

Gloria Grey, J. Pat O'Brien and others.

Full of thrills and actions both in the air and on earth, this flicker is so confused in getting to full speed, that if its story was meant to be secondary, it certainly was and more than that, for the thing became so confused, at times we forgot who was chasing whom and why. We do know there was the eternal triangle with characters Williams, Sylvia and Stanton forming, the three points, and finally with Williams and Sylvia at one and Stanton becoming a negative quantity. Al Wilson certainly worked hard and the others didn't have cinch roles either.

"WOMEN THEY TALK ABOUT"

A Warner Production

Director Lloyd Bacon

Cast Irene Rich,

Audrey Ferris, Claude Gillingwater, William Collier, Jr., Ander Randolph, John Miljan.

This is a Vitaphone production which doesn't rate as a special. To be sure it is entertaining. And although there are times when the voices don't register so well, the talking picture is now in a place where it will draw the crowds regardless of its perfection. Claude Gillingwater gives a very striking performance, and while Irene Rich is submerged by a not very important part, she is sincere and always at ease. Both these players voices record well. The play itself is a melodrama with plenty of comedy relief.

"ORPHAN OF THE SAGE"

An F. B. O. Production

Directed by Louis King

Cast Buzz Barton,

Annabelle Magnus, Bill Patton,

Frank Rice, Tom Lingham.

Lots of human interests stuff carried through by two youngsters, Buzz Barton and Annabelle Magnus. Here's a picture your patrons will enjoy, and even if you're not a big house, you ought to be able to sign this up for not too much money. Buzz is a great little rider and natural actor too. This story of the pioneer west is well shot by Cameraman Nick Musuraca.

"THREE RING MARRIAGE"

A First National Picture

Director Marshall Neilan

Cast Lloyd Hughes,

Mary Astor Alice White, Lawford Davidson.

A picture that has competent players, a good director and careful production. Yet it flops. The words "three ring" in the title furnish the note for the background—circus life, but for all that the romance and glamour of the "big top" is missing. The script undoubtedly tied the hands of the director and we must say, the stars didn't appear to very good advantage in their wild western outfits. The comedy furnished by a couple of midgets is in the most part good and new humor. Cutting won't do this film any harm.

"DEVIL'S APPLETREE" T-S TALKIE

Elmer Clifton Gets Direction—Harry Carr the Story

By JOE BLAIR
Hollywood Correspondent

One of the big announcements of the week was issued by Tiffany-Stahl, and is to the effect that they will get into the talkie-movie swim by making a huge special to be directed by Elmer Clifton, and having to do with life in the jungles of New Guinea.

Sound effects, such as the cries of tigers, the beating of the tom-toms by the natives, the rendering of native songs, etc., will be introduced.

Patsy Ruth Miller and Malcolm MacGregor are to be co-featured in the leading roles.

Report is to the effect that Harry Carr is writing the story, in collaboration with Elmer Clifton. The tentative title, I hear, is "The Devil's Appletree."

Turnbull Returns to P-F-L Shortly

STUDIO GOSSIP

Herman J. Mankiewicz has been assigned by Paramount to title "Take Me Home", Bebe Daniels' picture.

Alexander Korda, the Hungarian director, will handle the megaphone on Milton Mills' next First National picture.

In "The Air Legion", an FBO production in which Ben Lyon will star, Martha Sleeper and Tony Moreno will be featured.

Clinton Lyly has been added to Ramon Novarro's M-G-M starring picture "Gold Braid". He will be remembered as the gentleman gangster in "While the City Sleeps".

One of Hollywood's importations who will not be "shot" is Slavko Vorkapich who comes from Jugoslavia. He is a noted continental artist and has been added to Paramount's staff of artists in the special effects department.

In synchronizing "The Awakening", Sam Goldwyn will use three old marching songs of the German cavalry.

From the way the scenario department over at the Paramount studios is digging around for material for Gary Cooper, it is evident that the company realizes his box-office value.

Huntly Gordon has been signed by First National to play one of Corinne Griffith's leading men in "Outcast". Gordon has been out of films for about a year, going into the hosiery business at that time.

Sydney Bracy will have the job doing the comedy relief character in "Sioux Blood", Tim McCoy's next for M-G-M.

Paramount has been indulging in extras in great numbers for many of their recent pictures, but when it comes to filming "Interference" it will be the first production in years, in which no extras will be employed. Pity the poor extra!

Leni Signed

Paul Leni has renewed his contract with Universal. This was announced by Carl Laemmle, president, upon completion of "The Last Warning".

Fabians Seek Control of Stanley Company

on control of the company.

"The National Exhibitor" reports that the Fabians are the largest individual stockholders in the company, their interests amounting to $5,000,000, and that Jacob Fabian's voice has been raised many times during the past year in protest against policies with which he did not agree.

Opposing any attempt at control by the Fabians is a strong line-up composed of the Mastbaum interests, Rossheim, McGuirk and Sablosky.

Gilda Gray to Star in B.I.P. "Piccadilly"

After negotiations with many big Hollywood stars, including Pola Negri, British International Pictures have secured the services of Gilda Gray, the blonde star of "Aloma of the South" to star in "Piccadilly" which A. E. Dupont is directing.

Miss Gray will probably start filming at Elstree this week.

Frederick Signed

Pauline Frederick who had arrived in Hollywood, has been signed by Warner Bros. for "On Trial", the sensational stage hit of several years ago.

"The Shakeup" First McBride Picture

The James S. McBride Productions has entered the field to produce pictures at the Manhattan studio in New York. James S. McBride, head of the company, is a Wall street and real estate operator.

Sidney M. Goldin will handle the production end and direct the first picture to be known as "The Shake Up" with Suzanne Tell of the "Greenwich Village Follies" in the lead.

Menjou's "Private Life"

"His Private Life", a screen original by Ernest Vajda, has been selected by Paramount as Adolphe Menjou's next vehicle. Kathryn Carver, will have the feminine lead.

"'The Racket' makes a motion picture play of really worthwhile proportions, and I advise the film patrons of this town to go without delay and see a motion picture actor playing sensibly and with fine, dignified control in a story which seems almost to fit him in every detail. FIVE CENTS

"Stupendous Productions"

It has been forcibly brought to our mind lately, how many pictures miss out entirely for the paradoxical reason that producers attempt to make "stupendous productions" out of them, when in reality, if they had stuck to their original yarn and photographed it in that form without forcing on it "big sequences", mobs, tremendous sets, etc., etc., the results would have been very much better. In retrospect we can name many pictures which were and always will be truly great in entertainment and box office value, which relied on no big scenes (in the sense of mob or money) for their success. The reason for this is undoubtedly that their producers realized they had a great story, and what's more—stuck to it.

Something Always Happens

In almost every case where producers, given a story acknowledged to be a "corker", an immediate rush is made on the scenario department with the request to write in a cabaret scene, a war sequence with thousands of soldiers, or scenes with big mobs and sets to show "production". And something always happens. A good story, unless the added scenes are vital to its development, needs no embellishment to become a great picture. We will never be able to understand why some producers insist on taking away all the value of a story or play they have paid good money to produce, where their whole success were gained on that basis. Is there a reason? If so what is it?

Great Successes

The great successes of the past have never been dependant on big scenes, stupendous sets or lavish expenditures. Who remembers the war scenes of "Seventh Heaven"? They were few and merely incidental. The simplicity and beauty of its story made the picture great. In the hands of some other producers this might have become another war "spectacle" with a love theme running through it—or perhaps a "Flaming Youth in a Garret".

Others

Beginning with "Broken Blossoms", many great and simple pictures come to mind, nearly all of which have been re-issued from time to time, proving the utter

"SCARLET LADY" IN 2-A-DAY AT EMBASSY

"The Scarlet Lady" makes its world premiere at the Embassy Theatre tonight and will remain for an indefinite stay. Lya de Putti is starred in the picture.

The picture which is based on the Russian revolution was directed by Alan Crosland and also members in the cast such names as Warner Oland and Don Alvarado.

L. A. CRITERION OPENS NEW POLICY AUG. 16

Harold B. Franklin, president of West Coast Theatres, announces that the Criterion Theatre, Los Angeles, would reopen on Aug. 16, and would play a long run policy at popular prices. Among the attractions already booked are: "Street Angel", "Wings", "Wedding March", "King of Kings", "The Patriot" and "Lost in the Arctic".

Short talking subjects, the first of which will be William Fox's "The Family Picnic" will be used. The Criterion is to be known as the banner long run popular price West Coast theatre.

P-F-L Dividend

At a meeting held yesterday, the Board of Directors of the Paramount Famous-Lasky Corporation declared the regular quarterly dividend of $2 per share on the common stock, payable October 1, 1928 to stockholders of record at the close of business on September 7th, 1928. The books will not close.

Over $51,000 Taken in—Reserves Called Out to Handle Mobs

Exceeding the expectations of the entire Fox Film organization, the picture "Four Sons" which opened Saturday at the Roxy Theatre for a two-week run, and which will be extended caused the calling out of the Police Reserves to handle the enormous crowd of 52,800 people who stormed the doors of the theatre on Saturday and Sunday.

$51,400 was taken in over the week-end, breaking all world records for receipts, as well as for attendance.

VIRGINIA CENSORS TO ENFORCE DIALOGUE O.K.

RICHMOND — Following the recent decisions of the New York, Ohio and Pennsylvania Censors Boards to review all talking films, the Virginia division of motion picture censorship has announced a new ruling whereby it is required that producers must supplement the film with a script of the dialogue or song, when the reels are submitted.

Mayer & Schneider yesterday filed further affidavits with Judge Crain in the Supreme Court, giving additional reasons why the I.M.P.E.A. injunction plea should not be granted.

The substance of their argument is that facts were misrepresented to them by the Secretary of the organization, when they joined the Sapiro group, in that there were not as many members in the group at the ance, an average of $1 per person being reached whereas 80c represented average intake over Saturday and Sunday heretofore.

The figures given here exceed those of "What Price Glory" for a similar period, which had held the world record for attendance and receipts up to now.

A feature of the program was the Movietone speech of Herbert Hoover which appeared on the screens of Broadway on Sunday afternoon, less than 24 hours after it was delivered in California.

The Movietone negative of Mr. Hoover was rushed to New York by an airmail plane, reaching here late Saturday night. A staff of men at the Fox Movietone laboratory worked all night developing and printing the film which carried not only the likeness of the Republican candidate but also his words. Prints were read for showing Sunday afternoon at the matinee performances at the Roxy, Globe, Gaiety, Astor and Strand theatres and will continue to be shown throughout the week.

Mr. Hoover made his speech for Fox Movietone News in advance three days ago at Palo Alto, setting up a practice for the talking news reels similar to that which has always been used in giving newspapers advance copies of speeches.

STUDIO GOSSIP

Eddie Clayton, who was last seen as the German ace in "Lilac Time", has been signed by Al Christie to appear in a series of comedies to be known as "Confessions of a Chorus Girl".

Leatrice Joy, has deserted the studio's temporarily. She has signed to become Edward Everett Horton's leading lady for the stage play "Mary's Other Husband". It will open at the Vine Street Theatre, Hollywood, next week.

Virginia Valli, has been signed by Columbia for the leading feminine role in "The Street of Illusion".

Al Rogell has just returned from location. While away he put the finishing touches to two Ken Maynard pictures, "The Glorious Trail" and "Cheyenne". Both Charles Rogers productions to be released by First National.

Emmett Flynn, long with Fox, has returned to that organization after an absence of three years. He will have Lia Tora, the Brazilian beauty, in his first picture, as yet untitled.

Ewart Adamson, well known screen writer, has returned to the Fox lot after an absence of five years. Ewart use to knock them out for Dustin Farnum and Buck Jones in the early Fox days.

Nancy Carroll, will sing two songs, in her next Paramount picture. Both have been written by Victor Schertzinger. They are "Gotta Be Good" and "Another Kiss".

Everything is all set for Tom Mix's second FBO picture, "The Drums of Araby". Robert DeLacy will direct and Sally Blane will have the female lead.

Jane Winton has been cast for one of the leading feminine parts in the Douglas Fairbanks picture "The Iron Man".

Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy have been working in a grave-yard location for their new picture "Habeas Corpus".

Buddy Rogers will follow his present picture "The Charm School" with "The Two Shall Meet".

Tom Geraghty, scenarist, has finished the script for "Synthetic Sin" for Colleen Moore and has started another for John McCormick, "The Richest Girl on Earth" which will be made shortly.

Paramount plan to make one, two and three reel subjects in sound. This will be bad news to a lot of exhibitors, as three reel subjects have always caused a lot of headaches.

Jacqueline Logan has been signed by Columbia for their forthcoming production "Driftwood" a story by Richard Harding Davis. Christie Cabanne will direct it.

Fox has bought "Through Different Eyes" by Milton Gropper and has plans of making this with Movietone.

EMMETT FLYNN RETURNS TO FOX FILMS

Emmett Flynn, who made many box office successes for Fox Films in 1925, 1926 and 1927, has been resigned by Winfield Sheehan, vice-president of Fox Films to direct a production which will feature Lia Tora, Brazilian beauty who was signed by Fox some time ago after she had won a beauty contest at Rio de Janeiro.

Theatre Owners

Leaders of the T.O.C.C. and the I.M.P.E.A. met with the officials of the Operators Union Local 306 yesterday to discuss a new agreement between the operators and the theatres, to take effect after the expiration of the old contract on September 1st.

While a small increase in the wage scale of both silent and talking picture operators will be asked the attitude on both sides was a very friendly one, the Union officials being reported in a very reasonable and lenient attitude toward the exhibitors.

A typewritten schedule of wage rates will be submitted to the theatre owners and a further meeting for final action is to take place shortly.

PATHOTONE NEW RCA SYNCHRO FOR TRI-STATE

CLEVELAND — The Pathotone, RCA Corporation device which Pathe is installing, will be used by the Tri-State Motion Picture Company, a local commercial company, in the production of sound pictures.

The pictures will be made, printed and developed in the Tri-State laboratory, industrial films making wide use of the talking films, it is expected. A film is now being made for the National Electric Lamp Association.

SAX ENROUTE TO COAST TO SPRING SOUND PLAN

Sam Sax, President of Gotham Productions, who has been East for the past month conferring with Budd Rogers, Vice-President, on the firm's production and distribution plans for the coming year, left yesterday on the Twentieth Century for his return to the Coast.

Before leaving town Sax stated: "Negotiations for synchronizing Gotham pictures have been practically completed. A specific announcement on this will be forthcoming shortly.

"The company is at present in its most enterprising and prosperous condition. When I return I shall immediately put into work several more productions for release on the 1928-29 program, which will inaugurate the most active production period in Gotham's history."

GERSHWIN OFFERED $100,000 FOR EXCLUSIVE FOX MOVIE TONE

State-Lake Gets B & K Fox Overflow Specials

CHICAGO—J. R. Grainger on his recent trip through Chicago closed a deal whereby all Fox pictures not played in Balaban & Katz loop houses will play the Orpheum Circuit's State-Lake theatre for first-run loop showing.

Marks Brothers still retain their protection for second run showing of Fox pictures out of the Union Loop. The B & K McVickers and Roosevelt have exclusive first-run privileges.

"COHENS AND KELLYS" ALL IN ATLANTIC CITY

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—Production starts here tomorrow on the third of the "Cohens and Kellys" series. "The Cohens and Kellys in Atlantic City." The entire company making this film arrive in Atlantic City from California today to make scenes on the actual locations of the story. The climax of the story is pictured here, and many of its colorful sequences have the beach and boardwalk as their locale.

A beauty contest at this seaside resort in conjunction with the film, may be staged with the entrants, judges and onlookers which the contest is certain to draw, being incorporated in the actual motion picture. (Continued on page 4)

New P-F-L Common to Sell at 45 After 3-1 Split-Up

DIRECTORS SET SEPT. 26 FOR P-F-L STOCK SPLIT

The Board of Directors of Paramount Famous Lasky Corporation has selected September 26, 1928, as the date for concluding arrangements for the proposed split-up of the common stock on a three-for-one basis. Certificates may be surrendered to the Transfer Agent at any time thereafter.

"DARLING OF THE GODS" SHELVED BY U. ARTISTS

Schenck Returns from Russia Friday—Carewe to Confer with Him

Edwin Carewe and Dolores del Rio will not produce the "Darling of the Gods" at this time, it was learned yesterday, due to the fact that its production cost would run into too much money.

United Artists may shelve the picture until some future date. Carewe is awaiting the return of Joseph M. Schenck, who is expected back from Europe Friday, to discuss the picture with him. Carewe has not decided what his next picture will be for United Artists but will know after the Schenck conference.

The producer and Dolores del Rio sail for Europe the end of this week and will not return until Christmas time to the United States.

Brill Building Big Staten Island House

Sol Brill, President of the Isle Theatrical Corporation has commenced construction of the largest theatre in Richmond County, N. Y. It will cost $1,500,000 and will seat 3,200. It will be located in St. George, S. I.

Stromberg Back

Hunt Stromberg, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer producer, arrived back in New York yesterday on the Ile de France, after a six-week European trip.

Composer May Accept and Sell Rights to "Rhapsody in Blue"

George Gershwin, has been offered $100,000 by Fox-Case Movietone to write an original full-length musical comedy, exclusively for the talking film company.

Gershwin yesterday admitted receiving the offer but said he had not signed yet. If he does, he will commence writing the Movietone score immediately.

He also admitted that he had received offers from three different companies of $50,000 for the talking picture rights to the "Rhapsody in Blue" but would not accept any offer until he had made up his mind definitely which recording system was the best.

The noted composer claimed that his royalties on a musical comedy for the legitimate stage would amount to over $100,000 but it would have to be a big hit, and these are few and far between.

He feels that if he enters the new field, it will be a great departure for him and a fine opportunity for other musical writers, but he will not desert the legitimate stage altogether.

Davis Drops Stanley Subsidiary Post

A. S. Davis, director of theatres of the Stanley Davis Clark Corporation, Pittsburgh subsidiary of the Stanley Company of America has resigned his post effective this week.

Davis was formerly general manager of the Rowland & Clark organization.

50-50 in Cleveland

Keith and Loew will split Paramount and First National Pictures on a 50-50 basis hereafter in Cleveland.

Fox product being set in all of the Keith houses puts at rest the rumor that Fox would build a first-run in Cleveland.

Broda Trick Job

Marjan F. Broda is producing a trick miniature film to be embodied in "Man Power" stage play being put on by Myron C. Fagan in New York on August 26th.

The film dream sequence will be used in the third act and will be shot through transparent tapestry from back stage.

"Submarine" Columbia Hit

Typical Undersea Holt Vehicle Outscores "Blood Ship"

By JOE BLAIR
Hollywood Correspondent

Columbia has a "wow" in "Submarine". Coming on the heels of "The Scarlet Woman" this production is going to make a lot of the big boys stand up and take notice and plenty of that. It is a better picture than "The Blood Ship" and that is saying a lot. Contains plenty of thrills. Has an excellent cast headed by Jack Holt, Ralph Graves and Dorothy Revier.

Several exhibitors invited to the pre-view in the studio were overheard assuring Studio executives that they would add additional playing time to the dates they had already set in, in anticipation of a capacity business, which they were convinced "Submarine" would pull at the box-office.

FBO Lists 6 Synchronos

Six talking pictures have been scheduled by FBO Pictures Corporation on its 1928-29 program. The six pictures which will have musical, talking and sound accompaniment are all specials, and include "The Perfect Crime" already completed and now in its second week at the Rivoli Theatre, New York; "The Hit of the Show," "Taxi 13," "The Circus Kid," "Gang War" and "Blockade".

The RCA Photophone is being used for the synchronization of FBO pictures. Complete interchangeability of sound films made by Movietone and Photophone processes has already been achieved, according to a recent statement issued by David Sarnoff, president of RCA Photophone.

Milestone to Paramount

Lewis Milestone has been loaned to Paramount by Caddo Productions to direct "Burlesque". Cast is being selected and with all indications of the coveted role of the "hooper" going to Johnny Hines. Production will start within two weeks.

"Mystery Rider" Finished

The final scenes of "The Mystery Rider" one of Universal's new serials has been completed. Jack Nelson was the director and the cast included Derelys Purdue, Tom London, Bud Osborne, Walter Shumway, Slim Corbett and Jack Shannon.

New P-F-L Common to Sell at 45

On a basis of the selling price of the present stock, the new shares will appear around 45, with earnings running at the rate of $5.00 a share. The present shares gained 2 points on the Exchange yesterday and closed at 135½.

In connection with the buying of Paramount it was intimated that du Pont interests were taking a long-pull position, predicated on the company's plans regarding "pictures in sound." Display advertisements announcing Paramount's activities in this field gave impetus to the advance of the stock.

Coast Song Hit

Everybody is humming and all the orchestra's, out Hollywood way, are playing the new song hit, dedicated to Renee Adore, the M-G-M featured player. It is titled "Adoree, I adore you."

To Make Mormon Film

A new producing organization by the name of Pioneer Film Corp., has been organized backed by Salt Lake capital, to make a picture dealing with the history of the Mormon's. The picture will be made in and around Salt Lake and will be titled "The Exodus of the New World". Marie Prevost will have the lead and the direction will be in the hands of Ray Johnston.

"The Woman" for Fox

Winfield Sheehan has always contended that the criminal court records in New York concealed more real story material than perhaps any other source. As a result he sent Sidney Lanfield, Fox writer to New York with instructions to dig out a good yarn from these records. The results will be seen in a picture, tentatively titled, "The Woman" soon to go into production. Lanfield and Douglas Doty have been assigned to write the screen play. It will be directed by Irving Cummings and will have Mary Astor and Ben Bard in the leads.

Warner's Stock Rise

Causes Enthusiasm

Most all of Hollywood have realized a handsome profit on the rise of Warner Brothers stock. This includes the big market players among the film people and the nickel and dime boys on the lots.

It has proven a bonanza to quite a few. One property man on the Warner Brothers lot, either through a tip, or through his own judgment is all smiles and tells all who will listen that he cleaned up $11,000 on a very small investment.

Billie Dove's Next

Billie Dove's next First National production will be "30th Day of October". (That title will not stick.) It is an original story by Lajos Biro and will be adapted by Winifred Dunn. Lloyd Bacon will direct.

Talmadge "Retakes"

Norma Talmadge is still at it making retakes for her latest United Artists production "The Woman Disputed". Gilbert Roland, as usual, has the male lead opposite Norma.

"Cohens and Kellys"

All in Atlantic City

The company, under the direction of William J. Craft, consists of George Sydney, Vera Gordon and Kate Price, who will again play their accustomed roles of Mr. and Mrs. Cohen and Mrs. Kelly respectively. Mack Swain as Mr. Kelly, Cornelius Keefe as young Kelly and Nora Lane enacting Sadie Cohen.

STUDIO GOSSIP

Wallace Beery is finally to return to dramatic roles. He has been assigned a very important part in "The Case of Lena Smith" to be done by Paramount with Esther Ralston in the lead. It is to be directed by Joseph von Sternberg with John Loder, the Lasky English importation playing opposite Miss Ralston.

Everybody out at Universal is quite enthusiastic regarding Elena Aristi, the Greek beauty, recently signed by that organization.

Now Paramount is going to call it "The Conqueror". When first made by C. B. DeMille it was "Male and Female" and when they decided to remake it they were going to give it its original title of "The Admirable Crichton". Richard Dix and Florence Vidor will have the leads formerly played by Tommie Meighan and Gloria Swanson.

We hear that Paramount have abandoned their contemplated production of "Dirigible".

William Cody, has finished his Universal production "Eyes of the Underworld". Leigh Jason directed it. Sally Blane, Arthur Lubin and Harry Tenbrook were in the cast.

Milton Sills has finished "Hard Rock" at the First National studio's. Thelma Todd, William Derarest, Wade Boteler, Yola D'Avril and Sylvia Ashton were in the cast.

Barbara Kent, James Murray and George Kotsenaros have been added to the cast of "The Shakedown" which is being directed by William Wyler for Universal.

William Seiter, has finished shooting on "Waterfront" a First National picture starring Jack Mulhall.

Theodore Roberts is the hit out at the Pathe studio working in "Ned McCobb's Daughter". Other players in the cast are Irene Rich, Robert Armstrong and Carol Lombard. William Cowen is directing it.

"Paddling Co-Eds" the latest Collegian Universal two reeler has been completed. Nat Ross directed. George Lewis and Dorothy Gulliver have the leads.

Ralph Block is going to make a flying trip to New York, leaving this Saturday.

FIVE CENTS

OBSERVATIONS

606,356

The most remarkable business ever known to the amusement world as a whole was experienced (and enjoyed) at the Roxy Theatre for the four weeks ending last Friday. The house played to 606,356 people in that length of time with the Fox picture "The Street Angel". To say that it is remarkable is only touching the surface. It is astounding, it is —, you figure it out.

Proving

All of which goes to prove a lot of things. First and foremost, "The Street Angel" is an unusually big box office draw. It broke every record for this tremendous house, topping "What Price Glory" by many thousands. Another proof, summer or winter if you have the attraction in a theatre made comfortable, even though it be by artificial means, you will get the gang. The weather during this period was exceedingly hot, day after day, but the Roxy always maintained a temperature, by means of its ice cooling system, that was completely satisfying to its patrons.

Other Theatres

What Roxy has done, can be done in any theatre in proportion. Of course this big house is in a class by itself. But large or small in big towns or villages, if you give them the right attractions and make your theatre comfortable, you will get the crowd and this being done the worry will be shifted to your competitor. Poor pictures, unattractive and poorly ventilated theatres, does not merit and will not "get" the crowd. And this goes for Oskaloosa, Oskosh, Portland or Atlanta.

"Scarlet Lady"

Columbia Pictures are stepping out and have a winner here. De Putti's work is probably the best she has done to date in American films, but the director has over-done her close-ups, and permitted a trifle too much over-acting. Warner Oland, Otto Matieson and Don Alvarado stand out. The production cost while large for this company was justified and the picture will make satisfactory grosses.

WINTER GARDEN LEASED TO WARNER

Vitaphone Gets New Broadway First-Run—"Singing Fool" Sept. 1

The first-run situation on Broadway will become a trifle hotter starting September 1st, when the Winter Garden, Shubert musical-comedy house, where Al Jolson made all his famous stage successes, joins the list of first-run pictures with Vitaphone.

Contracts were closed yesterday between H. M. Warner and J. J. Shubert whereby Warners take over the Winter Garden on a long lease for the exhibition of Vitaphone talking pictures, the first of which will be Al Jolson in "The Singing Fool." This run will be followed by other big Vitaphone specials.

Shubert partly leased the house to Vitaphone because of their regard for Jolson and his work for that company. The theatre will be wired within three weeks.

Paramount up 3½ on Rush for Split-Up Stock

In view of the fast-approaching time for the P-F-L 3 for 1 stock split-up, investors are hurrying to secure all the available shares. The stock yesterday jumped 3½ points to a new high of 135 and may reach 150 by the time the stock is exchanged.

Warners gained 2½ points on the Exchange; 1½ points on the curb.

SWIFT PICKS TWO NEW VITAPHONE MANAGERS

Paul J. Swift, general sales manager of Vitaphone, this week announces the names of the managers of the two new Vitaphone branches to be opened in Philadelphia and Dallas.

The new Vitaphone branch in Philadelphia, which will be at 1219 Vine Street, will be under the management of George Lees. Division Manager N. J. Aires will also make his headquarters in the Philadelphia office.

C. D. Touchon, former Warner Bros. branch executive, has been made manager of the New Vitaphone branch in Dallas.

Other additions and transfers in the Vitaphone sales personnel are as follows: Harry Danto, former field representative in the Pittsburgh and Cincinnati territory has been transferred to Chicago as division manager, with supervision over Chicago, Milwaukee, Minneapolis and Omaha. A. W. Weinberger has succeeded Mr. Danto in the Pittsburgh and Cincinnati territory.

Richard Herndon, producer in the legitimate field is dickering with Fox Movietone for the services of Alan Dinehart and Claibourne Foster for talking pictures.

The producer may dispose of nine plays he controls either to Fox or Warner Brothers.

Whether the offers that are being made are justified and will prove its value at the box-office is uncertain and probably no object with the producers, just so long as they have advertiseable names on talkies that will draw the crowds against competition, and there is no telling where the grabbing will end up in.

Gaumont-British Invades Canada for U. S. Film Entry

The Gaumont-British Corporation of Canada, Ltd., has received a Canadian Federal Charter which empowers the Company to produce, distribute, and present motion pictures throughout the Dominion, as well as buying or building theatres.

The new Company is closely affiliated with powerful British motion picture interests, and this would seem to mark their entry on the American Continent in the various activities of the motion picture industry.

Lieutenant-Colonel A. C. Bromhead, C.B.E., chairman of the Board of Directors of the Gaumont-British Picture Corporation, Ltd., London, England, is president of the new company.

Reginald C. Bromberg, F.C.A., treasurer of the new Company, is also Managing Director of the Gaumont-British Picture Corporation, Ltd., with headquarters in London, England.

Arthur A. Lee is vice-president of the new Canadian Company, and the Managing Director of the Gaumont-British Corporation of Canada, Ltd., is Edward Auger, one of the best known motion picture executives in the Dominion.

The Gaumont-British Corporation of Canada, Ltd., will have its head office at Toronto and branch offices will be opened at St. John, Montreal, Winnipeg, Calgary, and Vancouver. The Company will release from 24 to 30 feature pictures each year.

FIRST PUBLIX MUSICAL COMEDY NEXT WEEK

The Paramount Theatre will deviate from its usual policy in stage shows next week when it offers "Wonderful Girl", a Publix production conceived and staged by Joseph Santley, former star of the legitimate stage who recently joined the Publix production staff.

"Wonderful Girl" is a pocket edition of a legitimate musical comedy with book, lyrics and score by Santley in collaboration with Harry Ruskin, author of numerous musical comedy song hits. Paul Ash and the Paramount stage orchestra will be featured and others.

5-Year Contract for

Lou Serecky at FBO

Louis Serecky, who has been with FBO for three years and has sold stories to the company besides his other production duties, has been given a 5-year contract to act as chief supervisor and assistant to William Le Baron, in charge of productions.

Swenson with News

Joel Swenson of the Fox Publicity has been transferred to the Editorial Department of Fox Newsreel. Mr. Gerould, formerly of Paramount, will take his place.

Frank Pope, well-known publicist and dramatic critic has joined the Fox West Coast Publicity, as a unit press-agent.

METZGER NAMES SIMONS FOR SPECIAL "U" SALES

Lou B. Metzger, General Sales Director at Universal Pictures Corporation, yesterday announced the appointment of Milton Simons as special sales representative of the company.

Mr. Simons is to travel extensively throughout the eastern and middle western exchange territories of Universal on highly specialized sales work.

SPECIAL OPENING SET FOR "GODLESS GIRL"

HOLLYWOOD—Preparations for the West Coast premiere of "The Godless Girl" were immediately speeded up by the arrival of Vice President John C. Flinn of Pathe, who is personally arranging for the opening of the latest big Cecil B. DeMille production at the Biltmore Theatre in Los Angeles on Aug. 20.

An orchestra of twenty-five pieces under the direction of Frederick Stahlburg, who directed the Salzburg festival of "The King of Kings" in Austria last year, will accompany the film.

Hold "Perfect Crime" Over for 3rd Week

FBO's first talkie, "The Perfect Crime" will be held over for a third week, starting Saturday, at the United Artists Publix Rivoli Theatre, New York.

It has met with equal success at the Rivoli Theatre, Baltimore, booked simultaneously with its New York showing, and at the United Artists Theatre, Detroit, where it was booked, without synchronization, for a two weeks' test engagement.

Kennedy Sails Friday

J. P. Kennedy, J. J. Murdock and Pat Casey, all of Keith-Albee-Orpheum executive family are sailing for Europe Friday night on the Ile de France.

Many new K-A-O policies will be settled upon by the trio while abroad.

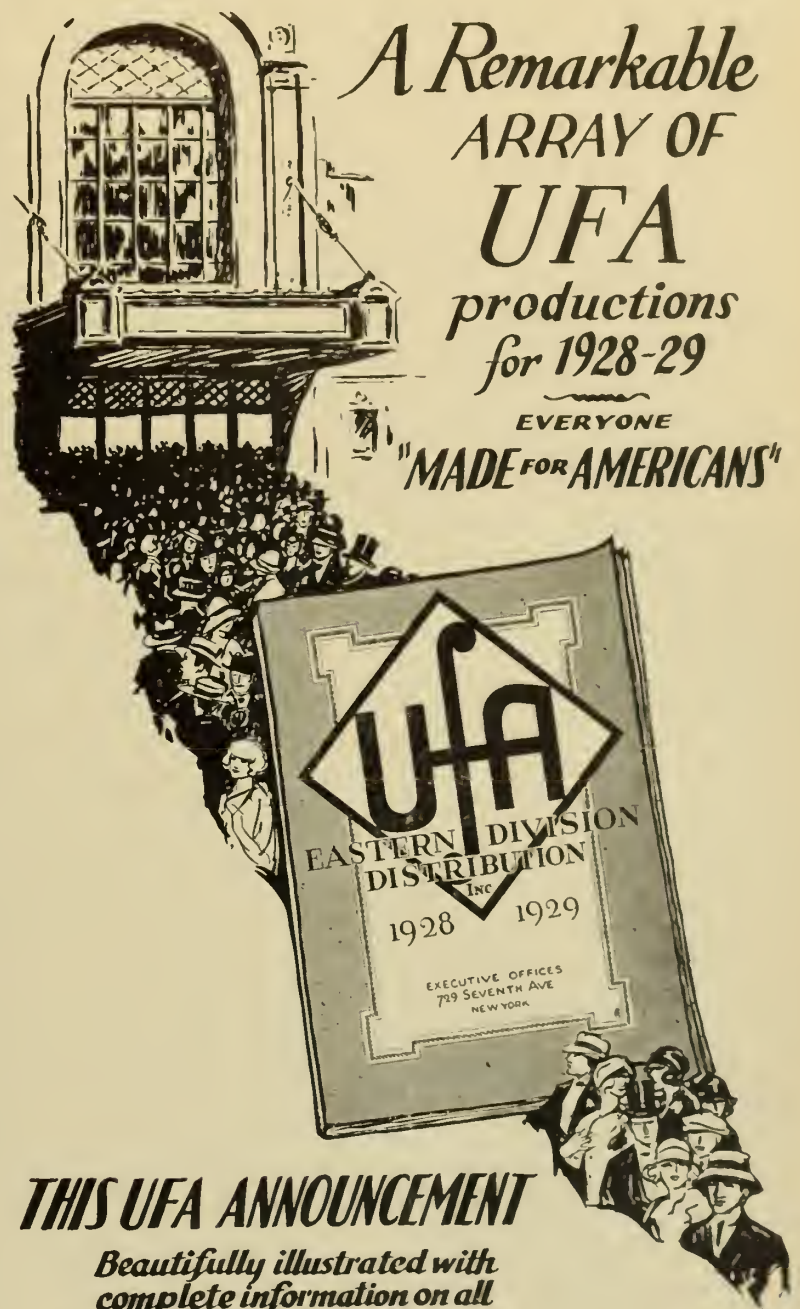

Screentone New Synchro 8 Road Shows to Start

Eight road-show companies of a new talkie device called Screentone are being prepared for an early tour, to play theatres on a percentage basis.

Screentone uses the disc method of reproduction, the apparatus being geared to the projector, as is usual in these devices. A complete film program will be offered.

Macgowan's Father Dies

FIRST NOVELTY SHORT FOR "U" COMPLETED

Bailey and Barnum on One-Reel Movietone Vaudeville Act

By JOE BLAIR
Hollywood Correspondent

Bill Bailey of the vaudeville team of Bailey and Barnum has just completed a novelty talking film at Universal City. It is produced in the form of a vaudeville act, having monologue and singing, reproduced through the movietone device.

Bailey introduces such songs as "Rollin' Along", "My Mammy", "June Night" and "Canteloupe" in the film, numbers for which he is well, and favorably known on the vaudeville stage. The picture is a one-reeler.

Gus Edwards to M-G-M

Returning to Los Angeles after a trip to New York to confer with Eastern executives regarding sound pictures, Harry Rapf, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer producer, announced the signing of Gus Edwards, prominent theatrical producer and song writer, who will now play an important part in the production of sound and talking pictures at the Culver City studios.

Edwards will leave New York soon for the coast, where he will devote all his time to the creation of new musical compositions and supervision of scenes in films involving cabaret or musical comedy sequences.

Robertson Signed

John Robertson has been signed by M-G-M on a long term contract to direct for that company. Robertson with his wife Josephine Lovett has been in England for some time, being attracted there by offers to make English pictures, said offers never fully materializing to the extent of him making one picture due to the type of story English producers insisted on doing.

M-G-M TO USE BOTH RECORDING SYSTEMS

After exhaustive tests, the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer company has decided upon both disc and film methods of synchronization to use in producing sound pictures.

The Cosmopolitan studios in New York recently were acquired by this company, and are now being remodeled for the use as a sound studio. Here M-G-M will make short entertainment features, utilizing the talent from the vaudeville and speaking stage. No feature pictures will be made here, it is said, except those which would be produced in whole, or in part in New York anyhow.

On the West Coast, the largest stage, entirely devoted to sound synchronization in the world is now being erected at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios in Culver City, California. Here those Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer pictures which will be partially or entirely fitted with sound accompaniment will be made.

Jackie Hoo-Ray

The first of a series of 12 two-reel Jackie "Hoo-Ray" comedies has been completed at the British Screen Productions, Ltd. Worton Hall Studios. These kid comedies will be comparable to the "Our Gang" comedies produced in the United States, all characters being taken by children.

Daniels in Town

Thomas Meighan is inviting a host of his actor friends in Hollywood to visit him for their vacations at his home in Great Neck, L. I., and the first to take advantage of this is Bebe Daniels who arrived Wednesday in town after a 30-hour flight from the coast.

Stops were made at Salt Lake City, Omaha, Des Moines and Chicago.

Three Vitaphones Done

Warner Brothers will finish three of their new Vitaphone feature length subjects this week. The Jolson picture "The Singing Fool" has left the cutting room. The Fannie Brice Picture "My Man" and the Dolores Costello production "The Redeeming Sin" will be ready for showing in a few days.

"Man Who Laughs"

Universal will show "The Man Who Laughs" with sound, starting today at the United Artists Theatre in Los Angeles for an extended run.

All Sound at Christie

The Christie Studio's it is rumored will close at the end of next week in order that the stages might be sound proofed for the contemplated production of nothing but sound comedies on the part of Charles and Al Christie for their future releases.

Revnes Returns

Maurice Revnes, former Fox Production Executive has returned from Europe after a year's stay abroad. He has made no definite plans as yet.

STUDIO GOSSIP

Betty Bronson, before going to Germany to do a picture for UFA, will make another picture for Warner Brothers. It will be "One Stolen Night" and her second picture for this organization.

Mary Brian has been assigned one of the leading feminine roles in "The Canary Murder Case" to be done very soon by Paramount. Ruth Taylor will be the Canary and other important members are, William Powell and James Hall. Mal St. Clair will direct.

Victor Fleming has returned to the Paramount lot after finishing the most recent Garbo picture for M-G-M. He will start work immediately on "The Wolf Song" with Gary Cooper in the lead. The screen story has been done by John Farrow.

M-G-M are making plenty of offers for the contract services of Rod La Rocque. Mayer wants him and he generally gets what he wants.

The title of Gloria Swanson's next picture for United Artists release has been changed from "The Swamp" to "Queen Kelly". It has been written and will be directed by Eric von Stroheim and is a story of German East Africa.

The Rev. Neal Dodd, widely known Hollywood pastor, has been engaged by First National to act as a technical advisor on the wedding scenes for the Corinne Griffith picture "The Outcast".

Eddie Cline, famous comedy director, turned his attention to a picture with much drama when he directed "Hard Rock," starring Milton Sills for First National Pictures. While there is much comedy, there is also a highly dramatic element and Cline proved his versatility thoroughly.

A "Chester Conklin" mustache isn't the most comfortable thing in the world, and when the comedian is resting between scenes in "The Haunted House" at First National Studios, he removes the hirsute adornment.

"Quickest shave on record," comments Benjamin Christensen, director.

Jacques Rollens has completed the direction of another of the sensationally successful Laemmle Novelties, according to an announcement by Carl Laemmle, president of Universal Pictures Corporation.

This one is called "The Wash Line" and is a novel love story told almost entirely by means of a clothes line and the apparel of the principal characters.

Production of "Ridin' Leather," starring Bob Curwood, has started at Universal, according to an announcement by President Carl Laemmle.

This is one of a series of two-reel Westerns which are being made under the supervision of William Lord Wright.

Lotus Thompson is enacting the feminine lead.

Joseph Levigard was assigned the direction of "Grit Wins", Ted Wells' next starring Western and has already started production at Universal, according to an announcement from the studio. This will be the seventh Wells picture to be made this year.

Kathleen Collins, who appeared opposite the star in "The Riding Demon" is again cast as his leading lady. Others in the production which is being supervised by William Lord Wright, are Al Ferguson, Buck Connors and Edwin Moulton.

The direction of Edmund Cobb in "Dodging Danger," a two-reel Forest Ranger picture, has been completed by Director Doran Cox, according to an announcement by Carl Laemmle, president of Universal Pictures Corporation.

This is one of a series of thirteen Cobb is making for Universal. Gloria Gray is leading woman in "Dodging Danger."

Seena Owen and Tom Moore will soon start work on "His Last Haul" for FBO. This will be Director Marshall Neilan's second picture for the company.

Joe Farnham, M-G-M title writer is in the hospital recuperating from an attack of the flu and even there, has to be funny. Flat on his back, he's titling Buster Keaton's next picture "The Cameraman".

Nothing is being talked about here but "talkies". Now United Artists has purchased "The Shop" by Alexander Pouskin for an all-talkie. John Considine, Jr. will line up the talent.

TRAVELERS select the Great Northern for its wonderful location in Chicago's "loop". They return because the large comfortable rooms, homelike environment, attentive service, excellent food and moderate charges make it an ideal hotel.

FIVE CENTS

OBSERVATIONS

"The Terror"

Last night we attended the opening of Warner Brothers second all-talking picture, "The Terror". Realizing that it will be virtually impossible to show this production in any house not equipped with Vitaphone, we must comment upon it only as a "talkie"—not as a motion picture.

Improvement

To one who witnessed "Lights of New York", this mystery melodrama, "The Terror", seems a decided improvement, not only in technique, but from the angles of story and synchronization as well and the dialogue was of a quality not offensive to an adult mind—in fact it was excellent in spots.

Falls Short

Nevertheless "The Terror" even with its very good cast and expert photography, to our mind falls far short of being a good "talkie". We think the fault can be equally divided between the fact that "Vitaphone is still in its infancy"—and some very poor direction. The former accounts for some of the long waits between speeches and the all too obvious "timing"; and also for some of the terrible sounds, supposedly music, emanating from the "sound box".

Direction

We now come to the director (or was it the script?) who allows his characters to first stand grouped in silence, around a companion who has just been severely wounded, without asking a single question or offering assistance, and then to ignore him entirely for a whole reel while another character takes the center of the stage. Handling a situation in this unnatural and stilted manner does not make for smoothness nor even good entertainment.

Entertainment

And speaking of entertainment, the entire play seemed too long, not only in getting started, but in getting finished. No motive was established for the "Terror" himself having been in that particular house, and a great tension was lost in a jumble of "comic" speeches. All this considerably slows down what might have been a very exciting melodrama. From our point of view, having seen several talking pictures, as a consequence of which the novelty has worn off, we find this production greatly lacking in entertainment. There is no question but what it

NEW RCA-MOSS POOL FOR DISTRIBUTION

Plans are slowly being negotiated for a possible hook-up of RCA Photophone with the independent theatre owners of New York, including the Sapiro and Raives interests, an effort to secure a theatre outlet of over 200 houses for the product RCA contemplates making.

It is rumored that RCA will finance the B. S. Moss Pool of independent theatres in New York, the backers of the pool having tried to raise the necessary financing of their combination in several directions and found RCA in a receptive mood.

GRAINGER CLOSES FOX FOR ENTIRE F & R CHAIN

MINNEAPOLIS—In a deal which will virtually keep Fox from invading the Finkelstein & Ruben theatre field, James R. Grainger and M. A. Levy, Minneapolis branch manager have concluded contracts with E. R. Ruben, for a 100% representation of Fox product over the F & R chain.

While the deal runs into an enormous rental for Fox, it is still more important in that it will delay any Fox theatre construction in the F & R territory, although Fox has accomplished enough key-city outlets for his product for some time to come.

Offer Victor Bonuses for Advance Synchronos

Eastern producers are making frantic efforts to get their synchronization work done by the Victor Studios in Camden which is booked ahead to next March.

Bonuses and various side offers are being held out to officials at the Studios to get their pictures in ahead of others, but the company has officially taken the stand that there will be no favoritism shown and first come is first served.

The plant is to operate on an 8-hour per day basis hereafter and no overtime.

UFA EXPEDITION SHOOTS RARE FILM

After four months work in the remote parts of Roumania the Doderucha Expedition of the UFA Production Scientific Department has just returned to Berlin with many rare animal scenes. By special permit from the Roumania Government, Dr. U. K. Schulz, the director, was in a position to make a number of most interesting instructional films in the provinces of Bessarabia and Doderucha, although both these districts are still under martial laws.

Dr. Schulz has succeeded in obtaining a great number of rare shots of all sorts of eagles and other birds of prey as well as of ibises and herons. These shots were made in parts which with the exception of the explorer have never been visited before.

SEITER TO DO "SYNTHETIC SIN"

By JOE BLAIR
Hollywood Correspondent

William A. Seiter will direct Colleen Moore in her next two pictures for First National, according to announcement from John McCormick, producer of Miss Moore's pictures.

Seiter did so admirably as director of Miss Moore's "Happiness Ahead," that he will direct both "Synthetic Sin," her next picture, and "The Richest Girl on Earth," which will follow. Tom J. Geraghty is working on the scenario of both stories.

75% of FBO 1928-29

Program Completed

With the announcement that 75% of its 1928-29 program has already been completed, William Le Baron, vice-president of FBO in charge of production, is soon to start camera work on the last quarter of the program well under way.

FBO is completing its third year under the leadership of Joseph P. Kennedy firmly entrenched in the front rank of motion picture producing and distributing companies.

Geraldine for Pathe

Pathe is to make a screen version of the Booth Tarkington story "Geraldine". Carey Wilson is making the adaptation. Eddie Quillan and Jeanette Loff will be co-starred.

Pasternak with "U"

Joseph Pasternak, who has been assisting Wesley Ruggles in all his productions for the past year at Universal, has been assigned to the same duties with Joseph Henabery who is directing the new Reginald Denny picture "Red Hot Speed".

Chas. Burr Active

Charlie Burr is quite active around his offices at the Tec Art Studio's. He is making plans for the forthcoming Johnny Hines picture "A Pair of Sixes". There will be two versions, an all-talkie and a straight silent picture.

It looks as if Burr and Hines are taking a gamble on this one in that they have no release set at this time and will probably make it and get the release after.

STUDIO GOSSIP

James Kirkwood, who recently returned to Hollywood after a stage tour in Europe, has been signed by Paramount for a role in Charles Rogers' second starring picture, "Just Twenty-One".

Hugh Herbert, novelist, playwright and scenarist, has been added to Paramount's writing department. His previous work for motion pictures includes several Lew Cody and Greta Garbo vehicles. He recently adapted the Jeanne Eagles play, "Her Cardboard Lover," for Marion Davies.

Emil Jannings paused in his work on "Sins of the Fathers" long enough yesterday to sign a new Paramount contract.

Educational has secured Kit Guard to play one of the principal supporting roles in an Educational-Mermaid Comedy featuring Monty Collins.

Crediting Erle C. Kenton with a number of their box-office successes, Columbia Pictures have engaged him to direct "The Street of Illusion".

Harry Cohn just blotted the sheet signing Virginia Valli for Columbia's "The Street of Illusion". For the same picture, he also signed up Ian Keith, Kenneth Thompson, and Harry Meyers.

Frank Rice and Clarence Gilbert, character players, have been added to the cast of "Humming Wires", an M-G-M starring vehicle for Tim McCoy.

Colleen Moore's next two pictures will be all set and ready to go, when she returns from her cruise. In the meantime Tom Geraghty is writing the adaptation of both stories, the first to be "Synthetic Sin" and the second, "The Richest Girl on Earth".

In view of the increased necessity for gowns, costumes, etc., for sound productions, Gilbert Adrian, noted style creator, has been signed to a long term contract by M-G-M.

Olga Baclanova, will have the female lead in a Zane Grey western to be made by Paramount with Jack Holt in the lead. Otto Brower will direct. The title is "Avalanche".

Two new names have been added to the cast of the Paramount production "The Letter". They are Arnold Kent and Claude King. Evelyn Brent and Paul Lukas have already been announced. Lothar Mendes will direct.

Barrett Keisling, DeMille's old personal press agent when C.B. was on the Paramount lot, and later with Sam Goldwyn, is going back with DeMille out at Metro.

Tom Mix is giving Molly O'Day the grand rush, now that he has made his $480,000 settlement on Victoria Forde Mix.

Billie Dove, First National star, is spending a vacation on the beach

Rin-Tin-Tin to Speak

Warners announce that the next Rin-Tin-Tin dog picture will be a talking picture. Special dialogue is being written for the dog star and he is spending his off nights now at one of the newly formed schools for the perfection of the voice for the "Talkies".

Camilla Horn Enroute to Coast for U. A.

Camilla Horn, the German actress who made her American debut in "Tempest", arrived in New York this week on the S. S. Ile de France, and left for Hollywood on the Lake Shore Limited Wednesday.

Miss Horn will play opposite Barrymore in his next picture, a filmization of "Der Konig der Berolina", under the direction of Ernst Lubitsch.

DeMille's Staff

Cecil B. DeMille has selected his staff to work with him at M-G-M. He is to have Jeanie MacPherson, Gladys Rosson, James Leisen, Roy Burns, Elizabeth Megaffey and A. George Volck. Quite a family.

near Los Angeles. She recently finished "Night Watch," under the direction of Alexander Korda.

Louise Fazenda, one of the most popular fun-makers on the screen, will provide much of the comedy for First National's "Outcast," starring Corinne Griffith. She has just been added to the cast.

NEWS FROM THE UFA STUDIOS

More than three thousand film fans from Budapest witnessed the shooting of the night scenes for the Erich Pommer production, "Hungarian Rhapsody", an UFA film, at the estate of Mezokovsed. The entire Hungarian aristocracy was present. During the intermission, 3000 Hungarian peasants, who served as extras, did away with 600 pounds of Hungarian Goulash and emptied no less than 5 barrels of Tokay wine. Hanns Schwarz is directing this picture under the supervision of Erich Pommer.

At the big UFA Studios in Neubabelsberg, Dr. James Guter, director, has commenced production on "The Blue Mouse", a very catching comedy-drama. Jenny Jugo, the slender, dark-eyed UFA star plays the part of a proprietress of a fashionable Paris amusement resort which offers her a splendid opportunity to show her charms and champagne temperament. She is supported by Brita Applegreen, a Swedish beauty, Rina Marsa, Albert Paulig, Harry Halm and others.

For "The Blue Mouse" production, UFA Productions have introduced for the first time the American method of separate direction and film cutting. Dr. Herbert Nossen, has been engaged as editor and cutter on "The Blue Mouse" picture.

Harry Piel, the German film daredevil and director of many successful adventure pictures and who suffered a motor accident a short time ago at the UFA Studios, has recovered sufficiently to resume his post as director of "His Strongest Weapon", an UFA film, although being carried around in an invalid's chair. He hopes to be well soon to continue with his part as the male lead in this production.

FIVE CENTS

OBSERVATIONS

"The Patriot"

Many times recently we have referred to "The Patriot" the latest Jannings vehicle, in this column, always with unstinted praise, having seen it at one of its final previews in Hollywood early last Spring. Last night we witnessed it again, and left the Rialto Theatre with the firm conviction that we could never say too much in its behalf. We can not review the picture without repeating some of our own statements, since this production deserves the utmost superlatives and they are not unlimited. "The Patriot" should be remembered when all the so-called "wonder-pictures" are forgotten. It is magnificent.

Everything Perfect

It is our opinion that there has never been a picture more beautifully mounted, more superbly acted, more subtly directed or better photographed, cut and titled. What else is there to say? Scene after scene, full of humor and pathos, chock full of tenseness and irony. Certainly this production is a monument to the "silent art" and a slap in the direction of talking pictures. It is our guess, talking pictures will never reach artistry displayed in this production.

A Scene

We have never seen a screen situation as heart-wringing nor as beautifully played, as the one between Jannings and Stone, when the former clings in his pitiful mad devotion, to the friend who loves him and must kill him because he is mad and a menace to the empire. Who but Jannings could catch the almost immediate sympathy of an audience, for the repulsive, insane and cruel character he portrays?

Direction

Who but Lubitsch could maintain the charm and subtlety which permeates the entire picture, many scenes of which might easily become lewd or vulgar in the hands of another director? In this production too, he exhibits great depth and understanding, and never allows for a minute, the unnatural — the theatrical. This is certainly the masterpiece of a master-director.

Credits

Great credit should go to those responsible for adhering to the plays original ending, for though it is an anti-climax, it raises the

SOUNDS STUMPS FOX PRODUCING FORCES

By Special Correspondence

HOLLYWOOD — Talking pictures are causing a lot of grief at the Fox West Coast studio's. Although on the surface, everything seems serene, there is considerable worry and annoyance caused by the rush of this organization to get a feature length talking picture on the market.

"Lights of New York" Cost $20,000—Small Sets and Few Extras

Producers are gradually awakening to the fact that the making of talking pictures, instead of being more expensive than the silent variety, will be considerably cheaper. The production of an all-talkie will reduce the negative cost on feature length pictures by at least a half of the present cost due to the fact that shooting will require less than half the time, production in-so-far as sets are concerned, will be cut from 50% to 75%, and waste, which (Continued on page 2)

COOPER-SCHOEDSACK FILM A ROADSHOW

"The Four Feathers", African pictures brought back by Cooper and Schoedsack, will be released by Paramount Famous-Lasky Corporation as a road-show this Fall and is expected to surpass "Chang".

On September 24, these two adventurers will begin work at the Paramount studio directing episodes which will be woven into the photoplay, combining the best features of the natural locale type of drama with advantages of story telling made possible by studio technique and facilities.

In addition, "The Four Feathers" will be the first picture of this calibre to have full synchronization with sound effects, bringing to the screen the colorful atmosphere of the Sudan wilderness with a degree of realism hitherto unobtainable.

Richard Arlen has been selected to play the role of the young British officer in the picture.

Sounds Stumps Fox Producing Forces

executives are experiencing much difficulty in securing the proper mechanical adjustments for the shooting of dialogue sequences.

It is impossible to crash the sacred portals of the Movietone department. "Behind the Curtain" was originally planned to be made in the Fox-Case studio in New York and Raoul Walsh the director was sent on for this job. Later plans switched him back to Hollywood. Little progress has been made since his return.

It is rumored that Fox is endeavoring to perfect a process for the recording of the voice on a separate piece of film, such as is being done now with some synchronizations, due to the annoyance now experienced in as much as in its present process of Movietone the sound itself depends quite a bit on the proper development of the negative. This often impairs the photographic quality.

$4,000,000 VOCAFILM STOCKS PURCHASED

$4,000,000 is the price which A. H. Woods and theatrical associates have agreed to pay for the Vocafilm Corporation stock, although final control of the talking device has not yet passed to the stage producers.

Woods, Shuberts and W. A. Brady have contracted to pay $8 per share for 500,000 shares of common stock. David R. Hochreich, President of Vocafilm is being sued by F. Dudley Kohler for $600,000 for a share of the capital stock of the company.

Hochreich's holdings in Vocafilm represent 30% of the common stock. The company purchased all patents to Vocafilm for $150,000 while J. Harry Williams and Son control 70%.

Negative Costs Cut in Half on Most Talking Features

has long been a great menace to the industry, will be reduced to a minimum.

For the present anyhow, pictures requiring big sets and lots of them, can and will not, be used. Talking pictures are compelled to be shot in small sets and due to this condition, sets that will require a small amount to construct. The talking equipment for recording has not, and probably will not, reach the stage of perfection that will permit the microphone to catch the voice at any great distance. This is evidenced by the fact that characters, in close view of the camera, can not be heard walking up and down steps, nor will it catch sounds, that under ordinary conditions should be picked up at the same time of the recording of the voice.

The negative cost on Warner Bros. "Lights of New York" was less than $20,000. The picture started as a two reeler and released as a feature after a few additional shots were added. Actual production did not require more than nine days actual shooting time.

Most of the money spent for talking pictures will be centered in preparation. It will require longer to rehearse players in dialogue than in mere action, but once the picture has started, shooting, in most cases will, of necessity, be reduced to more than half the required time to make a silent picture.

PICTURE REVIEWS

"EDDIE FOY'S FAMILY"

Vitaphone—Warner Short

Featuring.....The entire Foy family, boys and girls.

Everyone who has seen the Foy family in vaudeville will like this variety of dancing, singing and clowning.

Added to the publicity and fame of Eddie Foy, the Vitaphone 15 minute reel will be welcome.

Bryan Foy puts the six Foy boys through a fast pace in straight and comedy clowning while the girls do song and dance specialties. A ukulele player helps out and Eddie Foy, Jr. wins the major part of the applause. A number of animal imitations are also given.

"THE SCARLET LADY"

Columbia Picture

Directed by.....Alan Crosland

Featuring.....Lya de Putti,

Don Alvarado, Warner Oland, Otto Matiesen.

Above the average Columbia picture acceptable as entertainment anywhere. Stereotyped Russian Revolution theme, showing nothing new, but fairly well done. De Putti does effective work but has too many close-ups.

Story centers around Russian gold-digger who intrigues the leader of the revolutionists but who transfers her love to a Prince of the Royal Family, when the opportunity arises. The aristocracy is overthrown and the girl becomes one of the leaders of the Bolsheviks, and her chief obsession is revenge on the Prince who spurned her. Though she effects his capture, and he faces death, because of her love she saves him.

"THE TERROR"

Warner—Vitaphone Prod.

Directed by.....Roy Del Ruth

Featuring.....Alec Francis, May McAvoy, Louise Fazenda, Edward E. Horton, John Miljan, Holmes Herbert..

Wired houses will find this second 100% Warner Talkie a natural box-office hit from the novelty and melodramatic angles alone. Though direction is nothing to boast about, fine talking work by most of the cast redeems the picture.

Wallace's mystery play involves a haunted English inn, where the "Terror" lurks and carries out his fiendish murders. Two convicts set out to kill him, one of them loses his life. A Scotland Yard official in disguise solves the mystery and runs the criminal down. Spooky seance scenes, trick doors and walls, screams and shrieks—all help create suspense, while plenty of humor affords relief.

Acting honors go to John Miljan, Louise Fazenda, Otto Hoffman and Edward Everett Horton.

"FORTUNE'S FOOL"

Louis T. Rogers—UFA

Directed by.....Reinhold Schunzel

Featuring.....Emil Jannings and Dagny Servaes

A three-year old Jannings film, produced by the star himself, depicts Jannings in all his bombastic glory, running rampant in the title role. Not badly directed, and is fairly good entertainment for non-critical neighborhoods.

Story of a war-profiteer whose business greed runs away with his soft-heartedness in off moments. He juggles with an auto factory squeezed from its bankrupt owners, enters one of the cars in a race against which his favorite son in another racer competes and the son is killed.

Jannings is his capable self and will intrigue his fans. Booked on a low rental, this film will make money.

"JUST MARRIED"

Paramount

Directed by.....Frank Strayer

Photographed by.....Edward Cronjager

Cast.....James Hall, Ruth Taylor, Ivy Harris, Harrison Ford, Lila Lee.

This is very light screen fare, but very amusing and entertaining nevertheless. It has been taken from the stage play which had quite a vogue a few years back. It is a bed room farce not so pure and simple. In transferring it to the screen it loses none of its gaiety. The entire cast does exceptionally well, and the direction shows great restraint, something to be thankful for in a picture of this kind. The titles by George Marion, Jr., causes many chuckles and are of the best from this title expert. This is a frothy dish for summer consumption and should please any audience.

"THE RIVER WOMAN"

Gotham Production

Directed by.....Joseph E. Henahery

Featuring.....Lionel Barrymore

Jacqueline Logan.

Picture started with good theme but developed into ordinary program attraction—picture drags for 1/3 of the way and hardly any plot. Miniature work adequate and synchronization if added will help, but hardly a convincing picture. Girl known as the 'Duchess' is dance-hall favorite of Lefty's Saloon on a Mississippi levee—falls in love with a river-boat deck-hand who would take her out of the environment but she wavers between Lefty Bill and the hero—Flood finally settles the issue by causing death of Lefty—hero and heroine leave for a new life.

Barrymore and Logan work hard but the direction did not arouse any fervor in their work.

"HAROLD TEEN"

First National

Directed by.....Mervyn Leroy

Featuring.....Arthur Lake,

Mary Brian, Lucien Littlefield, Jack Duffy, Alice White, Jack Egan, Ben Hall.

Well directed scholastic comedy. Holds the interest.

Tom Geraghty has taken Carl Ed's comic strip and adapted it for screen purposes, doing a first rate job on same. It has been molded into a story of high school youngsters with all their trials and tribulations. Harold's muchly bedecked slicker, the innovation of the "gedunk" sundae; the making of a motion picture; and the final hero-winning-the-football-game episode, are the picture's highlights. Leroy has woven these sketchy incidents into an amusing piece, but one, of course that shouldn't be pulled apart for reasoning. Arthur Lake as "Harold Teen" is a winner. Alice White and Mary Brian are acceptable, although not quite the high school type. Jack Egan is toothily villainous. Titles are new and good.

"MIDNIGHT MADNESS"

Pathe-DeMille

Directed by.....Harmon Weight

Featuring.....Clive Brook,

Jacqueline Logan

Good program film for second runs or filler on double bills.

Story is a romance and takes place on two continents, America and Africa. Heroine through being disappointed in her first love affair and in desperation marries an African diamond king, for convenience. She is taken to the dark continent and there rebels against her husband, even betraying his business to her former lover and worthless father. A crisis arises, which nearly results in the husband's death, but all comes out well.

Good direction and editing lifts picture out of dead-wood class.

Sound Featurettes

"KARYL NORMAN" CREOLE FASHION PLATE IN "TYPES"

Vitaphone—Warner Brothers

Featuring.....Karyl Norman, vaudeville headliner.

The singer is a female impersonator and combination haritone and songstress. He performs three numbers "Georgiana", "Daisy Days" and "Five Foot Two", to piano accompaniment, and with frequent changes of costume.

"Georgiana" and "Five Foot Two" were the two best numbers, the first being done most appealingly while the second is a novelty flapper number adequately performed. While the voice is not strong, long vaudeville experience in putting over the songs make this sound short acceptable.

ALBERT SPAULDING

Violinist

Vitaphone-Warner Bros.

Featuring.....Albert Spaulding, Violin and Accompanist.

Spaulding, violinist of some note, performs two numbers, "Gypsy Airs" by Sarasate and "Souvenir" by Brdla, both numbers well-known to music lovers everywhere.

The artist plays both numbers most capably and drew rounds of applause from the audience at the "Terror" opening. "Gypsy Airs" is of course, the more difficult of the two and Spaulding's technique rings true and sympathetic.

The second number starts off inauspiciously but when the second movement is reached and he has an opportunity for broad stroking, the playing of the number improves.

DICK RICH SYNCHO SYMPHONISTS

Vitaphone-Warner Brothers

Featuring.....Dick Rich and Orchestra-Singer and Two Dancers.

Three numbers are played "Chloe", "Lovely Little Silhouette" and a version of "St. Louis Blues," all three numbers being interspersed with song accompaniment and dance divertissement. The playing of the orchestra is nothing to worry Whiteman or Lopez although, Rich, the leader, is an excellent comic and helps his band immeasurably.

ROSA RAISA AND GIACOMO RIMINI IN "IL TROVATORE"

Vitaphone—Warner Bros.

Featuring.....Raisa and Rimini of Chicago Opera Company and symphony orchestra.

Two Chicago Opera stars in the poison scene from "Il Trovatore" by Verdi. Number lasts about 8 minutes and solos and duets are sung, the work of Rimini standing out as a fluent and capable piece of singing. Miss Raisa's voice was only effective in the upper register.

It will take high-brow audiences to support this one.

FIVE CENTS

OBSERVATIONS

The Squeakies

We are weakening on sound and talk. Our rave after seeing "Lights of New York" was considerably cooled after viewing "Terror". Our suggestion that synchronizations would be great for the small towns is being shattered with the knowledge of the expense of running pictures so equipped. Our thoughts that pictures surrounded with sound and music, synchronized and arranged by experts and recorded perfectly, would prove of benefit to most every picture was completely dispelled after viewing "The Patriot" at the Rialto Friday evening.

With and Without

It has been our pleasure and displeasure to see this production with and without sound effects and music synchronization. The first time, with but an accompaniment from an organ and Friday evening with effects and synchronization. "The Patriot" is at least a fifty percent better attraction without the "canned-squeaks" and terrible sounds. Whoever was responsible for synchronizing this production should be shot. Weak pictures like "Warming Up" and "Loves of an Actress" might be benefited to some extent, in view of the novelty for this form of entertainment at this time, but to dissipate sterling sequences with shouts and laughter, as was the case with this production, is nothing short of criminal.

Schenck—the Prophet

"Day by day in every way—" we are crediting Joseph Schenck with the master-brain of this industry. This gentleman had the audacity to issue a statement before his departure for Europe several weeks ago, that "talking pictures are nothing but a novelty and will not last six months". Recent events prove, in so far, as we are concerned, that Schenck knew what he was talking about. Sound-crazed producers and executives employed by them, laughed long and loud at Schenck's prophesy. We feel it will not be long before the laugh will be on the other side.

Insanity

Imagine, if you will, an organization such as Paramount, with its great array of beautiful houses throughout the country and having in each house, an excellent orchestra, insisting, that this orchestra leave the pit immediately after they have played

ROSSHEIM ADMITS KENNEDY BREAK-OFF

Irving D. Rossheim, President of First National Pictures announced Saturday that by mutual consent, the Board of Directors of First National Pictures and Joseph P. Kennedy had terminated an agreement under which Mr. Kennedy had been acting in an advisory capacity for First National for several months.

The rumor that Kennedy would break with First National appeared Friday but could not be verified. The Board of Directors met on that day to ratify the 5-year contract which Kennedy was supposed to have signed, to manage the company, but owing to many demands which Kennedy is alleged to have "Secrets of Orient"

New Ufa Spectacle

"Secrets of the Orient" newest of the UFA spectacles, which has been a year in the making, has been completed and prints are now on the way to the Gaumont Company in London.

The picture was directed by Alexander Wolkoff and is an Arabian Nights tale, photographed in Northern Africa and on the Riviera. One of the most spectacular scenes involved the burning of a Persian dragon ship, which was over 100 feet in length.

To Supply New Source of Features—30 to 50 First Season

A new source of feature film supply for American and Canadian theatres and a far reaching change in international motion picture commerce is promised as a result of the formation of World Wide Pictures, Inc., following lengthy negotiations on both sides of the Atlantic.

The new company's officials are J. Douglas Watson, President; J. D. Williams, Vice-President, John Maxwell and E. W. Hammons, directors. Mr. Weston is chairman of United Motion Picture Producers, Ltd. of London. John Maxwell is internationally known as the head of British International Pictures, Ltd.

For the first time in the history of the industry adequate national American distribution of imported productions direct to theatres through a channel devoted exclusively to their sale and exploitation is assured. All overseas production

OPERATORS MAY TIE UP BUFFALO THEATRES

The current year has been a tough one for motion picture operator unions, caused in a measure by the indecision of exhibitors who do not know where they stand for the coming season, in regard to sound pictures and operating rentals.

Operators May Tie

Up Buffalo Theatres

for sound projection. Some unions have won and others are being driven out, notably in Detroit.

The latest opposition arises in Buffalo where 350 theatres now face a tie-up because of a deadlock between managers and the operators on a new wage contract.

The managers claim the operators want a maximum salary of $100 per week, an increase of $45 over present rates. They announce they have offered $75 a week but it has been refused by R. B. Hyde, business representative of the Buffalo Operators Union. Other demands also call for a six-day week, with three operators on each shift, and with a seventh operator to give each man a day off.

This has also contributed toward the deadlock, inasmuch as the theatres contend that Buffalo is a seven-day show town and must remain so.

their overture and accompanied the news reel, in order that some Victor records might furnish the accompaniment for the rest of the program, such accompaniment easily taking away fifty percent of the value of the remainder of the entertainment; completely ruining, at times, entire sequences of a good picture! And, mind you, this orchestra so shunned, is being paid their full salaries to make room for a series of noise and squeaks. If this be a display of brains and good business judgment, please Mister, send me to an asylum.

Hollywood Previews

"THE FLEET'S IN"

Paramount

Directed by.....Mal St. Clair

Featuring.....Clara Bow,
James Hall.

A fine picture with Miss Bow's personality standing out. Photography excellent and titles clever.

San Francisco dance-hall girl is popular with sailors at their shore hang-out — Falls in love with a sailor—a real romance develops beneath the tinsel and glitter of the dance-hall and cheap jazz, which all comes out well in the end.

"HER CARDBOARD LOVER"

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer

Directed by.....Robert Z. Leonard

Featuring.....Marion Davies,
Nils Asther, Jetta Goudal

Story slight and situations old and stale as last week's corn muffins. Whatever merit the film has is because of Miss Davies' personality and the comedy support of Nils Asther. Not up to same standard as "The Patsy" or "Fair Co-Ed". Fair booking for average theatre.

There is only one principal situation in the whole picture in the attempt of Marion Davies to prevent Nils Asther becoming involved with an adventuress. The situation unfolds in the second reel and is repeated with slight variations throughout the rest of the picture until it becomes tiresome.

The picture will draw lots of laughs against audience's better judgment.

"DEVIL DOGS"

Morris Schrank

Directed by.....Fred Windemere

Featuring.....Alexander Alt, Stuart Holmes.

Second-rate comedy lacking in novelty but needs much cutting in the "Pilot" sequences to be suitable—second run houses may play this one—Cast unnotable.

A world-war comedy. Van Stratton, a painter, is forced into service and entertains abroad in the Cafe de Cootie after escaping from prison. To hide him, his sweetie puts him into a ballet dress and he joins the chorus. The troops make merry with the 'devil dogs' sitting around; Archie bewitches the captain who put him in prison, but is found out when he loses his ballet skirt. Finally, the hero proves of benefit to the army as a camouflage painter and wins his sweetie.

"WHILE THE CITY SLEEPS"

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer

Directed by.....Jack Conway

Featuring.....Lon Chaney,

Film, another "Underworld"—Best performance by Chaney yet.

Type of picture popular just now and crack bet for all theatres.

Anita Page continues climb to top of ladder.

Chaney as a "bull" protects a crook who is in love with a girl that Chaney is also interested in—The girl runs afoul of King of the Underworld—Chaney dedicates his life to wiping out the crook leader and accomplishes it. The girl's crook lover turns straight, although the girl is pledged to Chaney but seeing the two youngsters really love each other, he relinquishes his claim to the girl.

"THE BODY PUNCH"

Universal—Laemmle, Jr.

Directed by.....Leigh Jason

Featuring.....Virginia Browne Faire,
Jack Daugherty, Wilbur Mack.

Suitable for second-runs and no amount of pruning can make it click elsewhere—while it has an interesting theme the picture has little credibility, and the scenarist has concocted a knock-down plot that will be all right with the younger folks.

Picture deals with the question "can a fighter beat a wrestler in the ring?" A society background is used in part of the picture to life the story out of the rough-house class. Society heiress stages bazaar and puts on the mixed bout. The receipts are to go toward wiping out an evil dance-hall. The girl visits this cafe, is accosted by a tough, is saved by the hero (the fighter) and he is rewarded by getting the society bout. A stolen jewel enters the plot, the hero recovers it from the wrestler and the boy and girl clinch.

"THE DIVINE SINNER"

Ray Art—Trem Carr

Directed by.....Scott Pembroke

Featuring.....Vera Reynolds

A quantity rather than a quality production which will bear cutting of many of the plot elements—Picture may go over as good attraction for neighborhood houses, but film is full of hokum and impossible situations. Vera Reynolds works hard but vehicle not suited for her.

Impoverished Austrian girl goes to France to earn money for her family—She becomes a designer and is successful but she spurns her employer; loses her job and becomes a forger—the police use her for intrigue with Royalty—she snares a Royal Prince who renounces his throne and all is well.

Ernest Hilliard, as the prince, has the outstanding role.

NEW NATURAL COLOR PICTURES INVENTED

The Natural Color Pictures, Inc., of Newark, N. J. have demonstrated the first films of a new color process invented by Frederick T. O'Grady. It uses a series of multi-colored discs embodying the seven colors of the spectrum, and replaces the old style shutter used on cameras and projectors.

The device may be enlarged in prints for regular screens, without impairing the color, according to O'Grady. Dr. Lee De Forest is reported to have O.K.'d the invention.

Six sound service stations, in as many cities that will serve as hubs of sales areas, have been established by United Artists' Film Maintenance Department. The stations are set up in exchanges of the company in New York, Chicago, Atlanta, Dallas, Kansas City and San Francisco. They are all in operation after Monday, August 20th.

New York will service Buffalo, New Haven, Boston, Philadelphia, Washington, New York and Pittsburgh territories. Chicago will service Detroit, Cleveland, Indianapolis, Cincinnati, Minneapolis and Chicago regions. Atlanta will cover itself, Charlotte and New Orleans territories. Kansas City will service St. Louis, Omaha, Kansas City and Denver. Dallas will be handled by Dallas. San Francisco will embrace Los Angeles, San Francisco, Seattle and Salt Lake City.

United Artists plan to open up other sound situations to serve exhibitors, as rapidly as wire equipment is installed by showmen and the volume demand for sound films increases.

Trouble on Sound

F.N. executives at Burbank have not been able to reach perfection in adjustments on the recording devices and microphone, and further, their negative after being printed and developed with sound the dominant factor, does not in any manner compare with the fine quality received on production done with pantomime.

If and when First National make any talking pictures, Western Electric will be the means of bringing this to the screen.

A short while ago, an announcement was sent out that, that company had dished, what was to be known as Firnatone, (merely a brand name, but Western Electric equipment and recording) in favor of Photophone of the Radio Corporation of America. Through some disagreement with Kennedy and R. C. A. and the resulting upset with Kennedy and First National, the company announces the switch back to Western Electric.

All synchronizations for the time being will be done at the Victor plant in Camden, N. J.

Sound too Expensive for Small Town Exhibitors

at present.

In towns where there are unions, and their demanding a double crew of operators, together with the cost of installing equipment (payable in weekly installments) plus the film rentals being demanded by the producers for talk and synchronized product, the cost will, in most cases, triple their present overhead. And there is great doubt in the exhibitors mind, that even drawing from every corner of his village or town his receipts could not, more than double his present intake.

In one town in the middle west, an exhibitor is now carrying an overhead for operators, organists and film rental of an amount around $260, a week. He finds that in order for him to get talking and synchronized pictures, his expense will reach a figure exceeding $700 weekly, with no definite assumption by him, the producer or manufacturer of the equipment that his receipts will even be doubled by this change.

As a consequence, most of the small and medium town exhibitors are giving sound the "go-by" for the present anyhow.

EIGHT P-F-L SYNCHROS IN WORK

Six More under Way "Wedding March" Ready Soon

By JOE BLAIR
Hollywood Correspondent

Paramount have completed eight productions synchronized with music and sound and are now engaged in making six more with this synchronization.

Those finished are, "The Docks of New York" directed by Josef von Sternberg; the Clara Bow picture, "The Fleet's In"; "Moran of the Marines" starring Richard Dix; the Emil Jannings picture "Sins of the Fathers"; "Interference" with a cast composed of Evelyn Brent, William Powell, Doris Kenyon and others, and the Nancy Carroll-Richard Arlen picture made by Dorothy Arzner. The last two will have several sequences of dialogue in addition to vocal numbers.

"The Wedding March" has been completely synchronized by the Victor Company at Camden.

"Burlesque" Author

George Manker Watters, author of "Burlesque", has signed a new contract to write for Paramount. "The Sawdust Paradise," Watters' first scenario effort is scheduled for release at the Paramount Theatre next week.

New Bancroft Contract

George Bancroft, star of "Underworld," and "The Drag Net," has signed a new Paramount contract. Bancroft's latest, "The Docks of New York," directed by Josef von Sternberg, is now in the editing stage at the Paramount studios.

"Take Me Home"

Herman J. Mankiewicz has been assigned by Paramount to title "Take Me Home", the Bebe Daniels stage picture now being completed at the Hollywood studios.

Fejos in New Stunt

Paul Fejos, the Universal director, is going to attempt the unusual in that he is going to make a feature length picture with but one player. The artist so honored will be Mary Philbin. It will be titled "Spring Showers".

STUDIO GOSSIP

Churchill Ross, the "Doc Webster" in the collegians series of short reels made by Universal, has been signed by that organization for the new series soon to star, with sound and talk.

The company making "A Woman of Affairs" for M-G-M have left for locations at Palo Alto.

Ronald Coleman's next picture for Samuel Goldwyn-United Artists release will be "Condemned". It is to be made from the book by Blair Niles called "Condemned on Devil's Island".

Hoot Gibson and his company of players have returned to Hollywood from their location trip to Chicago where scenes for the production of "Rodeo" were taken.

The largest, and this is on the level, set ever constructed in any studio is up at United Artists now. It will be used in the new Douglas Fairbanks picture.

Charles Condon is writing the adaptation of the screen story for Raymond Cannon's direction at Fox. No title has yet been selected.

Leatrice Joy has been called back by M-G-M for several talking sequences they are putting in "The Bellamy Trial".

Clive Brook is leaving Hollywood today for a visit to his "dear London". This is in way of a vacation. The part originally assigned to him in the Paramount production of "The Letter" will be handled by Paul Lukas. On his return he will play opposite Evelyn Brent in "Tahiti Nights".

Elmer Clifton will direct Patsy Ruth Miller and Malcolm McGregor in a South Sea story for Tiffany-Stahl.

Richard Arlen and Nancy Carroll will be seen in "The Upstart Gentleman" an original story by John Monk Saunders to be done by Paramount. William Wellman will direct.

Gwen Lee, has been cast for a leading role in the new Norma Shearer M-G-M picture "The Little Angel".

William K. Howard, has about finished preparation for his Tristram Tupper Fox picture which will star Janet Gaynor.

When Monte Blue's next picture, "The Greyhound Limited" is placed in production in the near future the megaphone will be in the hands of Howard Bretherton.

"One Stolen Night", to be filmed with Vitaphone, will be started in the near future. J. L. Warner has assigned its direction to John Adolphi and the script is being written by Edward T. Lowe, Jr., from the story by D. D. Calhoun.

Betty Bronson and William Collier, Jr. will have the two principal roles.

SIX U. A. FILMS IN PRODUCTION ON W.C.

Thirteen of the nineteen United Artists Pictures being distributed this season are completed or in production, and the remaining six will be in production within the month. "Steamboat Bill, Jr.", "Two Lovers", "Tempest", "The Woman Disputed", "The Battle of the Sexes", "Revenge" and "Hell's Angels" are completed.

Vilma Banky's "The Awakening", D. W. Griffith's "The Love Song", Ronald Colman's "The Rescue", Douglas Fairbanks' "The Iron Mask", Rex Ingram's "Three Passions" and Henry King's "She Goes to War" are in production, four of the films almost completed.

Gloria Swanson's "Queen Kelly" enters production after September 1. Charlie Chaplin's unit is building sets for "City Lights". Camilla Horn is en route for California to play opposite John Barrymore in the Ernst Lubitsch production that will be started within a few weeks. Mary Pickford's story is nearly ready and production begins in September.

Hollywood Extras Have Five Days of Heaven

Extra's around Hollywood had a great run for five days, recently. Most every player of this calibre was working at one or the other studio's. On July 21, the studio's used 5163, on July 28th, 6213, on August 4th, 5839 and on August 11th, 5260.

Roland West's "Nightstick" and Herbert Brenon's "Lummox" have been scenarized and adapted and they have been scenarized and adapted and they have reached the casting point.

FRANKLIN TO DIRECT GRETA GARBO'S NEXT

When she completes her role in "A Woman of Affairs", in which she is co-starring with John Gilbert, Garbo will begin work in an original screen story by John Colton. Sidney Franklin, who made "Quality Street", will direct the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, which is described as a narrative of tropical adventure. No title has yet been selected.

OBSERVATIONS

Sarnoff-Sapiro

Everything indicates that David Sarnoff, head of Radio Corporation of America will finance the Sapiro group of independent exhibitors in greater New York. It is said this means a cash outlay by Sarnoff of around Three Millions of Dollars. Not so much money when it is considered that more than half of this will be returned to RCA in the form of payments for Photophone equipment for around 200 houses. And, in addition, giving him an outlet for RCA produced pictures, if—?

A Puzzle

There is no question but what RCA and Western Electric are cousins. And with this knowledge, it has been a puzzle to us just what part the former organization is going to play in sound. Western Electric have been permitted to go out and tie up most all the major producers on a long term contract and in addition to this have made over ninety percent of whatever equipment has been installed in theatres up to this time. RCA's sole producer at present is Pathe and no installations of any amount have been affected in theatres throughout the country.

Will They Produce?

Has there been an understanding between these cousins to the extent of Western Electric taking all the producer money for recording and later to have RCA step out and use a considerable portion of this amount to produce pictures in competition to them? This sounds reasonable in as much as interchangeability of the two projection units has become a fact.

More Independants

And following this thought further, don't be surprised if RCA—closing this deal with Sapiro—shoots throughout the country and closes with other independent chains and individuals, giving them sufficient houses to market the RCA made productions. Pathe, undoubtedly will do the distributing.

First National

The removal or the bowing out of Kennedy, from First National, seems to indicate, for a lot of people, that this organization is now without an actual head. O'Reilly Offered Big Hays Contract Job

Charles E. O'Reilly, formerly president of the Theatre Owners Chamber of Commerce, has been offered an executive position with the Hays organization as a contact field theatre man, to maintain a bridge of contact between theatre owners and the producers and distributors association.

O'Reilly, long a leader in exhibitor circles is well qualified to act as a liaison man between the two divergent groups in the industry. If he accepts, much of the friction which has been the subject of governmental investigations this past year, will be eliminated.

It is said that Aaron Sapiro has found a backer for his recently incorporated Theatres Factors, Inc., in the person of Kuhn Loeb & Co.

Theatres Factors, Inc., was recently formed by Sapiro in an effort to arrange a finance company for theatres, the idea being to handle mortgages for members of his group on a basis that would enable the theatre owner a little more leeway in this form of financing.

Derussa, the Soviet government and the German film trust combine, is the latest continental producing firm to enter the Affiliated European Producers, Inc.

Derussa is the fifteenth film company to merge in the creation of the new organization, which is to distribute all the films of these companies in America.

Michael J. Gourland, president of the affiliation, has been called to Europe as a result of this new association and he will leave within the next ten days.

Among the prominent Derussa directors are: Sergius M. Eisenstein, creator of "Potemkin"; W. J. Pudovkin, of "The End of St. Petersburg" fame; Jury Tarisch, who made "Czar Ivan the Terrible"; F. Ozep, director of "The Yellow Ticket"; Konstantine Eggert, G. Kosintzow, Rudolf Meinert, Frederick Feher and A. Room.

Derussa stars include: Bernhard Gotzke, George Alexander, Jean Murat, to be seen here in "The Soul of France"; Maria Albani, Anna Sten, Magda Sonja, Alfred Abel of "Metropolis"; Fritz Rasp, Fritz Kampers, and Countess Esttrhazy.

After contract was approved, product was sold to a town 3 miles away, granting the other city protection over Columbian.

NOW GOING ON in all Nation Wide Demonstrations

SUPER

RECENT developments in the industry place UNIVERSAL so far ahead in the short subject field that there is now not even a close second. For 22 years UNIVERSAL has topped the entire field. For 22 years thousands of exhibitors have looked to and depended entirely on UNIVERSAL for these subjects, and now with Carl Laemmle himself on the firing line at the studios, every exhibitor throughout the Nation, large and small alike, can look to and depend entirely on UNIVERSAL for the highest quality super shorts of the industry: Shorts that have following of millions of people—that are famous for their drawing power at the box office.

Beginning immediately—at every Universal Exchange from coast to coast—a great QUALITY DEMONSTRATION of SUPER SHORTS is now taking place. See these short subjects with your own eyes—COMPARE THEIR QUALITY—the pictures themselves with do ALL the talking.

COLLEGIANS

Millions everywhere know Carl Laemmle Jr.'s Collegians. Booked by such representative first run houses as The Indiana Theatre, Indianapolis; Strand, Montreal; Majestic, Shamokin, Pa.; Strand, Akron; Regal, Hartford. A Super-Short Series shown in lights all over the country. The biggest short subject money getter in the world—nothing compares with them.

SNOOKUMS

Stern Bros. Newlyweds baby, "Snookums" the box-office baby. A hit with millions of people. A definite, cash-in-the-box Super Short. Here are two additional first run theatres to book "Newlyweds": Orpheum Theatre, New Orleans; Majestic Theatre, Shamokin, Pa.

LET GEORGE DO IT

Another sure-shot newspaper cartoon comedy, by Geo. McManus, that's pepper for the program. "Let George Do It" is another Universal Short booked by such first-run houses as Keith's Theatre, Toledo, and the Majestic, Shamokin.

MIKE AND IKE

Mike and Ike Comedies, Rube Goldberg's cartoon characters in films—are fast-sure-fire fun that always keeps the house filled. The Orpheum Theatre, New Orleans, and Keith's Theatre, Toledo, are the type of houses booking these Universal Shorts. Both important first-run theatres.

BUSTER BROWN

Stern Bros. "Buster Brown" comedies are so well known that to merely mention the name is enough. This super-short is first run fare and no mistake Buster and Tige are sure-fire! Shown now in thousands of theatres.

FINAL RECKONING

One of the best hung-together serials ever offered. One chapter pulls 'em in for the next. From the writings of the greatest boys' author who ever lived, G. A. Henty. Far and way above the average serial in quality.

PIRATE OF PANAMA

Bad Men in the Exotic Jungles of Panama. Full of thrills and adventure. Each one of the 12 episodes will sit 'em on the edge of their chairs. Absolutely sure-fire—just can't miss.

MYSTERY RIDER

Another gripping mystery story in 10 chapters. The first starts them—the other nine keeps them coming. Crammed with speed and Western action, the kind that keeps the crowds excited.

TARZAN THE MIGHTY

These big first-run houses tell the tale of "Tarzan": Keith's 105th St. Theatre, Cleveland; New Garden, Baltimore; Skouras' Indiana, Indianapolis; The Alhambra, Sacramento, The Broadway, Richmond; The Capitol, Dallas. "Tarzan the Mighty" is on its way.

LAEMMLE NOVELTIES

Now being booked by the country's biggest first-run theatres. A few include Roxy Theatre, New York; United Artists Theatre, Los Angeles; United Artists Theatre, Detroit; El Capitan Theatre, San Francisco. What additional evidence is needed?

OSWALD

The Lucky Rabbit. First choice cartoon strip comedy for all first-run theatres. Used for kid-appeal, "supper shows" and program pepper. Willmer and Vincent, Allentown, one of hundreds of recent Oswald bookings.

JACK HOXIE (Re-issues)

The demand from many sources for these Jack Hoxie re-issues has been too great to ignore. The fans simply had to have them. Every one is sure to ring the bell! Action—action and more action.

Tenderfoot Thrillers

One of the greatest lines of 2 reel westerns ever conceived and filmed. Production costs were second to quality—which has resulted in a real de luxe edition of Short Westerns. Your box office will tell the tale.

Diamond Master

A serial by that great author, Jacques Futrelle. One of the most dramatic chapter plays ever screened. Suspense is its keynote. A hair raiser for your patrons.

Harry Carrey (Re-iss.)

Has gone over big in his recent feature picture, "The Trail of '98," and his other successes. His Universal re-issues are "naturals" and just had to be. Book them!

HORACE IN HOLLYWOOD

This great series of 13 one-reelers with the original "Harold Teen" in the person of Arthur Lake is big-league. Lake is a big bet everywhere—a feature star in short subjects for you.

FOREST RANGERS

Like the "Stunt Cowboy" and "Tenderfoot Thrillers," the "Forest Rangers" are pictures that have been built and filmed for the express purpose of making them the best possible to produce. A smashing adventure series.

STUNT COWBOY SERIES

Real money was spent on this series of 12 cowboy shorts. Everybody loves these fast riding and hard shooting pictures. Wonderful for the regular or supper show business.

INTERNATIONAL NEWSREEL

"On the job when it happens" would be a good slogan for "International Newsreel." The greatest film news gathering organization insures International the liveliest, most interesting big-breaks hot off the griddle! Strictly first-run fare for hundreds of leading theatres.

Sound Pictures To Be Limited In Circulation During 1928-29

By Fred J. McConnell
Short Subjects Sales Manager for Universal

DESPITE the hurrah these days about sound pictures, the fact remains that the motion picture industry at large will have to depend upon silent pictures during the coming year. Only a limited number of exhibitors, and practically all of them first run theatre owners, can hope for sound equipment of any type during the coming months. The 1928-1929 season, like its predecessors, will be essentially a silent picture year.

The situation hinges around sound equipment. Picture producers can rapidly turn to the making of sound pictures, long and short, as soon as the demand for them warrants a complete turn-around. Many of them are making sound pictures, both long and short. But they are making them, either with a limited distribution in mind, or they are making them so they are usable with or without sound.

Only about 400 theatres are equipped for sound pictures at the present time. That means only one theatre in forty-five. Also, installations can be made during the coming months at less than 150 a month. It is significant that the installation companies are taking orders now for June 1929. Less than one theatre in eighteen will be equipped by next January and less than one in ten by Next June.

Only the big first run theatres are in the running for sound equipment during the coming season or any part of it. The bulk of the industry is just where it was a year ago, or two years ago. It needs a good

SWING TO FILM SHORTS FROM VAUDEVILLE ACTS

Hundreds of Theatres Turn to Screen Novelties

The tide has definitely turned away from presentation and vaudeville acts and back towards regular one and two-reel pictures, according to indications that are reaching the sales executives of various picture organizations. Reports from widely separated points herald a striking increase in the number of theatres turning to straight shorts for program variety.

Ted Schlanger, Universal sales director for the East and Canada, may be cited as an authority for evidences of this trend in his territory. His story is an example of the kind of information which is reaching other companies from the same and other territories.

Records Prove It

"Our records show that hundreds of houses will be using our shorts next season where we heretofore have been frozen out by vaudeville and other acts" says Schlanger. "We have tried to arrive at a definite reason for this. The reason varies, but generally speaking, those exhibitors who have discussed the situation frankly state that the cost of including acts has become too heavy. The public has become accustomed to the added bills and the novelty has worn off. Therefore, the exhibitor reasons that a return to good short films will supply the stimulus of novelty that now is lacking."

New El Capitan Opens with "Oswald" Cartoon

Oswald, the Lucky Rabbit cartoon comedy, made by Winkler Productions for Universal release, has been selected by the big new El Capitan Theatre, San Francisco's largest theatre, for its opening program. Universal home office officials feel that this is a great feather in Oswald's cap. The ludicrous cartoon has jumped into remarkable popularity with American theatre goers during the last few months.

Stern Bros. Comedies Get Jump on Field

The Stern Brothers are creating talk this year because of the high percentage of completed comedies now in the Universal exchanges ready for pre-viewing and pre-release booking. More than half of next season's supply is on hand.

The Stern product, consisting of four series of thirteen two-reelers each, has the "Newlyweds and Their Baby" series as the principal offering. These comedies, featuring Snookums, child star, are being released as Universal Junior Jewels, the highest rating Universal can give a short subject. Jack Egan appears as Mr. Newlywed and Derelys Perdue as Mrs. Newlywed. This series is getting universal first run representation.

Other Stern Brothers series are the Buster Brown Comedies, the "Let George Do It" comedies and the "Mike and Ike" comedies.

Swing to Film Shorts from Vaudeville Acts

"The Sound situation also has complicated things. Unable to get equipment, the average exhibitor is getting back to solid ground and backing on the best short comedies and short subjects he can buy, biding the time when he can go into sound with the best of them.

"We have been made keenly aware of this situation because so many exhibitors are turning our way in their attempt to fill up their date books with substantial and proven shorts. We luckily are in an enviable position on shorts, having a full schedule of superior product, from super-serials down through two-reel and one-reel comedies, featurettes, cartoons, and newsreels.

Universal Not Stampeded By Sound Increases Efforts on Silent Shorts

Metzger Promises Exhibs Plentiful Supply of Program Featurettes

Carl Laemmle, for one, has not been stampeded by the volume of discussion concerning Sound Pictures. Although keenly appreciative of the possibilities of any innovation in the industry, and with well laid but conservative plans for Universal Sound and synchronized pictures, he is going ahead vigorously on Universal's production schedule of silent pictures. This is particularly true in the short subject field.

Universal's policy as regards short subjects and Mr. Laemmle's attitude on the future of the silent drama has just been made clear by Lou B. Metzger, general sales manager for Universal. In a recent interview, he said:

"Universal has not let up one whit in the making of silent short product. In fact, we actually have increased our efforts in this field. We are concentrating on the best program of one and two-reel subjects it is possible to make. Our line-up will be stronger than ever before. The product already in hand assures this.

"What steps Universal is taking in the Sound field are in addition to our program of silent production.

"The Short Subject production is well in hand. Three serials out of five are in the making, one of them almost completed. The Oswald the Lucky Rabbit Cartoons, the Horace in Hollywood Comedies and the Laemmle Novelties are about halfway along in production. The Third Collegians, the third series of that popular sequence of two-reelers, is well into production. In the two-reel Western field, we have made a number of the Texas Ranger series with George Chandler, and are well along with the Stunt Cowboy series with Bob Curwood. The Northwest

DERELYS PERDUE, the new Mrs. Newlywed in Stern Bros. Comedies

Striking Increase in News- reel Users Is Noted by Anderson

Twenty-five percent more exhibitors are using newsreels this season than was the case last year, if figures concerning the International Newsreel are to be taken as a criterion. That newsreel has added that percentage to its customers during the past six months or so, and, although this may be a special case denoting an unusual trend to the International Newsreel, it also may represent a general increase in the users of newsreel subjects.

Discussing the present day situation as regard newsreels, R. V. Anderson, sales manager for International Newsreel, says that not only are there many more newsreel accounts than there were a year ago, but that many theatre men have advanced their newsreel showing dates, and are now getting the newsreel nearer and nearer its release date. Also, he points out, a large number of showmen have doubled their newsreel service, taking both issues every week instead of one.

"The fact alone that International Newsreel has increased the number of its customers by twenty-five percent during a year which saw the addition of two new newsreels in the market is positive proof of two things, one the general trend towards more newsreel usage, and the other without question is the great improvement in and the popularity of the International Newsreel."

Mounted series, with Edmund Cobb, is about half finished.

"Our serial line-up this year is the most elaborate and best balanced schedule we ever made. Principal among the five serials is 'Tarzan the Mighty', from an Edgar Rice Burroughs novel. Frank Merrill is Tarzan with Natalie Kingston as the FBO and Interstate Amusement Co.—Majestic, of Dallas, Texas have entered into an arrangement for the first preferred key town showing of "Hit of the Show" starring Joe Brown, and this will be the first FBO picture to go over this circuit.

Interstate holds a 5-year contract for Fox pictures but does not get enough for its purpose, needing from ten to 12 additional pictures each season.

Because of an affiliation between Karl Hoblitzelle, president of Interstate, and J. P. Kennedy—K-A-O, it is presumed that all the extra pictures needed by Interstate will be supplied by FBO on some reciprocal arrangement.

Such a deal will be a repetition of the history of the Fox releases which did not get a good break on big time until the franchise arrangement with Interstate.

steady supply of silent box-office pictures. All the sound features and all the screen musical acts and novelties in the world will be of no use.

There is just one difference, however. The average exhibitor really will be better off than ever before because producers this season realize that the rank and file of theatre-men need extra good pictures to hold their audiences during the sound flurries. Until sound pictures, as pictures, are just as good in story value, in acting, in photography and in general appeal as silent pictures, the public, after the novelty has worn off, will turn back to the silent picture.

This gives the exhibitor of high-class, first-rate silent pictures an upper hand. By careful selection of his programs he can assure his screen a well-rounded show with maximum entertainment value. He will thus be in a position to cope with competition of any kind.

Universal is meeting this situation by great concentration on the entertainment value of its silent pictures. This is particularly true in the Short Subjects field. As the head of the Short Subject department I know that we are straining every effort to make exceptional Short Subjects for the coming season, in an attempt to give the exhibitor sure-fire programs. This is being done by a more careful selection and preparation of story material, better direction, better players, and additional production value.

Christie Buys Cohen-Negro Story Series

Producers Will Film Series of Stories With Negro Casts

By JOE BLAIR
Hollywood Correspondent

Al Christie has secured the famous Octavius Roy Cohen stories of colored life in Birmingham, which have been running to huge popularity in the Saturday Evening Post for the last fifteen years and published in book form with enormous circulation, for the filming of talking pictures.

It is stated that probably no series of stories has had as long a run or have appeared as frequently as the colored stories by Octavius Roy Cohen, their vogue starting about fifteen years ago and continuing currently in magazine and book form. The scenes of the stories to be filmed in the talkies will center around the famous Sons and Daughters of I Will Arise Hall, Bud Peagler's Barbecue, Lunch and Pool Room, Sallie Crouch's Cozy Home Hotel, and will take up the extremely varied careers of Birmingham colored society.

Christie is already selecting from the long list of Cohen stories the ones to first be filmed, and while no production date has been set, he is on the lookout for the types who will portray and talk the Cohen characters.

"Spectator" a Weekly

Welford Beaton, publisher of the "Spectator" a Hollywood journal devoted to production has decided to turn the publication into a weekly. It has been issued twice a month since its inception over two years ago.

Ernst's Mexican Beauty

Ernst Lubitsch has selected Mona Rice, said to be a Mexican beauty, for the second female lead in the new John Barrymore picture to be released by United Artists. Camilla Horn has the first lead.

Demerest Leaves Films

William Demerest, former contract player at Fox and Warner Brothers, has left Hollywood to re-enter Vaudeville with his wife. Demerest has appeared in pictures for the past eighteen months and decided to give up this form of acting in favor of vaudeville on the urgent pressure of a contract providing almost twice as much money as the picture people wanted to pay him.

to 15th, right at the beginning of the new season, and coincidentally with the Great Movie Season Campaign.

Exchange managers are set to continue the terrific sales pace being set by Grainger and his aides and a record week of bookings in all exchanges is expected.

STUDIO GOSSIP

"My Wild Irish Rose" the FBO picture has been completed. It was directed by Ralph Ceder with Alberta Vaughan, Al Cooke and Elinor Flynn in the leads.

Something happened out at First National. Rod La Rocque was slated to have the lead in "Changelings". Announcement now has been made that Milton Sills will have this part opposite Dorothy Mackaill.

Hope Loring the writer, is leaving Paramount to free lance.

James Ford, a youth of 21, has been signed on a long term contract by First National. "Jimmie" has been around Hollywood for a couple of years working as an extra and doing bits.

Arnold Kent and Claude King have been added to the cast of the Somerset Maugham story "The Letter" being filmed by Paramount.

Polly Moran and Harry Gribbon have been set for leads opposite the dog actor "Flash" in the forthcoming picture "Honeymoon" to be done by M-G-M with Herman Raymaker directing.

The cast of "The Haunted House", the Owen Davis mystery sound melodrama which Benjamin Christensen is directing for First National Pictures, is now complete. Edmund Breese, Sidney Bracy, Erville Alderson, Thelma Todd, Larry Kent, Chester Conklin, Montagu Love, Flora Finch, Barbara Bedford, William V. Mong, Johnnie Cough and Eve Southern.

Loretta Young has been chosen to play opposite Richard Barthelmess in his next First National picture, titled "Scarlet Seas," production on which is expected to start this week. John Frances Dillon will direct. Bradley King is writing the continuity. "Scarlet Seas" is based on a story called "Mutiny" by W. Scott Darling.

Ralph Block, associate producer at the Pathe Studios will put into production two new features today (August 21st). "The Spieler" will feature Alan Hale and Jacqueline Logan and "Office Scandal" is a Phyllis Haver starring vehicle with George Duryea featured.

Tay Garnett will direct "The Spieler," a comedy of carnival life from a script prepared in collaboration with Hal Conklin.

Edward H. Griffith will direct "Office Scandal" from Adelaide Heilbron's scenario. The scenes are laid in San Francisco where much of the picture will be made.

Virginia Valli has been signed by Columbia Picture to play the lead in "The Street of Illusion" with Ian Keith and Harry Myers. "The Street of Illusion" goes into production immediately.

Erle C. Kenton will direct.

Shirley Mason, playing the lead in "Runaway Girls," Columbia production, with Arthur Rankin and Hedda Hopper, was so severely sunburned this week while bathing at the beach at Malibu, that Mark Sandrich was forced to suspend filming for a few days to allow the star to recover.

The cast has been completed for Columbia's forthcoming production, "Sinners' Parade" which John Adolfi will direct. Dorothy Revier and Victor Varconi will play the leads, supported by John Patrick, Marjorie Bonner and Edna Marion.

Adolfi will be remembered for his work for Warner Bros. in "The Little Snob" and "What Happened to Father."

Joan Crawford takes another step toward stardom with her assignment to play the chief feminine role in "Adrienne Lecouvreur," a Balkan kingdom story which Fred Niblo will direct for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Nils Asther, the young Scandinavian actor, will have the male lead.

Bess Meredyth, prominent, whose most recent script was the adaptation of "A Woman of Affairs", now in production as a John Gilbert-Greta Garbo vehicle, has signed a new long term contract with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

M-G-M Jumping into Sound With Both Feet

Following extensive preparation and experiment, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer announced its initial sound pictures now finished and ready for the season commencing September 1. These pictures, with sound effects and synchronized musical scores, will include "Excess Baggage," adapted from the stage play and starring William Haines; "While the City Sleeps," Lon Chaney's drama of police life; "The Bellamy Trial," Monta Bell's huge production based on the Saturday Evening Post romance, and "Our Dancing Daughters," epic of the modern age of jazz.

Other pictures scheduled for early production which sound will play an important part include, "The Trial of Mary Dugan" and "Nize Baby".

Armstrong's Next

Robert Armstrong, the Pathe contract feature player, has been assigned a leading role in "The Get Away" soon to be put into production by this organization. It is an original by William Milhauser. Jeanette Loff and George Dayrea have also been set for parts.

Lloyd Sound Chief

Jack Lloyd, former writer for D. W. Griffith, has been appointed by United Artists to act in the capacity of sound specialist.

Lloyd left for New York last week to confer with Harry Richman regarding his forthcoming picture for United Artists.

OBSERVATIONS

Lilac Time

We did not care so much for this picture and said so. Our reason for not liking it was the thought of First National spending almost a million dollars, for seemingly, no good reason. The production did not demand such an expenditure, and the results prove it, in so far as its quality is concerned. This is our personal view. We suggested it would make money.

Tremendous

An critic, so called or otherwise, would always be safe by summing up a criticism on a Colleen Moore picture with the words "—but it will make money". This we did. But never expecting it to attain the grosses that are actually being amassed at almost every point where it has been shown. The business has been tremendous. Chicago, Pittsburgh and St. Louis report a record breaking take. Detroit is running mid-night performances.

Colleen

You have to hand it to this Moore girl. She is one of the two or three outstanding attractions in this industry. From indications, she will rank one, two, with any three. And her following is of a different type than any other star. She draws from all parts of the household. The cook, the chauffeur, the gardener, the nurse, father, mother, son and daughter. And this following is stable. She will not crowd the lime-light today and dim it tomorrow.

Zukor-Warner

It looks as if the deal that will house Vitaphone on the Lasky lot, is either closed or will be in a very few hours. Naturally, neither party or organization will, in any manner, confirm it. But we will lay a little bet it goes through, if it already has not been consummated. We understand that Vitaphone subjects have been grabbing a lot of the playing time, already allotted Paramount. This together with the fact that Warners are the pioneer in sound and are further advanced than the rest of the field no doubt determined Zukor and P-F-L to gather in Vitaphone.

WILKERSON

Court Denies

Sapiro Injunction

along the lines laid down by Judge Sherman in the first attempt by Sapiro to obtain an injunction against Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

While the merits of the case, with which the industry is familiar by this time, have not yet been decided, it would take perhaps a year before a jury trial could be reached, and this would interfere with and frustrate the purposes of the exhibitor organizations, since the new season has already started and independent exhibitors particularly must book in their year's supply of pictures and allocate their available play-dates.

In effect, then, every indication seems to point toward the immediate disintegration of the Sapiro organization and also the probable withdrawal of Sapiro as head of this organization, as the members of the association had determined to stick out the issue until this court decision would be made and no further, and had furnished additional funds out of their pockets to give Sapiro, their hopes and plans a fair trial.

There seemed to be a strong intention among several important members of the association yesterday to begin individual film buying and booking to overcome the time that has been lost.

These theatre owners indicated that the members of the Sapiro association in their desire to be loyal, had followed Sapiro right down the line regardless of the financial consequences, but now fear the dire results that might follow through a possible antagonizing or intimidation of the bigger companies through the buying unit which was the object of making better deals for themselves.

These members, because of their loyalty had pictures which they have been running steadily for years, taken away from them and sold to opposition theatres.

In the beginning, the bigger companies sympathized with the Sapiro movement and intended to do business with it, Elmer Pearson for one having expressed the feeling that the movement was a logical and welcome one and probably productive of even better business for the film companies, but they later found that Sapiro instead of cooperating with them started in knocking and fighting.

An instance given was the French Cablegram in the early Spring while Hays was in Europe, attacking the producers' representative. This was considered an attempt at intimidation by the big companies. Sapiro was also strongly opposed to the Film Boards of Trades and threatened to disclose alleged illegal methods of arbitration.

The break-up of the present Sapiro organization will not interfere with the plans which have already been launched by the independent theatre owners to consolidate all their theatres into a pool headed by B. S. Moss and which has lately included financing arrangements by RCA Photophone and Kuhn-Loeb & Company.

FILM CENTER CORNER STONE HONORS TALKIES

In the Cornerstone of the Film Center Building have been placed two strips of film. One of the ordinary print and the other a piece containing dialogue and music synchronized on the film. This was the most appropriate tribute that the owners of the Film Center Building felt could be paid to the industry.

In future years should any one ask, "When was the Film Center Building built?" the answer will be, "The Film Center Building was built during the transition period when producers, distributors, and exhibitors were discussing and predicting the future of talking pictures."

'MOVIESOUND' INVENTED FOR TALKING PICTURES

A new talking device will be used by the Prince Film Producing Company for a series of features starring Cassio, Italian-American comedian, and cousin of Rudolph Valentino.

It is known as the "Moviesound" and is a brand new patent different from those now on the market. Cassio has completed his first independent picture "Who Am I?" and will make "That's Nothing" a talking picture as his second feature length-comedy.

Zukor Pays $20,000,000 for Warners enough shares to bring Warner-Vitaphone under the Paramount banner.

Warner stated that there were about 550,000 shares of Warner stock on the market, half of which was enough to control, but also stated that he and his associates now had in their possession enough remaining stock to control any company.

He further stated that he hoped Zukor did buy control on the open market, as he would pay a stiff price for it that way.

About $20,000,000 will be the final amount to pass hands for the controlling stock of the Warner Company. According to present plans, the Warner organization, as now constituted, will continue to operate and function exactly as before, but in addition, all facilities will be enlarged to immediately take care of all Paramount sound production at the Warner plants and with the Vitaphone staffs.

Warners will continue to produce their outlined plans for specials and all-talkies but it is very probable that the combined Warner and Paramount sound pictures will be sold by the Paramount sales organization, and through their exchanges.

Whether Paramount will participate in any of the royalty arrangements that Warners have with Electrical Research Products is not known at this time, although it is expected that the license fees and costs per reel, which they now pay and which runs into hundreds of thousands of dollars per annum will revert back in part to Paramount or will be considered a future saving.

Electrical Research Products collect 7½% of the gross of all synchronized pictures with Vitaphone and Movietone, including licensing and patent fees which the Fox-Case also pay. Warner Brothers share in a portion of this 7½%.

The necessity for controlling Vitaphone was forcibly brought home to Adolph Zukor by his own sales organization which had been looking with alarm at an estimated weekly loss in play-date bookings of from $50,000 to $75,000 a week, caused by demand of exhibitors for Vitaphone specials and short product and the turning over of every available play-date for the Vitaphone attractions, whose popularity at the box-office has been established.

Special equipment for the cutting of sound-synchronization film has been installed in the laboratories of the Paramount studio in Hollywood, according to an announcement by B. P. Schulberg.

Working under the supervision of Roy J. Pomeroy, director of sound effects at the Hollywood plant, and James Wilkinson, head of the cutting department, specialists are working in the preparation of sound film.

Projection apparatus working in synchrony with the sound film makes it possible to throw the images of players on a miniature screen and hear their voices and incidental sound or music effects simultaneously. In addition to the sound-film projector, synchronous cutting devices have been installed to aid in this new branch of studio work.

Andy Newmen and Merrill White, have been detailed as specialists in cutting sound film.

COLUMBIA TO MAKE 'SUBMARINE' ROADSHOW

Columbia Pictures will road-show their underwater special "Submarine" as the second of its pictures at $2 Broadway prices.

"The Scarlet Lady" with Lya de Putti, Don Alvarado and Warner Oland is now at the Embassy Theatre, New York, for an indefinite run.

A preview on the West Coast has established the fact, according to Columbia officials, that "Submarine" offers some of the most thrilling sequences ever witnessed on the screen. Jack Holt is presented in the novel role of a deep-sea diver.

Schenck Insists Talkies to Vanish within 6 Months

"Sound pictures, meaning pictures synchronized with music and sound effects, have a very definite place in pictures and are here to stay", said Mr. Schenck. He stated further that his views in so far as "sound" was concerned, were his personal views and if he found that the American public wanted talking pictures, United Artists would give them production.

Among other things he mentioned were that,—he had sold seven United Artists pictures to the Russian Government; two Barrymores, one Chaplin, one Talmadge, two Fairbanks and one Pickford,—that he had signed S. N. Eisenstein, the Russian director for a picture,—that he had signed a new contract with Camilla Horn on the suggestion of his General Manager, John Considine,—that presentations in theatres in conjunction with pictures had taken a tremendous flop and this form of entertainment would be replaced by one and two reel novelty talking reels of vaudeville acts, etc., etc,—that talking picture equipment, now selling for $8,000 and better, will be sold in a short time for less than $500,—and that he personally is a politician and had been in politics all his life, but his personal desires, had nothing to do with the picture business and he knew the motion picture industry, could not and would not be delivered politically to any one organization.

SUES TO ENFORCE SERVICE CONTRACTS

Another step in the fight of Northwest exhibitors against the Minneapolis Film Board of Trade has taken place by the action of Clinton & Myers, theatre operators, in enjoining eight distributors from stopping service on contracts, as the result of an adverse arbitration decision and subsequent demands for cash deposits, following refusals of Clinton and Myers to recognize the authority of the Film Board.

Clinton has made a motion for a temporary injunction and a hearing will be held when the film companies prepare their answer. A claim was brought against the exhibitors by United Artists, to enforce existing contracts. By J. B. Clinton's action in refusing to recognize the board, a verdict was rendered against him and film service was stopped.

OMAHA—Suit of the Security Pictures Corporation against the local exchange here of Tiffany-Stahl, has been settled out of the Equity Court, where it was originally filed.

The settlement of this case which dates back twelve months ago, was the result of outside arbitration, and now permits the picture "Wild Geese" which had been restrained from showing by Security, will now be permitted to be distributed, together with certain other pictures, originally held up by injunction.

All prints and advertising matter bearing the Tiffany trade mark and name will be turned over to the local Tiffany office for distribution. Both sides were pleased that arbitration solved what the courts of necessity, delayed. The money settlement runs into five figures.

Turnbull Back with Lasky

Becomes "Editorial Specialist" to Associate Producers

By JOE BLAIR
Hollywood Correspondent

Hector Turnbull has returned to the Lasky lot. A contract was signed yesterday designating him as "editorial specialist" to work in conjunction with associate producers and the New York and Hollywood story departments in the selection of suitable screen material for both sound and silent productions.

The Lasky lot, is home to Turnbull. He was connected with Paramount almost from its inception until shortly over a year ago, at which time he has left to join Cecil B. DeMille at his studio. Turnbull was formerly associate producer for Paramount and is a brother-in-law of Jesse Lasky.

He will leave Hollywood shortly for New York to make a survey of current theatrical and literary successes from the angle of screen adaptability.

MAYO GETS "ON TRIAL" AS NEXT VITAPHONE

Archie Mayo was selected to direct "On Trial", the celebrated play by Elmer Rice which is the latest big Vitaphone all-talking picture. J. L. Warner has selected Mayo because of his fine work with Fannie Brice's Vitaphone special, "My Man".

"On Trial" will bring Pauline Frederick to the talking screen for the first time at the head of its all-star cast. Bert Lytell will play opposite her and other featured will include Lois Wilson, Holmes Herbert, Richard Tucker, Jason Robards and Johnny Arthur.

Griffith Starts

David Wark Griffith, this week began to film "The Love Song," a story of the Franco-Prussian War and the court of Napoleon III.

William Boyd has the principal male role; Jetta Goudal, Lupe Velez, George Fawcett and Albert Conti, are in the cast.

Rosenthal with U. A.

William Rosenthal has been appointed by Al Lichtman of United Artists as district manager of the middle western territory that embraces Chicago, Indianapolis, Minneapolis and Omaha exchanges.

Harry Lauder Promises "Full Money's Worth"

Sir Harry Lauder, now at work at Cricklewood Studio, London in the Welsh-Pearson-Elder production "Auld Lang Syne", believes the public will get their money's worth from this film as he will be on the screen practically throughout the picture. His remark, of course, was made with a very sly wink.

STUDIO GOSSIP

Universal has engaged Haakon H. Hammer, noted polar explorer to assist Alexander J. Grubb in the preparation of the scenario for the Arctic Expedition picture which Edward Montaigne will supervise.

"Romco and Julia", a novel by Sydney Horler, has been added to their production schedule for this year by British Instructional Films, Ltd., of London.

Maude Fulton, playwright and scenarist has been engaged to write dialogue for Fox movietone. She begins work on September 15th.

Hector V. Sarno and DeWitt Jennings have been cast by director Joseph Henaberry in Reginald Denny's first talking picture, "Red Hot Speed," now in production at Universal City.

Robert Lord has adapted and constructed the dialogue for "On Trial" the Vitaphone-Elmer Rice play, with the aid of Max Pollack, N. Y. stage director.

Greta Grenstadt, Margaret Lee and Eddy Boland have been added to the cast of "Erik the Great," the James Creelman story featuring Conrad Veidt and Mary Philbin under the direction of Paul Fejos.

"Interference" the Paramount picture to go into production will use no extras. Four players, Doris Kenyon, William Powerll, Clive Brook and Evelyn Brent will carry the burden.

Fred Kohler, screen heavy, has been borrowed by Pathe for a role in "The Spielers."

"Dirigible", Paramount's big special has been postponed indefinitely. They are working on the story and it may be several months before production actually starts.

Preparations are under way at Universal City for the production on a large scale of a talking and musical motion picture, "The Minstrel Show." This story was written by Norman L. Sper and George R. Rogan.

Leila Hyams who has completed a role in "Alias Jimmy Valentine" for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, may get a five-year contract from that company.

Vilma Banky, having nearly completed "The Awakening" for Samuel Goldwyn, may make a quick trip to New York, about September 10th.

"Taras Bulba" famous Russian novel of the Tartars has been purchased by John W. Considine, Jr. for a United Artists sound production.

John Boles, now a Universal star, has been loaned to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer to play opposite Norma Shearer in "The Little Angel." Robert Leonard will direct.

A DAY AT 1st NATIONAL

Extras lined two-deep at the soda fountain—the most popular spot on the lot . . . The scramble for the outside tables in the Patio lunch room, where the cool breezes blow . . . The gateman with his heavy chain, to bar automobiles not having passes . . . Corinne Griffith, sad-eyed, attends a huge church wedding . . . Edmund Lowe sits at her side . . . Kathryn Carver is the bride, and is beautiful . . . So is Frances Hamilton, the maid-of-honor . . . Rev. Neal Dodd, pastor of Hollywood's "Little Church Around the Corner," in a nifty golf suit, tells them how to conduct the ceremony . . . It's the first wedding in months he has witnessed, real or reel, without officiating . . . Director William A. Seiter, using a loud-speaker in a church . . . Nancy Kenyon, the petite niece of Mrs. Milton Sills, is a wedding guest . . . Winds blowing, and sirens howling on "The Haunted House" set . . . Chester Conklin hanging on to his hat, coat-tails flapping in the breeze . . . Flora Finch screaming at the top of her voice . . . Thelma Todd in riding boots, watching from the sidelines . . . Barbara Bedford slips through the doorway, just missing Montagu Love, who is in a terrifying make-up and a long, black robe . . . William V. Mong in sanctimonious garb . . . Director Benjamin Christensen shouting strange sounds through a megaphone adds to the apparent confusion . . . Really everything is properly timed and carefully rehearsed . . . Charlie Murray, wearing a cop's uniform, is slapped with a billy in the hands of a crook, and falls to the floor . . . Yola d'Avril faints and falls in a chair . . . Doris Dawson and Charles Delaney in a love scene . . . Lucien Littlefield astonished at the sign: "William Beaudine Company; Visitors Welcome" . . . Never heard of before at a studio . . . And the tour is ended.

Ann Christy has been engaged for "The Love Charm" a Tiffany-Stahl Color Classic which Howard Mitchell will direct.

"The Port of Dreams" is the final title of "Salvage" which Mary Philbin stars in for Universal.

Conrad Nagel will be Vilma Banky's leading man in her next production "Romance" which Al Santell will direct.

Marjorie Daw has contracted to do five more pictures for Charles Rogers and Harry Brown, for Educational release.

Wallace MacDonald will play the heavy in "The Pearl Story" being made by Tiffany-Stahl, directed by Elmer Clifton.

Arthur Lubin is en-route to New York to appear in a stage play.

Monte Blue's "The Greyhound, Ltd." which will go into Warner production shortly, will be directed by Howard Bretherton.

CONSTANCE TALMADGE TO MAKE U. A. FILM ABROAD

Constance Talmadge will make her next production in Europe according to plans laid by Joseph M. Schenck. The United Artists head cabled Mrs. Margaret Talmadge, Connie's mother, while he was abroad, and she accepted the proposition for Connie.

Dudley Field Malone, Schenck's European legal representative, is handling the details for this production, inasmuch as Schenck is now back in New York. "Three Passions" the Rex Ingram picture now being made at Nice, may be the film in which she may play.

Moomaw Starts Mormon Historic Picture

Louis Moomaw, who will be remembered for his Alaskan production of "Chee-Chaw-Kos" some years ago, will produce a Mormon picture in Utah which will delve into the history of that romantic sect.

Two notable players have been signed by Moomaw for the starring roles—Ben Lyon and Marie Prevost. Production will start within a week, in Utah.

JOLSON'S "SINGING FOOL" —"MY MAN" COMPLETED

Three of the biggest road shows for release by Warner Bros. this season were completed this week at their studio. All of them are pictures in which Vitaphone sound will figure prominently. The first to be finished was "The Singing Fool" starring Al Jolson.

Fannie Brice completed work on her first motion picture, "My Man" directed by Archie Mayo and the third of the trio now in the cutting room is "The Redeeming Sin" starring Dolores Costello.

"Show Girl" Completed

"Show Girl," the motion picture version of J. P. McEvoy's best selling novel, has been completed at the First National Studios with Alice White in the title role.

Alice White will be teamed with Jack Mulhall in "Ritzy Rosie," soon to go into production.

Critics Rave over

New Russian Film

Several Americans in the film industry who have just returned from Europe are raving about a Russian picture seen in a Paris theatre, called "The Demon Steepe". They claim the picture is the most thrilling they ever witnessed. It is not a propaganda film but it deals with a political and love romance.

Stanley Shoots 1-R

Film Over Night

A one-reel talking film short was shot over-night, starting yesterday at 8 o'clock in the Manhattan Studios. A specialty film was made of a night club producer and his troupe which will be used in a vaudeville tour over Stanley and K-A-O houses. Victor records and orthophonic reproduction will be used as the synchronizing device for the picture. Stanley Educational Division is making the picture.

FIVE CENTS

OBSERVATIONS

Considine

John W. Considine, Jr., is a very important part of United Artists. More important than a lot of people think. You know several months ago, Hollywood was flooded with rumors that he was leaving U. A. Was being let out by Joseph Schenck. Of course they were all silly rumors. But if anyone wants to get a side light on "Johnnie", and his worth and importance, he has but to talk to Joseph Schenck for a few minutes. Considine will be with U. A. as long as Schenck and longer if he chooses.

Fair Shake

We don't think Aaron Sapiro has any kick coming as to the attitude and support accorded him by members of his organization. This crowd of exhibitors with one exception, stuck to the bitter end. Stuck in the face of almost certain defeat and knowing that defeat would be a terrible blow to most of them. This was an unusual condition for an exhibitor organization due to past history.

"Run-Outs"

As soon as any organization of exhibitors was formed, in the past, ten minutes after its formation there were "run-outs". In the case of the Sapiro group, there was only one, but this one proved of sufficient importance to break its back. Some of the members have gone so far in their accusations to imply that Mayer and Schneider (the deflected members) were included by one of the big organizations to take this move in order to test the strength of such an organization.

Ill Feeling

There was quite a bit of ill feeling towards Sapiro personally, by several of the larger producers. They resented his attitude towards the Film Boards of Trade, his actions of talking too freely to the press on picture matters he was not acquainted with and also, his cablegram to the French Exhibitor Association regarding Will Hays. Sapiro was very badly advised in a lot of things and this together with the loss of both suits recently instituted sort of rings down his curtain.

To Sell at $100 — Radio Stations to Furnish Moving Pictures

Television sets in America will be on the market within 60 days and will sell for around $100 or $125 each, according to B. W. Sangor of the American Baird Television Corporation, 1/2 owner of the enterprise.

Samuel Izenstark, interested in the American company, and incidentally a pioneer of wireless manufacture in the U. S., predicts that several hundred thousand sets will be installed in homes within the next twelve months.

According to Izenstark, there is little doubt that television will soon be a serious rival to the films. While it will not rival the full-length screen in effect, the counter attraction will be sufficiently serious to constitute a menace, from the novel. (Continued on page 2)

WARNER FAREWELL TO "TEX" GUINAN TODAY

NEVER SO THRILLING A PICTURE!

Considine Sums up U. A. Prod.

Rod La Roque's First United Artists Film Pushkin's "The Shop"

John W. Considine, Jr., general manager of United Artists productions, announced yesterday that thirteen of the nineteen United Artists pictures being distributed by that organization are either completed or in production. "Steamboat Bill, Jr.," "Two Lovers," "Tempest," "The Woman Disputed," "The Battle of Sexes," "Revenge" and "Hell's Angels" are completed.

Vilma Banky's "The Awakening," D. W. Griffith's "The Love Song," Ronald Colman's "The Rescue," Douglas Fairbanks' "The Iron Mask," Rex Ingram's "Three Passions" and Henry King's "She Goes to War" are in production, four of the films almost completed.

Gloria Swanson's "Queen Kelly" enters production before September 1. Charlie Chaplin's unit is building sets for "City Lights". Camilla Horn is en route to California to play opposite John Barrymore in the Ernst Lubitsch production that will be started within a few weeks. Mary Pickford's story is nearly ready and production begins in September. Roland West's "Nightstick" and Herbert Brenon's "Lummox" have been scenarized and adapted and they have reached the casting point.

Directors whose pictures will be represented in this array of pictures include, Charles Chaplin, D. W. Griffith, Eric von Stroheim, Ernst Lubitsch, Herbert Brennon, Henry King, Edwin Carewe, Sam Taylor, Luther Reed, Alan Dwan, Fred Niblo, Rex Ingram, Roland West, Victor Fleming and Charles F. Reisner.

The director for the Harry Richman pictures, to be made at the Cosmopolitan Studio in New York, has not been selected as yet. Production will start in the near future.

Mr. Considine further announced that stories of two U. A. pictures have been selected. Both are based on Russian tales, the first written by Alexander Pushkin, the second by Nickolai Gogol. Both pictures will be filmed with sound, and with dialogue.

Rod La Roque, star of "Resurrection" will be featured in "The Shop", based on a Pushkin story. This same Russian poet's "Dubrovsky" was adapted for Valentino's "The Eagle", which Clarence Brown directed and in which Vilma Banky appeared.

"Taras Bulba", Gogol's story of the Cossack hetman and his two sons, will be filmed as a United Artists special. This work by the author of "Dead Souls" once was picturized in Europe.

'SHANGHAI GESTURE' AUTHOR WITH M-G-M

John Colton, author of "The Shanghai Gesture", now doing several originals at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio, arrived in New York yesterday. He has just completed a story of tropical adventure, not yet titled, which will serve as a starring vehicle for Greta Garbo when she completes her role in "A Woman of Affairs". The playwright-scenarist also titled a number of recent M-G-M productions including "The Cossacks", "Four Walls", and "White Shadows in the South Seas".

Kalich with M-G-M

Lillian Kalich, daughter of the well-known Jewish actress, Bertha Kalich, left last night for the coast, where she will join the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer scenario department and possibly assist in the production of talking films.

Miss Kalich, who was signed by Harry Rapf during his recent trip to New York, has acted as general stage and art director for several of her mother's productions.

Horn to Sail Sept. 8

Edward Sedgwick, whose directorial vehicles include "Spring Fever", and "West Point" and who has just completed Buster Keaton's new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer film, "The Cameraman", will direct the second in the series of comedies which Keaton will do for this company.

No title has yet been selected for the new Keaton picture.

Many of the scenes for "The Cameraman", which will be one of the earliest new season releases, were made on location in New York City.

The first screen actress of Indian descent, Dorothy Janis, will play her initial role for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer as the heroine of Tim McCoy's new starring vehicle, "Humming Wires". This film, which is concerned with the romance of the first transcontinental telegraph, will be made on location in Glacier National Park, Montana.

EDUCATIONAL HAS ELEVEN FOR FALL

Educational has eleven pictures, all new season's product and all excellent for early fall showing, which it will release to exhibitors during the month of September. This does not include the regular issues of Kinograms news reel which will be released twice each week. There are six two-reel comedies, one two-reel aviation thriller, two one-reel comedies, two one-reel novelty or magazine subjects and the Kinograms releases on the month's program.

D'ARRAST TO DIRECT CHEVALIER IN SOUND

A motion picture with an international appeal, enhanced by vocal and musical synchronization, will serve as the vehicle to introduce to the world's screens Maurice Chevalier. He arrives in the Hollywood film Colony early in October.

Simultaneously with Lasky's announcement that Chevalier is due in Hollywood within a few weeks came word that H. D'Abbadie D'Arrast, personal friend of Chevalier and one of the most successful of the younger school of directors, will direct the production. D'Arrast was responsible for Adolphe Menjou's recent "A Gentleman of Paris," "Service for Ladies," and "Serenade," and he directed Florence Vidor in "The Magnificent Flirt."

Fox Borrows Windsor

Fox has borrowed the services of the blonde star, Claire Windsor from Tiffany-Stahl for a picture. She is to work opposite Victor McLaglin in the "Black Gang" which will be directed by Jack Blythstone.

OBSERVATIONS

Well—Well!

Nobody seems to believe the Paramount-Vitaphone yarn, not even the parties involved, but we are willing to rise or fall by it. Our information is unquestioned, in so far as we are concerned and we will not weaken on it. Everything is being thrown our way and have been given a bit of a scolding. Nevertheless—we believe the story whether you do or not.

Park Central

Looks as if a lot of the gang are moving out of the Astor and into the Park Central. At lunch the other day at the P. C. we were surprised to see so many picture people. Also, we are told, this hostelry is housing quite a few from pictures in their apartments. Is the Park Central to be the new motion picture mecca?

Marion Nixon

Marion Nixon stepping out. Her work in "Out of the Ruins" the Barthelmess picture at the Strand is astonishing. It came as quite a surprise to us who have been in the habit of seeing this little artist in roles that required no ability, to witness her, almost, walking away with the picture in a role that calls for everything that a superb actress could demand. Watch Marion from now on.

Ala Walker

Tex Guinan pulled a Walker on the assembled scribes yesterday. Invitations read 12:30 and La Guinan did not show until 1:30. However a good time was had by all. Due to the tremendous publicity given to her court appearances, her escapades and the fact she has been hostess to most of the world in her night clubs, Texas Guinan should be a tremendous bet for Warners.

Fox-Poli Final Papers Signed--Float 10,000 Shares

The signing of the final papers between William Fox and Sylvester Z. Poli for the acquisition of the Poli chain of theatres by Fox Theatres Corporation was announced yesterday from the offices of William Fox in the Roxy Theatre Building. With the ironing out of the last of many details involved in the transaction Fox Theatres Corporation is now in full possession of the Poli New England chain.

With this final signing Mr. Fox stated all the Poli Theatre properties are turned over to Fox Theatres Corporation free and clear of any encumbrance other than the purchase money mortgage which Mr. Poli has taken on this transaction.

The general policy will be shaped and announced in the early part of September. Movietone will play an important part in the new policy of the Poli Chain.

Fox Theatres, Inc., will issue 10,000 shares of a new stock in the New England Theatres Corporation which has been organized in Delaware. The purpose of the company is a holding one for the Poli Theatres.

BILTMORE ENJOINED ON 'THE RIGHT WAY'

The temporary injunction sought by the Biltmore Pictures to restrain Benjamin Stearns and the Oxford Film Exchange from distributing a picture "The Right Way", has been denied by Justice Schmuck.

A plea for a counter injunction was granted Stearns, who was represented by Louis Nizer; which prevents interference with Stearns making contracts with exhibitors, as owners of the film in the disputed territory. This means that those exhibitors who have contracted for the film will now proceed with their bookings without further tie-up.

In the Judge's opinion, the examination of Biltmore's evidence showed that the plaintiffs title to the film is defective, as Producers Security Corporation, from whom Biltmore obtained their 'rights', had no power to act for the owners of the film, after April 15, 1924, and that Biltmore, lacking prints and contracts for the pictures could not suffer any irreparable injury.

Harold Lloyd Starts Sept. 4 on First Sound-Mystery P-F-L Release

By JOE BLAIR
Hollywood Correspondent

After several months of preparation, Harold Lloyd is slated to start shooting at the Metropolitan Studio, in Hollywood, on his latest production, and the first of the sound era, on September 4th. This will be exactly five years to a day that Lloyd started on "Girl Shy" his first feature as an independent producer.

While purposely avoiding the much overworked underworld theme, a considerable portion of the new Lloyd story will be set in San Francisco's Chinatown. Stress will be laid on the mystery element, with the general idea of the story being selected, aside from its wide-open comedy possibilities, for the effective openings for sound accompaniment.

P-F-L First Talkie

"SAY IT WITH MUSIC" RICHMAN U. A. PICTURE

Announcement was made yesterday that the title of the Harry Richman picture to be made at the Cosmopolitan Studio in New York, would be "Say It With Music".

Irving Berlin, author of the story, the music and lyrics denies that this story concerning the romance of "Tin Pan Alley" pianist is a yarn about his life.

Berlin stated, "I want it definitely understood that no incidents taken from my private life will be found in this picture." "The story does center around a song writer but the romance is concerned with his affection for the daughter of a composer of popular songs twenty-five years ago."

No date has been set for the starting of production.

Chaplin About Ready

Charlie Chaplin's next picture, "City Lights," is in the making. Sets are erected for the first sequences, in the Chaplin Studio in Hollywood.

Casting is proceeding and some of the players of "The Circus" and early Chaplin films will be seen again in the company.

"City Lights" is a story of the boulevards and night life, high and low, in any cosmopolitan city.

CHICAGO EVENING AMERICAN

"Toilers" With Young Doug Among Year's Best Films

"THE TOILERS," a Tiffany Stahl production, directed by Reginald Barker, is one of the best pictures of the year.

BY ROB REEL

Young Doug Fairbanks has grown up.

With "The Toilers" he leaves the delineation of mule flappers behind him and successfully essays an adult role.

It seems only yesterday that Doug Jr. was an apple-cheeked youngster, passing through Chicago in a soul-collegiate suit and a burgundy raccoon coat. Then came his first movie parts, in which he was called upon to play exuberant boys of the jazz age. Now, in "The Toilers," he is a man.

Young Doug Fairbanks Jr.

He is a man of the mine, a man of the earth, a man of the future. He is a man of the mine, a man of the earth, a man of the future. He is a man of the mine, a man of the earth, a man of the future.

He is a man of the mine, a man of the earth, a man of the future. He is a man of the mine, a man of the earth, a man of the future.

of mind of the man who earns his bread with his hands.

Fairbanks, the boy, is cleanlimbed and clean-souled. Of the other two, one is a chronic grouch, the other a greathearted, good-natured brute. Together they are happy in their bachelor quarters, until one Christmas eve a girl comes to them.

Then, as the boy and girl realize their love and plan marriage, the tragedy that is the mine's lot strikes. There is an explosion of gas, a fire, and twelve men are pinned up in the shaft—among them the boy and the grouch. Gradually the dozen humans repeat from the noxious fumes that will kill them, until at last they have erected the last barricade—they can go no farther.

The boy, realizing that he has only one chance in a million of ever getting out alive, rebels, and in a frenzy attacks the barricade, saying they might as well get the agony of death over with at once. But the other men restrain him, and the grouch, who had made fun of life, love, everything, takes him in his arms and tells him not to give up hope—that life is a beautiful thing after all.

Really, this picture is one of the finest things we have seen this year, and is played with such sincerity by young Fairbanks, Huey Clark and the rest that it becomes memorable. As for Joana Fekstein as the girl, we hardly recognized her. Director Reginald Barker has transformed her and she does a magnificent piece of work.

Meredith's "Porcelain Dolls" production, a show of more than ordinary merit. There is a ventriloquist in the cast who presents the most novel act of this kind we have ever seen and one which would be a feature of any big-time vaudeville bill. Another act, presenting two youthful dancers, rope-throwers and contortionists, is also of big-time caliber.

Trade Directory

Herbert D. Seibert & Co., have just issued a motion picture trade directory that is a "Wow". It contains something over a 1000 pages of information compiled in such a manner that one searching for any part of it, can lay his finger on it in a minute. This publication will be a great help to every person in this industry.

"Craig's Wife"

Our hat is off to Pathe and William C. DeMille for their production of "Craig's Wife". It is an excellent picture and should prove a box-office treat where ever shown. This one has a tragic and unhappy ending, but any other, would have been to the detriment of the picture. Clara Beranger made the adaptation.

"Tin Pan Alley"

Looks as if "Tin Pan" alley is going to come in for a lot of glorifying. First Warners came out with the "Jazz Singer", now they have Jolson in "The Singing Fool". United Artists are soon to do "Say It With Music", Harry Richman doing the "saying"; and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer are to make "The Song Writer" with Georgie Price in the lead.

All in Step

No sooner does one producer make a success of a picture of a certain type, than all the rest of the crowd fall in step, grab the idea, and produce one themselves. Now it seems that no less than five studio's have thought of the one type at the same time, for Fox, Universal, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Paramount and Warners are making stories of back stage life.

$500,000 FOR WARNER STUDIO IN BROOKLYN

For the first time in four years the Vitaphone Studio in Brooklyn will soon resume production activities.

The Brooklyn plant which is one of the largest in the east will be opened this fall for the production of Vitaphone talking pictures and extensive alterations are now under way to provide it with the complete equipment necessary to the making of sound films.

Warner Bros. will spend half a million dollars in renovating the building. The improvements will include two enormous Vitaphone stages with the newest type apparatus, sound proof walls and incandescent lights.

He admitted that several of the large companies have been dicker-ing for a lease for some time.

The FBO plans in the new studio, if they have taken it over, will have the cooperation of the RCA experts. Robert Kane who has been making his headquarters at RCA has been merely acting on behalf of Kennedy in getting preliminary pictures synchronized at the 411 Fifth Avenue studio until such time as the new project was ready.

"We got out an injunction in England and the prints were withdrawn immediately, but the damage had been done, as is the case with every other European country." Branstein states that his company offered all the news reels news shots of this fight but that only M-G-M and International News accepted them. "Paramount refused and stole the fight on us and through the exhibition, Europe is almost a dead loss to us".

BUTTE AWARDED PALM FOR FIRE PREVENTION

Butte has one of the finest records of any city in the United States or Canada in the matter of fire prevention in film exchanges and moving picture booths, it is shown in a recent publication of the Film Board of Trade Bulletin. Butte is one of four cities that rated 100 per cent during June, the bulletin shows. There never has been a film fire of any consequence in the city, and not a film blaze of any kind has been recorded in the last four years, according to Fire Chief Fred Martin of Butte. Butte, Albany, Winnipeg and Vancouver were the only cities with a clean slate during June, according to the bulletin.

Universal Buys "When The Devil Was Sick"

Universal has purchased the screen rights to the novel, "When the Devil Was Sick," by E. J. Rath. It appeared originally in Munsey's Magazine.

No announcement has yet been made as to cast and director. It probably will be a Universal Jewel picture for next season.

"HOUSE OF SHAME" GETS FULL CENSOR APPROVAL

Despite any apprehension that might have been felt by a few ex-changemen and exhibitors because of the somewhat sensational title, the second Chesterfield Production "The House of Shame" received a clean bill of health from the National Board of Review and the New York State Board.

Many distributors who held back waiting to see if Chesterfield could follow up their first production "The Adorable Cheat" have recently signed up for the entire season's series.

Incorporations

The Progressive Poster Exchange has been organized in Manhattan to engage in the business of motion picture supplies. It will start with a $10,000 capital.

In South Orange, N. J., the Motion Picture Institute was formed to distribute motion pictures. It will have a capital stock of 1,000 shares of common stock.

In Wilmington, Del., the Uptown Theatre Operating Corporation was formed with 100 shares of common stock.

The Intimate Story of the Unpublished Secrets of the Movies, Past, Present and Future!

MUCH has been written about the movies, but here at last is the book that gives the only authentic version of the origin, growth and development of the movies as told by the pioneers of the industry themselves—men of vision, who early recognized the immense possibilities of the motion picture, nursed it through its cradle days, ventured their all of capital and energy upon its future, and reaped great rewards as the infant grew to a giant. Never before have the intimate secrets of filmdom been told so clearly, yet simply. One by one, men like Will Hays, Adolph Zukor, Jesse L. Lasky, Milton Sills, Sidney Kent, Samuel Katz and a host of other outstanding movie personalities talk as face to face with you, answering practically every important question on how motion pictures are made, sold, and shown.

PICTURE REVIEWS

"THE FIRST KISS"

Paramount.
Direction Rowland V. Lee
Story Tristram Turper
Photographed by Gary Cooper,
Fay Wray, Leslie Fenton, Lane
Chandler.

Contrary to its saccharine title, "The First Kiss" taken from an admirable story by Tristram Turper, is a good picture. It deals primarily with the ambition and sacrifices of a "poor white trash" boy to give his three brothers an education. This he does, even at the cost of his liberty, having become a river pirate to get money for them. This is a decidedly different type of story and is set against a new background—that of the Delaware oyster bed. It is well directed and photographed; and even the terrible facial distortions practised by Miss Wray do not lessen the fact that it is a good picture.

"THE PATRIOT"

Paramount
Directed by Ernst Lubitsch
Camera by Bert Glennon
..... Emil Jannings,
Lewis Stone and Florence Vidor
One of the finest pictures it has ever been our good fortune to see. It is perfect in every detail and reaches the highest point of pantomimic art. Is a story of the early Russian days during the reign of "the mad Czar" Paul I. Emil Jannings is marvelous in the character of Paul.

It is the outstanding characterization of this outstanding character actor. Lewis Stone has the title role of the patriot, and to some, walks away with the picture. Florence Vidor is excellent in her role, as the mistress of Stone. The direction of Lubitsch is superb. Some houses and some localities might not want this one, as it is a little risqué in spots and part of the action might go over their heads.

"CRAIG'S WIFE"

Pathe
Directed by William C. DeMille
Featuring Irene Rich,
Warner Baxter.

Here is one stage play which was not hacked to bits in its transference to the screen. A Pulitzer prize play which had a long run on Broadway and which should please audiences who want intelligent pictures.

The story is a study of the woman whose sole idea of marriage is to obtain security through control, first of her home and everything that is connected with it, and second the subjugation of mere friend husband. Through the woman's own cupidity, a series of events begin the gradual disintegration of her home, until one by one, servants, relatives, friends and husband leave her to the glory of an empty house and empty heart.

The ending of the play and the picture, which is a faithful transcription, is a sad and drab-gray state of affairs which may not please some women and some audiences. But all in all, it is an entertaining lesson, with Irene Rich and Warner Baxter doing expert work.

"OUT OF THE RUINS"

First National
Directed by John Francis Dillon
Featuring Richard Barthelmess and Marion Nixon.

The splendid work of Barthelmess and particularly Nixon will put this picture over to the satisfaction of any audience although for a French War romance, the production hardly measures up to previous versions. Though the ending is happy with the lovers reunited, the climax lacks fire.

Barthelmess, a "Blue Devil" officer while on love in Paris meets his buddy's sister and instantly falls in love—the affair develops but all army leaves are cancelled and he must return—Another suitor is striving for the girl's hand and our hero takes "French Leave" to go back to his sweetheart—after a week of bliss, he is awakened to the enormity of his desertion—returns to the front—is court-martialled, shot, but comes back to Paris in the nick of time to prevent the forced marriage.

"BEWARE OF BLONDES"

Columbia
Directed by George B. Seltz
Featuring Matt Moore,
Roy D'Arcy, Dorothy Revier.

A good cast, plus an interesting mystery story with sufficient suspense to hold the interest of the fans, will please all audiences aside from a few cultured key-city spots with critical clientele.

Matt Moore is chosen to deliver an emerald of fabulous worth to Honolulu—An International gang plots to secure the gem, as does an independent crook, Blonde Mary. The gem is stolen the last night on the boat but a week later, Moore discovers the crooks in the nick of time, and in an interesting and well-developed climax, everything turns out well for the hero, the stone, and the heroine.

While the direction is straightforward and sticks to the beaten path, excellent work by Dorothy Reier, D'Arcy and Moore makes the picture a satisfactory one.

"TWO BROTHERS"

Film Arts Guild—UFA
Featuring Conrad Veidt,
Lil Dagover, Liane Haid

A German production made some years ago, starring Veidt in a dual role; production crude compared with modern standards, and surroundings depressing—Will do for a program filler.

Two brothers are depicted, one a grasping and ruthless financier who drives his enemies to the wall as well as innocent lives and the other a humanitarian who uses money for the betterment of mankind.

The money-made brother revenges himself on a former employer although secretly desiring his daughter—He meets another woman in the meantime and installs her in his home, intending to marry her but jilts the girl. He goes after the first woman and finally marries her but the affair has a tragic outcome.

"THE HOUSE OF SHAME"

Chesterfield
Directed by Burton King
Photographed by M. A. Anderson
Cast Creighton Hale,
Virginia Brown Faire, Lloyd Whitlock.

This looks like a good bet for most any theatre, saying nothing about the exchanges who have bought it. It is a little rough in spots due to some poor direction at times, but as a whole it looks good. It is impossible to guess the story, which we understand was an original by Arthur Hoerle, it has twists you would never expect. The camera work is exceptionally good. With this title to work with, it should be a cinch for any theatre to get the crowd in and once they are in they will be very well pleased.

"FOUR WALLS"

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer
Directed by William Nigh
Camera James Howe
Cast John Gilbert,
Joan Crawford, Carmel Meyers,
Vera Gordon, Louis Natheux.

This rather commonplace story of a crooks regeneration through four years in prison, is lifted out of mediocrity by William Nigh's excellent direction and the fine work done by the entire cast. Of special notice is the original handling of the love scenes—a departure from the usual Gilbert technique and very interesting. The picture drags a little in spots but is redeemed by a very exciting and surprising finish. Put this one on the list of "good entertainment". Joan Crawford as the gangsters "sweetie" does the best work of her screen career and Carmel Meyers, seen for the first time in a "plane Jane" role, also shares acting honors.

Sound Featurettes

"DINNER TIME"

Pathe—Photophone
Paul Terry—Aesop Fable in Sound
This first sound animated cartoon which has found so much favor with fans throughout the world in silent form will add even more adherents with whistles, screeches, howls, voices, bells and comedy effects synchronized perfectly.

This picture is a distinct laugh-hit with the audience all the way through and there are many new and distinct gags. Exhibitors cannot go wrong on this one and any more like it.

"BROADWAY'S FAVORITE"

Vitaphone—Winnie Lightner
A full reel of jazzy, peppy songs, exclusive over the Vitaphone and put over in the inimitable style that only this enthusiastic singer has.

Miss Lightner sings three numbers, all sung from one spot as close as the camera can go to her face. The songs follow each other immediately and her delivery of them helps the laughs.

This subject will go great in top-notch talkie houses where hot Broadway stuff is needed to pep up everything else and where a little risqué tag line endings won't be objected to.

"THOSE HOT TAMALES"

Vitaphone—Billy & Elsa Newell
A very pleasing and rapid-fire clowning pair of songsters and instrumentalists. Billy twangs a mean guitar and has a delicious sense of humor while Elsa's eccentric clowning as Billy's foil tickles the risibilities of the crowd.

They sing several numbers and Elsa's business with a pair of dummy legs, while seated atop a garden wall, will please the kids as well as the grown-ups, although the entire skit is done in Broadway style.

"THE PREDICTION"

Vitaphone—Hugh Herbert & Co.
Directed by Murray Roth
Featuring Hugh Herbert
An excellent and intriguing featurette in sound for talkie houses. Herbert and Otto Lederer dialect will produce lots of laughs.

Wife of a Jewish business man is in love with another chap—the husband is tipped off by the butler that all is not well—attempts to foretell the future with cards—husband visions scene where he surprises lovers and kills them—brought back to reality, wife and husband's friend return from the theatre and husband finds he is the one she really loves.

GAYNOR TO DO "STREET FAIR"

William K. Howard Gets Directorial Assignment with Fox Star

By JOE BLAIR
Hollywood Correspondent

That brilliant young director, William K. Howard has been selected by Winfield R. Sheehan, general manager at Fox's to direct Janet Gaynor in a big special written by Tristram Turper. It will be titled "The Street Fair".

Howard recently finished "The River Pirate" for the same organization and this new assignment is in form of a reward for his unusual ability shown with this production.

Sign Hergesheimer

Joseph Hergesheimer, famous novelist and short story writer, has signed a contract with Samuel Goldwyn to write an original screen story for Ronald Colman on a theme already agreed upon. Production of the Hergesheimer story is expected to begin as soon as Colman's next scheduled vehicle "Condemned to Devil's Island" has been completed, which will probably delay it until next May.

Brabin Gets Prize

Charles Brabin will direct the screen version of "The Bridge of San Luis Rey," the Pulitzer prize novel which was recently purchased by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Production is scheduled to start within a month's time, but no selections for the cast have yet been announced.

Moses in N. Y.

Vivian Moses, head of the Paramount West Coast story department, is coming east to look over the early-season play crop and to confer with publishers on adaptable story material. He will leave Hollywood on Monday.

Florey in New York

Robert Florey, the young impressionistic director recently signed by Paramount, has been sent East by that organization. He is now at the Long Island Studio writing and preparing a series of two reel productions which will be made with sound under his direction.

Nixon for King Lead

Marion Nixon has been selected by Henry King to enact the feminine lead in the Inspiration production "She Goes To War".

Vajda's Brother Working

Victor Voyda, brother of Ernest Vajda, has been selected by B. P. Schulberg to act as associate producer on the first Maurice Chevalier vehicle to be made by Paramount. He will act in the same capacity with the Adolphe Menjou production unit.

Brabin at M-G-M

Charles Brabin the director, recently at First National has been signed to a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer contract. He will direct "The Bridge of San Luis Rey".

STUDIO GOSSIP

Everyone around the Warner plant have a smile a mile long as a result of the wonderful comments being expressed by all who were fortunate enough to see the preview of the new Jolson picture "The Singing Fool". It looks better than "The Jazz Singer".

Newton House 16 year old stunt rider, has been signed by Universal for the leading male role in their serial "The Final Reckoning".

Earle Snell and Gladys Lehman have been assigned the task of preparing the new Reginald Denny story "When the Devil Was Sick" taken from the original by E. J. Rath.

Frank Capra, directly after finishing his best picture "Submarine" for Columbia, has been assigned to direct the Fanny Hurst yarn "It Is To Laugh", which will be brought to the screen under the title of "Younger Generation".

Henry Armetta originally employed by D. W. Griffith for an insignificant role in "The Love Song" has been shifted to another and more important part.

One of the most important supporting roles in Paramount's screen version of W. Somerset Maugham's play, "The Letter," is to be played by Claude King, stage and screen veteran.

Arthur Housman, whose specialty is heavy roles with a comedy angle, has been added to the cast of "Sins of the Fathers", Emil Jannings' next Paramount production. The addition of Housman brings the list of principals in the Jannings picture up to five. Barry Norton, Jean Arthur and Ruth Chatterton will also be seen in support of the German star. Ludwig Berger is directing.

James Kirkwood, who recently returned to Hollywood after a stage tour in Europe, has been signed by Paramount for a role in Charles Rogers' second starring picture, "Just Twenty-One". On the legitimate stage Kirkwood's best known role was the lead in Channing Pollock's "The Fool". Before he went abroad he had been appearing in motion pictures. Besides Kirkwood, the Rogers cast now includes Mary Brian, Chester Conklin and William Austin. Richard Wallace will direct.

Chester Conklin, now definitely established as a dramatic actor as well as a comedian, has just been given a strong supporting role in Clara Bow's next Paramount picture, "Three Week Ends", from an original story by Elinor Glyn. Conklin's first important dramatic part was in "Varsity", the forthcoming college picture which will introduce Charles Rogers to stardom.

The next George Arthur-Karl Dane comedy to be made by M-G-M is to be called "All At Sea". Chuck Reisner will direct, production to start immediately.

The addition of three well-known character actors to the cast of "Soubrette", the back-stage story featuring Nancy Carroll and Richard Arlen, has just been announced by Paramount. The new members of the company are Bert Woodruff, who will act as a stage doorman, Joe Marba, who will be a stage manager, and Danny O'Shea, who will be a small town boy who comes to crash the New York gateway to theatrical fame. The director of the picture is Dorothy Arzner.

Antonio Moreno has been selected to play the lead opposite Billie Dove in her next First National production.

Don Tothoroh, novelist and playwright, has been added to the writing staff at Paramount.

Larry Steers, E. Alyn Warren, Richard Cramer and Fred Esmelton have been added to the Richard Arlen-Nancy Carroll back stage story now being made by Paramount.

Mervyn LeRoy and Tom Geraghty are writing an original story for the screen with the title "Making Whoopee" which will be made into a picture by First National with Le Roy directing.

Dan Keefe, for several years assistant to Rowland V. Lee has been promoted by Paramount. He is now a company business manager.

"Divorce Bound," originally scheduled to begin at once with the return of Florence Vidor to the Paramount studio has been postponed to give the right of way in production to "Unconquered", in which Richard Dix and Miss Vidor will be seen together. With "Moran of the Marines" Dix's present vehicle nearing completion, "Unconquered" should soon be before the cameras at the Paramount plant. Malcolm St. Clair is to direct.

Mary Brian today denied persistent rumors that she is engaged to marry "Bif" Hoffman, captain of the Leland Stanford football team. The presence together of the Paramount player and Hoffman at several parties in the film capitol lead to the report of their engagement. Mary's denial was emphatic.

The entire action of "Beggars of Life", the first dramatic picture using America's half million homeless wanderers for its background, takes place in 48 hours. This story of Hobohemia, which presents Wallace Beery in a dramatic role for the first time in two years, has all its romance and adventure crowded into two days and nights. Richard Arlen and Louise Brooks play important featured roles in "Beggars of Life", which was adapted from the novel by Jim Tully, himself a hobo before he became a noted writer. William Wellman, who directed "Wings", also directed this picture.

"PAIR OF SIXES" TO BE MOVETONED

C. C. Burr - Johnny Hines
Film to Use Stage
Tour Try-out

Predicting a radical change in the present method of film distribution, C. C. Burr, chief of the Burr-Hines Enterprises, at Tec-Art studios, has announced plans for the immediate filming of the first "all-talkie" comedy. The picture starring Johnny Hines in a screen version of "A Pair of Sixes," will be filmed with the same Western Electric system as employed by Fox in Movietone and Warners in Vitaphone.

On the Film

"This will not be a synchronized phonograph record type, which is made after the picture is completed and an attempt made to synchronize music and sound effect with the picture," said Burr.

"We expect the picture to be ready for release in the big theatres now equipped with Vitaphone and Movietone three or four months before any other comedy of its kind is ready for the market."

Stage Tour

It is planned to make the moving picture in the usual fashion and then rehearse the players during the last weeks of the picture. The company will then be taken on a stage tour for several weeks during which time the laughs will be "clocked" and the "spacing" perfected.

"The company will then be brought back and come in on the sound stage and go right through with the sound picture, with the play in charge of an experienced and successful stage director," said Burr. "He will be imported, probably from New York. The straight motion picture will be in charge of a moving picture director."

Nagel and Collyer In

Fox-Cannon Film

Conrad Nagel has been signed by Fox Films to play the lead with June Collyer in "A Slice of Life", which Ray Cannon wrote and will direct. Sharon Lynn also will have an important part in this production.

Cannon, who has been best known as a scenario writer, was signed by Fox officials after they had seen his personally produced, "Life's Like That". Cannon will be author, director, and supervisor for his new production.

Use Park Central

for Location Scenes

Frank R. Abrams, who is making a series of fashion reels for showing on the Keith Circuit and to be seen at the different showings of the Garment Retailers of America, used the Arabian Room at the Park Central yesterday, for one of his interiors.

Beauties from both the Ziegfeld and Carroll shows were used as models.

FIVE CENTS

OBSERVATIONS

Reaction

"The Jazz Singer" seemed to prove to a lot of producers that talking pictures were the thing. Coming at a time when business was at a low ebb in most of the theatres, this picture made money. Consequently the sound hysteria started on the basis, "business is bad and this is going to save us". But we are afraid if many more talkies of the present calibre are released, the reaction, instead of saving them, will murder them.

Squawkies

We hope that the prophesy made in this column some time ago about talking pictures and their effect on cinema progress will not come true. It would mean a tremendous loss of money, time, effort and what not. But from samples we have seen, even though this departure is still in its infancy, the future, as far as adult minds are concerned, looks pretty black.

Prophesy

We said at that time that "talkies would set the industry back fifteen years". Now, we did not have reference to the almost perfect state which photography and production itself had reached to date. We were considering talkies in their relation to silent drama as ENTERTAINMENT—real box office entertainment.

Appalling

The most appalling and discouraging thing about talkies is the grade of their dialogue. It has taken years to reach the point where movie subtitles (with some exceptions) make good reading. Would one of the old flickers full of "Come the Dawn" and "That Night" bring in any shekles today? Yet curiosity (and we believe that is all) is driving thousands to "see and hear" pictures of little better calibre. They are treated to dialogue infantile enough to make a child of ten snicker and not even morons would come back for more.

If They Stay

If talking pictures are to stay for good, the dialogue, which is all important, must surely come up to the standard to which the public has been educated. You can't expect them to go on paying out good money just to hear a lot of imbecilic chatter. Curiosity is paying the production costs now but only entertainment will bring in the dough later on.

European Gov'ts. Strive for Opening Wedge in American Monopoly

PARIS—Europe's motion picture industry has had an eventful year. Though stabilization is not yet effected there are unmistakable signs of a new vitality in European studios. Such restrictions exist either by legislation or by ministerial decree in Great Britain, France, Germany, Austria, Italy and Hungary. Even the little Duchy of Luxembourg is Exhibitor leaders praised the attitude of the N. Y. Union for its liberal consideration of the difficulties in which most of the independent houses find themselves in this year, and will manifest their appreciation in future dealings with the Union.

It is not generally known, but claimed to be a fact, that the New York Union has been instrumental in aiding the half-dozen or so independent theatres in obtaining talking-picture equipment from the big manufacturers.

Sennett Releasing 40 Sound Comedies Through Pathe Again

Tests Audience Reaction to Talkies

—Predicts Popularity of New 2-Reelers

Mack Sennett Saturday denied in a most definite manner that the Bristolphone process would be used by him in making his future program of 2-reel sound comedies. "Whoever circulated such a report is crazy," said Sennett.

The producer has definitely decided to release his new program through Pathe, and has also definitely decided on the sound process to be used, but will not divulge it at this time. The Photophone process seems to be the logical choice for Sennett. He is planning approximately 40 two-reel sound comedies, production to be at his studios in California and to commence about October 1st.

Sennett has been studying audience reaction to sound pictures in New York and finds that people are more deeply engrossed and thrilled in such pictures as "The Terror" than they would be at a legitimate mystery play. He also feels that sound shorts with singing or talking artists are not as well done as they would be on ordinary photograph records or the radio and prefers listening to such artists outside the theatre.

Naturally, Sennett feels that the two-reel comedy with sound effects will replace all other short entertainment on the exhibitor's program in the future, because in the last analysis motion pictures must make up the meat of his program. Sound comedies will be made first, with an eye to a good story, second a good motion picture and third, the adding of the dialogue and sound effects.

Foreign Quotas Menace

U. S. Commerce

agitating for its film quota and it is expected that before the close of 1928 similar restrictive legislation will be adopted by other European nations.

What, then, is the film quota, whose small shadow is already lengthening in the path of the world's commerce? And why was it enacted?

American capitalists with large investments in the motion picture industry know that the quota, whose severity is in ratio to the weakness of a nation's film industry, is that nation's effort to protect its own industry and incidentally to widen its export market. The small investor—perhaps a little school teacher on the prairie—reading with pardonable pride of the popularity of the American movie abroad, tucks the little stock certificate deeper into the old blue tea pot and smiles contentedly at the thought of Ben Hur "turning em away" within a stone's throw of Madeleine; or of Charlie Chaplin "doing his stuff" on the Avenue Wagram. Has she not a tiny share in a magic toy that is entertaining the world?

The Forced Export Plan

American business men reading casually of the film quotas in Europe either dismiss the paragraph as less important than the latest local prohibition raid or political contest in their own wards; or, if they have sat through a particularly banal film in the neighborhood "movie," mutter savagely, "Serves 'em right" and turn to an item that touches their own business.

Yet, whatever the business—though it be antipodal to the glamorous studios of Hollywood—it is menaced by the film quotas of Europe, which have made an opening wedge into the dykes of American commerce. As enacted in France—which country leads the vanguard in opposition to the American movie—the film quota represented the first time in the history of commerce that any government ever attempted by internal legislation to force exports.

Though Great Britain and Germany adopted a film quota before France passed her restrictive motion picture legislation, it was France who touched the quick of European picture sentiment in a decree signed by the president of the republic and all its ministers on February 18th. This decree was finally amended through the efforts of Will H. Hays, to abandon forced exports and the granting of seven licenses to import foreign productions, for every French film produced, might go to any one country.

German Most Profitable

While the German market is the most profitable to the American movie, it is conservatively estimated that the yield from the French market during 1927 was $1,000,000. In 1927 approximately 70,000,000 feet of American motion pictures were sent to Europe, against 63,000,000 feet in 1926. This export trade has evolved from a very definite interest of European audiences in the American film.

Europe's market has been painstakingly developed. The motion picture is handled less on a price basis than any other commodity in Europe. American feature films are not sold but rented. Rentals are graded according to the country and the conditions of its amusements market. These fluctuate with political conditions, weather, crops and a mercurial interest in certain stars or current events. There is a wide divergence of opinion among film experts regarding rental figures for various localities.

It is obvious that merchandising of this character requires intensive sales planning and distributing effort.

Film quotas, disrupting a system so laboriously built, have minimized the profits and increased the difficulties of operating in the European market. To alleviate the hardships thus imposed, and for mutual benefit, it is expected that important amalgamations will be made this year by American companies operating in Great Britain and Austria. This will promote efficiency in merchandising, though it may react adversely on the small producer who is being eliminated gradually from the competition.

Hollywood Previews

"THE WOMAN DISPUTED"

United Artists

Directed by Henry King
Featuring Norma Talmadge, Gilbert Rowland

Picture not a great one, but up to United Artists' standard. Norma Talmadge demonstrates again her first-rate ability, as does rest of the cast.

Austrian war story. A war waif is rescued from imprisonment by two Russian and Austrian officers who appoint themselves her guardian. They become her admirers and eventually rivals for her heart. The Great war comes and the two officers part, enemies. The Russian achieves revenge when he captures the Austrian town and forces the girl to yield herself to save the occupants of the town—The Austrian lover finally recognizes her great sacrifice and all is once more well between them.

With King's direction, Talmadge's acting and Marsh's photography there is a sufficient combination for box-office success.

"WATER FRONT"

First National

Directed by William A. Seiter
Featuring Dorothy Mackaill, Jack Mulhall

This comedy one of the best pictures on the current First National program. A sea story with Mulhall performing a nautical knock-out and Mackaill doing well as a light-hearted sailor's sweetheart. Chalk this one up for Seiter.

The daughter of a sea-skipper dreams of life on the bounding-main. The hero a sailor on her father's ship comes ashore and falls in love with her. Her father hates the sea and sailors in particular and warns his daughter against them—They do just the opposite with the skipper finally separating them but being won over to the marriage if they agree to live on a farm—the girl dissents and she is put through all the disagreeableness of sea life to her disgust and she agrees to the farm life.

"THE LITTLE WILD CAT"

Warner Brothers

Directed by Ray Enright
Featuring Audrey Ferris

A weak picture as far as plot is concerned. The director has done capably with the material on hand and makes his players give everything they have. May go over with non-critical audiences.

Story of a Kentucky Colonel who dislikes aviators but is finally tricked into presenting an airport to his city to save the family honor when exposed in a hotel.

Ferris, Fawcett, Hallam Cooley and James T. Murray as well as Doris Dawson do good work.

Pathe News Cameraman

Scoops Subway Wreck

Dave Oliver, a Pathe News cameraman, was an eye-witness of the subway disaster near Times Square, Friday night and filmed the first scenes of the big accident which was shown on Broadway two hours later. Prints were immediately dispatched by air mail to all parts of the country.

"THE NIGHT WATCH"

First National

Directed by Alexander Korda
Featuring Billie Dove

One of Dove's finest pictures, skillfully directed and well photographed—suitable for all theatre-goers and ready-made for Navy Department exploitation tie-ups.

This is a war picture with a naval background. The wife of a Naval Captain is neglected by her husband through press of duties and she falls a prey for a new lover. The rivalry for her love is followed all the way through a big naval battle.

"NAME THE WOMAN"

Columbia

Directed by Erle C. Kenton
Featuring Gaston Glass, Anita Stewart, Julianne Johnstone, Huntley Gordon

A splendid piece of dramatic mystery that will entertain all audiences who like to do their own thinking and solve their own mysteries. Well directed and has an imposing cast. Will hold attention all the way through.

A masked woman comes into court to testify in behalf of an innocent man accused of murder. A man is killed at a ball and a young libertine is accused of the murder. He refuses to tell the name of the woman who knows he is innocent and can clear him. Suffice to say that all comes out well in the end.

"THE HAWK'S NEST"

First National

Directed by Benjamin Christianson
Featuring Milton Sills, Doris Kenyon, Montague Love

Should entertain average audiences in small theatres and where Sills is a drawing card should be a good draw. Story is far-fetched but has a good typical Sills fight to redeem it.

Underworld story in Chinatown setting. Tough of the underworld fights for his dance-hall girl.

"MODERN MOTHERS"

Columbia

Directed by Phil Rosen
Featuring Helene Chadwick, Doug Fairbanks, Jr.

A sophisticated theme which some audiences may find trite, but picture suitably produced and will do well on double-bill.

Shall a woman of 4 marry a youth of 20? A Parisian actress has so many lovers she cannot keep track of them. She visits America to see her daughter left in the care of a sister. Her fame precedes her and she is ostracized—the daughter does not suspect and enlists her mother's aid in having a play produced. The playwright falls in love with the actress but she spurns him and mother and daughter are re-united.

Logan Faces Bigamy

LOS ANGELES—Miss Jacqueline Logan who married a broker Harry Winston in Tia Juana, faces a charge of bigamy, if she returns to live in California, Prosecutor Forrest Murray declares.

The actress received an interlocutory divorce decree in March 1928 which does not become final until next year.

WARNER BROS. PICTURES, Inc. NOT FOR SALE!

Do not be misled by what salesmen for other companies may tell you! Our Product will only be sold through our own sales organization.

WE HAVE felt greatly flattered by the many reports that have filled the press regarding the sale of Warner Bros. and Vitaphone, Inc. to other organizations.

All this has emphasized Warner Bros. outstanding leadership. For it is obvious that people do not seek to buy failures.

However we feel that this institution is much more than a personal business. You have had a vital part in creating Warner Bros. success. And this we recognize as an obligation not to be lightly cast aside.

As we did not fail you in the days of struggle, we WILL NOT fail you in the days of success. Therefore to all who are in any way concerned, we wish to say emphatically and publicly—

LE BARON FORMS FBO STOCK CO.

Recruiting Big Stage Stars with Screen Personality

By JOE BLAIR
Hollywood Correspondent

A definite and permanent company of stock players, to appear exclusively in FBO Talkers is one of the plans now under consideration by William Le Baron, Vice-president in charge of production, at Hollywood.

Mr. Le Baron discussed this plan with FBO New York executives. He believes, in forming such a company, he will not only avoid the griefs of other companies in getting competent players and training new material, but that these players with each succeeding talker production will register with ever-increasing effectiveness and popularity in successive productions.

Mr. Le Baron's plan calls for stage stars who have screen personality which will register with equal effectiveness whether the film goes out to the present limited number of those exhibitors already equipped for sound, or the vast majority of theatres as yet unprepared for talking pictures.

Jane Winton with Fox

Coast reports have Fox signing Jane Winton on a long term contract for talking pictures. Miss Winton had a great amount of stage experience before entering the "silent drama".

Pathe Borrows Herbert

Pathe have borrowed F. Hugh Herbert, Paramount scenarist to write the original story and continuity for "Noisy Neighbors". It is a story of a New York gangster who moves his family to Virginia, thereby getting the "goats" of the Virginia blue-bloods. Production will start early in September.

Pathe Starts Three

August production schedule at Pathe includes "The Spieler," "Office Scandal" and "Geraldine." "Ned McCobb's Daughter," now in work, will be completed about the same time these three new productions are ready for the camera. "Captain Swagger," "Sal of Singapore," "Marked Money" and "Annapolis" are being edited.

Foreign Market 30%

Europe's market is important to the American motion picture industry because 30% of the total revenue from American film showings comes from abroad. The costly production standards of American studios is based on a world market for the completed film. In several notable instances the home market repaid only the actual cost of production and exploitation. Profits accrued only from subsequent releases in foreign markets.

Change "Soubrette"

"Soubrette" has been abandoned by Paramount as a title for the Richard Arlen-Nancy Carroll back-stage story now nearing completion at the studios. "Manhattan Cocktail" is the final selection.

STUDIO GOSSIP

Pathe's production of "The Office Scandal" goes in production today with Eddie Griffith directing and Phyllis Haver in the lead. It is an original by Adelaide Heilbron.

First National starts production of their first sound picture "Changling" September 3rd. George Fitzmaurice will direct with Dorothy Mackaill the star.

Courad Nagel and June Collyer have been assigned the leads in the Fox production "A Slice of Life". Ray Cannon, their new director find, will write and direct the production.

Kenneth Thomson has been signed by Columbia for a leading role in "The Street of Illusion".

The Dick Barthelmess picture "Scarlet Seas" will go into production at First National today with John Francis Dillon directing. Loretta Young will play opposite the star.

We are glad to see Robert Vignola back with a megaphone in his hand. Bob takes an assignment when he feels in the mood. He has plenty, consequently does not have to worry. He picks his shots and his next one will be at FBO.

Henry Lehrman will direct "Nobody's Children" for Fox.

FBO have signed Ethelyn Claire and Hugh Trevor for the leads in "Hey, Rube". George B. Seitz will direct.

Lena Basquette is leaving for New York for the New York opening of "The Godless Girl" at the Gaiety Theatre, Aug. 31st.

Harold Waldridge, New York stage comedian, is the first player selected for the cast of "Nize Baby," the adaptation of Milt Gross's best-seller which Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer will transfer to the screen. Waldridge, who played in "Polly Preferred," and "Love 'em and Leave 'em," was selected jointly by Gross and Harry Rapf, M-G-M executive, as an ideal choice for the part of Looy Dot Dope, and left a Broadway production which was in rehearsal to join the film unit.

Lionel Barrymore, who is now playing a featured part in "Alias Jimmy Valentine" at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio, has signed a new long-term contract with that company. Barrymore has played a wide variety of character roles during the past year.

Nick Grinde has been selected by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer to direct "Perfecto," Gouveneur Morris's story of the tropics in which Tim McCoy will be starred on completion of his next two productions, "Humming Wires" and "Sioux Blood". One of Morris's stories, "The Penalty," was a great Lon Chaney success a number of years ago. Grinde has directed McCoy in three pictures.

Talmadge to Remake

"The Sign on the Door"

Norma Talmadge is to remake the Channing Pollock story, "The Sign on the Door" for United Artists release. It was originally made for First National. Gilbert Rowland, no doubt, will have the male lead.

"Spangles"

All the glamour and glitter of the sawdust ring will be featured in British Filmcraft's next big production "Spangles", a thrilling drama of the Circus, which goes into production next week under the direction of George Banfield.

Lester Cohen Signs

Lester Cohen, author of "The Great Bear" and "Sweepings" has renewed his writing contract with Paramount. He is now at work on an original story for Esther Ralston.

On that day at the Waldorf, a special attraction will be the showing of a feature for the first time of Col. Lindbergh's exploits. The film was compiled by the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America under the direction of Will H. Hays.

Griffith's "The Divine Lady", has just been signed to a long term contract, it was announced by First National today. He is now appearing in "Outcast," in which he plays one of the supporting roles. Miss Griffith is starred.

Ford is formerly from New York where he played with various musical shows as a chorus-boy. Recently he hitch-hiked to Hollywood, eventually landing a "bit" in "The Divine Lady."

PARAMOUNT USING OWN SOUND STARS

With all this sound mania and companies rushing to the stage for players and names, Paramount has not scratched one name from their list of players with the possible exception of Pola Negri.

Players whose contracts have been renewed in the past quarter of a year include such names as George Bancroft, who was signed today, Emil Jannings, Mary Brian, Louise Brooks, Nancy Carroll, William Austin, Chester Conklin, Neil Hamilton, Arnold Kent, also signed today. Jack Loden and William Powell.

Members of their contract list who have been signed since the rage of sound pictures are Jean Arthur, Baclonova, Maurice Chevalier, John Cromwell, Paul Guerizman, Phillips R. Holmes, John Loder and Jack Oakie.

Baclonova, Chavalier, Guertzman, and Loder are all Continental with the exception of Loder, who is British. The last three mentioned were signed by Jesse L. Lasky on his recent European tour.

Chevalier, well known upon the European stage, will be used for sound pictures to a very great extent, according to Lasky. He is soon to start in a production in which he sings both in English and in French Guertzman, a youngster, is being given odd jobs around the studio to acquaint himself with motion picture methods. He is also being given four hours of schooling daily by the studio English instructor. Loder, who arrived in Hollywood last week, is a former British cavalry officer who will be used as a leading man.

Vignola at FBO

FBO have signed Robert Vignola to direct "Tropic Madness" for FBO. Leatrice Joy will be the star. Lena Malena is also in the cast.

FIVE CENTS

OBSERVATIONS

Reports

They are coming so fast, both silent and sound, one goes "goofy" trying to trace them down. It was bad enough when we just had the silent pictures to deal with, but with the addition of "talkies" its getting beyond all control.

Whiteman

We spent most of yesterday trying to run down the coast report that Fox had signed Paul Whiteman and his band for a Movietone. Nobody would say "yes" nor did they say "no". Not even a bit of encouragement. But things, that is announcements, are going to begin to pop over at Fox's soon and the list will represent an excellent Who's Who of the theatre. They do things very quietly over on Tenth Ave. Too quiet for our pleasure.

Cohan

We had not finished on Whiteman before a report came in that Warner's had bought the right to the George M. Cohan musical, "The Merry Malones" and that George M. himself would go to the coast to act one of the leading roles and supervise the Vitaphone record of this play. Harry Warner said "no" to this one, but that does not make it so. H. M. has the denying habit now. Its probably a very beneficial habit.

First National-Warner

And now we have the story of Warner's buying First National. Reads and listens good. Both organizations receiving finances from either the same source or sources that are extremely friendly. However, until some deal is positively announced we are going to stick to our yarn that Paramount exchanges will house the Warner product. If this story goes against us, we will be shown up as about the worst "mug" in this industry. If it turns out as we have, positively, printed..... well, that's another story.

Barthelmess

Coast reports have Dick Barthelmess going to Paramount to do "An American Tragedy". There is no one the screen, or off of it, who is so perfectly cast for so important a role. We understand Dick's First National contract is up soon.

WILKERSON

If Tex Rickard could have been around the N. Y. First National exchange Friday, he would have grabbed "One Round Levy" for his heavyweight eliminations, as a result of his one round, one-punch knockout of Louis Goldberg, booker of the M & S Circuit. We understand that First National is considering sending Jules Levy (beg pardon, "One Round Levy") into the Chicago territory to dictate rentals to some unruly exhibitors.

"AIR CIRCUS" WITH DIALOGUE SEPT. 1

The first Movietone feature with dialogue to be released by any company, "The Air Circus", will be presented by William Fox at the Gaiety Theatre for an extended run beginning next Saturday afternoon, September 1.

In this production which supplants "Lost in the Arctic" Louise Dresser, David Rollins, Sue Carol and Arthur Lake all speak their lines.

Joseph M. Schenck, John W. Conisidine, Jr., and Gerrit Lloyd, all United Artists production executives are leaving on the Century today for Hollywood, to put into production several new U. A. productions, among them "The Night Stick" and "Lummox".

WARNERS PAY $7,000 FOR WINTER GARDEN

A $3.30 top will probably prevail at the Winter Garden which Warner Brothers have taken over on a long-term lease approximating $7,000 rent per week, when Al Jolson's "The Singing Fool" open there about the 15th of September.

This rental will be the highest ever paid for a Broadway theatre. The house seats approximately 1,800 and with capacity audiences should gross between $50,000 and $60,000 per week for the first few months.

SAM ZIERLER HANDLES "U" SOUND DISTRIBUTION

HOLLYWOOD—Along with the resignation of Samuel Zierler, as president of Excellent Pictures Corp., comes the rumor that Zierler has been engaged by Carl Laemmle, president of Universal for an important executive position at the New York home office, in connection with the distribution of sound pictures.

Zierler was formerly with Universal and served in the capacity of manager of the Big U exchange in New York. He started with Universal as a poster boy in the old 23rd Street office.

Herman Starr, Warner Executive has arrived in England with a print of "Noah's Ark" for trade screening. The picture is being heavily advertised on the continent.

CONTROL BUYING

One of the biggest theatre pools ever formed in Greater New York is reported to have taken place last week, embracing theatres in the lower East Side and upper Harlem, operated by the Loew Circuit, Mayer & Schneider and Blinderman & Steiner. 26 theatres are involved, 12 of them situated downtown and 14 uptown. Nicholas M. Schenck stated yesterday that contrary to the report, it is positively not so, and they are not making any deals with anybody. Nevertheless, the deal has gone through, according to reliable informants.

Mayer & Schneider will head the combination and operate the pool with Louis Goldberg, present M & S booker doing the booking for the (Continued on page 2)

FOX FORCED TO FILE $1,000,000 POLI BOND

The filing of a $1,000,000 bond by the Fox Theatre Corporation with the Superior Court in Hartford, Connecticut, was necessary last week before Fox could finally claim full title and operation of the Poli chain.

The bond was necessary to protect the claims of the Hancock Co., Inc., of N. Y. which slapped a $1,000,000 attachment on five Poli houses, in lieu of commissions owed in finding purchasers of the chain for Poli and which offers he rejected.

RCA DEAL CLOSED FOR MOSS POOL FINANCING

LATEST COLLEEN MOORE BOOKED IN PARAMOUNT

Colleen Moore's latest First National picture "Heart to Heart" is to have its New York premier at the Paramount Theatre starting September 8th.

This is a comedy of a little Italian Princess who returns to her native town in the United States and there meets her former sweetheart. Mary Astor and Lloyd Hughes are in the cast.

Actual closing of the deal between the RCA Photophone Corporation and a group of New York independent theatre owners, headed by B. S. Moss, whereby RCA in return for securing a great number of theatre outlets in New York on Photophone productions, will advance up to $3,000,000 in financing the Moss Pool, was yesterday reported.

The I.M.P.E.A. last week issued a denial that they had approached the RCA people with any financing proposition, but this latest report would tend to clarify the situation and answer (Continued on page 4)

Coincident with this appointment, Universal has received its first Sound short novelty from Universal City. It is entitled "The Globe Trotter" and is listed as a Universal Vaudeville Novelty.

Singer has been with the Laemmle organization almost twenty years. He has been Short Subject's Manager, and in other executive positions.

BALTIMORE—The action of the Valencia Theatre here in reducing admission prices in half and charging 35c despite the installation of Movietone apparatus and adoption of talking-picture policy has caused a storm of protest by other theatre owners.

The Loew Circuit which operates the Valencia has given no reason for its change in policy.

The theatres involved are Loew's Delancey, Canal, Commodore and Avenue B. M & S, Florence, Clinton, Mt. Morris, Hollywood, New Douglas, New Delancey, Roosevelt, Odeon, New Law and the B & S Cosmo, Stadium, Regun, Jewel, Sunshine, Mecca, Harlem Grand, New 125th Street Harlem 5th Avenue, Ruby, Palace and Palastine.

The Loew Delancey has been a gold-mine since its inception; the Avenue B is doing a fair business but the Canal and Commodore have been losing a lot of money. The other chain houses in this pool have likewise been faced with poor business, due to competitive bidding and the fact that the downtown neighborhood is not what it once used to be, caused by the addition of new houses to the territory which means over-seating, and by the migrating of the East Side's population to other sections of the city.

Consequently this deal was the logical solution to a perplexing problem and was bound to come. The combine will now have a central buying control and be in a position to dictate prices if it so wishes.

"Speed Classic" Ready

Within the week Excellent Pictures Corporation will ship to its franchise-holders prints on "The Speed Classic".

"The Speed Classic" is a picturized adaptation of the story, "They're Off" and comes near to fitting in the comedy class.

Promote Golden

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer have promoted George Golden, former assistant director to King Vidor, to the role of director. He is making "Honeymoon". Polly Moran, Harry Gibbon and the dog "Flash" are in the cast.

2-R Christ Film

Protecto Films, Inc., have obtained rights to a two-reel version of life in the Bavarian Alps where the Passion Players of Oberammergau appear in their religious play every year.

Anton Lang, the "Christus" is shown as well as other of the principal players, and traditional folk dances and costumes. The film may be synchronized.

More Records for "Lilac Time"

Three new records have been established by the First National production of "Lilac Time". At the Stillman Theatre in Cleveland the picture broke every known record for a single week's run and grossed more business in one week than a First National picture ever did in two weeks.

At the Buffalo Theatre, Buffalo, the house shattered all existing Saturday and Sunday records, the first two days of the run of the picture. The same condition holds true with the past Saturday and Sunday in Dallas.

Pathe has purchased all minority stockholders' interests in the Producers International Corporation and the business of that company and the Pathe export department will be merged in Pathe International Corporation, a one hundred percent subsidiary of Pathe Exchange, Inc., announces Colvin W. Brown, Executive Vice President.

"The Producers International Corporation brings to this new Pathe organization sixteen foreign offices in England, Germany, France, Czechoslovakia, Belgium, Switzerland, Sweden and Mexico; eight exchanges in Great Britain and distributor affiliations in practically every country of the world including Russia," says Brown.

William Vogel, who established and directed the enterprise, which has been handling the foreign sales of Pathe features, remains with the company as Vice President and General Manager. Under the consolidation, features and short subjects will continue to be handled by separate departments. Arthur Rousseau, who has managed the Pathe Export Department for twelve years, continues with the company as Vice President.

Vogel leaves for abroad immediately in the interests of the organization. Paris will be his first stop and his itinerary includes Berlin, Stockholm, Copenhagen, Prague, Brussels, Madrid, Rome, Milan and London.

The entire personnel of the New York headquarters of Producers International Corporation now located at 130 West 46th Street will move to the Pathe Building at 35 West 45th Street where the main offices of Pathe International Corporation will be established.

$1.00 TOP FOR WOODS VOCAFILM PLAYS

RCA Engineers on Way to Coast to Aid Le Baron- Von Stroheim

By JOE BLAIR
Hollywood Correspondent

The New York office of Gloria Swanson has announced that a deal has just been concluded whereby the Radio Corporation of America will furnish the sound for her United Artists production "Queen Kelly" soon to go into production. It will not be an all-talkie, but will have several talking sequences in it.

William LeBaron, responsible for the production management of "Queen Kelly", conferred last week with United Artists officials in New York and then departed for Hollywood, where production of the film will be begun on September 3rd. Radio Corporation engineers accompanied him.

Mr. LeBaron announced that Walter Byron, Tully Marshall, Maude George and Albert Conti have been signed to support Miss Swanson in this Erich von Stroheim story, which the maker of "Greed", "The Merry Widow" and "The Wedding March" will direct. It is planned to have "Queen Kelly" completed by December 15th, when three negatives will be delivered to United Artists; one silent negative for America, one silent negative for foreign countries, and one sound negative for America.

The climatic scene in the final reel will witness a combination of voice, orchestral music, sound effects and visual spectacle.

Gilbert to Leave M-G-M?

The contract between John Gilbert and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer expires around the first of the year and Gilbert is reported to have said that "it would not be renewed".

It is known that several producers are angling for the services of this star, even at this early date.

J. Robert Rubin, in charge of production at the New York office, on being asked about the contract said, "it is not fair for you to ask me such a question, why should we disclose when his contract is up and give our competitors a chance to bid for his services".

Mrs. Reid to Direct

Mrs. Wallace Reid will soon become our third feminine director joining the ranks of Lois Weber and Dorothy Arzner. Her first picture will be "Linda" and Helen Foster will have the lead.

Goulding's Original

Edmund Goulding has written an original for M-G-M soon to be produced. It is to be known as "Broadway Melody" and is a story of New York night and back stage life.

Censors Talkies

HOUSTON — Mrs. T. H. Eggert, City Censor of this city, has decided to exercise her authority over sound sequences in pictures as well as over silent pictures.

STUDIO GOSSIP

Al St. John the comic, has been engaged by Henery King to enact the leading comic role in "She Goes to War".

Paul Bern is leaving Hollywood in about two weeks to meet Joseph P. Kennedy on his return from Europe.

The featured players for Paramount's "Buresque" have finally been decided on. Jack Oakie and Nancy Carroll will have the leads.

Ralph Block, production supervisor at Pathe's announced that the next Phyllis Haver picture will be "The Shady Lady" instead of "The Office Scandal". The later production will be done later. Edward Griffith will direct from the original story of Jack Jungmeyer.

Louise Dresser has decided she needs a vacation. Together with Mr. and Mrs. William Courtney, she will journey to New York in the next few days.

Doris Anderson is the author of the next Fay Wray-Gary Cooper picture, "Rodeo Romance". This little girl is pretty enough to be starring in pictures instead of writing them.

Gladys McConnell has been chosen to play the lead in the ten episode serial to be made by Pathe, "The Tiger's Shadow".

Aileen Pringle has been added to the cast of "Adrienne Lacouvereur" the M-G-M picture soon to go into production.

John Davidson and Eddie Foy, Jr., have been signed for leading roles in "Queen of the Night Clubs" to be made by Warner's with Texas Guinan in the lead. Roy Del Ruth will direct.

wer the queries of the exhibitor leaders who were demanding a show-down this week on assurances that the pool would produce some action before the first of September.

Despite the further denials of Herbert Ebenstein, I.M.P.E.A. secretary that Kuhn Loeb & Company had been approached with a proposition of mortgage financing, the Theatre Factors, Inc. it is more likely than ever that this part of the B. S. Moss pool is going through and will mean that independent exhibitors hereabouts will have little to worry about as far as money obligations go, if the combine is consummated.

P-F-L Signs Florey

Robert Florey, who gained quite a bit of publicity on the strength of his statement that he had made a picture at a total negative cost of $97.00, has been signed by Paramount to write and direct.

TIFFANY-STAHl SIGN FOR PHOTOPHONE

Tiffany-Stahl Productions yesterday announced the signing of contracts with RCA Photophone for the synchronization of their product. It is understood that RCA guarantees interchangeability and ability to play Photophone over Vitaphone and Movietone apparatus.

Tiffany-Stahl now has in the course of synchronization two of their ten special productions, "The Toilers", a Reginald Barker Special and "The Cavalier", to be known as Tiffany Tone Productions with scores and effects by RCA Photophone. These are to be ready for distribution by September 15th.

The scoring of "The Toilers" has been completed under the direction of Dr. Hugo Reisenfeld who has given this great mine epic an exceptional musical accompaniment. Another famous Maestro is also completing the scoring of "The Cavalier".

In addition to the synchronization of the ten special productions the company will also produce with sound ten Tiffany Color Symphonies the first of short subjects to be synchronized in natural colors.

Depinet Lines up

3 Mackaill-Mulhalls

Ned E. Depinet, general sales manager of First National Pictures announces a new line up on the Dorothy Mackaill and Jack Mulhall pictures for the President Group of releases for 1928-29.

The two players will be teamed in three productions "Waterfront," which William A. Seiter has just completed, "Children of the Ritz", from Cornell Woolrich's prize-winning novel, and "Two Weeks Off", from the play by Kenyon Nicholson and Thomas Borrows.

Miss Mackaill will be featured alone in "The Girl in the Glass Cage", from the novel by George Kibbe Turner, and Mulhall will be featured alone in "Ritzzy Rosie" from the short story by Charles Beahan and Garrett Fort.

BIG GROSSES ON BROADWAY

$51,400. "Four Walls" with John Gilbert, at the Capitol took in $76,377.25 and exceeded Paramount's "The First Kiss" which did $75,900. The other winner and best showing of the week was the second week of "Four Sons" at the Roxy which did $130,917.50.

Warner Bros. "The Terror" in its second week did $21,177.26; "White Shadows" at the Astor picked up with $20,044.75; "The Perfect Crime" in its 3rd week at the Rivoli did $18,900 and "Lilac Time" at the Central also did well with $16,116.75.

"Wings" continues strong with $14,000; "Red Dance" at the Globe did $8,926; "Lost in the Arctic" at the Gaiety, $5,804 and "Two Brothers" at the Cameo, $5,170.

Paramount Directors Win Lasky Gold and Silver Medals

Symbolizing their directorial achievements in producing the outstanding pictures of the 1927 season at the Paramount theater in New York, medals of honor in gold and silver were awarded to Josef von Sternberg and Clarence Badger today.

Jesse L. Lasky, first vice president in charge of production, personally made the presentations on behalf of the Paramount Famous Lasky corporation.

Awarded for 'Underworld'

Von Sternberg's medallion cast in solid gold, memorializes the selection of his production, "Underworld" as the most successful picture shown at the Paramount theater during the 1927 season.

Badger's medal, of pure silver, is a token of the success of "It" which ranked second in the 1927 tabulation, made by the judges, Jesse L. Lasky, S. R. Kent, general manager of the corporation, and Sam Katz, president of Publix theaters.

M-G-M SIGNS WILLARD MACK FOR PRODUCTION

Willard Mack, playwright has been signed by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Corporation to assist in the supervision of talking motion pictures. The author and producer will leave for Hollywood not later than October 1st to take up his production duties.

It is also probable that one of Mr. Mack's plays, "A Free Soul" will be made by M-G-M as a talkie under Mack's direction.

U. A. Buys Russ Film

Joseph M. Schenck has brought back for United Artists a Russian film, "The Tsar and the Poet" an episode in the life of the Russian national poet, Pushkin, which will be reedited and recut to suit American audiences.

Blumenstock Hits One in "Home James"

In addition to having titled some 35 pictures in the past year, Mort Blumenstock, formerly with the home office of First National is blossoming out as a scenarist.

His original screen story for Laura La Plante on the Universal program, "Home James" has been completed and is said to be one of the best vehicles Miss Plante has had to date.

Mort has titled over 20 pictures for Columbia; 12 for First National and several for FBO.

FIVE CENTS

OBSERVATIONS

"Show Girl"—The Book

Ned Depinet asked us to read "Show Girl". We did and never enjoyed a book so much. It was written by J. P. McEvoy and is being done into a picture by First National. It's a cinch attraction, can't fail. F. N. have put one over in acquiring this book.

"Show Girl"—The Picture

Advices from the coast from one who has seen most of the "rushes" of this picture being made by Al Santell labels it as a "wow" and one for the book. Much praise is being voiced for the marvelous work of Alice White, in the lead. She is made to order for this part. Although I have not seen the picture, but HAVE read the book and have received very authentic information from one who knows regarding the merits of the picture we suggest to those interested....."grab this one".

Harry Cohn

Harry Cohn was host to a few of us yesterday at the Park Central and took up most of his and our time, telling us what a great picture "Noah's Ark" was. And Warner's made this one. Harry is just that way though, always on the lookout for the best and when he finds it, goes out of his way to let the world know. He was finally prevailed on to mention "Submarine" his latest Columbia. Opening at the Embassy, Thursday night. From the way Harry talked about it we are expecting something out of the ordinary. And it will probably be that.

Barnum Rothstein

Nat Rothstein, the Barnum of motion picture advertising men, has topped them all with his latest. It's not so "Barnum". It's a bit more serious, more dignified, more sincere. It is an expensive parchment heralding the synchronization of the two Universal pictures "The Man Who Laughs" and "Uncle Tom's Cabin" inscribed with the names of every official of Universal. The whole thing is different, it is new. It's effect will be instantaneous. Congratulations Nat! Every theatre equipped for sound will want a copy and will get one.

Up in the Air

Sidney R. Kent and Emmanuel Cohen were in conference Monday but nobody was allowed to leave the room. The reason for this was that the conference was up in the dirigible "Los Angeles" when it flew from Lakehurst to New York City.

If any more picture executives take to the air, reporters will soon be chasing them through the clouds in pursuit balloons to gather news of the industry.

METZGER POSITIVE ON 16 "U" SYNCHROS

Lou B. Metzger held a home-office Eastern Sales Convention this past week-end and announced to the sales forces that Universal will positively have 16 synchronized pictures for Fall and Winter; four of which will be with music and sound effects, some all-talkies and the others with dialogue.

Every Universal picture will have two negatives, silent and sound.

"Motherhood" Breaking

Up-State B.O. Records

The picture "Motherhood" being released by the State Cinema Corporation of New York at its first New York showing at the Cameo Theatre, Newburgh and the Strand Theatre, Poughkeepsie last week broke every known house record. The picture will play return dates in early October.

REISMAN ANNOUNCES GRUBEL CHAIN BOOKING

Phil Reisman, General Sales Manager of Pathe, reports that Harry Scott, Short Subjects Sales Manager, now on a mid-west sales trip, teamed with E. S. Oldsmith, Manager of the Kansas City Branch, in signing up the Grubel Brothers Circuit for this season's entire Pathe program.

Warner Brothers have closed a big deal for Vitaphone product with the F & R Northwest Theatre Circuit, for which product the Pantages Circuit had been bidding.

Pantages is planning a change in the policy of many of his theatres and was dickering to get first-run privileges on Vitaphone for this coming year in Minneapolis, Duluth, Fargo, Aberdeen and other Northwest spots.

Finkelstein & Ruben were originally outbid by Pantages for the product but from Warner home-office information, it seems that F & R finally made the highest offer.

Other states that Pantages is prominent in are being negotiated for and it is most likely that Warners will close with him shortly for Vitaphone in the Pan coast houses.

Pantages is also reported dickering for Educational product including the Kinograms Newsreel and sound comedies made with Vocafilm.

J. D. WILLIAMS LOCATES NEW OFFICES ON 46 ST.

World Wide Pictures, Inc., have leased the 8th floor of the Leavitt Building, 130 West 46th Street, which it will occupy commencing August 30th as its home office.

J. D. Williams; the Company's sales manager, whose name will be announced next week, and the advertising and publicity departments.

V. P. Pickrel Disgusted with Organization—Threatens to Resign

OKLAHOMA CITY—The ranks of the Oklahoma theatre owners may soon be disrupted by the threatened resignation of Fred Pickrel as Vice-President and member of the state organization.

W. Z. Spearman, head of the M.P. T.O. has been called to Washington by the Federal authorities to show cause why the M.P.T.O. of Oklahoma should not be indicted for violation of laws governing restraint of trade, as the outcome of their stand on arbitration.

Pickrel charges non-support by his organization in the troubles that have arisen in Ponca City by the free-show menace. He has brought charges against Pathe, FBO and Fox for selling to the tent opposition, at various times and has subsequently lost arbitration decisions against them.

W. A. Steffes is in Chicago today conferring with H. M. Ritchey, Frank Rembusch, Col. Cole and Jack Miller on Steffe's pet plan to resurrect the Allied Group of Independent exhibitors.

It is thought that Steffes will recommend calling an open meeting of independents at Chicago, the week before the convention of the M.P. T.O.A. which meets in Toronto, October 16, 17, 18.

$10,000,000 Fox-Brooklyn Newest in Chain Opens Fri.

The New Fox Theatre at Flatbush Avenue and Nevins Street, Brooklyn, which according to the Building Department records is the largest and most costly playhouse in that borough, will be formally opened on Friday, August 31st. The house has a capacity of 5000 seats and represents an investment of $10,000,000.

This most recent addition to the Fox chain, which now embraces more than 280 theatres throughout the United States, is the most ornate ever built by the Circuit and is one of the best equipped to be found anywhere in the country.

The entertainment policy which has been prepared by the executives of the Circuit calls for de luxe programs, with "road show" motion pictures as a nucleus surrounded by stage and concert presentations and Fox Movietone features.

A special orchestra has been assembled composed of seventy pieces which will be under the leadership of Charles Previn, with Frederic Fradkin as associate.

NEW STUDIOS FOR TREM CARR-RAYART

Trem Carr, producing head of Rayart Pictures, who have been producing at the large Metropolitan Studios in Hollywood, announced this week that he is negotiating for several sites on which to erect new studios to house the several Trem Carr-Rayart units. Tentative selections are at the new Studio City properties in which Sennett has already built and the Christies are building.

As laid out, the Rayart plant will consist of three separate studios, two for Silent Pictures and one sound proof studio in order that the Rayart organization will be in line to meet the demand for sound pictures in case the demand continues.

Trem Carr has built up a very fine organization, headed by directors Scott Pembroke and Duke Worne. Arthur Hoerl and George Pyper are chief scenarists, while Buddy Post has been appointed production manager and J. S. Harrington Editor-in-Chief.

Ground will likely be broken for the Rayart Studios by October 1st. Present plans contemplate the expenditure of a considerable sum in real estate and studio properties.

DAILY REVIEW

FIVE ALL-TALKIES BUSY ON FOX LOT

There is great activity on the Fox West Coast lot. This organization has five all-talkie pictures in production in addition to several of the silent one's, and in making a talkie, it seems that twice as many people are involved. That might not be a fact, but it seems so.

2 BROADWAY ARTISTS

Of the all-talkies John Ford is making "Napoleon's Barber" an original by Arthur Caesar. Raul Walsh is making "Caballeros Way" with dialogue by Tom Barry. Lou Siler is making "Badges" by Max Marcin. J. G. Blystone is making the Milton Gropper story "Through Different Eyes". This by the way, is Blystone's forty-fifth Fox picture and his second Movietone, the other being "Mother Knows Best" that is soon to have its world's premier at the Carthay Circle Theatre in Los Angeles.

ALL SYNCHRONIZED

Of the silent variety (but with synchronization) F. W. Murnau is making "Our Daily Bread" with Charles Farrell and Mary Duncan; Frank Borzage is making "The River" with the same two players; Henry Lehrman is doing "Homesick" with Sammy Cohen and Marjorie Bebe; Raymond Cannon is directing June Collyer and Conrad Nagel in "Husbands Are Liars"; William K. Howard has Janet Gaynor and Charles Morton in "Street Fair"; and Irving Cummings is making "Romance of the Underworld" with Gert-rude Astor, John Bowles and Ben Bard in the leads.

Hines for Smith Rally

Johnnie Hines is in charge of an immense "Al Smith Boosters" rally to be held at the Hollywood Bowl on Tuesday evening, September 11. Among other names announced for this gathering are Tom Mix, Charlie Murray, Bebe Daniels, Sally O'Neill, Molly O'Day and Lois Wilson.

P-F-L Borrows Velez

Lupe Velez has been borrowed by Paramount for an important role in their first all-talkie "The Wolf Song". Lupe in addition to speaking her lines will sing several Mexican songs. John Farrow has written the scenario from the Harvey Ferguson book and Victor Flemming will direct.

OBSERVATIONS

The Two Giants

General and Western Electric have a lot of our big executives worried at the present moment. The fact can't be denied that with the resources of these two great organizations and the added fact that the motion picture industry is acting like a child with a new toy, it will only be a matter of time before these two giants will close in and gobble up all the candy.

Ammunition

The "electric's" have motion pictures eating out of their hands. They are feeding them with food that, although tasting good, is going to prove very indigestible before long. They have every important company tied in for a lot of money and it is this money coming from motion pictures that will be used as ammunition to kill them off when the proper moment arrives.

That Service Fee

We are told there is a clause in the contract for the installation of sound equipment in theatres calling for a fee of $60.00 a week "for service." This has to be paid weekly in addition to any other charge that might be levied. Assuming that in time, 10,000 of our 21,000 houses become wired, the service fee alone will amount to SIX HUNDRED THOUSAND A WEEK. This amount alone would pay the weekly production costs of all the major studio's. With several of the small one's financed on the small change left.

Fascinating

The motion picture business is very fascinating. Few have ever left it, once they got in. It has a stronger pull than the newspaper and the circus. It has a great enchantment and once set, the reward is great. It is the world's fourth largest industry. Consequently with the laying of velvet carpets for them to enter, feeding them from gold plates and showering them with instructions they have been paid to take, do you think Western and General will say "No!"

DU PONT BUY IN P-F-L SENDS STOCK HIGHER

Spreading out their activities in the film production and distribution business, the Du Pont interests are reported to have bought a considerable block of Paramount Famous-Lasky stock on the open market, and will be represented on the P-F-L Board of Directors at the next quarterly meeting.

Whether this report had anything to do with the Paramount stock leading other film stocks with a 3½ pt. rise yesterday to 142, a new high for the year, is not known, but it is known that certain Wall Street interests, as early as June were engaged in gathering up all available shares in an effort to send the price (Continued on page 3)

COLUMBIA'S 'SUBMARINE' AT EMBASSY TONIGHT

The second Columbia Pictures Special to play Broadway this season at a 2-a-day $2.00 top is "Submarine" which opens tonight for a run at the Embassy Theatre. The first was "The Scarlet Lady" with Lya de Putti which preceded "Submarine" at the same theatre.

Jack Holt, Dorothy Revier and Ralph Graves are the principal players and Frank Capra directed.

BROOKLYN-PARAMOUNT TO OPEN IN NOVEMBER

The Brooklyn Paramount Theatre is nearing completion and will open its doors sometime in November. The theatre is larger than the Paramount in New York, seating about five thousand. It is located at DeKalb Ave. and Flatbush Extension.

The policy of the theatre will be the same as that of the New York Paramount, with pictures and stage shows.

About to Close Deal for the Purchase of Controlling Interest in Moss-Sapiro Group

William Fox is about to close a deal for the purchase of the controlling interest in close to 100 theatres in New York City and Brooklyn.

If and when the deal is closed, it will rival the acquisition by this startling operator of the purchase of the West Coast Theatres late last winter in that it will involve equally as much money and also the length of time required to close.

It is a known fact that Fox stepped into the West Coast field on a few hours notice and closed it with almost equal rapidity. In the present instance he was informed forty-eight hours ago that a deal could be made with members of the Moss-Sapiro pool and if the sale is not actually closed it will be within a few hours.

LONDON — George Bernard Shaw will make another talkie but not for movietone. This time it will be with British Phototone, with which Charles Clayton Hutton is associated.

SUDDEN 10 PT. STANLEY STOCK RISE MYSTIFIES

M. P. CLUB'S FORMAL OPENING SEPT. 12

The work of constructing the Motion Picture Clubhouse at 1560 Broadway has so far advanced under direction of Mr. Lee Ochs that the date of opening has been decided.

The board has decided to open the club informally on Sept 10th, when all of the functions of the Club will be operative and every last bit of decoration and furniture in place.

However, the formal opening and dedication of the Club will not take place until September 12th. Elaborate plans are now being worked (Continued on page 3)

Rumor Places Warners in Control of Stanley Circuit

Mystifying reports were emanating from Wall Street yesterday, based on the sudden rise in the price of the Stanley Company of America stock on the exchange this week.

From a closing of around 37 last week, the stock yesterday reached 50, having gained over 10 points in the last two days. Observers watching this stock closely circulated the report that one possible explanation of the rise was that Warner Brothers were seeking to purchase control of (Continued on page 2)

12,500 IN BERLIN PICTURE INDUSTRY

According to the "Film Kurier" of Germany, 12,500 persons are directly employed in the Berlin film industry, just as many as in the Berlin gas, water and electric works—not counting the affiliated trades of printing, costume making, etc.

The staff of the producing and renting firms, consists of 3,300 persons; 1,800 workers are employed in the studios, 800 in film laboratories.

Actors and actresses in regular employment number about 400 while approximately 500 extras get intermittent work. Directors and technicians number 100; architects, cameramen and scenarists may total 550.

The Berlin picture theatres employ a personnel of 3,150 and 1,900 musicians.

Testing Darktown Voices in Harlem

Harlem in New York is all aflutter. Every person of ebony hue having any stage experience is being rushed to New York local studio's for tests as there seems to be a great demand on the part of several producers for Negro players.

King Vidor's representatives are testing for the all-negro picture Vidor was to have made for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer but it is understood they will not go through with it, King trying to get Samuel Goldwyn to back the film. Al Christie is making tests for the leading characters in the Octavius Roy Cohen series he is to make.

Sudden 10 Pt. Stanley Stock Rise Mystifies

the Stanley Circuit.

Others put forth just as excellent reasons why this couldn't be so, alleging that Goldman Sachs & Company, financing the Warner Brothers and also the Stanley Company, had withdrawn their support of Warners or had been given the cold shoulder by the Warners themselves, and that the increase in the value of the stock was caused by the excellent prospects of the company for the second half of 1928. Economy has been the watchword of Rossheim, the Stanley President, and all departments have been slashed as well as expensive vaudeville presentations unit shows scrapped and other departmental activities strengthened. This may be the real cause of the boom.

Major Albert Warner characterizes any merger with Stanley as ridiculous and denies that his company has any need of further theatre outlets at this time. Rossheim could not be reached for particulars.

Buys 3 Houses

"Godless Girl" New York Premiere in November

"The Godless Girl" may not get its New York premiere until November or later, as the dialogue and synchronization will not be completed until the end of October.

Fox has the Gaiety Theatre until January 1st and is opening with "The Air Circus" for at least a month's run on Saturday, having been notified that "Godless Girl" would not be ready for its scheduled opening on September 7th.

JACK WARNER BRINGING "SINGING FOOL" PRINT

J. L. Warner, production head of Warner Bros., is due to arrive in New York the first week in September. He will bring with him the completed print of Al Jolson's latest Vitaphone special, "The Singing Fool", which is scheduled to have its premiere during September at the Winter Garden.

Mr. Warner will remain in the East until after the engagement of this production on Broadway is launched.

LOEW-FOX CIRCUITS BOOK WARNER HITS

This important booking provides for the exhibition of Warner roadshows and the special Winners in the Loew and Fox houses throughout New York, Brooklyn and Greater New York.

William Fox and the Fox Theatres Corporation at present stand head and shoulders over any other theatre organization and the addition of these Greater New York houses will make this organization stronger than even Fox himself ever dreamed of twelve months ago.

CHICAGO THEATRES IN UNION SQUABBLE

CHICAGO—No settlement of the differences between theatre owners and musicians' unions in this city has yet been made. The Exhibitors' Association headed by Jack Miller is opposing the stand of the unions who are demanding the employment of a stated number of musicians in all theatres.

It is Miller's argument that movie houses in Chicago are facing bankruptcy and that no new contract for 1929 would be signed with the musicians because of their demands.

"The union demands that where we install movietones and vitaphones we shall, in addition, hire six musicians. Heretofore the demand was for four musicians. It costs $700 per theatre per week to install the wired movies and the musicians cost $600. 43 houses in Chicago are already bankrupt and it looks like there will be more if the union should get its demands," states Miller.

REINHARDT ARRIVING NOV. 1 FOR GISH FILM "COHENS AND KELLYS" LEAVES FOR COAST

Von Hofmannstahl Noted
Librettist Writing
U. A. Script

By JOE BLAIR
Hollywood Correspondent

SALZBURG—Max Reinhardt, Europe's foremost stage director and Hugo von Hofmannsthal, librettist of "Der Rosenkavalier", who are now at work on an original scenario for the Lillian Gish production for United Artists, will leave for United States and Hollywood the last week in October.

Morris Gest, who brought Schenck and Reinhardt together will go to Hollywood to assist on the film. Reinhardt will personally supervise his first picture which will also be Lillian Gish's first United Artists picture.

Sound effects and music will be employed by Reinhardt in the film which is as yet untitled.

"On Trial" Starts

Actual filming of the Warner Bros. vitaphone special began yesterday in their Hollywood studios. Archie Mayo is directing a cast consisting of Pauline Frederick, Bert Lytell, Lois Wilson, Holmes Herbert, Jason Robards, Richard Tucker, Edmund Breese and Franklin Pangborn. It will be an all-talkie.

Starring Crawford

Joan Crawford will be starred by M-G-M after the forthcoming production of "Adrienne Lecouvreur". In this production she will have the title role with Nils Asther playing opposite and Fred Niblo directing.

Casting "Nize Baby"

Harold Waldridge is the first player to be signed for the cast of the Milt Gross M-G-M picture "Nize Baby". He will have the character of "Looy Dot Dope".

Jolson Writing Next

Al Jolson has always had a strong desire to do a picture with a theme in line with his famous "Mammy" song, but having had several stories submitted to him, found them all wanting. He has decided to write it himself. It will be used as his next for Warner's.

Wolheim Signed by

Paramount Studio

Louis Wolheim, whose work as Scarsi in the Caddo Paramount film version of "The Racket" added considerably to his already enviable reputation, is to make a picture for Paramount under the direction of Lewis Milestone, it was announced today at the Paramount studios.

Brennon Due Soon

LOS ANGELES—Herbert Brennon is reported on his way to New York with several cans of his production "The Rescue" featuring Colman and Lily Damita, which he will cut in the East.

STUDIO GOSSIP

George B. Seitz wanted a big crowd for a circus sequence in the picture "Hey Rube" he is doing for FBO, so they had open house on the lot Sunday and invited the whole of Hollywood to attend the Al W. Copeland circus. Needless to say he got more than he wanted.

Edward Sedgwick has been signed to do the next Buster Keaton at M-G-M. Eddie did Busters last one "The Cameraman".

Lenore Coffee has been signed on a long term contract by M-G-M. Her first assignment will be the scenario of the Norma Shearer picture "The Last of Mrs. Chaney".

What's going to happen to Barney Glazer out at First National. Barney was supposed to have been Joseph P. Kennedy's representative at the studio.

Bess Meredyth, the writer, has been signed by M-G-M for a long term.

Bobbie Clark and Paul McCullough have arrived in Hollywood to Movietone for Fox.

In production at the Pathe Studios are "Ned McCobb's Daughter" with Irene Rich featured, and "The Spierler" with Jacqueline Logan and Alan Hale.

In preparation are "The Shady Lady" in which Phyllis Haver will be starred, and "Noisy Neighbors" which will feature Eddie Quillan and the famous Quillan family.

Editing are "Sal of Singapore," with Phyllis Haver starred and Alan Hale featured; "Marked Money" with Junior Coghlan, and "Show Folks" with Eddie Quillan and Lina Basquette.

Chic Sales will have Ben Stoloff as his director when he starts his next Fox talkie. It will be known as "Marching On".

Since the popularity of the song "Ramona", Edwin Carewe has decided on more musical exploitations and has delegated Lewis and Young to write the lyrics and Harry Akst the music for a waltz song to be known as "Revenge".

John Howard Lawson, author of "Processional," "Loud Speaker" and other expressionist plays, has been placed under contract by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Lawson will join that company's scenario department at its West Coast studio.

"A Man's Man" went into production yesterday at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio, with James Cruze and William Haines, the combination which just completed "Excess Baggage," in the roles of director and star. Josephine Dunn, ex-New York show girl who played the feminine lead in "Excess Baggage", was given the chief feminine part in the new film as a reward for her earlier work. Others in "A Man's Man," which is an adaptation of Patrick Kearney's play of the same name, include Mae Busch, Bert Roach, Sam Hardy and Arthur Hoyt.

Julian Johnson, who titled "The Patriot" for Paramount has the titling assignment for "Interference." "Moran of the Marines," the Richard Dix-Ruth Elder picture just completed, will be titled by George Marian, Jr.

Sam DeGrasse has been cast in the role of the district attorney in the Paul Fejos Conrad Veidt-Mary Philbin picture, "Erik the Great," now being made at Universal City. Anders Randolph plays the judge, George Irving the defense attorney, and Charles Clary the assistant district attorney.

Universal last week purchased "When the Devil Was Sick" by E. J. Rath, author of the play, "The Nervous Wreck", adapted by Owen Davis.

Two of Universal's sound pictures were finished at Universal City last week. They are "The Shake Down" with James Murray and Barbara Kent, directed by William Wyler, and "It Can Be Done", a Glenn Tryon starring vehicle directed by Fred Newmeyer.

Curtis Benton has completed a continuity for "The Minstrel Man", a talking-singing-dancing picture for which minstrels are being summoned to Universal City from all corners of the United States.

Hoffman's "Stool Pigeon"

Renaud Hoffman independent producer, is to make a picture, written and directed by himself to be called "The Stool Pigeon". Olive Borden, Charles Delaney, Lucy Beaumont, Louis Natheaux and Ernie Adams are in the cast. It will be a Columbia picture.

Hunt Signs with P-F-L

J. Roy Hunt, veteran Paramount cameraman, has been added to the company's contract list. Other cameramen who hold Paramount contracts are Victor Milner, Arthur Gilks and Henry Gerrard.

Schildkraut with Fox

Rudolph Schildkraut has been engaged to enact a leading role in "Street Fair". William K. Howard, who is to direct, has had "Papa" Schildkraut with him on several pictures. Janet Gaynor will be starred.

Beery Flying

Wallace Beery is flying his own plane. And that's not a press yarn. Beery piloted his big ship to Jackson Hole, Wyo., recently for a few days fishing.

Craft Completes Eastern Sequences and Will Shoot Interiors

William J. Craft, Universal director, and his company, which has been in the East for several weeks taking scenes for "The Cohens and Kellys in Atlantic City", returned to Universal City, California, this week to complete the picture. Interiors and talking sequences will be made on the coast.

The company, a full production unit, spent ten days at Atlantic City. The cast was headed by George Sidney, and included Vera Gordon, Kate Price, Mack Swain, Cornelius Keefe, Nora Lane, Tom Kennedy and others. Jack Foley was Craft's assistant, Norman Deming the business manager and Al Jones, cameraman.

Beery with Paramount

Noah Beery, expert in villainy, has been signed with Paramount to play the slave-dealer role in A. E. W. Mason's "Four Feathers", soon to enter production under the direction of Marian Cooper and Ernest Schoedsack.

The addition of Beery brings the list of principals assigned to "Four Feathers" up to three. Richard Arlen will have the male lead, Fay Wray will be his leading woman.

Hubbard at M-G-M

Lucien Hubbard will direct "The Mysterious Island," on which production will start at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio within the next ten days. Under-water scenes for this picture, which is an adaptation of Jules Verne's imaginative story, have already been made off the Bahama Islands by a special camera expedition. The cast assembled for the film includes James Murray, Jacqueline Gadsdon, Lionel Barrymore, Snitz Edwards and Montague Love.

Santell-Banky

Alfred Santell will direct Vilma Banky in an original story for Samuel Goldwyn-United Artists. James Gleason is the author of Banky's second starring role, following completion of her first, "The Awakening."

Nagel with Fox

Conrad Nagel who has been loaned to Fox by Warner Brothers for the production "Husbands Are Liars" is reported to be getting $30,000 for six weeks' work.

FIVE CENTS

OBSERVATIONS

"Submarine"

Surprises recently have been coming thick and fast. Things have become realizations that were hardly thought of before. This is a fast moving industry. Its moving by some, leaving them standing flatfooted. But not Harry Cohn and Columbia Pictures. Harry as a producer is running neck and neck with the leaders and after releasing "Submarine" Columbia will better its position in the distribution field.

The Best

This production is one of the best we have ever witnessed. It has everything a good picture should have and a bit more. And don't forget it is from a studio known as an independent, and as such, is relegated by some to the ordinary things of pictures. "Blood Ship" caused most of us to sit up and take notice, and to some skeptic's a suggestion that it was an accident. However, that accident made Columbia a lot of money and put them on the map, so to speak. "Submarine" will make them a lot more money and exhibitors will soon be shaping a new map for Harry Cohn and his distributing organization.

Excellent

For some reason or other we have never taken a great fancy to anyone in this cast. Probably they have never been in anything we have liked. But in "Submarine" Jack Holt, Ralph Graves and Dorothy Revier gave performances that measured up to the best we have ever seen. The answer no doubt can be found in the excellent handling of these players and the rest of the cast by that young director Frank Capra, who has received some recognition for his previous work as a comedy director. His work in this production leaves no doubt about his ultimate future.

Everything

Everything in the picture was good. We can't make any criticism. And can hardly use sufficient praise. You will like it and thank goodness there was no synchronization tacked on the picture to weigh it down.

RCA Seeking Outlet for Photophone

PARAMOUNT OFFER

Slowly the mists surrounding the rumors flying thick and thin about the Stanley Circuit, are being dissipated, and out of the welter of conflicting stories emerges two national organizations as contestants for the control of some 300 Stanley houses.

General Electric, RCA Photophone was yesterday mentioned by persons close to Stanley financing, as the purchasers of the chain, in order to secure outlets for the installation of Photophone. The purchase is necessitated by Vitaphone-Movietone competition, 50 houses in the Stanley chain having already installed the latter apparatus.

Photophone officials were angling for control of the 200 independent houses in New York but were out- (Continued on page 2)

General Electric and P-F-L Bidding for Stanley Chain

maneuvered, it seems by the Fox Theatres, which now has written options for the choice houses in New York with outright purchase being the object.

This left the Stanley Theatres as the only large circuit in the East still available for the kind of mass installation deal RCA has finally determined to get, now that Photophone production has been arranged for.

Paramount vs. Fox

The other organization mentioned as possible purchaser of the Stanley chain is the Paramount Famous-Lasky Corporation, which has been holding meetings with Stanley officials this week and has indicated its intention to take over these houses as outlet for Paramount product, in order to gird its loins and strengthen its position for a coming fight for supremacy with Fox Theatres.

The Paramount company has been in a precarious position in the past few years as far as theatre purchasing goes, faced as they were with the threat of Federal investigations on monopolies in the industry, and it has been freely admitted by those close to both organizations that Paramount could have taken control of Stanley theatres any time they wanted to, if it were not for fear of exciting governmental inquiry.

First National Control

Should they now take control, it is likely that control of First National Pictures will come to them, even though they do not desire it and really desire good healthy competition in the production of pictures.

This next week should see the situation cleared up considerably. Perhaps Mr. Rossheim and his associates may carry out their determination to sell out control to no one organization, but those who control the financing future of the company may have something to say about it.

Loew to Re-open

116th Street Theatre

Loew's 116th Street Theatre, city, which has been closed approximately 18 months, over some property dispute, will be re-opened on Labor Day, the entire house having been renovated and a new marquis constructed.

The house has always been a money maker for Loew and is a crowded neighborhood with minor opposition, aside from the B. S. Moss Regent Theatre.

It is understood that the Independent Motion Picture Exhibitor Association of New York has made deals for product with Pathe and FBO, for its members, and would close further deals for First National and FBO pictures today.

In addition to this group buying, it is also understood that there is a clause in the contracts the member circuits hold which permits them to book films individually, without the organization, in whatever territories are not faced with cut-throat competition, and that this buying is being indulged into considerable extent.

TALKIE POLICY CAUSES EXHIBITOR HEADACHES

High Admissions at Grauman's Swings Trade to Warners

HOLLYWOOD—Exhibitors will be carefully watching box-office reaction to talking pictures these days, in an effort to properly gauge the worth of the new attraction in dollars and cents to the public.

Of late, two divergent cases have occurred to illustrate the uncertainty of how much or how little to charge for talkie programs. The first inclination of the part of most theatre owners, is to get back some of the increased outlay for equipment, in higher admissions. And yet this policy is fraught with danger, if opposition sound programs in the same towns take to price-slashing.

Grauman an Example

A notable example is Grauman's Chinese Theatre in Hollywood. With the opening of the new Warner Theatre on Hollywood Boulevard, not far from the Chinese theatre, business at Graumans took an awful slump and the excellence of the Vitaphone attractions at the Warner Theatre coupled with low admissions of 35 and 50 cents, matinees and 50, 60 and $1.00 top, evenings, has practically sewed up all the Hollywood business.

Grauman opened a short while ago with "White Shadows of the South Seas," an M-G-M attraction with sound effects to prices of 50c, 75c and $1.00, Matinees, and 75c, $1.00 and $1.50 evenings. While Grauman is in a class by himself as a showman and what he does is done well, he cannot compete with the Warner Theatre in this case, as the box-office results prove. It is not enough for exhibitors today to hang out their new banners announcing Vitaphone or Movietone,—the admission price will have to receive careful consideration and the lower it is the bigger will be his business.

"Four Sons" Another

"Four Sons" a Fox production which played at the Gaiety in N. Y. for a long-run at a $2.00 top, played to only fair business but as soon as it ran at popular prices at the Roxy, it created a new box-office record for that theatre.

In Baltimore, the Valencia Theatre, opening with its new Movietone policy, reduced its admissions from 60c to 35c, an unusual departure, to be sure.

Which is the happy medium between high and low admissions will be determined by the public.

Religious Films

The Acoustics Products Company, on behalf of the Sonora-Phonograph Company, has signed contracts with the Religious Film Trust, to film a series of biblical stories with sound accompaniment, in the Holy Land.

The amount of money to be spent by the various religious sects behind the deal may eventually run into $200,000,000 according to the Acoustics company.

A film expedition will sail for the Holy Land in about six weeks.

5-a-Day at Paramount

The Paramount Theatre will give five de luxe performances next Monday to celebrate Labor Day and the Jackie Coogan act. This policy will only prevail for the one day, according to Publix.

BURBANK STUDIOS PREPARE FALL LINE-UP

Five First National Star Films Start Immediate Production

By JOE BLAIR
Hollywood Correspondent

With the last of the summer group of productions nearing completion, officials at First National's Burbank Studios are preparing to begin the fall cycle and continued activity is on the schedule for the coming months there.

The first of the fall productions, about to start are Colleen Moore in "Synthetic Sin," her next comedy to be directed by William Seiter. Richard Barthelmess in "Scarlet Seas," a story of adventure on the high seas, to be directed by John Frances Dillon. Dorothy Mackaill in "Changeling," a George Fitzmaurice production and the first dialogue picture from First National. Billie Dove in "The Thirtieth Day of October," a story of the Russian revolution to be directed by Frank Lloyd. Jack Mulhall and Alice White in "Ritzie Rosie," a story of modern youth, directed by Mervyn LeRoy.

Now Under Way

Corinne Griffith in "Outcast," a dramatic story of San Francisco, directed by William A. Seiter. "The Haunted House," a mystery story directed by Benjamin Christensen, with Chester Conklin, Thelma Todd, Flora Finch, Larry Kent and an all-featured cast. Charlie Murray in "Do Your Duty," a comedy of a policeman's life, directed by William Beaudine. "Cheyenne," a rousing western starring Ken Maynard and directed by Al Rogell.

Edited and Titled

Corinne Griffith's "The Divine Lady"; Milton Sills in "The Crash"; Jack Mulhall and Dorothy Mackaill in "Waterfront"; Alice White in "Show Girl"; and Ken Maynard in "The Glorious Trail."

Most of the new pictures are to have sound effects.

With this line-up ready to start and others to follow, there will be no cessation of activity at the Burbank Studios for the remainder of the year.

"Street Angel" Features

Fox-Brooklyn Opening

James Byrne, president of the borough of Brooklyn will welcome the new theatre on the Movietone and George Bernard Shaw will be seen and heard, as well as "Street Angel," the Movietone Feature and other Movietone subjects and Newsreel.

The presentation part of the program will feature an operatic spectacle, "Carnival de Naples". In this will appear John Griffin, tenor, Morgan and LaRue, sixteen Fox Tillerettes under the direction of Mary Read, and the Fox theatre choral ensemble. The grand orchestra will be under the direction of Charles Previn.

House attaches for the theatre include Charles Previn, director of music, Max H. Manne, production manager, Frederic Fradkin, associate director of music, Frank H. Richardson, chief organist, Clark Robinson, art director, and Archie Levy, treasurer.

Raoul Walsh to Act for Fox Movietone

Raoul Walsh, who already has demonstrated his ability as an actor as well as a director, will again double in the two roles in "The Caballero's Way", an O'Henry story which Fox Films will produce as an all-dialogue Movietone feature.

It will be Walsh's first effort in a talking role on the screen and comes as a result of the excellent recording quality of his voice, recently demonstrated when he made a Movietone talk for the salesmen of the Fox company.

Walsh will play the role of the "Cisco Kid" in the picture and will direct Maria Alba and George O'Brien in the two other principal roles.

Fox to Take up Options for 100 N. Y. Theatres weeks for Fox to verify all statements, at which time he will purchase outright.

The reason why the final closing hasn't taken place up to the present time, was that although Fox was familiar with the locations of the houses, etc., he has only the exhibitors' verbal estimates regarding the properties involved and their assessed and real valuations. Consequently mortgages and titles must be searched and preparations made similar to those that came before the Poli Circuit purchase.

The conditions for the purchase are not quite the same as existed in the West Coast group of houses. At the time Fox purchased this chain outright, he had already had a 40% interest in the circuit and was familiar with what each house was worth and capable of doing.

Fox and Loew

The New York situation is a very advantageous one for Fox in that they will for the first time in the New York territory be in a position to offer serious competition to Loew, who has been able heretofore to outbid independent houses and circuits for the cream of the market, because of the number of playdates he could offer.

With little or no product booked by the New York independent theatre owners for next year, the decks are clear for Fox to begin booking his program throughout New York in a big way, within the next three weeks.

May Eliminate

As there exists a good deal of over-seating in the Metropolitan territory, it is possible that in each of the chains purchased there may two or three or more houses of the 600-seat calibre eliminated and closed up by Fox, in order to concentrate his business in the best spots and in the largest houses capable of the biggest grosses.

Colin Campbell Dead

Hollywood is mourning the death of Colin Campbell one of the pioneer motion picture directors. He died following a stroke of paralysis.

Campbell directed "The Spoilers" and "The Ne'er Do Well" for Selig. For the past few years he has been writing.

STUDIO GOSSIP

Edward Kline is to direct a picture for First National. The present title is "Applesauce".

Leo McCarey, who has been supervising the Stan Laurel-Oliver Hardy comedies for Hal Roach, is to direct the next one. This is the first time, in quite a while that Leo has directed.

It looks like a sure thing that Cecil B. DeMille will make, as his next picture, a crook story. M-G-M will distribute.

Andre Cheron has been added to the cast of the next Adolphe Menjou picture for Paramount.

Ken Maynard will use as his next, an original story to be titled "The Phantom Stage".

Some one asked James Cruze how long he was going to be on "A Man's Man" his present picture for M-G-M. Jimmie replied "about twenty-two days". That is great if it's a good picture. The last one he did for M-G-M "Excess Baggage" is exceptionally good and he shot it in less than three weeks.

Paramount have completed their list of "suspects" for "The Canary Murder Case". They are, Louis John Bartels, Ned Sparks, Gustave von Seyffertitz and William Powell.

Paramount has begun the casting of "Shop Worn Angel" in which Gary Cooper and Nancy Carroll will appear. Paul Lukas has been signed and Richard Wallace will direct.

George Davis is back at the Educational's studio's after a few days in the hospital following the removal of his tonsils.

Rossheim Outlines

F. N. Rosy Status

"Lilac Time" to mention only three of the impressive list of pictures already completed.

"As an exhibitor, I know that there is no substitute for good pictures. First National has them. Also it has the stars, directors and story material that assure more outstanding product. Production is progressing smoothly under the guidance of Mr. Rockett, and it is my belief that no company in the business has a finer sales organization than that now functioning under General Sales Manager Ned E. Depinet.

"At the Coast studios, in the home office and in the field, First National is strong in man power. Everywhere I go I find a wonderful spirit of loyalty to the interests of the company."

"Noah's Ark" Run

"Noah's Ark" Warner Brothers greatest picture with Vitaphone sequences, may open a London run at the Piccadilly around the early part of September. A print is now in the British capitol and Herman Starr is arranging for the opening presentation.

DEMILLE DISCUSSES "RADIO MOVIES"

Cecil B. DeMille does not seem to think that "Radio movies" or Television will greatly effect motion pictures.

C. B. says, "not merely the size and methods of presenting movies by radio in the home will prevent them from being a serious competitor of the great palaces of amusement found in every city today but the psychology of the theatre as against that of the home will continue to keep patrons flocking to the former."

"You will notice, for example, that the radio has not cut down the patronage of the Hollywood Bowl or the Metropolitan Opera House. On the same principle, first class screen entertainment at the theatre will far excel that which can be presented in the home."

Psychology a Factor

"The psychology of seeing a work of entertainment in company with a large number of people heightening the emotional relations, and the undoubted superiority of professional presentation in the theatre with all the concomitants of beauty and art, are two factors that will keep the theatres in successful operation."

"The difference between seeing movies via radio in the home and in the theatre may be compared to the difference between seeing a woman in sackcloth and ashes and seeing the same woman in the beauty of evening attire with all the feminine allure of which the modern woman is capable of surrounding herself."

"Radio movies will undoubtedly have great home uses but in the nature of things they cannot replace the attraction of mass entertainment under professional management."

Wolheim Cast

Louis Wolheim has been engaged by Pathe for an important role in the next Phyllis Haver picture "The Shady Lady".

Goldwyn Co. to France

Samuel Goldwyn will send a company of players headed by Ronald Coleman to film scenes on the exact French locations for his production "Condemned to Devil's Island" the Blair Niles' story of the French penal colony.

U. A. Co. in Canada

A company headed by John Barrymore have left Hollywood for the Canadian location for the picture "King of the Mountains". It is being directed by Ernst Lubitsch. Camilla Horn, Victor Varconi and Mona Rico are in the cast.

Another "U" Synchronized

Synchronization of a third Universal picture has been completed. Universal officials and executives yesterday heard the synchronized version of "Man Woman and Wife," the Eddie Laemmle Jewel with Norman Kerry and Pauline Starke featured. This will follow "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and "The Man Who Laughs" to the synchronized screen within a week or ten days.

FIVE CENTS

OBSERVATIONS

How About Loew

Loew's Theatre's Inc., have a lot of the wise one's guessing. They are up against it for an answer to the attitude of this organization seemingly standing still while both Fox and Paramount are adding to their theatre chains. It hasn't been so long ago that Loew's was in the news almost daily with the opening of a new theatre or the buying of one already opened. Since Marcus Loew's death nothing, seemingly, has been accomplished.

Fox-Loew

The deal now on between William Fox and the group of independent theatre owners for the sale to the former of the properties of the later means quite a bit to Loew, if the sale goes through and it seems a certainty that it will. Loew now has the upper hand in Greater New York in that they can offer better inducements in booking days for pictures. But if Fox adds a hundred more, or fifty or even twenty-five to his chain, Fox and not Loew will be sitting in the Kings seat. And if you don't think that means something in this territory you have another guess coming.

Paramount

We don't think Paramount-Publix is going to sit back and twitch their thumbs while Mr. Fox is out buying. Of course this organization is pretty well set, at present with their chain, but the big producer of tomorrow must of necessity be the big theatre owner of the same day. We feel that it won't be long before our major companies will own a string from coast to coast and running down from the St. Lawrence to the Gulf. The day is coming, and it is not far, when Mr. Fox, for instance, will have sufficient theatres to play pictures made by Fox Film, showing a big profit both in the theatre and studio. This is the day of chains, big chains? And those of the big one's that want to hold on, better start now and do a little marketing.

DeLuxe Houses in Key Cities

The initial theatre operations of William Fox and Fox Theatres are gathering momentum and from sources close to Mr. Fox, the Daily Review understands that he has for his object the acquisition of three thousand theatres throughout the United States between now and January 1st, 1930.

It is the Fox plan to extend its chain from coast to coast and from border to border, with theatre outlets in every State in the union. The object of the plan is to make the Fox product independent of playdates in theatres of other organizations.

Chain in Every State

Every state will have a chain of houses comprising towns of 15,000 and each state will have a central deluxe theatre, running all Fox attractions first in that particular zone. After this initial run, the other Fox houses, in towns of from fifteen thousand and up, will play the attractions. Most of the advertising will (Continued on page 4)

What Price Cohn?

After the premiere of "Submarine" at the Embassy Theatre Thursday night a conference was called in the office of one of the major producing organizations, whose pictures recently, have not measured up to the standard of previous years.

The object of the conference was Harry Cohn, production head of Columbia pictures. The presiding executive told the gathering he wanted Cohn, "price, no object".

Exhibitors of 17 Nations in International Agreement which all the different organizations of the German film industry are represented.

Federation Formed

When the proposal to form an International Exhibitors' Federation was discussed, M. Brezillon, the president of the French exhibitors tentatively suggested that the producers should be included. This proposal, however, was declined by every speaker except the Dutch delegates.

In Holland there is no Exhibitors' Association. The only trade organization there, the "Nederlandsch Bioscoopbond", embracing members of all branches. The Dutch delegates therefore could not support the idea of an international federation of exhibitors only.

Objections Overruled

The International Federation, however, was agreed to, the statutes proposed by the French delegates at once discussed and amended, and it is believed that it will soon make its force and its influence felt in the fight against the entertainment taxes.

The speeches made by German government officials and by the Burgomaster of Berlin made great impression on foreign delegates. They lauded the benevolent and appreciating tone of all these speeches and said that such a favorable inclination on the part of the authorities forecast good prospects for the German film industry.

No American Bias

There was no bias against America in any of the speeches. In fact, America was hardly ever mentioned. Herr Klitzsch, in his address of welcome especially mentioned that America wanted Europe, but that Europe was also in need of American pictures.

A Paneuropean note was struck by H. U. Davis, president of the British Exhibitors' Association. He advocated the production of national pictures in European countries for Europe and pointed to the rich material Europe with her history, her romance and her literature offered to producers compared with America. He mentioned talent abounding in Europe from which America had to borrow. He further explained that the 17 countries represented at this conference had a population of three and one half times as big as that of the United States and that Europe had money, and plenty of it. He reminded the conference of the fact that within the last few months, six and one half million pounds had been invested in British picture companies.

The whole atmosphere of the conference was one of sincere amity and good comradeship. Loud cheers were raised when the resolution to ban all "hate" films in picture theatres was carried and again when the proposal to found an International Federation of Exhibitors was adopted.

Corporation Formed

Bristolphone are being operated in Waterbury, Conn.

Professor Bristol attained absolute perfection with the device this year, and because of the equipment of the plant, is in a position to turn out the instrument in quantity immediately.

Gotham-Bristolphone is establishing its sales headquarters at 1650 Broadway in a new suite of offices. The company will make sound effects in short subjects, novelties and acts, to furnish complete service programs. Installations will be leased on a rental basis, with the parent company servicing the exhibitor throughout the duration of the use of the system.

Two sound stages are now being built at Waterbury, Conn. The first picture to be synchronized will be "Times Square", starring Alice Day and Arthur Lubin, the story is by Norman Houston, and was directed by Joseph C. Boyle.

PICTURE REVIEWS

"SUBMARINE"

Columbia
Directed by Frank Capra
Story by Norman Springer
Featuring Jack Holt,
Ralph Graves, Dorothy Revier,
Clarence Burton
Photography Joe Walker
Exhibitors will break their necks in the rush to book this one. A natural box-office success with a theme that millions of people have become acquainted with and that will cause hands to grip seats and lumps to rise in everyone's throat. Good cast, fine direction and advance exploitation already created gratis, before you play it.

Two pals in the U. S. Navy's service, one a deep-sea diver and the other, part of a submarine crew, are parted by the diver's flighty wife. At sea maneuvers, Submarine S-44 is rammed and sunk. Diver after diver fails to reach the submersible. The only man who can reach it to attach air lines, is Dorgan, who refuses to save his friend imprisoned in the sub. On learning that his wife is the real cause of his unhappiness, the diver is rushed to the scene and goes down to save the crew, when they are just about to perish.

Submarine interior scenes and miniature shots are splendidly done.

"CHARACTER STUDIES"

"A Cycle of Songs"

Vitaphone-Florence Brady
Broadway blues singer performs six numbers with piano accompaniment off-stage. Singer has individual style and specializes in slow-tempo long drawn out songs that have probably passed the popularity stage. Her style varies little and almost a monotone prevails in all the numbers. After you've heard one, you've heard them all. O. K. as vaudeville filler.

"A SHIP COMES IN"

Pathe
Directed by William K. Howard
Story by Julien Josephson
Photographed by Lucien Andriot
Cast Louise Dresser,
Rudolph Schildkraut, Lucien Littlefield, Robert Edeson, Fritz Field.

The exceptional direction of William K. Howard and the marvelous acting of the entire company lift this picture out of the ordinary class. The story is from formula No. 981 and concerns the actions of a family of foreigners in America. This type has been done many, many times and it is just such a yarn that after the first title it is easy to tell what is going to happen every moment. But Howard's direction makes of it something out of the ordinary. Louise Dresser, Rudolph Schildkraut and Lucien Littlefield stand out in a brilliant cast.

"UNDERSEA REVUE"

Vitaphone-Larry Ceballos Featurette
Broadway dance director puts on tabloid musical comedy in underwater setting that bears little resemblance to a sea—The Vitaphone dancing girls perform several Cavallio dance numbers. James Clemons, Lyda Roberty, the Tommy Atkins Sextette and Sally and Ted have individual dance numbers.

The production is nothing to rave about and has its limitations as a demonstration of transposing musical comedies to the screen. Unless the camera is within four feet of the singers, nothing is intelligible and when a chorus is dancing or an octette singing, the camera must move back to get them all in, thus losing out on the recording. The dance steps should be heard but aren't. Recording the rhythm should be more important than seeing it. Ted and Sally do the best work.

"OH KAY"

First National
Directed by Mervyn LeRoy
Featuring Colleen Moore, and Ford Sterling
Nothing to this picture but Colleen Moore and the title writer; plus some very beautiful settings. But what it has is sufficient to class this as light entertainment with laugh-provoking titles and several funny sequences. Patrons will enjoy this one and go home and forget about it. Where Colleen has a big draw, this light farce adapted from Broadway musical comedy will serve as well as any other vehicle.

Regarding the story, a British heiress runs away to escape marrying a bore—is picked up in a sailboat by a rum-runner and lands in America—Taking refuge in a shore residence, she meets the hero who is about to get married, and after many antics to escape detection as an imposter—she wins her man, aided and abetted by the always funny Ford Sterling.

"THE BUTTER AND EGG MAN"

First National
Directed by Richard Wallace
Featuring Jack Mulhall,
Greta Nissen, Sam Hardy.

Film is poor transition of corking stage play by George S. Kaufman. The plot is reduced to almost nil and the picture lacks vitality. Mulhall is listless and Nissen likewise. Picture can be played on double programs if rental is attractive.

Small-town with theatrical ambitions comes to New York to invest in production—is roped in by two partners with a show ready to open and no bankroll—after seeing the leading lady, the hick puts up his roll—the show fails but because of his love for the actress, our hero buys out the whole show which is revamped and finally succeeds. The picture has a novel surprise ending which is the best sequence in the film. Praise is due to Sam Harding and the title writer.

"THE SAW DUST PARADISE"

Paramount
Directed by Luther Reed
Story by John Watters
Cast Esther Ralston, Reed Howes, Hobert Bosworth and Tom Maguire.

Photographed by ?
The stereotyped story of a carnival girl being "saved" by the saw dust trail in the form of an evangelist to whom she had been entrusted on probation by a small town Justice after being caught "grifting" by the District Attorney.

It is a very poor program attraction and one of the worst coming out of Paramount since B. P. Schulberg has been in charge of production. There is nothing outstanding in the direction, acting or photography. Miss Ralston seems to be losing both her figure and her looks. This one has been treated with "Synchronization".

"THE RED MARK"

Pathe
Directed by James Cruze
Story by John Russell
Photographed by Ira Morgan
Featuring Nena Quartaro,
Gaston Glass

Production not one of Cruze's best and much too long—could lose two reels which wouldn't be missed—Cast not a strong one for first-run box-offices, though Glass, Rose Dione and von Seyffertitz give adequate performances.

Unusual story of French penal colony in Mid-Pacific—Ruthless Prison governor, whose hobby is executions, fastens his desires on the daughter of a paroled prisoner. A young French pick-pocket who has been released and preparing to sail for home also loves the girl—to prevent the marriage, the lover gets her under the protection of the church and also murders an emissary of the Governor's. He is sentenced to die, but just at the right time, it is disclosed that he is the Governor's son. Boy and girl unite in happy ending.

Sound Featurettes

"ACROSS THE BORDER"

Vitaphone—Featurette
Featuring Sarah Padden,
Frank Campeau, Roy Stewart
A dramatic sketch of life on a lonely Texan ranch with the best work being done by Campeau, veteran character actor. Sarah Padden's acting is repressed and colorless, which the role calls for, but handicapped by a metallic reproduction of her voice, it leaves the audience cold.

The rancher casts off his wife and child, sells everything and plans to decamp to another woman in Frisco—The neighboring ranchers find him out and track him to his cabin determined to get him dead or alive. The rancher's wife, in desperation, to save her son's name from disgrace, kills her husband.

"THE ASSASSIN OF GRIEF"

Vitaphone-Al Herman
Featuring Al Herman, popular vaudeville black-face comedian. His gags and stuff is well known wherever vaudeville is popular and this will serve as a nice filler-in on a serious talkie program.

Herman opens with a song and then puts over his gags and finishes with a song. Could have been more fresher and original but for the non-critical, the laughs are there.

"FRANCES WILLIAMS"

Vitaphone-Warner Brothers
Popular eccentric jazz songstress from the musical comedy stage accompanied by piano sings half a dozen numbers which for some reason or other do not register well.

They are put over in snappy form and typical Broadway style but the flavor isn't there. The songs are light and eccentric and could have stood better selection. The old trouble of vaudeville acts in allowing their material to get stale through repeated use through the years may affect talking featurettes of this sort and what they need are special new numbers that run no risk of not getting over.

"SOUTHERN REVELLERS"

Vitaphone
Very fine rendition of Southern spirituals so popular all over at the present time, sung by an excellent all-colored cast.

The opening of this skit, which is perfectly suited to sound, is on a cotton plantation, with the characters dressed as cotton pickers.

After their labor, they gather round the lowly cabin door and three splendid numbers are rendered with many encores, which audiences will like.

The songs sung were "Going Home", "Going to Fly All Over God's Heaven", and "Hallelujah."

Comedy is mixed with straight singing and the recording of the sound went over well.

FIRST NATIONAL GETS MIRACLE

Al Rockett En Route East to Confer on Production

After a controversy extending over two years, First National Pictures on Friday acquired the screen rights to Max Reinhardt's famous stage play, "The Miracle," according to a statement by Irving D. Rossheim, President of First National Pictures, Inc.

The title to the motion picture rights of what has been rated as one of the most important productions ever planned for motion pictures, has been clouded by litigation between First National Pictures, Inc., and Al. H. Woods on one side and Joseph Menchen and Metro-Goldwyn on the other side.

First National purchased the screen rights from Mr. Woods. Metro-Goldwyn arranged with Joseph Menchen for the screen rights to this spectacle. Both Mr. Menchen and Mr. Woods claimed ownership to the motion picture rights.

First National and Mr. Woods, represented by Max D. Steuer, sued Metro-Goldwyn and Joseph Menchen, who were represented by Cravath, DeGersdorf, Swaine and Woods, to clear the title to these rights.

Preparation Immediately

"First National will start immediately preparing 'The Miracle' for production," said Mr. Rossheim. "Al. L. Rockett, Production and Studio Manager, will leave Burbank within the next few days to come to New York to begin preliminary production plans."

"EXTRA" CRISIS IN W. C. PRODUCTION

By JOE BLAIR
Hollywood Correspondent

Extra players in Hollywood are having a hard time making ends meet. Times have been tough before but conditions now are worse than ever due to the recent craze for talking pictures by production heads at the various studio's.

Talking pictures, to date, have eliminated most of the big scenes that require extra's and with so many of the studio's concentrating on this form of production, players who have been depending on this type of work for a livelihood are being compelled to either starve, or seek other sources of employment.

A Universal Notice

Victor Nordlinger, casting director at Universal City has caused to be posted on all the bulletin boards the following notice:—

"Judging from our recent requisitions which have come in, it seems urgent that I re-issue an appeal which I made some time ago.

"It is an injustice to the poor extra man or extra woman, who is absolutely depending on extra work for a living to have the different relatives, wives, sisters, brothers, sons, and daughters of cameramen, property men, grips, and other members of the working staff, as well as secretaries' relatives, requested on the Casting Office requisitions.

"Anybody already employed on our lot and on the payroll should be man enough and proud enough to say that he is able to support his own family without asking the Studio to extend them charity.

"I know dozens of instances of people who need the work very badly, people who are practically starving, and who are cheated out of their work by the above mentioned procedure of giving the work to relatives of employees.

"Therefore, in order to better this condition I must ask your full cooperation to please refrain in the future from asking this office to put employees' relatives on the list."

3000 Fox Theatres by 1930

be centered around the "first run" house in newspapers that carry to every corner of the State.

Pay Production Cost

It is the scheme of the originators of this idea to have sufficient theatres to pay the entire production cost of pictures together with a healthy profit, aside from having theatres doing sufficient business to carry themselves and show a profit.

Sufficient Product

In the deluxe houses, Fox will have sufficient product to keep this type house going fifty two weeks a year, but in houses with changes of two or more times a week, outside product will be played.

Each State Finances

With over 350 theatres already in the Fox Chain, these figures being the last report being given out by the theatre Department, a solid foundation has been made. The chain includes such groups as the West Coast theatres, Fox's own circuit, the Poli Chain, the Midwesco group and others. The balance of 2500 theatres or so will be acquired among the 1000 and 1,500 seat type of house, classed as neighborhood and suburban houses. It is expected that 100 New York City theatres will be added within two weeks, through outright purchase. Other sensational deals will be sprung from time to time within the next two years; financing being done by Fox financial campaigns in each state where he is to acquire a chain.

New Movietone Film

The balance sheet as of June 30, 1928 shows total assets of $56,483,643 of which $19,620,127 are current and working assets. Current liabilities were $3,678,590.

"Aesop's Fables", encouraged by the success of "Dinner Time", will also be available in sound in addition to the regular issue in silent form. The sound issue will be based on the same material, except for the addition of synchronization.

Through synchronization of "Grantland Rice Sportlights" the public will now be able not only to see the famous sportsman's depictions of the last word in athletics, but also to hear him personally describe in layman's language the finer points of each particular game. These too will be continued in the "dumb" counterpart.

attractive rentals.

The invasion is definite this time, as witness the organization of J. D. Williams World Wide Pictures which will distribute 30 British International Pictures this year as well as other foreign product and novelties.

Add to this the organization of a new Gaumont-Canadian company in Canada, which will probably distribute their Gaumont pictures in the U. S. working through World Wide or their own agencies.

The third big link will take place shortly when the New Era Films in conjunction with a German production company will tie up here for an outlet of their product through an American distributor. This deal was concluded last week when E. Gordon Craig visited in New York.

Should the product of these three British companies meet with fair success at the box-offices of the country, there will follow a rush of other European product, and theatre patrons are in for a diversified year or two, what with sound pictures, silent, foreign and novelty productions of all sorts.

SIX DIRECTORS BUSY IN WARNER STUDIOS

HOLLYWOOD — Activities on the Warner Bros. lot are centered on twelve Vitaphone productions, several of which will be all-talking. Six directors have pictures before the cameras at the present time.

Lloyd Bacon is directing "Star! Mad", Bryan Foy is busy with "Queen of the Night Clubs" starring Texas Guinan, Archie Mayo is in the third week of production on "On Trial" with Pauline Frederick and Bert Lytell, F. Harmon Weight is megaphoning "Hardboiled Rose" with Myrna Loy and Conrad Nagel, Scott R. Dunlap is occupied with "One Stolen Night" and Ray Enright is working on "Stolen Kisses" starring May McAvoy.

The six pictures in the cutting room are George M. Cohan's great success, "The Home Towners", "The Redeeming Sin" starring Dolores Costello, "Conquest" starring Monte Blue, "My Man" starring Fannie Brice, "The Singing Fool" starring Al Jolson, and "Noah's Ark", Warner Bros. super-special in which Dolores Costello is starred.

FIVE CENTS

OBSERVATIONS

That Yarn

Our yarn regarding the activities of Mr. William Fox and his Fox Theatre's, Inc., seemed to have caused a little stir along the New York rialto. And, no doubt will cause a lot of thought, on the part of a few theatre owners. None question the activities of Fox and none seem to doubt, if he went out for 3000 theatres by 1930, he would get them. And that he will.

From Loew

We understand that the Loew Theatre Enterprises are going to build a house in Hoboken and one in Hackensack. Both in New Jersey and both in Stanley-Fabian strongholds. My! but this situation around New York with the chain theatres, might develop into a nice little battle. And don't think for a minute the battle is going to be confined to New York or New Jersey.

Carewe

Eddie Carewe is gaining the reputation of being the champion "space grabber" of pictures. He's a hound for publicity, and he should be, for publicity, more than anything else has Eddie riding on the top of the world. With Del Rio and a fat producing contract with United Artists he has no worry now . . . maybe more publicity. The story from Paris regarding his duel with Del Rio's former husband, made the first page all over the country. And his fainting act in Harry Wilson's cabin before his ship pulled out of New York harbor, was good for plenty of space.

Jannings Talks

A report from the Coast says that when Herr Jannings together with Ernst Lubitsch saw the synchronized version of "The Patriot" both started to talk, and in several different languages. This went on for some time, finally interpreters were brought in and what they relayed was plenty. The result being that "The Patriot" is going to have a new synchronization, minus sound effects and minus talk.

Operators Refuse to Join Chi. Musicians Walk-Out

The Musicians Union have failed to come to a compromise, the principal bone of contention being a demand by the union that "musicians who are dispensed with, within the season, must receive two dollars per day back salary."

The fight is over this requirement, Chicago exhibitors claiming they cannot afford this drastic demand. The other union demands specify which theatres shall employ orchestras with a minimum of four men and for how many weeks; a demand for four-week's notice instead of two; and despite installation of talkie apparatus, theatres must employ a minimum of six musicians excluding organists.

The union has employed Clarence Darrow to advise it on the Federal injunction and on Darrow's advice, the men walked out.

In St. Louis, an open break is threatened by the demand of the picture operators for an increase of $2.50 to $7.50 per week. 58 independent motion picture theatres in this district are opposing the demands, while the big first-run houses in the downtown district and those houses controlled by the St. Louis Amusement Company have already signed new contracts, granting increases to the operators.

In Washington, D. C., a threatened tie-up of the theatres by the operators was averted by the granting of concessions, whereby three more operators will be employed in two theatres.

A meeting was held in New York, with Julian A. Brylawski representing the theatre men. Additional conferences are being held for final settlements.

In Long Island, members of the I.A.T.S.E. walked out of houses in the Calderone Circuit located in Glen Cove, Westbury, Hempstead, Valley Stream and Lynbrook and local musicians threaten to join the stage maintenance men who are asking $77 per week.

In addition to Moss there is a group of bankers, no one seems to know who they represent, that have asked one of the important members of this exhibitor organization for a conference regarding the sale of some few of the theatres.

This bull market, so to speak, was no doubt brought on by the action of William Fox in making a bid for this independent chain. Much progress is reported on this deal and a definite understanding will be reached in a very short time.

Pomeroy's P-F-L Sound System Has Stars Flocking For Tests

By JOE BLAIR
Hollywood Correspondent

Mary Pickford and Harold Lloyd are all enthused regarding the Paramount-Pomeroy sound system. Both of them have had tests, at their own solicitation, and the result has caused these two artists to put sound and talk into their next pictures, probably with the system that Paramount is using. Other stars who have been using Movietone are besieging Paramount for immediate tests.

J. Roy Pomeroy has been working for quite some time, with a crew of assistants on this sound device for Famous. It differs from all others in that the sound and the photography are recorded on separate films and have to be run off on different machines when projected in theatres. This is being done at present with "Wings".

I was fortunate enough to see some of the rushes of Paramount's first talkie, "Interference" and having also seen the show, can state with fear of contradiction that the scenes I saw on the film are easily 100% more effective than the same scenes on the stage. It looks as if Paramount has the system, for as has been reported, the other "sound on film" recordings have been causing a lot of worry to other producers in that recording the sound and photography on the same film, depending on the developer to bring out both, either the voice or the photography is bound to suffer in this process. With Paramount, both are on separate film and as a result when developed both can be processed to take full advantage of this step.

The one drawback with the Paramount system is its expense. There must be two negatives, two sets of release prints and when it reaches the theatre, must be run off on two separate machines at the same time, requiring twice the supply of projectors and operators. This of course, is alright with the large Publix owned theatres, but what will happen in the small towns?

New Post-Office

for Universal City

Due to the enormous volume of mail now being handled at the Universal City postoffice, a government order advancing its status from third-class to second-class has been issued and plans are now under way at the studio to build a new and larger building in order to properly handle the thousands of letters received at the postoffice daily, according to announcement made yesterday by Carl Laemmle, president of Universal Pictures Corporation.

Melville Brown, the director, has been signed by Pathe to direct the production of "Geraldine". Eddie Quillan is the only member of the cast so far selected.

"Coquette" All-Talkie

Mary Pickford's Next

Mary Pickford will do an "all-talkie" for her next production.

Announcement has been made that Miss Pickford has bought the screen rights to the George Abbott-Anne Bridgers play "Coquette" now running on Broadway.

Sam Taylor will direct and production will start at an early date. Taylor is now in New York, as well as Allan MacNeill and Johnny Gray who will do the adaptation.

"Burlesque" Prize for

Ruggles' Direction

Preparation is being made on the Universal lot for the photographing of "Burlesque" in a big manner. Charles Furthman has been borrowed from Paramount to supervise the production. Casting has started and so far it looks as if Raymond Griffith will have the lead, with Bessie Love being the chief feminine player and Zazu Pitts an added starter. Wesley Ruggles seems to have the lead in the race for the directorship.

Explosion at P-F-L

HOLLYWOOD—A mystery explosion rocked the Famous Players-Lasky studios at 5451 Marathon Avenue, set fire to stage No. 8 and caused $10,000 damages before the resultant flames could be subdued.

The explosion, which occurred just before dawn when the studio grounds were deserted, blew up the floor and sides of the big stage and sent flames shooting 75 feet in the air.

Hollywood police were unable to determine whether the explosion was accidental or not.

"Salvage" a Hit

The Wesley Ruggles' Universal production "Salvage" had a preview in Hollywood last week and has set the whole town talking for many reasons. First being that, Wesley Ruggles has done a man sized job. It is his best effort to date. Second, Fred Mackaye, a find of Ruggles' steals the whole picture. Third, Mary Philbin and the remainder of the cast do very good work. The production in its entirety is excellent.

FIVE CENTS

OBSERVATIONS

House Organ

This publication has been printing so much about Fox, his theatres and productions recently, that before long we will be accused of running a Fox house organ. That would probably be a good idea with us, but William Fox would not think so much of it. We have been printing a lot about the operations of this individual and company due to only one reason, every move they have made has been good for a news story, and after all we pretend to be publishing a newspaper. (Believe it or not.)

"Noah's Ark"

Sid Grauman is going to have the "world premiere" of this Warner Brothers production. On first thought this booking might sound funny to some, what with this organization having a theatre in Hollywood doing a tremendous business and giving Grauman a lot to think about. It did to us, but with a minute for another thought, our conclusions were in another direction. There is hardly any question that Warner's have a great picture in this production. They want to give it as much dignity as possible, they want to place it on as high a plane, probably higher, than any production to date.

No Grind

Consequently, they figure to "two-a-day" the picture straight through for the next couple of years. Road show it in every important town in the world and after this tour is over, probably start all over again. The Warner's and everyone else we have seen who have viewed the production claim it will live for many, many years. We hope this is true, for as Harry Cohn, production head of Columbia said, "they deserve all they can get out of it, for when they started production, Warner's set out to spend a million or better and this is the first time in the industry, to my knowledge this was ever done and the producer ended with a great picture". We hope it opens in New York soon.

Competitive Pictures Crash P-F-L Outlets Lessening Playdates

It is not business depression alone which has the distribution and production executives of Paramount Famous-Lasky Corporation worried stiff, and which at the present time finds this organization over $5,000,000 behind in gross sales, for the 1928-29 quotas.

The huge total of bookings attained by Paramount in other years is slipping badly, due to many causes, coming at a time when exhibitors throughout the country are sitting back and booking little product, until they know which way the wind blows on the talking picture revolution, and which threaten to undermine the Paramount leadership of the industry in distribution and perhaps in production.

LOS ANGELES—Harold Franklin is holding a series of three conventions for the West Coast Theatres, Inc., personnel, the first having taken place at the Ambassador Hotel last week.

The second convention is in San Francisco today and the last meeting will be at the Olympic Hotel in Seattle on September 10th.

Franklin has announced a $1,150,000 newspaper campaign for the circuit during the next year. Howard Sheehan stated that Wesco had put $2,000,000 into sound equipment thus far and that by February 1st, 75% of the entire circuit will be wired.

Conference Last Night May Result in Big Cash Offer

William Fox and his officials in the Fox Theatres, Inc. yesterday afternoon met to take up consideration of the purchase of Walter J. Reade's chain of 27 theatres in New Jersey and New York.

Reade admitted yesterday that he had submitted the sale of his chain at a price approximately $24,000,000, the major portion of which will have to be in cash, and that up to the present had not received any counter-offers from Fox. He also was strongly of the belief that Fox would secure the chain and that he, Reade, would retire from the business. (Continued on page 2) is gradually replacing the pictures of Paramount, and other companies in the West Coast Theatre Circuit. When Fox took over control of the circuit, he had to go through with existing bookings throughout the chain, in which Paramount and M-G-M product figured strongly.

This year, all Fox product goes into Wesco and consequently Paramount's product is being shut out, with the result, that, in order for Paramount to get into Wesco Coast play-dates, they had to swap dates with Fox in some of their own strongholds. Regardless of these swaps, however, the company has not as many pictures in Wesco as heretofore, and certainly not as many in some of their own theatres where they have agreed to play Fox.

What is true of West Coast Theatres is also true of the Poli Circuit in New England where Fox was out and Paramount in, last year. Then too, Fox has been able to crash into the Saenger Theatres in the South this year, in which Paramount has had a large interest, through similar swapping of playdates, as in other Publix houses.

In addition to this, Paramount for the last couple of years has had very poor business in the small towns, due to the fact that their product is above the intelligence of the average small town patron.

This year, a heavy drive is being made for small-town business but it is found that considerable difficulty is encountered in meeting price competition of other principal distributors and independent releases, which have made a strong bid for the small-town play-dates, ever since Paramount went after bigger game.

Further, analysis of key city bookings, where Paramount has had no direct affiliation of theatre outlet of their own, reveals that exhibitors who formerly played a good percentage of Paramount product now find that they can make more money, on lower rentals, with pictures made by independent producers who have been making better product, insofar as the box-office is concerned, than ever before in their history.

It is the belief of those who have heard tests of Paramount's sound inventions, that as soon as the company is able to get out in the market with Paramount talking pictures, thereby proving conclusively that they are going into sound and not talking about it, the first step will have been taken to strengthen its former commanding position in the field of distribution.

The Reade chain comprises 6 theatres in New York State and 21 in New Jersey, the principal value of the circuit to Fox lying in the potential opposition to Stanley-Fabian domination of upper New Jersey, Fox has only three houses of prominence in that State, over in Elizabeth and two in Newark.

In New York State, Reade controls the Astor, Columbia, Bijou and Morosco. The lease on the Astor has six more years to run with M-G-M the present lessees. If Fox secures the Reade chain, the Astor may eventually be torn down for a new theatre and skyscraper for Fox, and with the addition of other chains in and around New York from time to time, will soon be reckoned the strongest producer-exhibitor in the East.

Kingston to Vote

KINGSTON, N. Y.—This city will vote next November on the question of Sunday movies. A referendum will be proposed.

Warner Bros. who arrived in New York from the coast Monday, stated that Grauman believes the production to be unqualifiedly the greatest picture ever filmed both because of its intrinsic dramatic value and because of the spectacular sweep with which it has been treated.

Director Michael Curtiz spent five months of actual shooting time at the cameras before the stupendous task of editing was undertaken. Extensive use of Vitaphone was another important element in its making, this being the first time that Vitaphone has been incorporated in a screen spectacle.

Dolores Costello occupies the stellar role with George O'Brien playing opposite her. Others in the lineup are Noah Beery, Louise Fazenda, Paul McAllister, Guinn Williams, Anders Randolph, Myrna Loy, Nigel de Brulier, Armand Kaliz, William V. Mong, Malcolm Waits and Joe Bonomo.

D. R. Hochreich Wins Vocafilm Injunction

F. Dudley Kohler's injunction suit to prevent transfer of Vocafilm to Brady, Woods and the Shuberts, was lost in the Supreme Court this week and Woods states that the deal for Vocafilm, involving $4,000,000 will now go through as originally planned.

The theatrical producers have not yet taken title to the stock but intend to exercise their option on the 500,000 shares necessary to control the talking-film process.

FOX IN STANLEY TERRITORY WITH 6

The long-talked of Fox theatre plan of opposition to Stanley in its stronghold, Philadelphia, has come to light with the announcement by William Fox that he would construct six or more theatres in that city, involving an expenditure of some $50,000,000.

The first one will be at 17th & Market Streets and together with an office building in which the 5,500-seat theatre will be constructed, will cost approximately $16,000,000.

This house will operate the largest symphony orchestra in a motion picture theatre, comprising 125 musicians. Fox Theatres will endeavor to complete six other houses within one year.

Bristolphone Claims Fool-Proof Device for Perfect Synchronization

A unique feature of Bristolphone, now marketed nationally by Gotham-Bristolphone, is the electrical re-synchronizing device the machine embodies and which allows for a simple adjustment if by any remote chance the synchronization between a talker's lips and sound should get out of register.

This is made possible by a re-synchronizing handle attached to the machine, convenient for the operator. By a simple manipulation, the same as might be done with the recording needle on a weight scale, if the needle pointed to several pounds ahead or before the zero mark while the scale was at rest, the re-synchronizing handle functions in bringing the sound to a point exactly where it is wanted.

Sues Mathis Estate

HOLLYWOOD—First National Pictures are suing the estate of June Mathis for $22,500, alleging that the late scenarist was under contract to them during 1926 at a salary of $1,500 per week. The claim is that she died before carrying out an agreement to write an extra picture in lieu of a sum of money received during 15 week's illness when she did no work.

RAYART ELIMINATES WESTERNS

Signs Big Stars for Sound Program

HOLLYWOOD — Rayart Pictures are making preparations to meet the sound and talkie problems, according to Trem Carr, producing head of Rayart, who during the past week took options on several sites looking toward the erection of special studios to house the Rayart-Carr units.

Already several players with speaking stage experience have been signed, including Henry B. Walthall, Gladys Brockwell, Tom Santschi and Mae Busch. Others will be placed under contract by Mr. Carr as soon as the necessary tests can be taken.

The Rayart-Carr organization has eliminated this year from its program the western, serial and comedy picture handled in the past, and will concentrate on twenty box-office productions of a much larger calibre than anything this organization has attempted in the past. Providing suitable synchronization arrangements can be made, a recently completed production "Sweet Sixteen", made by Trem Carr under the direction of Scott Pembroke, may be held back and music score and sound effects added.

FOUR M-G-M COMPANIES SHOOT ON LOCATION

There has been a general exodus of companies at the M-G-M studios; four big companies all filming major productions are on location.

Clarence Brown, directing John Gilbert and Greta Garbo in "A Woman of Affairs", has moved his company, including Hobart Bosworth, Lewis Stone and others, to the Busch gardens in Pasadena.

John Waters is directing Tim McCoy, Dorothy Janis and others in "Humming Wires" on a location at Glacier National park in Wyoming.

George Hill is directing Ramon Novarro, Anita Page, Gardner James, Ralph Graves and others at San Diego in the North Island naval air station, where they are filming "Gold Braid", a naval aviation story.

Sam Wood is directing Norma Shearer in "The Little Angel" on a beach location some miles from the studios with John Mack Brown, Gwen Lee and others of note in the cast.

theatres in New Jersey, laid consideration of the plan aside at the start of the summer, promising to present their final survey about this time, when the theatre situation was expected to have been considerably bettered.

George L. Record and Joseph Seider, who have been the leading spirits in the consolidation plan which would pool the business interests of all the independent theatres into a single holding company, for cooperative film buying and theatre purchasing, will be present at the meeting today to lead the discussion.

Seider is planning a 3-months' tour of Europe on business and pleasure and is booked to sail on the 29th.

RUGGLES—SCOFFIELD WRITING NEXT PHILBIN

Wesley Ruggles, the director and Paul Scofield, the writer, are very busy at the Ruggles shore house at Mailbu Beach writing the next story for Mary Philbin, which will be directed by Ruggles for Universal. Scofield and Ruggles have been together on several stories during the past two years.

Ruggles just recently finished a Philbin picture "Salvage" which caused a bit of talk around Hollywood at its preview the other night.

De Forest Stock Issue

LONDON—The De Forest Phonoflms, Ltd., is to be merged with a new company, called the British Talking Pictures, Ltd. which will take over the entire De Forest business.

A $2,500,000 capital is being floated and privately subscribed for. The British Consolidated investment Corporation is handling the floatation.

Clara Bow Signs New Paramount Contract

Clara Bow, the "It" girl, yesterday signed a new contract with Paramount. Now rated one of the most popular feminine star's in the movies, Miss Bow is said to receive almost 35,000 letters of admiration each month. Her newest film, "The Fleet's In", to be shown at the Paramount Theatre in a few weeks, is touted as her best effort to date. Miss Bow is now making "Three Week Ends", from an Elinor Glyn story.

"Bellamy Trial" Talkie

"The Bellamy Trial", directed by Monta Bell for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, will emerge as a talking picture, according to word from the coast. Rehearsals are now taking place for talking sequences in the film, which has a cast of twenty-nine principals. This production and "A Little Angel," Norma Shearer's forthcoming starring vehicle, will be the first two dialogue films on M-G-M's new season schedule.

STUDIO GOSSIP

Blanche LeClaire until recently a bit player at Paramount and M-G-M and a graduate of the Paramount school formed two years ago at the Paramount Astoria studio, has been given the role of the laughing blonde in "Trader Horn" soon to go into production under the direction of W. C. Van Dyke. It will be released by M-G-M.

Eleanor Boardman, the M-G-M player and not Marion Nixon, as reported in this column last week, will have the leading feminine role in the Henry King Inspiration picture "She Goes to War". It will be released by United Artists. The screen story will be done by John Gray and Alan McNeil.

C. B. DeMille has changed his mind. He is not going to film a crook story after all. His second guess is a big love story.

Fannie Brice left for New York today. After a short stay, she will return to Hollywood for more Warner pictures. Fannie will bring her two children this time.

Jacqueline Gadsden, just out of the extra ranks, has been assigned to play opposite James Murray in "The Mysterious Island". Production at M-G-M.

Speaking of M-G-M reminds us that everything looks set for Rod La Rocque joining this organization. They have been talking contract for weeks and it seems now that all the wrinkles have been ironed out.

Achmed, one of the feature parts in "Four Feathers", Paramount picture, has been assigned to Noble Johnson who is at present working with Dix in "Redskin".

Knute Erickson has been added to the cast of the Richard Barthelmess First National picture, "Scarlet Seas".

The Milton Sills company, making "Changelings" left yesterday for San Francisco to board the steamer Matsonia, sailing for Honolulu for exteriors. Dorothy Mackaill will play opposite Sills and Lee Garmes will photograph the picture.

Georgie Grande, has been signed by First National for the comedy role in "Ritzzy Rosie". Grande appeared on the stage in Hollywood in the Oliver Morosco production of "The Morning After".

Albert Conti and Tully Marshall have been added to the cast of the Gloria Swanson picture.

With 1500 men bowing and scraping before Douglas Fairbanks in one of the first shots of his picture "The Iron Mask" one Hollywood wag said it looked like "a convention of studio Yes men".

Karl Brown, the director, has been signed by Columbia to make "Wildcat".

Peter Milne, is doing the continuity on "The Head of the Family" for Gotham.

In a recent issue of the Toronto Star Weekly Peter B. Kyne, well known author and purveyor of a great number of screen stories, calls motion picture producers a bunch of jealous saps and adds that he "gets quite a kick out of putting one over on them, as I sold the same story twice to the same company and they never knew the difference."

Mr. Kyne goes further and states, "I have sold about fifty stories I believe, and of these I was able to recognize perhaps six in their screen forms, and that largely because they had credited them to me on the celluloid." "At that I believe I hold a record because other writers have never been able to recognize theirs at all".

"U" WAY AHEAD ON SCHEDULE--SLOW UP

By JOE BLAIR
Hollywood Correspondent

The Universal Studios have slackened the stiff production pace they have been running for the past ninety days, and aside from some Westerns, Serials and short reel subjects, things are pretty slow on the "U" lot.

This condition has been caused by the fact that the organization have most all of their program completed for the next nine months, the specials contemplated, will be held up until such a time that the studio is provided with sound stages and sound equipment, both of which are in the process of building and installing. And most of the specials on schedule will require these sound devices.

New Haines Starts

"A Man's Man" went into production last week at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio, with James Cruze and William Haines, the combination which just completed "Excess Baggage", in the roles of director and star.

Josephine Dunn, ex-New York show girl who played the feminine lead in "Excess Baggage", was given the chief feminine part in the new film as a reward for her earlier work.

Berger to Europe

Europe will temporarily reclaim one of its best known motion picture directors when Ludwig Berger returns to Germany and France early this fall to film one production. Berger, who is now under contract to Paramount, will leave for Europe as soon as he finishes directing Emil Jannings in "Sins of the Fathers". B. P. Schulberg, general manager of west coast production, announced today. The European director has been granted a four month's leave of absence by Paramount.

2 Warners Completed

Two more Vitaphone pictures went from the cameras to the cutting room at the Warner Studio this week. Director Ray Enright shot the last scenes of "Stolen Kisses" starring May McAvoy supported by Reed Howes, Edna Murphy, Agnes Franey and Claude Gillingwater.

"Hardboiled Rose", directed by F. Harmon Weight was also completed. This latter production features a cast headed by Myrna Loy, William Collier, Jr., John Miljan and Gladys Brockwell.

"Swanson Gaggling"

Recently in Hollywood, Gloria Swanson made a bet with some friends that she could present herself at the casting offices of the three largest studio's and with her face made up a bit and some shabby clothes on, ask for a job and be refused in all three places.

The studio's visited were M-G-M, United Artists and FBO. At each casting window she said that all of her friends had told her she resembled Gloria Swanson quite a bit and as a result thought maybe they could use her. In each instance she was turned down rather coldly.

OBSERVATIONS

"Odds and Ends"

We received a copy of a little (in size) publication, gotten out by Howard Deitz and we are chuckling yet. It is a gem, filled with personality, chuck full of laughs, logic, satire, a bit of philosophy and some little M-G-M advertising. It is the best stunt we have ever seen in this business. Maybe we should not call it a stunt, but whatever it is, it's THERE. We are waiting for the October copy.

Conditions

If you think conditions are bad with the small independently owned operator in so far as trying to determine what to book for his theatre for the coming season, have a look at the larger circuits. We understand that none of the large chains have definitely set in product for the coming season. There are some exceptions however, but few.

Quandry

The big fellow is in just as much a quandry as the little operator. He does not know what to book. Whether it shall be sound, synchronized pictures, or plain movies. None of them know what the studios are going to release, even the studios themselves are up a tree in this direction. Add to this the fact that those so equipped are attempting to make both a silent and sound version of every story but are up against the rub, what might be good for sound will not be for silent and vice versa.

Easy

Some of the larger independent distributors are making it easy for the circuit theatres in permitting them to date in and run pictures without contracts and no price set. This is a great mistake, as they will find out. If any theatre runs a picture or a series of pictures, the price should be set, first and always.

P-F-L SIGNS "RAIN" STAR FOR L. I. FILM

Paramount Famous-Lasky have signed Jeanne Eagels, noted star of "Rain" to appear in Somerset Maugham's play "The Letter."

This picture will be directed by Monta Bell in the Paramount Long Island studio, with production to start within a month. Exhaustive tests of the stage star are being made at Long Island now.

Miss Eagels made one film with John Gilbert for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and looked extremely well in most of it.

CHICAGO THEATRE TIEUP IN ARBITRATION STAGE

CHICAGO — The difficulties between the Musicians Union and representatives of 85% of the city's theatres, out of which the musicians walked last Saturday, may be arbitrated this week by B. H. Marshman, federal conciliator of the Department of Labor.

Union officials are standing pat on their demands and do not expect any settlement. In addition they now threaten to call out the picture operators and close all of Chicago's theatres.

Thomas Maloy, business agent for the operators, and George Browne, head of the stage hands organization, delivered their ultimatums early (Continued on page 2)

"Terror" Creates Record

The house record at the Warner Theatre on Broadway was shattered last week by the gross obtained by Warner Bros. second 100% talking picture, "The Terror". The new record tops that previously established by Al Jolson in "The Jazz Singer."

Paramount Ahead

The exclusive Daily Review story on drop in Paramount sales of $5,000,000 over a year ago drew comment from Paramount officials yesterday.

Charles E. MacCarthy, head of the Publicity department states that the company is not $5,000,000 behind in sales but is several hundred thousand dollars ahead over their sales of last year.

SAN DIEGO TO GET BIG FOX THEATRE

SAN DIEGO—A $1,500,000 theatre and building will be erected on "B" street here, to be used by the Fox Films Corporation. The site has been acquired by the Gildred Brothers Building Company, and is two blocks from the El Cortez Hotel.

Officials of the Fox Corporation are said to be pleased with the prospects of getting a modern theatre in San Diego. The lease will be signed within the next few days and the theatre will be completed within a year.

Walker Closes Deal

Johnny Walker concluded a deal yesterday with Educational Films for the release of thirteen single-reel novelties, to be known as the "What Would You Do in a Case Like This" series.

The pictures will be produced by Nat Cordish on the West Coast.

Thousands Turned Away at Demonstration in Admiral Palast

"Today's Cinema"

LONDON—British Phototone, Ltd., have obtained control of an important German sound-film company, the Lignose-Horfilm, G.M.B.H., who possess a film-disc synchronizing device. The company is affiliated to Nobels.

The first public demonstration of the apparatus in Germany was given in Berlin recently at the Admirals Palast, with 3,000 people in the theatre for the demonstration and thousands of others turned away. (Continued on page 2)

UFA Opens Two New Theatres in Berlin

UFA Productions have recently opened two new motion picture theatres in Berlin. The first was The Kammerlichtspiele at the Palace of The Nations, Potsdamer Platz. The new UFA Production, "Zufucht" is the first picture presented there.

In the western part of Berlin, UFA opened the Universum Theatre which is the largest theatre in Berlin. The first feature presented in that theatre is the UFA circus picture, "Looping The Loop".

Roxy Theatre Stock in Exchange Rumor

Roxy Theatre stock yesterday came in for a share of feverish activity in the "street" with rumors again rampant of a possible swap for Fox Theatres "A" and a retirement of Roxy Class "A".

There was exhibited a strong buying power in the Roxy common stock, several brokerage houses reporting large turnovers. The stock is callable at 50, plus accrued dividends and two dividends were paid recently on June 1st and August 7th, of 87½c.

Warner "Corner"

Wall Street informants yesterday predicted that Goldman Sachs & Company, together with other associates, are effecting a corner in Warner Brothers stock, in order to make "short" interests pay up to $250 a share for the stock.

The same explanation of the 21 point rise in Warner this week, was given by the 'sharps' who state that it was a squeezing of the short interests in this stock.

By Dr. R. OTTO

BERLIN—The International Federation of Exhibitors voted at the International Film Congress last week, has expressed the hope that the independent theatre owners of America may decide to join the Federation.

Another plan which arose at the Conference, that of extending the German Exhibitors' Producing Syndicate (D.L.L.) beyond the German borders and transforming it into a European syndicate is creating quite a discussion.

FOX HAS 24 POINT RISE IN 1 MONTH

Although Warner stocks have been holding every eye recently through sensational developments, there has been a slow but steady advance in Fox Film "A".

This stock since the beginning of August where it was hovering around 79 has seen a five or six point rise each week, until yesterday the stock closed at 103½; a gain of 24 points in more than a month.

Fox Theatres "A" has also been creeping up slowly and yesterday closed at 31½.

Bronx "Ritz" Reopens Dashkin Managing

"The Ritz Theatre", at 180th Street and Boston Road, Bronx, which was formerly owned and closed by the Jolson-Suchman Enterprises, has been taken over by Irving Dashkin and Simon Osberman, the landlord of the building, and will reopen shortly.

The theatre is being entirely renovated, redecorated, and re-equipped. Irving Dashkin will have control of the operation of the theatre.

THEATRE WAR LOOMS FOR B'KLYN PATRONAGE

A new theatre war in Brooklyn is maturing, with Loew, Fox and Paramount in the forefront with brand new theatres and large seating capacities.

Loew's owns the Universal Theatre, Fox opened their new house last week and Paramount's new theatre will open in November. Theatre chain officials are looking dubiously at the Brooklyn territory, some of them even prophesying poor business for the 'big three' operators within the next year, due not so much to competition, as the fact that Brooklyn patrons are too near to Manhattan and prefer to get their pictures new on Broadway rather than seeing them a week old in Brooklyn.

1st Nat'l. Acquires "Companionate Marriage" Sax-Lindsey Production

"Companionate Marriage", one of the most sensational stories ever filmed, has been acquired by First National Pictures, Inc. It will be released in October.

The picture is a dramatization of Judge Ben Lindsey's famous book, probably the most talked of book in America. The exploitation possibilities due to the tremendous advertising the title has gained are practically unlimited.

The film was produced by Sam Sax of Gotham Productions and includes in the cast Betty Bronson, Alec Francis, Richard Walling, Hedda Hopper, Arthur Rankin and Edward Martindel.

Busy Baclanova

Baclanova, Paramount featured player, will play one of the important roles in support of George Bancroft, star of "The Wolf of Wall Street". The Russian player is now working in "Avalanche", one of the Zane Grey special productions.

Denny's Director Bug

Reginald Denny, the Universal star, has a bug to become a director. He is telling everyone in Hollywood that after this coming year he is going to quit acting to take up the megaphone.

Lawrence at Fox

Florence Lawrence, idol of screen fans of a past generation when she starred with Biograph and other companies is still in pictures.

Her most recent screen work was in the Fox Film "Me, Gangster" directed by Raoul Walsh and featuring Don Terry and June Collyer.

Chevalier In Oct.

A motion picture with an international appeal, enhanced by vocal and musical synchronization, will serve as the vehicle to introduce to the world's screens Maurice Chevalier, who is considered the most magnetic personality on the European stage. He arrives in the Hollywood film colony early in October.

FIDELBAUM GETS M-G-M FOREIGN PROMOTION

Arthur Fidelbaum, after a stay of six months in Brazil and two years in the Argentine, from which district he managed South America (exclusive of Brazil) for M-G-M, has been transferred to the home office of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's International Department as special representative.

Carl Sonin, manager of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's Cincinnati exchange for one year and now manager of its New York office, will leave for Buenos Aires in Mr. Fidelbaum's place on September 15.

Will Green Back

Will Green of the Will Green Productions, New York, is back from a short vacation up-state.

STUDIO GOSSIP

Harry Meyers, the screen comedian has been assigned an important part in the M-G-M production "Adrienne Lacouivreur", which is being directed by Fred Niblo.

Walter Lang has been signed by Tiffany-Stahl to direct "The Spirit of Youth".

M-G-M have signed Leo Carrillo for the featured lead in "Lombardi Ltd." Carrillo will have the same part he portrayed in the stage version of this story. This is the second time "Lombardi" has been done in pictures. The old Metro company did it years ago.

Pathe will do a Marine story under the title of "Leathernecks" with Alan Hale and William Boyd playing the leads. Howard Higgins will direct.

Forrest Halsey has been engaged to write the screen story for "Saturday's Children" which will be the next Corrine Griffith production for First National. Halsey did the scenario on "The Divine Lady" for the same star.

The next "Collegians" for Universal will be "The Bookworm Hero". Nat Ross will direct.

The first Vitaphone Roadshow to have Monte Blue as its star was completed this week when Director Roy Del Ruth finished the last scenes of "Conquest", a story of adventure in the Antarctic by Mary Imray Taylor. Blue in the leading role of the aviator-explorer will be heard speaking lines when the picture is ready for exhibition in its Vitaphone version. H. B. Warner, Lois Wilson, Edmund Breese and Tully Marshall play the principal supporting parts.

Roland Drew has been signed for one of the leading parts in the next Dolores Del Rio picture "Evangeline".

David Torrence has been signed by Fox for the Murnau picture "Our Daily Bread".

James Cruze has cast Mae Busch for the role of Hazel, the hard boiled friend in the M-G-M production "A Man's Man". William Haines to star.

Vera Gordon will attempt a different sort of Jewish mother role when she returns to the coast from New York next week to take over the part of Mrs. Feitelbaum in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's film version of Milt Gross' "Nize Baby". Harold Waldrige and Alexander Carr are the only other members of the cast of this picture so far selected.

Eva Novak has been added to the cast of the Paramount Richard Dix picture "Red Skin". She will play the only white woman character in the story.

Lila Lee will play opposite Johnnie Harron in the Tiffany-Stahl production "The Man in Hobbles". George Archainbaud will direct.

FIVE CENTS

OBSERVATIONS

Warner—Stanley

It begins to look as if the "oft-denied" deal that will bring Warners, Stanley and First National together, is almost a reality. On every side we hear it and the more it is denied the more we believe it. If this deal goes over, it would look as if the story printed by this publication some time ago to the effect that Adolph Zukor had bought a controlling interest in Warner-Vitaphone, was a lot of bunk.

Might Be

That might be. But we doubt it. And will continue to believe that our original story is true. You know, with the onrush being made by the Fox interests both in production and theatre operations, a lot of things could and would happen in this industry to either head this move off or at least run with it, neck and neck.

The cards have been shuffled and the play is on. There is a lot of money in the pot for the winner. And with so much at stake, anything can happen. A lot of surprises are in store.

Salesmen

It looks as if this will be a bad year for the motion picture salesman. It is a cinch a lot of them are going to pass out of the picture for the reason that theatre chains are growing larger and even now, a sales manager in New York can book his pictures from coast to coast without moving away from his desk. And without the aid of ANY sales force. This condition added to the fact of several big mergers of distributing organizations, greatly diminishing sales positions, a lot of boys will have to seek other lines of endeavor.

Right now, most of the sales force in any organization is restricted to small towns and neighborhood strings in the cities.

FBO Officials Off to Chicago for Confab

A regional sales meeting will be held by FBO at the Drake Hotel, Chicago, on Sunday, September 9th, for the discussion of sales and distribution problems.

J. I. Schnitzer, senior vice-president in charge of distribution, E. B. Derr, treasurer, and Lee Marcus, general sales manager, have already entrained for Chicago.

Others who will attend the meeting include, Charles Rosenzweig, New York State Sales Manager, William Dahler, Chief Statistician and other Sales managers.

Porter Evans Heads B'klyn-Vita Plant

Porter H. Evans, who for the past eight years has been connected with the Bell Telephone Laboratories as Radio Engineer, has joined the Vitaphone Corporation as engineer in charge of the new Vitaphone studio, in Brooklyn, according to an announcement made public by George E. Quigley, Vice-President of the Vitaphone Corporation.

It is anticipated that the new Brooklyn Vitaphone studio will be in operation about the middle of October.

M-G-M Signs Big Array of Movietone Talent--30 B'way Stars on Roster

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer yesterday added more than a dozen big names of the vaudeville, musical, comedy and operatic stage to their roster of movietone featurette stars.

Frances Williams of George White's "Scandals", will do at least one vocalized film subject for M-G-M, as will Robert Chisholm, star in the Arthur Hammerstein operetta, "Golden Dawn," which recently closed a long-run engagement in New York.

Other artists signed by this company for sound shorts include John Charles Thomas, tenor; Allan Prior, the Australian tenor; Ella Shields, English singing comedienne; George

Fox and Publix Acquisitions Endangering Future Vitaphone Outlets

With the closing of a Warner-Stanley merger, expected before many more hours, the combined companies will practically serve notice to the industry that they are stepping out for theatre holdings in a big way and with a scope which will cause even greater surprise than the closing of this deal.

FOX HITS 109½ IN 30 PT. STOCK GAIN

Fox Film "A" yesterday added 6½ points to its total of 24 points gained during the past month and a half and has created a new high mark of 109½.

Other leaders among film stocks were Warner Brothers "A" with a 5¼ point gain to 122 and the "B" with a 3¾ point gain to 117½. Paramount was up 1½ to 145½.

GOURLAND SAILING

First A. E. P. Release Here Is "Escape From Hell"

Michael J. Gourland, President of the Affiliated European Producers with headquarters in New York, will sail shortly for Europe to make a plea for free trade of motion pictures among all nations.

His company has succeeded in closing a deal for some of the European product, over the Loew Circuit.

The first A.E.P. release in this country will be "The Escape From Hell", a Derussa film.

Although Harry M. Warner, a few days ago, told the Daily Review, that Warner Brothers were "not interested in theatres, for the reason that every theatre in the country is clamoring for Vitaphone product, so why should we have to buy houses?" Recent developments in the theatre field and on the stock market have caused a right-about-face on this proposition.

Much talk on the part of contemporary companies, anent the mysterious and spectacular rise in the value of the Warner stocks has been to the effect that this stock is over-inflated, that despite the tremendous (Continued on page 2)

SETTLE CHI STRIKE THEATRES REOPEN

The threatened tie-up of all of Chicago's motion picture theatres did not have a chance to transpire yesterday, as the strike was settled, with both sides, the musicians and the theatres winning major concessions.

Warners Out for Theatres Bidding for 2 Large Chains income from Warner-Vitaphone attractions at present and expected this coming year, the company has no great physical property valuations or company assets to justify a rise of over 70 points in less than a year, and that only such physical assets would ordinarily indicate the solid position of a company which has received so much financial interest on the 'street'.

Further then, while Harry Warner's statement might have been true up to now, the fact that William Fox and Publix are out marketing every day for houses to add to their string, and the Fox outfit especially has set its goal for 3,000 paying theatres for Fox product, Warners, in order to compete with these organizations will have to have a string of theatres equally as big, in order to insure outlets for their product. There may be a time, when sound and dialogue product of other companies will usurp the advantages gained by Vitaphone and out-draw it at the box-offices of the country. The Warner-Stanley combination will have to buy and buy plenty.

Because of the Stanley-First National Voting Trust Pool and operation of First National by Stanley contract, Warner Brothers may be angling for access to the franchise-theatre outlets of First National and a considerable chain of first-run houses will be added to Stanley's 255.

With Warners buying to head off the onward rush of Fox and Publix, this bull movement is considerably accentuated. The mad dash for theatres is on and those exhibitors that have a good theatre in a good spot are sitting pretty high.

Adding a solid background of several hundred theatres, the Warner stock may very well be on such a foundation, that the talked about corner of Goldman Sachs & Company, which intends to run the stock up to 250, will succeed, without fear of a substantial drop in price possibly caused by a lessening of picture-profits at the box-office.

Dresser on Fox Contract

As a result of her marvelous work in the production of "Mother Knows Best", Louise Dresser has been signed on a long term contract by Fox.

Joseph Kennedy and Schenck Contested Gilbert Contract

HOLLYWOOD — An interesting story is making the rounds concerning the check-mating of J. P. Kennedy by Nicholas M. Schenck, president of M-G-M.

It concerns the services of John Gilbert whose contract expires around the first of the year. Along with other offers received from several big companies, Gilbert is said to have been approached by Kennedy, to place him under personal contract.

Nick Schenck, it is understood brought some heavy pressure to bear from the theatre end of the industry, which caused Kennedy to lay off poaching on other preserves.

Gilbert recently said he would prefer remaining with M-G-M if proper terms should be reached. It not, the star may be elevated to the ranks of United Artists stars, with United Artists perhaps doing the financing.

Barthlemess To Talk.

Announcement has been made on the coast that Richard Barthlemess will make a talkie for First National immediately upon the completion of his present picture. The story "Weary River" will serve as the vehicle. It was written by Courtney Riley Cooper.

Ford On Fox Special

Jack Ford, the Fox director, has been designated by Winfield Sheehan as the director to make the big Fox special "Capt. Lash" in which Victor McLaglen will star. The story is by Charles Francis Coe and will go into production on the completion of "Napoleon's Barber" now being made by Ford.

Considine to New York

John W. Considine, Jr., studio head of United Artists is returning again to New York within the next few days to work out production plans for the Harry Richman pictures "Say It With Music" to be made at the Cosmopolitan Studio.

Carrier Not In Charge of K. C. "U" Theatre

L. M. Garman, Managing Director of the Uptown Theatre, Kansas City, will remain at that post, according to the latest advices issued by the Universal Chain Theatrical Enterprises, Inc.

Through an error, it was reported that Mr. James Carrier, at present manager of the Capitol Theatre, Atlanta, Georgia, was to be transferred to that post. Martin Finkelstein will remain as supervisor of the six Universal suburban theatres in Kansas City.

Settle Detroit Contract

The contract differences between the Detroit Motion Picture Operators Union and the theatre owners has been satisfactorily settled for the next year, concessions having been granted on both sides.

A 30% increase in the wage scale over the present contract which expires on August 31st had originally been asked, which brought threats of a lockout or a shutdown by the exhibitors.

STUDIO GOSSIP

Alice White, is getting another great costume break in her coming First National picture "Ritzy Rosie". In "Show Girl" she had 22 changes of costumes.

Esther Ralston has been assigned the starring lead in the forthcoming Paramount picture "High Society". Production will start on the completion of "The Case of Lena Smith", the present Ralston production and it will be directed by Victor Schertzinger.

George Fawcett has to be booked away ahead these days. At present he is working at United Artists in "The Love Song". Immediately following this he will go to Warners to appear in "Fancy Baggage" to be directed by John Adolph.

Alberta Vaughan, has been signed for an important role in "Queen of Burlesque" to be made by Tiffany-Stahl with Belle Bennetts the star.

Robert Armstrong has been given the leading male role in the Pathe production "The Shady Lady". The Lady in question will be played by Phylis Haver.

Mary Duncan, departed a few days ago, with the company going on location at Pendleton, Ore., to begin work on "Our Daily Bread", the Murnau Fox special. This is Mary's first location trip.

Lowell Sherman, the stage and screen player, is going to act and produce a play in Hollywood from the pen of James Gleason.

Lola Todd has been cast for the lead opposite Rex Bell in "The Saint of Calamity Gulch". Bret Harte wrote it.

"Avalanche" has been definitely set as the title for the John Barrymore Ernst Lubitsch-United Artists picture now in production.

Sam Hardy and Bert Roach have been added to the cast of the William Haines-M-G-M picture, "A Man's Man".

Julian Johnson is writing the dialogue titles for the Paramount talkie "Interference".

PICTURE REVIEWS

"HER CARDBOARD LOVER"

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer

Directed by Robert Z. Leonard
Featuring Marion Davies,
Jetta Goudal, Nils Asther

Photography John Arnold
Story just a string of amusing capers for Marion Davies who is entertaining enough for her fans who are legion—Direction is adequate and photography and settings very good—as a plot or drama it is nil and picture will only make real money where Davies is popular.

American flapper in tourist party stopping at the Riviera is an auto-graph hunter, and falls in love with handsome tennis champion who is a willing prey for another local vamp—Marion agrees to help him resist the fair charmer and as can readily be guessed, he finally falls a victim of Miss Davies' wiles.

Asther as the fly in the spider's web is fascinating in appearance and will win adherents among the fans, but Marion Davies is the deux ex machina of this picture, carrying her part with dare-deviltry and complete assurance.

"MANHATTAN KNIGHTS"

Excellent—State Right

Directed by Burton King
Featuring Barbara Bedford,
Walter Miller.

Good society drama for houses playing independent product; while cast is not exceptional, it is adequate. Interest throughout is well sustained. Will fill nicely on double program.

Senator's son is accused of murder, although crime is committed by gambling ring, of which the son is a blackmail victim. The wealthy sport's girl overhears the gamblers' plot to fasten the crime on her lover—the girl also recovers a forged check on the boy's father, which the murdered man had in his possession. The boy and girl are trapped by the villains, and a fire accidentally starts from which they are rescued by the fire department, summoned by a note for help, which an organ-grinder's monkey catches. The villains are captured and the lovers united.

The fight between the hero and the villain is well done.

"THE AIR CIRCUS"

Fox

Directed by Howard Hawks,
Lew Seiler
Featuring Arthur Lake,
David Rollins, Sue Carol

Camera B. Clarke
Not an auspicious vehicle for the first of the Movietone dialogue features—story weak and incredible—cast not box-office draw—direction ordinary, photography and titling fair. Not enough meat in this picture for more than a two-reeler. Movietone dialogue sequence is well done and picture could have stood more of it.

Two youths, one, the brother of a famous aviation 'ace' who died in the war, plan to go to flying school. "Speed" has no mother to object, but the other kid's mother, remembering the loss of her oldest son, refuses to give permission but finally relents—At school this youngster fails to become a flyer through fear, which he believes is cowardice, and he promises his mother he will never fly. He remains at the school, however, as a mechanic, but through bravery becomes a real flyer.

"CELEBRITY"

Pathe—Ralph Block Prod.

Directed by Tay Garnett
Featuring Robert Armstrong,
Clyde Cook, Lina Basquette.

Photography Peverall Marley
Production too weak to draw in any but tank towns. Story is intended as satire on Gene Tunney. Only two worth-while sequences in the film—the fight for the championship and the reconciliation between the fighter, his manager and the girl.

Fight manager grooming his pug for the championship, decides on a publicity campaign which will surround the fighter with a respectable background and literary ambitions—he falls in love with his hired fiancée, but she is steered off by the manager—his literary efforts are also poked fun at by the papers, all of which tends to get his goat, but do not prevent him from winning the championship and the girl.

The hit of this picture is Clyde Cook in a straight role. Basquette would look more attractive with less weight and Armstrong's personality in this role is less than colorless.

"THE WATER HOLE"

Paramount

Directed by F. Richard Jones
Photographed by Zane Grey
Story by Jack Holt,
Cast Nancy Carroll, John Boles, Ann Christy

Label this one "plot No. 44, western type". Fair entertainment if you like the movies in the wide open spaces. Concerns a bet made by a "deb" that she can get the man to propose to her. Instead he kidnaps her, gives her a little stern treatment, is rescued by the boy friend, the three of them get stranded in the desert, BUT everything turns out O. K.

F. Richard Jones did a neat piece of work with the yarn, meaning the direction was good. The photography was excellent. Mr. Holt and Miss Carroll did their best in the parts allotted to them.

"SISTERS OF EVE"

Rayart—Irem Carr Prod.

Directed by Scott Pembroke
Featuring Creighton Hale,
Anita Stewart, Betty Blythe

An unusual story told in an interesting manner, although badly cut—could stand losing half a reel and smoothing out of sequences—the fine cast helps out immeasurably and if you have open play-dates that need filling at a good buy, book this one.

Two sisters, part of a vaudeville team, are a study in contrasts, one good, the other evil—the evil one marries a rich man, who disappears on his wedding trip—he is later discovered in captivity and being tortured until driven insane—the wife is milking him of all his wealth. The good girl meanwhile leaves her family and is found destitute by a queer humanitarian, who falls in love with her; her evil sister tries to win this man away from her but fails.

A few more like this and the big fellows will be watching Rayart closely for some big things following the example of other first-class independent picture producers, whose year this seems to be.

"STATE STREET SADIE"

Warner-Vitaphone

Directed by Archie Mayo
Featuring Conrad Nagel,
Myrna Loy, William Russell.

Another underworld play, which, even with several Vitaphone sequences, cannot compare with predecessors of the silent variety. The film however, as with all other talkies today will draw people to the box-office without doubt and you can count on 70% of your audience being pleased with it.

The wealthy brother of a boy of the underworld arrives to take the lad (Both parts Conrad Nagel) out of that deadly life, but finds he has committed suicide—Nagel swears vengeance on the Chief and worms his way into the gang through mistaken identity. He falls in love with a girl whose father, a policeman, was killed by the gang—together they work for the destruction of the gang, succeed, and then marry.

Myrna Loy and Russell do not score in their parts and neither is Nagel so hot, mis-casting probably being the reason. Audience comment favored George Stone as stealing the picture.

"KIT CARSON"

Paramount—Thompson

Directed by Alfred Werkes,
Lloyd Ingraham

Featuring Fred Thompson
Photography Mack Stengler

Western fans will like this Thompson production, which is his best from a production standpoint—Scenic values are tremendous and Silver King, the horse, gives his usual intelligent performance. Chalk one up for the photographer.

Kit Carson helps to depict the historical struggle of the white men to blaze new trails into the wilderness. There is a love story between Carson and an Indian maid as well as a Spanish girl, whom he leaves when duty calls.

Carson rescues the daughter of the chief of the hostile tribes who for love follows him through the wilderness.

The Indian stuff is technically perfect and the canyon scenes are. The climax and death scene is a trifle over-drawn. It will be a long while before Thompson makes another "Kit Carson".

Sound Featurettes

"A REGULAR BUSINESS MAN"

Vitaphone—2-Reel Sketch

Featuring Robert Ober,
John Sainpolis, Margery Meadows

Book this talking featurette to fill out your sound picture program. Small town theatres especially, will welcome this talking skit which is better than a vaudeville sketch. Excellent direction and deft handling of the situations, holds the interest of the audience all the way through.

Except for the false foundation upon which the story is built, that in which a lawyer is pictured earnestly imploring and soliciting business, which is generally considered unethical, the tale is a novel one. This lawyer, a ne'er-do-well, without ambition, is given one hour in which to make good, by his sweetheart who is disgusted with him, and he does.

"THE HOSTESS"

Vitaphone-Featurette

Featuring Sally Fields
Musical comedy favorite in a cycle of songs and patter in which Hebrew dialect is freely used. The entire performance while presented in good fashion is not the best of material.

The girl is appearing as a performer in a night club and gives comedy monologs and songs. With better material, Miss Fields might create a bigger hit.

"CLIFF NAZARRO"

Vitaphone—Nazarro & Girls

Cliff Nazarro, youthful vaudeville favorite is seated at the piano and sings comedy number; then launches into dance number for which he is noted, and completes the routine with a song, nicely put over.

Two Marjorie Girls come on and deliver several negro spiritual songs, one of the girls strumming a banjo. The girls get over successfully to the accompaniment of the Vitaphone orchestra.

Bryan Foy has tried hard with this skit, but the material is not as fresh as might be, this being the tendency with the first of the vaudeville stars being recorded by Vitaphone.

"ADELE ROWLAND"

Vitaphone-Warner Brothers

Songstress of renown sings four numbers two of them newer than the others. Setting is an ordinary drawing-room with piano and accompanist but sufficient for the personality of Miss Rowland.

Each of the numbers is good for rounds of applause and the last of her numbers, a southern jazz melody will climax the act very nicely.

FIVE CENTS

OBSERVATIONS

Are We Wrong?

We have been taken to task by quite a few of those, who seem to have the time and the patience to read this column, on the score that our attitude towards talking pictures is "all wrong" and before devoting more space on this subject "you should get more information". We welcome the suggestion, but where is the information coming from? We have seen all the "talkies" shown to date and a couple that have not been displayed, as a result of this visual information we are of the same opinion expressed by Joe Schenck. But if some one is holding information from us and feel interested sufficiently to let us in on it, we would grab at the opportunity of changing this opinion, which is entirely personal.

For It

We are for sound in so far as synchronizations and effects are concerned. Not in their present forms of course, for they are terrible. But when they get the music and effects perfectly timed and appropriately selected, we feel it will be of general benefit to pictures.

Pickford

From what we can gather, regarding the decision of Mary Pickford to do a "talkie" for her next, we feel certain, good or bad, this will be a tremendous box office attraction for the reason that Miss Pickford's fans, both past and present, would walk a mile to hear her voice on the screen. This vast audience will be extremely anxious for the showing of "Coquette".

Gotham

It seems like Gotham, with two sound stages all set in the East and another under construction on the coast, has sneaked up on the sound leaders. It means that this organization can step out immediately with sound pictures and will not have to wait their turn at the different recording laboratories, as this is the case with most of the other producers, permitting Sax's company to be out with sound pictures, in any variety, thereby taking advantage of the present tremendous box office craze.

PHONOFILMS ON MARKET SOON WITH NEW DE FOREST PATENTS

Warners Outbidding Fox for 80 N. Y. Independent Theatres

Warner Brothers are not letting any grass grow under their feet, now that they have determined to acquire their share of theatre outlets. In addition to their negotiations for the Stanley and K-A-O chain, propositions were made last week to the owners of New York's independent theatres, some of whose theatres Fox has previously obtained options on. Warners are raising the ante and may outbid Fox for the group of 80 houses in New York.

Even if the Stanley-K-A-O deal, the closing of which may be a long ways off, the independent group of houses will fit very nicely into the plans of the Warners, as they will easily outnumber any chain that Fox, Publix or Loew can muster in the Metropolitan district.

It may also transpire that offers will be made by Warners for the Reade chain of houses, if Fox delays too long in meeting the cash requirements Reade is asking. Adding about 20 houses in New Jersey to the Stanley chain in New Jersey will materially strengthen the Fox and Loew invasion of that territory, which is now under way.

There is little doubt that Warner Brothers can arrange the necessary financing for the acquisition of theatres, there being plenty of Wall Street money behind Warner bankers, and enough reason behind the move, for strengthening the picture position of the company.

STANLEY-UTICA IN BIG GALA OPENING

The new Stanley-Moe Mark Theatre in Utica will have a grand opening tonight, a civic and theatrical program of extra proportions having been arranged by Moe Silver and Irving D. Rossheim.

The straight film policy will also use Vitaphone and Movietone featurettes. B. Depkin, Jr., of Baltimore will be the manager of the house while Nicholas Gualillo will conduct the orchestra.

Jessy Lasky, in a letter to The Daily Review denied the report published in this paper some time ago that there was a probability of Richard Barthlemess being engaged by the Paramount organization for the leading role in their contemplated production of "An American Tragedy".

Big Rush of New Talking-Film Cos.

There have been a dozen new organizations started within the past few weeks, to engage in the promotion of talking picture apparatus and synchronization.

The three latest to be formed on Saturday were the Uniphone Corporation of America, with 2,000 shares of common stock, the American Sound Film Productions and the General Talking Pictures Corporation.

Brown Heads West on Pathe Mission

Colvin W. Brown, Executive Vice President of Pathe, left on Saturday for the West Coast where he will confer with production officials at the Pathe Studios in Culver City regarding plans for next season's pictures.

Completes Improvements for New Form of Entertainment

The picture industry may shortly see another competitor of sizeable proportions in the talking-picture field, through the coming organization of a company which will handle the perfected methods of Lee De Forest's Phonofilms, which was the immediate forerunner of Movietone.

Dr. De Forest on Saturday announced the completion of experiments in connection with the refinement of "talkie" recording apparatus to the point where it is now possible to register everything from a whisper to the shrill twinkle of sleigh bells.

The announcement was coupled with a statement by Dr. DeForest that the completion of the experiments marked his readiness to offer

FRENCH EXHIBITORS TO RAISE ADMISSIONS

PARIS—There is a movement on foot to raise admission prices in French Theatres. M. Raymond Lusiez, in "Cinematographic Francaise," points out that during the last twelve months, gross takings at film houses have not increased over those of previous years and in many cases there has been a big drop.

At the same time, expenses have risen and exhibitors are to meet shortly to determine on an agreement to raise prices.

VITAPHONE SIGNS VAUDEVILLE STARS

Jane Green, popular "blue" singer of musical comedies and the variety stage, and Redmond and Wells, well known variety headliners, are among the latest artists to be signed for Vitaphone appearances.

A leading exponent of "blue" songs, Miss Green has been a featured player in many musical shows among which were "The Greenwich Village Follies", "The Dancing Girl", "What's in a Name", "Midnight Rounders", "The Grab Bag", the Ed Wynn comedy, and "Cinderella on Broadway". She has also attained some celebrity as a featured entertainer at the Palais Royale in New York and at the Club Lido in the same city. She played to an extended engagement at the Piccadilly Hotel Salon in London.

Redmond and Wells have been variety headliners for a number of years and their satirical act, "The Gyp", has been performed on the variety stages in all parts of the country.

CARACAS TO HAVE NEW FILM THEATRE

Plans are being drawn for a new moving picture theatre to be located in Caracas, Venezuela facing the Plaza Bolivar.

Phonofilm to theatres, with an assurance "that it will be acceptable as a new form of entertainment rather than a novelty."

"We continued making subjects but it was not until a year ago that I got the idea which has now succeeded in overcoming the failure to register certain overtones," states Dr. De Forest.

"At that time I decided to discontinue production until this shortcoming in the method of recording had been overcome. Final proof was only attained last week that the refinement was workable when we registered in a natural manner both a whisper and the tinkle of a sleigh bell on the same strip of film.

"No longer need a telephone bell in a sound picture give the re-action of a buzzer sounding, and there is no longer any need of talk about screen voices. All voices can now be recorded and projected in a natural manner."

"THE GODLESS GIRL"

Pathe
Directed by C. B. DeMille
Screen story by Jeannie MacPherson
Cast Lina Basquette,
Noah Beery, George Duryea,
Marie Prevost, Eddie Quillan.

As a program attraction this might stand up but as a big special it will not hold. It is probably the poorest picture C. B. DeMille ever personally directed. It misses out all around.

The picture savors of propaganda, which at times is overdone. It has stirring moments in places but it does not have the finish, the real production values, and story construction you would expect to see in a picture from C. B. The first half of the picture is much better than the last half, but as a whole it is a great disappointment.

"DANGER STREET"

FBO
Directed by Ralph Ince
Featuring Warner Baxter,
Martha Sleeper

Photography Bob Martin
Another underworld story, more true to life than several predecessors. Is somewhat draggy at times and can stand tightening up—with changes should go over big.

The hero, who is thrown over by his fiancée on his wedding day grows desperate and tries to end it all by flirting with all sorts of danger—he locates himself in a tough neighborhood and buys store where gangs congregate—he falls in love with the girl at the cigar-stand and together they fight their way to better things and to marriage.

Supporting cast work well and the titling of Randolph Bartlett helps things a lot.

"WIN THAT GIRL"

Fox
Directed by David Butler
Story by John Stone
Cast David Rollins,
Roscoe Karns, Sue Carroll

This is a football story that is different. It carries through three generations, and shows, graphically the gradual evolution of the game. During the first sequences it is replete with many laughs.

It concerns the rivalry between two football heroes on different teams. The kick of the yarn, and a most amusing one is the desire on the part of the grandfather of one of the heroes, to develop a grandson who can beat his old rival school team.

A good program attraction. Good acting, direction and photography.

"ALIAS JIMMY VALENTINE"

M-G-M
Directed by Jack Conway
Screen story by Sarah Mason
Cast William Haines,
Lionel Barrymore, Leila Hyams

Put this one down on the list. It will click in any theatre in any locality. It is one of the sure fire hits for the coming season. And if you have a talking installation, they will have a "talkie" version for you.

There are plenty of laughs from start to finish, interest is well sustained at all times and Haines does his best work. The direction of Jack Conway should be greatly complimented in this one. The cast is exceptional, Barrymore great and Leila Hyams good and easy to look at.

"BURNING THE WIND"

Universal
Directed by Henry MacRea and Herbert Blache

Featuring Hoot Gibson
Clicks well but not up to some of Gibson's best—Nevertheless you can bank on this picture to please second runs in the big towns and first runs in the small towns—Gibson and excellent cast shine in typical good western.

A gentleman cowboy living in a Spanish-Western luxurious atmosphere is engaged by a wealthy rancher, with a beautiful daughter, to protect his cattle from the outlaws—He is induced to take the job through a friendly conspiracy—The girl is kidnapped by the bandit leader, rescued by Hoot and his cowboys and the boy and girl become engaged to marry.

A fast-bitting western, with plenty of action will get the kids yelling for Hoot all the way.

"WATERFRONT"

First National
Directed by William Seiter
Screen story by Will Chappel and Gertrude Orr
Cast Dorothy Mackaill,
Jack Mulhall, Ben Hendricks,
Knut Erickson

This is a good picture for the reason that it was well directed, excellently acted from a good logical scenario and will prove fine entertainment anywhere.

The story is laid around San Francisco Bay and is very colorful. The characterizations are skillfully drawn and the entire production is of the type that is light, breezy and refreshing and one that would send an audience out of the theatre with a grin from ear to ear and an aspect of being generally satisfied with the picture just seen. Jack Mulhall and Dorothy Mackaill do extremely fine work with their roles.

"UNDRESSED"

Sterling
Directed by Phil Rosen
Featuring David Torrence,
Virginia Brown Faire, Hedda Hopper

Title may be changed, as it is a giveaway, and exhibitors playing this one may have trouble with the censors and the patrons—too much hokum and impossible situations mitigate against this one—fair plot is preposterously distorted.

Wealthy father refuses to pay any more bills caused by his spendthrift daughter—portrait painter who holds the girl's financial note, offers to cancel it if she will pose for him—she does and is discovered by her mother in the artist's room—her mother comes to the rescue by raising money to pay her obligations—the artist in turn gets in wrong with his sweetie who misunderstands the situation and in a jealous fit, knocks artist unconscious—detectives come—the entire household is upset—artist does not divulge his sweetheart as the assailant and everything ends happy.

Definite plans for the formal opening of the Motion Picture Club on Wednesday evening, Sept. 12, are announced by President Al Lichtman. He has appointed Harry Reichenbach to act as toastmaster.

There will be but three formal speeches. They will be made by Mayor Walker, Will H. Hays and Al Lichtman, as President of the Club. The formal speakers will be introduced by press agents. Mr. Lichtman has received definite acceptances on the part of Al Jolson, Bugs Baer and Harry Hirschfield, each one to act as an advance agent for one of the speakers.

General Hays is also rearranging his own plans in order to be present at this formal opening. His office advised that the prospect of such rearrangement was virtually certain.

Yesterday the Board of Directors sent out the following invitation to this formal occasion.

Booms Boston for Talking Film Center

Whether the Boston brand of culture is more conducive to superior talking films or whether New England tastes are dissatisfied with the present talkies is not definitely clear, but according to Carl Wenzel of Culver City, Boston should be the real center of production for talking pictures.

M-G-M USING PARAMOUNT SOUND METHOD FOR "JIMMY VALENTINE"

Will Start Another Production in P-F-L Studio

By Special Correspondent

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer are using the sound stage at Paramount's for the talking sequences being photographed on the William Haines production of "Alias Jimmy Valentine", making the sound effects with the Paramount-Pomeroy method which comprises the making of two negatives, one for sound and the other for photography.

It is understood that M-G-M will, on the completion of this one, make some shots for another of their pictures at Paramount.

The sound stage at M-G-M is practically finished, needing only the sound-proofing, ventilation and recording equipment, and it seems certain that they will use the same method of recording that Paramount has been working on.

The sound proposition in other studios is being rushed. At First National ground has been broken for their first sound stage. At Universal two stages under construction are almost completed and the Christie stage at the Metropolitan studio is well under way.

Capra on Another

A shift in production plans at the Columbia studios calls for Frank Capra to direct "The Power of the Press," before doing "The Younger Generation," the latter from a stage play by Fannie Hurst.

Sonya Levien is preparing the script of "The Power of the Press" which will go into production immediately.

Sally Eilers Signed

Sally Eilers, the Mack Sennett contract player, has been borrowed by M-G-M for the role of Shirley in the Milt Gross story "Nize Baby".

David Warfield Is

Snared by Films

Warfield, has finally succumbed to the films, after declaring for many years that he would never enter the silent drama. "The Music Master" and "The Auctioneer" may be among the first vehicles to be made with Warfield, probably on Fox's Movietone.

Another Ailment

While making "Salvage" at Universal recently, Wesley Ruggles the director was confronted with a new form of studio ailment on the part of one of the important members of the cast.

On reporting late for work the actor complained to Ruggles that he had a violent attack of "Kleig Throat" and was unable to pull himself together.

The actor in question had been making some voice tests on the new Universal sound stage the night before.

STUDIO GOSSIP

Ruth Jannings, the daughter of the great Emil, has been given a small part in her father's recent picture "Sins of the Fathers".

Little Lorraine Rivers, six years old, has been given the "babyhood" role in the Richard Dix picture "Red-skin".

"The Lawless Legion" will be Ken Maynard's next for First National.

Another Hollywood high school girl has been put under a picture contract. Sol Wurtzel of Fox signed Betty Collins for a long term and her first part will be in "The Case of Mary Brown".

M-G-M is going to do "Mysterious Island" with both talk and color.

The new George Arthur-Karl Dane picture will be "All at Sea".

Charles Beyer is going to have the leading male role in the Tiffany-Stahl production of "Queen of Burlesque". Belle Bennett will star and play the queen. Al Ray will direct.

Rex Bell, Fox' cowboy star, started work this week at the company's west coast studios in his fourth western picture, "Taking a Chance". Lola Todd has been assigned the leading feminine role and other members of the cast are Richard Carlyle, Billy Butts, Jack Byron, Martin Cichy and Jack Henderson.

Paul Vincenti, a newcomer to the screen, who has the leading role in Emmett Flynn's production, "The Veiled Woman", for Fox Films, is a famous oarsman, having rowed stroke on the Hungarian Club's champion eight-oared crew in Budapest, his home.

Phillip Holmes, the young Princeton collegian who won a role in "Varsity" while parts of it were being made on the campus at Princeton University by Frank Tuttle, has been signed by Paramount and has arrived in Hollywood ready for work.

Gwynn Williams, known better as "Big Boy", has been added to the cast of the Murnau picture "Our Daily Bread".

Eddie Foy, Jr., having appeared in several Warner talkies, has been signed by Fox for a Movietone.

Bessie Love has been signed by M-G-M for one of the leading roles in "The Broadway Melody".

Three additional actors have just been signed by Paramount for the new picture starring Adolphe Menjou, tentatively titled "His Private Life." They are Sybil Grove, to play the role of a maid; Alexander Melsh to be a salesman, and Alexander Woloskin to be a hotel clerk. Kathryn Carver is leading woman, and Frank Tuttle is directing.

NEWS FROM THE UFA STUDIOS

UFA Productions is making an educational film showing the construction and trial trips of the biggest airplane so far built in Germany, the 'Romar' which was built by the Rohrbach Company. A UFA cameraman will be aboard when the first transocean flight is made.

Dr. Johannes Guter, director, is now completing the exterior scenes for "The Blue Mouse" production of Grunewald, the 'Bois de Boulogne' of the German capital. The leading roles in this picture are being portrayed by Jenny Jugo, Harry Halm, Albert Paulig and assisted by Rina Marsa Brita Appelgreen and Julius Falkenstein.

Brigitte Helm, who is now appearing in her latest Production, "A Scandal in Baden-Baden", being directed by Erich Waschneck, has been given the lead which offers her better opportunities than any before.

Carl Hoffman, the famous UFA cameraman who photographed "The Nibelung", "Faust" and many other UFA international successes, has been engaged as chief cameraman for the fourth Erich Pommer production for UFA, titled "The Wonderful Lives of Nina Petrowna".

Murray Leaves F.N.

Charles Murray will leave First National as a contract player at the end of his present contract Sept. 18th. This was reported in The Daily Review six weeks ago, but denied by both parties.

"GIVE AND TAKE" IS MOVIE-TONED BY "U"

Synchronization of "Give and Take," Universal's comedy drama adaptations of the popular Broadway stage success, has been completed and the sound version will soon be on the market.

The synchronization was made by the Movietone method, by the Fox-Case organization. The version includes a maximum of sound effects, as well as a well selected and well rendered musical setting played by a large symphony orchestra. A theme song, named from the picture, was written by Josef Cherniavsky, musical director for Universal, and used to good advantage in the synchronization. This song is being published by Irving Berlin. It was rendered vocally during the recessional titles of the picture.

Leroy's Prize Story

Mervyn LeRoy, First National director, has been assigned the direction of the prize story "Children of the Rich". Woolrich, the young 21 year old author, received a prize of $10,000 for the story by College Humor. Dorothy Mackaill and Jack Mulhall will have the leads.

FIVE CENTS

OBSERVATIONS

John M. C. Dermott

One of Hollywood's best known characters and cleverest writers is in town. "Jack" McDermott we are told, is here to arrange for the release of a picture he is to make. It seems a shame that our big producers do not grab this fellow, give him enough money to forget about production and let him concentrate on stories. We feel that he has written more originals that have been screen successes than any other writer. He should be writing and NOT producing.

Stories

It has always been a debatable question in motion pictures whether stories should be bought in New York or Hollywood. Discussions have been going on for years regarding who would do the dictating in selecting the type story to be made. We rather favor Hollywood if conditions were different and that difference makes a lot of difference.

Producers

The producer in Hollywood never seems to look any further than the present story. It stands to reason that the story they are shooting is the important one, that is until it is finished and then when the overhead starts piling up they start thinking about a new one. Of course this might be a bit far-fetched but nevertheless true to a great extent.

Titles

A couple of the independents are working on the basis that the sales departments should dictate what should be made. These same independents suggest titles they think would be very effective from a box-office and entertainment point of view. In some cases they outline a thought for the title. Anyhow this goes to the coast, the production department turns it over to a good "original" writer who in turn, delivers a story. After discussion the story is given to the script writer. In this manner these independents always keep well ahead of production and there is not much lost motion.

A group of New York bankers are trying to sew up 22 theatres in the Bronx. Those, who are in the know, declare these bankers represent one of the big theatre circuits now operating in greater New York.

If the control of these houses pass, it will considerably triple a deal, such as Fox now has on with the groups of New York independent theatre owners.

LONDON—Beginning with September 27th, when the new Piccadilly Theatre opens with Jolson's "The Jazz Singer," ten key houses in London will be equipped with talking picture apparatus installed by the Movietone experts of the Electrical Research Products Corporation, and will commence their program early next month.

The ten houses to get the first talking equipment on the European continent will be The Regal, Marble Arch, Plaza, Rialto, New Empire, Piccadilly and the Theatre Royal at Manchester.

Following the Piccadilly opening, the Paramount Plaza will be next to follow. The New Empire will open in the middle of October.

T. K. Glennan and H. Hultgren are the Western Electric engineers in charge of the installations.

BELL TELEPHONES SHOW NEW TALKIE

To Demonstrate Latest Equipment at Soc. of Engineers

The Fall meeting of the Society of Motion Picture Engineers will be held at Lake Placid on September 24th to 27th.

A preponderance of technical papers dealing with the recording of sound with pictures, will feature the Fall convention. There may also be an actual demonstration of the very latest processes of recording sound photographically.

Some of the papers which will be read are on the fundamental principles of sound; photo electric cells; the three electrode vacuum tube; acoustical properties of rooms and other topics of a similar nature.

The Bell Telephone Laboratories will provide papers on the Practical Technic of Installation and Operation of speech and music films, accompanied by a practical demonstration of the most recent form of sound reproducing equipment.

GOTHAM COMMENCING W. C. TALKIE STUDIO

Establishment of another sound and talking studio in Hollywood within the next three months has just been announced by Budd Rogers, Vice President of Gotham Productions, which controls the distribution of Bristolphone, synchronizing disc device.

With two sound stages to be built at Bristolphone factories and laboratories in Waterbury, Conn., this makes four stages to be in operation soon. Sam Sax, President of Gotham is supervising the studio construction on the West Coast.

King Vidor Contract Runs Until 1930

HOLLYWOOD—Through the controversy arising between Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and King Vidor regarding the latter's desire to do a picture with all-negro actors, there is a persistent Hollywood report that his contract will be purchased by Samuel Goldwyn.

J. Robert Rubin, vice president and director of the production department of M-G-M denied that any one has purchased Vidor's contract and that M-G-M has him signed until 1930.

HARRIS CUP HERE FOR FILM CONTEST

The Sam Harris trophy, a Cinema Challenge Cup presented annually to a member of the American film industry for the best suggestion or deed promoting the spirit of good will and cooperation between the public of Great Britain and the United States, has arrived in this country and has been received by Edward L. Klein.

The cup will be exhibited at the meeting of the AMPA at the Paramount Hotel on Thursday. Whether it will be awarded immediately for any deed during the first half of 1928 or during the coming season is not known at present.

JACK HOXIE STARTS TEXAS FILM COLONY

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—Jack Hoxie, former Universal star, is reported to be building a movie colony at Leakey, about 100 miles from here, and he is heading a new corporation known as the Jack Hoxie Stockade.

The Foto-Arts Productions at Hot Wells will soon start on a film "The Robin Hood of the Rangers" which Otis B. Thayer will direct as a Bristolphone talkie film.

Young Gets "Met"

Stanley Phila-Post

George M. Young, well known theatrical man, has been appointed manager of The Met, the new Philadelphia Stanley Theatre that will open on September 22nd.

Mr. Young is at present at Atlantic City as manager of the Globe Theatre, but he is better known as general representative of the Keith-Albee enterprises in this city.

TIFFANY-STAHl COMPLETES 15

Over Half Way Done on 1928-1929 Film Production

By JOE BLAIR
Hollywood Correspondent

Tiffany-Stahl have finished half of their releases for the current season. This announcement was made by John M. Stahl, production head of this organization.

Among the pictures already completed are, "The Naughty Duchess", "The Floating College", "The Power of Silence", "The Ghetto", "George Washington Cohen", "The Gun Runner", "The Toilers", "The Rainbow", "Man in Hobbles", "Tomorrow", "The Cavalier", "My Lady's Pearl", "Queen of Burlesque" and "Applause".

Valli on Stage

Virginia Valli and Albert Gran, noted screen players have featured parts in the play "Tarnish" being produced by John Cromwell at the Hollywood Music Box. Gran is playing the same role he had in the original New York company.

Guglielmi Gets In

Alberto Guglielmi, brother of the late Rudolph Valentino, at last has crashed the gates of cinemaland.

For four days Guglielmi, whose name is down on the casting sheet as Albert Valentino, has been working on a picture at the FBO studio in Hollywood.

Since the death of Valentino two years ago, Guglielmi often has expressed a desire to follow in the footsteps of his brother. He underwent a face-lifting operation so his features would resemble those of Rudolph.

New Columbia Starts

Columbia Pictures Corporation is converting the Isthmus of Catalina Island into a complete South Sea Island town, the locale of "Driftwood", Columbia's forthcoming production with Marceline Day, Don Alvarado and Fritz Brunette. Carpenters, art directors and various technicians are busy at work.

Marceline Day will appear as an outcast white girl in a South Sea port. Christy Cabanne will direct.

Glazer With FBO

Benjamin Glazer has been given charge of the FBO talking-picture schedule, under William Le Baron, Production V.P.

Conferences are now going on to determine on a series of novelty talking pictures.

"Miss Information"

Edward Everett Horton and Lols Wilson have made a Vitaphone featurette entitled "Miss Information" which is credited with being the funniest work Horton has done to date.

Hurley to Direct

HOLLYWOOD — Harold Hurley, former Paramount publicity man will be given an opportunity in the production department by Jesse L. Lasky, according to B. P. Schulberg.

Hurley will be assistant to B. P. Fineman, Paramount associate producer.

Capra in Demand

Harry Cohn, production head of Columbia had faith in Frank Capra and gave him the script of "Submarine" after another director had started the picture and was let out.

Since it's preview in Hollywood, two or three of the larger studio's are casting anxious looks in Capra's direction. But Harry Cohn says "No".

DeMille Players with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer

When Cecil B. DeMille goes over to M-G-M it is reported, on very good authority that Phyllis Haver, Eddie Quillan and George Duryea will move with him. At present these players are at Pathe, but it is understood that they are under personal contract to Mr. DeMille.

Film Hardy Novel

Thomas Hardy's famous novel, "Under the Greenwood Tree" will be produced by British International Pictures, under direction of Harry Lachman, American painter. The scenario has been prepared by Alicia Ramsey.

"Fazil" Does $141,295 with Roxy Prologue third with $76,283.50 with "Her Cardboard Lover".

"The Patriot" is doing wonderful business at the Rialto during its run, taking in $44,200 last week. "The Tempest" at the Rivoli did $34,400. "The Terror" picked up at the Warners and did $22,570.50 while "White Shadows" also picked up, doing $21,230.50.

"Lilac Time" was also up with leaders doing $18,187.50. "Wings" continued strong with $14,742; "Dawn" did $7,960, its second week; "The Air Circus" did $10,150 and "Red Dance" $6,800.

Doran with M-G-M

Mary Doran, the titian-haired stage beauty who appeared in "Betsy," "Rio Rita" and other Ziegfeld productions, and who has also played some minor parts in pictures, has been signed to a long-term contract by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Legal Difficulties over 6 Reade Houses Hold up Sale

Reade has petitioned the Chancery Court for a receiver to be appointed for the operating company, alleging that the corporation is in financial difficulties caused by mismanagement of the K-A-O corporation, and has lost $50,000 annually for the past two years.

E. F. Albee, in turn, states that it is due to Reade's mismanagement that they had to take the management away from him. Albee further claims, that Reade has not offered to sell his chain of theatres to Fox, nor has Keith-Albee-Orpheum any intention of selling its circuit to Warner Brothers or Stanley.

STUDIO GOSSIP

The completed cast for the M-G-M production of "Mysterious Island" comprises Lloyd Hughes, Lionel Barrymore, Montagu Love, Jane Daly, Gibson Gowland, Harry Gribbon, Snit Edwards, Evelyn Selbie and Micheal Vavitch. Lucien Hubbard will direct.

An extra a few days ago and now a contract player with Universal is the lot of Peggy Howard. She will have an important role in the next Collegians.

Joe Farnham, M-G-M title writer, is back at the studio after being confined at home for some time with a high fever. M-G-M were not the loser though as Joe titled the Buster Keaton "Cameraman" while on the flat of his back.

Anders Randolph, George Irving and Charles Clary have been added to the cast of "Eric the Great" a talking picture being made by Universal.

Gus Edwards arrived in town yesterday. He will be known as the first musical gag man. Will operate at M-G-M.

Johnny Burke, the Sennett comic, is busy writing a sketch for pictures that Sennett will do for Pathe. It will be an all-talkie of course.

Eddie Gribbon has been engaged for an important role in "Fancy Baggage" the Warner Brothers talkie. John Adolph will direct.

Eddie Goulding is writing the dialogue for the talking sequences of the remakes on "The Belamy Trial" for M-G-M.

Sol Polito, one of screendom's most expert cameramen, has been engaged to handle the cameras for Richard Barthelmess' new First National starring vehicle, "Scarlet Seas", now in production.

It seems that every director in Hollywood is flocking to the Lincoln Theatre. This house is running a negro "Tab" show. This director patronage is due to a story appearing in the public prints, that one of our leading directors contemplates making a picture with an all negro cast.

Belle Bennett will have to grow several inches for the part she is to portray in the United Artists production of "Lummox". Her height is around five feet five and the Fannie Hurst character should be around six feet.

taxes. The six months figures include its $111,060.65 undistributed share of earnings of the Balaban & Katz Corporation a 65% owned subsidiary.

The above profits amount to $2.34 per share for the three months and $5.63 for the six months of the common stock outstanding.

Lupe and Jetta

Lupe Velez and Jetta Goudal are not speaking. In fact they won't work on the same set together. For this reason D. W. Griffith directing these artists in "The Love Song" is having a tough time working them singly. We thought Jetta had been cured of her temperament.

"DIVINE LADY" PREVIEW GETS LAVISH PRAISE

First National's new special, "The Divine Lady," starring Corinne Griffith, was previewed at the Yost Broadway Theatre, Santa Ana, Calif., last week and Ned E. Depinet, the producing company's general sales manager, received the following wire from the manager of the theatre:

"It's one of the best picture's First National has made. Its lavish sets, correct historical details, exceptional supporting cast, together with its powerful story theme and intense finish mark it as an extremely good picture."

Lloyd Directs Dove

Billie Dove, First National star, will make another European picture. "The Thirtieth Day of October," a story of the Russian Revolution is to be her next picture for First National.

It was written by Lajos Biro, famous Hungarian author, and Alexander Korda, the First National director.

Although he is the co-author of the story, Mr. Korda will not direct it. Frank Lloyd, who has just completed the stupendous Corinne Griffith production "The Divine Lady" will be at the megaphone on this Billie Dove picture.

Extra Gets Chance

Not since Betty Bronson was chosen for the role of Peter Pan several years ago, has an unknown extra girl received such an important opportunity from Paramount as was announced yesterday for Gladys Belmont, a seventeen year old girl from Pueblo, Colorado, who was signed for the principal feminine role opposite Richard Dix in "Redskin", the Indian picture which is being filmed completely in Technicolor.

Von Eltz Gets Part

Theodore von Eltz, who played opposite Florence Vidor in "Honey-moon Hate", has been given an important role in the Schoedsack-Cooper adventure picture "The Four Feathers" from A. E. W. Mason's novel, which the two men are now completing at the Paramount studio in California after spending a year making exteriors in the depths of the Sudan.

"Sweet Pepper"

Fred Sauer, the German film director, has started production on "Sweet Pepper", from the novel by Geoffrey Moss. The picture is being made by the Messtro Company in association with Gaumont, the scene being laid in Berlin, London, Vienna and Budapest. Eve Grey, Paul Richter, and Warwick Ward are the principals in the cast.

FIVE CENTS

OBSERVATIONS

Hollywood Stage

There is a mad rush on the part of our Hollywood screen players for stage parts in West Coast productions. Reason, of course, needed experience in dialogue. And reports say that every "talking school" opened there is doing a stand out business.

Regretting

Universal production executives are sneaking in the studio these mornings via the back entrance. All due to their long insistence that Mary Philbin did not have sex appeal and as a result should only be cast in sweet demure types. Miss Philbin tried vainly to change the decision but with no result until an accident gave her the chief feminine role in "Port of Dreams" and blessed her with the direction of Wesley Ruggles. Now everything is different. Watch this girl.

No Time to Dicker

Both the First National and Stanley organizations are considerably upset due to the insistent rumors of a merger with Warners. And this, at the most important time of the year. The production departments at the studio and the sales organization throughout the country are not at ease, feeling that anything might happen. This is bad. We would think if there is a deal on, and there seems to be one, they should have it over with one way or the other, as quickly as possible in order that everything would function in its proper manner.

A Winner

First National has a winner in the Sax production of "Companionate Marriage". There has been so much written about this subject for the past few years, both pro and con, that a picture with just ordinary production should click. But Sax has done much better than give this subject ordinary production, he has made and delivered work.

BERLIN ADVOCATES CENSOR REFORMS

By. Dr. R. OTTO
Berlin Correspondent

BERLIN—The High Censors' Committee has drawn a fine line in deciding proper supervision of talking pictures. They have just made a ruling that those talking or synchronized films of a dramatic or musical character which can be understood, even if not made as a film, do not come under the censorship laws, but are subject only to laws applying to the legitimate stage.

The President of the Berlin police department has declared that the present censorship laws in Germany are absurd and in need of reform. Such talking film productions which take the place of titles or captions and serve to interpret the (Continued on page 2)

Harry Charnas, former exhibitor and state-right exchangeman, and a Warner franchise holder, is busy these days with the preparation of the presentation of Al Jolson's next Vitaphone feature, "The Singing Fool" at the Winter Garden next Wednesday night.

Ohio Theatre Owners

Meet November 20-21

The Eighth Annual Convention of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of Ohio will be held in Columbus on November 20 and 21.

The board of trustees held a meeting in Columbus August 29, at which time definite convention dates were fixed. Details in connection with the convention are in the hands of J. J. Harwood, Lexington Theatre, Cleveland; J. A. Ackerman, Glenway Theatre, Cincinnati; William James, president of the M.P.T.O. of Ohio, and P. J. Wood, association secretary.

Decline in Box-Office Value of Silent Films Predicted

Exhibitors in the Mid-West territories are springing a new one in their demands for lower film rentals on silent pictures due to the fact that since producers are beginning to concentrate on a majority of sound attractions, the value of silent pictures at the box-office is becoming materially lessened.

In the St. Louis territory, theatre owners are blaming the producers for the deterioration of the silent drama.

If this feeling on the part of the exhibitors should crystalize in the form of a national protest, several of the larger talkie producers will have something to worry about, if there are any silent films left on their programs.

Otherwise it will be the independent producer of straight pictures who cannot afford the expense of adding sound, who will suffer in lower film rentals.

Nicholas M. Schenck Expects 1,000 Wired Houses by Jan. 1

Nicholas M. Schenck on behalf of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer yesterday announced the production of 39 features, with partial or complete talking sequences and synchronized sound effects and scores.

In addition there will be thirty films of prominent Broadway stars of the musical comedy, vaudeville and legitimate stage, produced at the Cosmopolitan Studio in New York.

"More than a thousand theatres will be wired by January first," said Mr. Schenck. "Consequently in advance of that time we will be ready with a complete service to all our customers in this line."

"Our studio at the coast will be in full operation within a few weeks and before September is out we will be similarly situated in the East with the opening of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer sound studios which were formerly run by Cosmopolitan."

meaning of the motion picture will still come under the supervision of the censors.

The ruling arose out of the showing by the Lignose-Breusing Talking Film Company, of one of its short talkies. The film had to be passed by the censor commission but two members of the committee protested, when the Higher Censors made the final ruling.

Salesman Song-Writer

Edward Grossman, former film salesman under Al Lichtman, has abandoned film selling and has gone into song writing. Grossman is one of the composers of several theme songs written around "Revenge" starring Dolores del Rio, "Tempest" and "The Woman Disputed".

K-A-O Gets MacNaughton

Having completed plans for the national advertising campaign planned by Columbia Pictures Corporation on "Submarine", Alex Moss left yesterday for a ten day vacation in Canada.

Lane with P-F-L

Charles Lane, veteran character actor who retired several months ago, has been persuaded by Paramount to put on the grease paint again. He will play the role of James Hall's father, Spottswode, Senior, in "The Canary Murder Case", S. S. Van Dine's famous murder mystery story which goes into production at the Paramount Hollywood studio within a fortnight.

SCHAEFER HERE FROM BERLIN FOR P-F-L VISIT

Gus J. Schaefer, general sales manager of the Paramount organization for Central Europe, with headquarters at Berlin, has arrived in New York for a visit at the Paramount home office and with friends and relatives. Before his appointment to his present position, Mr. Schaefer was sales manager of the Paramount exchange at Boston.

"PORT OF DREAMS" HAILED AS RUGGLES-PHILBIN MASTERPIECE

By JOE BLAIR
Hollywood Correspondent

Universal previewed their latest Wesley Ruggles picture "Port of Dreams" last night, and it was a sensation. This one was a surprise, it was totally unexpected and, almost, unheard of. But after last night's showing, the world will soon know about it and with that knowledge the added information of the definite arrival of three people, two of whom we have heard from before and the third, a star who does the best work of her career.

Ruggles Triumphs

First the hats should be doffed to Wesley Ruggles, there has never been finer direction in a picture than his work in "Port of Dreams". A lot of us will tell Universal and the rest of the universe, "we told you so", for it has been the contention of quite a few that given real material with which to work with, this Ruggles fellow would set them all on their heads, and that he has done in this picture. If Universal ever gives Wesley another of those "wisly-washy" part-farce-little comedy-program-stories again they should have their heads examined. This director deserves the best that any organization could buy.

Philbin a Revelation

"Merry-Go-Round" brought Mary Philbin recognition, but what has she done since? She has been stifled with parts that would have extinguished any other artist. And all the time directors, producers and everyone connected with the studio have been trying to make her believe it was all her fault. The facts proved last night that these same people have been the ones at fault. Philbin walks right out and gives a performance in a "she-American-girl" type that has never been equaled on the screen since I have been reviewing pictures.

A Newcomer

Ruggles, we are told, picked Fred MacKaye out of the extra ranks for the boy lead in this picture. The results prove that his judgment was more than right. If we were head of production in any plant we would be confronted with a terrific problem of whether to keep Ruggles directing or put him in charge of the casting department seeking out new talent. His selection of MacKaye would have been a great gamble for most directors, but this boy so established himself in this part, it is our prophesy that he will be a star in another year.

Entire Production

The remainder of the cast consisting of Edmund Breese, as the parole officer and Francis McDonald as the heavy, was outstanding.

Universal might well feel proud of "Port of Dreams" and happy they have three such sterling artists as Wesley Ruggles, Mary Philbin and Fred MacKaye on their payroll.

Brenon on Way West

Herbert Brenon, who was called suddenly to New York last week on account of his mother's illness, left for California yesterday to complete Joseph Conrad's "The Rescue" which he has been directing for Samuel Goldwyn.

OLCOTT BACK FROM BRITISH STUDIOS

Dissillusioned by Type of Stories in Favor

Sidney Olcott, who has been sojourning in England for the best part of this year, has returned to Hollywood, full of admiration for American pictures, after acquiring first-hand knowledge of British production methods.

Olcott had contracted to produce a series of super-productions for the British Lion Company, and found that the first one on the schedule was a story called "The Ringer". A 'ringer' it was, for Sidney refused to make it.

"The chief fault with British pictures," states Olcott, "is the type of stories they select for production. While they may appeal to English film fans they might find it difficult to win popularity in the U. S."

Olcott brought back several books and plays. Several companies are negotiating for his services since his return.

"HAUNTING MELODY" DISTINCT DEPARTURE

The start of a story bringing something new to the screen, is to be made with a melody—a combination of haunting notes—playing a dominant factor in the formation of the story. The picture will be "The Haunting Melody", an original by John Farrow, the purchase of which was announced yesterday by B. P. Schulberg.

It will serve as a co-starring vehicle for Fay Wray and Gary Cooper and will be made entirely in dialogue and with music, "The Haunting Melody" itself being played here and there throughout the picture in the unfolding of a romantic drama.

production of nineteen features with partial or complete talking sequences. In the East we will immediately place into production thirty films of a vaudeville nature, for which contracts have been entered into with many prominent performers.

"Meanwhile our activities in the production of our announced program of synchronized and silent pictures will continue along their routine schedule.

"About twenty additional M-G-M productions for 1928-29 will have synchronized scores and sound effects. These include the pictures which Cecil B. DeMille will make at Culver City under the terms of his new contract; 'Trader Horn', 'White Shadows in the South Seas,' and some of the most important starring vehicles of the year."

STUDIO GOSSIP

James Bradbury, Sr., has been signed for a role in the First National-Richard Barthelmess picture, "Scarlet Sea's".

Clive Brook has been given the role of Leut. Durants the blind soldier in the Paramount production of "Fine Feathers".

Betty Compson, who played the hula-hula dancer in "The Barker" has been cast for the next Barthelmess picture "Scarlet Sea's".

Lillian Gish and Constance Talmadge are both in Europe preparing for their first independent made pictures for United Artists release.

Due to the fact that she will be confined to her for some time, due to an operation, Lina Basquette will not be able to play the lead in the Ralph Ince production of "Hard Boiled". Sally O'Neill has been given the part.

William Beaudine has finished the First National-Charles Murray picture "Do Your Duty".

Following "Show Boat" Universal will feature Joseph Schilkraut in "The Bargain of Kremlin".

William Boyd starring in "Power", the sensational comedy drama which Pathe will release on September 23, again has Alan Hale as his foil and the two eclipse the mirthmaking they offered in "Skyscraper".

Larry Kent has been signed by Tiffany-Stahl for an important role in "The Devil's Appletree". Dorothy Sebastian will star and Elmer Clifton will direct.

The Douglas Fairbanks company at United Artists is working full blast. Production schedule runs through the month of November.

Emil Jannings has been forced to take a few days off. His eyes are in bad shape as a result of his rubbing them for a crying sequence in his latest Paramount picture.

Castle with Par.

Robert Castle has been signed to a long term Paramount contract and Jesse L. Lasky announces that his first role will be leading man for Clara Bow in "Three Week Ends", an Elinor Glyn story.

Stanley Co. Jumps

6 3/4 to New High

ed the jump, thinks E. H. Goldstein. Stanley Co. of America also jumped 6 3/4 points yesterday on the Stock Exchange and reached a new high for this year of 59. 96,000 shares were traded in.

Warner Brothers in the "A" stock stops at nothing these days and continued its spurt with 3 1/2 points to a still new high of 134 1/2. The "B" went up 1 1/2 points.

HEAVY P-F-L PROD. SCHEDULE ON W. C.

The present Paramount production schedule marks the heaviest ever undertaken by any one studio in the motion picture colony according to B. P. Schulberg, general manager of West Coast production.

Nine pictures are in the making, with two companies on location. Associate producers, directors and authors are at work on six others which will be launched this month, while three have just been handed over to the cutting department. The works of nine world-famed authors are represented in the current pictures.

"Buddies" Next Davies

The next Marion Davies picture to be made at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, will be a screen version of the popular Broadway success of a few years ago, "Buddies". It will be recalled that Peggy Wood starred in this stage production and Miss Davies will enact the same role in the screen production.

Pickford on Stage?

Jed Harris, New York stage producer, has wired Mary Pickford suggesting that she appear in the Los Angeles production of "Coquette" soon to open. Harris feels that, inasmuch as Miss Pickford is going to do the story as an all-talkie, this stage appearance would be of great benefit to her and incidentally to . . . Jed Harris.

All M-G-M Stars Talk

All of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer stars will talk in pictures pretty soon. William Haines is already at work on the talking sequences for "Alias Jimmy Valentine", Norma Shearer will do likewise in "The Little Angel", Marion Davies will break her silence in "Buddies". John Gilbert will use his voice in "Thirst", Ramon Navarro makes his sound debut in "Pagan", Buster Keaton will do his initial speaking on either stage or screen in "Spite Marriage" and George Arthur and Karl Dane are to shout in "All at Sea".

Buys Haines Contract

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer have bought the unexpired term of William Haines' contract from J. D. Williams who has had this artist under his wing for some time. No doubt Haines and M-G-M will not write a new contract.

"Desert Song" Cast

The initial selection of players for Warner Bros. first Vitaphone operetta, "The Desert Song" based on Schwab and Mandel's great stage hit, was made by J. L. Warner this week. Johnny Arthur and Edward Martindel are the actors chosen thus far.

Rov Del Ruth is to direct "The Desert Song".

"Ritzzy Rosie" Starts

Production was begun today on "Ritzzy Rosie," in which Alice Whit has the leading feminine role, it is announced by First National Pictures. Jack Mulhall is playing opposite Miss White.

Mervyn LeRoy is directing.

FIVE CENTS

OBSERVATIONS

First National

First National is a child with wonderful parents. It is the son of the rich. And as such will certainly thrive this coming year. Figure this, Fox owning 25% and having about two hundred theatres; Warners owning 25% and having around the same amount. Add to this the many franchise holders of First National from coast to coast, and you will total about the greatest number of booking days possible in this industry.

Fox-Warner

Certainly both these companies will play First National attractions to the exclusion of any other companies with the exception of product coming from their own studios. Neither Fox or Warner would book each others pictures and might not do a lot of business with First National but being a 25% owner . . . that's something altogether different.

Battle of Sound

This Stanley purchase on the part of Warners will, no doubt start the "great battle of sound" Fox, for the present will have a tough time in the Stanley stronghold, Pennsylvania and New Jersey. Warners will have the same difficulty up and down the West Coast. Both organizations have key houses in each zone, and Fox has already launched a big building program in Pennsylvania. This all shapes up for our new friends "the giant electric's". Watch these babies.

First Move

From a source very close to H. M. Warner, we understand the acquisition of the Stanley chain is the first big move on the part of Warner's in the control of theatres. It will be interesting to see the next one. What will it be? Can you make a guess? Ours is Warner-Stanley-Keith Albee-Orpheum.

"Mother Knows Best", the second Fox feature special with talking sequences to hit Broadway, "The Air Circus" being the first, opens its world premiere at the Globe Theatre on Saturday matinee, September 15th.

The picture was directed by J. G. Blystone and features Madge Bellamy, Louise Dresser and Barry Norton. A movietone program of featurettes including Lionel Atwill in "Debureau"; Mischa Levitska, Fox Movietone News and Dr. Rockwell will be on the bill.

P-F-L BUILDING FOUR NEW W. C. SOUND STAGES

Ground will be broken today for immediate construction of four new sound stages, augmenting the sound reducing facilities at the Paramount-Hollywood studios, Jesse L. Lasky announced yesterday. His announcement follows the return of Frank A. Brandow, studio manager, from the East with plans for the new buildings based on Paramount's experience in sound film production.

Warner Credits 'Review' with 'Working Too Fast'

With excusable pride, Exhibitors Daily Review is able to take credit for the only exclusive story which was printed anywhere, concerning the merger of Warner Brothers and Stanley Company of America.

109 days ago, on May 24th, the Review stated that "at a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Stanley Company of America yesterday, it was decided that a merger of the company interests with that of Warner Brothers would prove beneficial and should be effected."

"The new deal will give Warner product an improved outlet through the Stanley chain and will give Stanley choice talking film product. Behind the decision to affiliate with Warners in the Stanley desire to strengthen not only the earning power of both companies but the strengthening of its entire lineup in anticipation of strong opposition which would come if the Fox-First National merger eventuates."

Harry M. Warner, when queried the next day, admitted that he was pleased with the outcome of the Stanley deal and told the Review that "you boys work too fast for me!"

Film Mrs. H. P. Whitney

Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, world famous sculptor, is pictured at work in her studio on some of her latest models in the first Our World Today magazine, "Thrills of the Sea", which Educational is releasing.

Keith-Albee-Orpheum Next Acquisition—Warner Scheme

STANLEY GAINS 4 3/4

The deal whereby Warner Bros. take over a controlling interest in the Stanley Company of America, was officially closed yesterday. This sets at rest all rumors and denials to the contrary regarding this immense group of theatres, and places Warner Brothers directly in step with the two other large producer-theatre owners, William Fox and Publix.

Rossheim Loses Out

From private sources it is understood that Irving D. Rossheim, President of the Stanley Company, and Mastbaum interests were against the company losing its identity through a merger, but the Goldman Sachs interests, represented by Wadhill Catchings, through controlling a larger share of Stanley than Rossheim and the Mastbaums, were able to swing the Warner deal, which company they are also financing.

Besides getting control of the Stanley Company, Warners come into possession of around 25% of the stock of First National, matching the 25% now held by Fox through his purchase of the West Coast Theatres last winter.

FOX MOVIE TONE FILMS SHAKESPEARE CLASSIC

Fox Movietone has gone Shakespeare and has filmed the first of the immortal bard's works, "As You Like It" in England. The Welwyn Garden City Folk Players, which recently won the Belasco cup for amateur folk play performances, appear in the cast.

The film will be sent to New York for developing and printing.

AMPA Elections

Election of officers will take place at the next meeting of AMPA today at the Paramount Hotel Grill. George Harvey is the nominee to succeed Bruce Gallup as head of the association.

The Sam Harris Trophy will be exhibited at the meeting.

RUMORS!

Great business, these rumors. Everybody is talking, whispers, shouts and all public prints. Paramount, Fox, Warners, all of them furnishing subject material, as a result their stock rise, business flourishes.

Now they have started on THE DAILY REVIEW. This publication is being sold, merged, bankrupt and what not. They are all talking about the sheet and most of the trade papers are printing yarns. That's great!

The issue of today carries more paid advertising than we have had for some time.

Keep it up boys—we need this publicity.

Warners-Stanley Merge

Larger Merger Coming

Interests in on the know claim this is the first move of an immense merger that will eventually bring in the Keith-Albee-Orpheum circuit of theatres forming a $250,000,000 producing and exhibiting combine.

Terms for the acquisition of minority holdings of Stanley stock on the same basis for which control was acquired are being decided by the Warner directors. It is expected to be a 2 for 1 stock exchange; 2 shares of Stanley for 1 of Warners.

$90,000,000 Assets

The Stanley Company, operating approximately 250 theatres in Philadelphia, Wilmington, Washington, Camden, Atlantic City and other Eastern cities, and controlling subsidiaries with additional theatre properties, had total assets of $83,495,599 at the end of 1927.

Capitalization consists of 904,431-7-10 shares of no par stock; $27,879,875 in bonds and mortgages payable; $5,125,000 in serial notes, and $1,101,428 in minority interests.

Sales of Stanley stock have been unusually active on the New York Stock Exchange in recent weeks. Since it was listed on the Exchange this summer it has risen from a low of 36 3/4 to a high of 69 3/4 today. Sales in the week ended September 1 totaled 124,000 shares and in the following week 128,600 shares. Monday's sales were 16,100 and yesterday 85,900. It opened this morning with a sale of 30,000 shares at 69 3/4, an overnight gain of 10 3/4.

Tribute to Warners

The closing of this deal is a great tribute to Harry M. Warner, president and Major Albert Warner who together with Jack Warner, production head and the late Sam Warner had many ups and downs before bringing Warner Brothers Pictures up to its present standing. Harry Warner has proven a financial genius with few equals in or out of pictures, he has had many times pretty rough sailing with what was then a little bark, but in every emergency he proved himself a real captain.

These warrants, which are good until January 1, 1930, are exchangeable for five shares of Universal common stock, but not until it hits a price of $40 per share. The stock closed yesterday at 36, after hitting 40 at the opening of the market.

'SOUTH OF PANAMA' NEXT CHESTERFIELD

"Somewhere south of the big ditch" characterizes the locale of Chesterfield M. P. Corporation's third 1928-29 release entitled "South of Panama" and Lon Young will leave for the West Coast immediately to begin preparation for starting camera work on October 1st.

Arthur Hoerl's treatment of the story has been okayed and it is now being turned into continuity. Erection of sets will be started immediately and casting will be completed upon Mr. Young's arrival in Hollywood.

"South of Panama" is stated to be an adventure drama with considerable emphasis on the comedy angle. An unusual twist to the story is the fact that all the comedy and heavy characters are "Yankees" and the story is being filmed from the Latin American's point of view.

Toronto Film Board

Elects New Officers

TORONTO—At the annual meeting of the Film Board of Trade, Barney Murphy (FBO) was elected president; Henry O'Connor, V. P.; Harry Law, Sec'y-Treas; and G. O. Burnett, Executive Secretary.

Bill Gehring, Henry O'Connor, Jack Hunter, Harry Paynter and Harry Law were appointed representatives on the Joint Board of Arbitration.

RCA TO PAY $120 FOR VICTOR SHARES

There is a report being circulated that RCA Photophone will be merged shortly with the Victor Talking Machine Company. Victor Studios in Camden have been synchronizing with records some of the biggest pictures of the leading producers.

If Victor is taken over, RCA will pay for the controlling shares approximately $120 per share.

Rinty's "Frozen River"

"Frozen River" is the new name given the story which will be Rinty-Tin-Tin's next starring vehicle for Warner Bros. J. L. Warner, production head, has decided upon it to supersede the title, "King of the Wilderness", by which it has been known up to this time.

M.P.T.O. of North Carolina Thrives Under Picquet Regime

Darn Clever these Publicity Men!

Just a bit jealous of Hy Daab's fame as a playwright, Mike Simmons decided that now is the time for all good, etc., etc. Mike the live-wire Gotham-Bristolphone (thanks for the ad) publicity purveyor has gone and written a waltz hit, entitled "Taya," which will be published by H. Witmark & Co. Joseph Zivelli has written the music.

WILL HAYS-WALKER DEDICATE M.P. CLUB

Last night a new club took its place in New York clubdom.

The Hon. Will Hays and Mayor Walker formally instituted the Motion Picture Club at a dinner in the club house at 1560 Broadway, attended by more than two hundred members, many of whom had never seen the splendidly equipped club rooms before.

Harry Reichenbach acted as toastmaster of the occasion and introduced the speakers. The banquet was started by the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" by Miss Stella Powers. First President Al Lichtman explained the purpose and scope of the club and the need which has been universally recognized for such an institution. He also described the processes by which the desire of the entire industry found its expression in the club as at present constituted.

Reichenbach then introduced Nathan Burkan, one of New York's prominent lawyers, who has been identified for the last twenty-five years with the moving picture industry and all of its phases. Bugs Baer, humorist, and Sam Katz, moving picture theatre operator, were then introduced.

The forensic portion of the program was brought to a splendid climax by a witty speech by Mayor Walker, who is as much at home in the moving picture industry as he is in the City Hall, and by an earnest address by Will Hays, President of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc.

ROCKETT HERE FOR "MIRACLE" CONFERENCE

Al Rockett, who has just signed a two-year contract as production and studio manager of First National pictures, arrived in New York yesterday to confer with Irving D. Rossheim, president of First National Pictures and other executives. He expects to remain in the east for about two weeks.

While in New York, Mr. Rockett will go over the new story line-up with Ned Depinet, vice-president and general sales manager, and Florence Strauss, head of the story purchasing department.

Association Acquires 228 Members in Last Two Years

The Motion Picture Theatre Owners Association of North Carolina has been undergoing a regime of prosperity and healthy progress under the leadership of Charles W. Picquet, President, who operates the Carolina Theatre in Pinehurst.

Two years ago, the association was not taken seriously anywhere throughout the State and certainly not nationally, as it had just 8 members banded together, and possibly not all of the 8 were paid up.

Today the association has 228 paid up members. During the Picquet incumbency, the organization has successfully fought off censorship and admission tax. It is functioning with the Film Board of Trade regularly and harmoniously, in arbitration matters.

The M.P.T.O. has also been educating its members in the proper conduct of its contractual relations with film exchanges and distributors, only three member cases being scheduled for the last regular arbitration meeting. On the other hand there were twenty-two non-member cases, and there appears to be a majority of two-thirds of all cases brought by non-members, coming up before these meetings, on the average.

CONSOLIDATED FILM PREFERRED EARNS $4

Consolidated Film preferred has been moving forward in sympathy with the strength which has been shown in several other amusement shares recently. Company is earning $4 a share on the senior stock and paying $2 a share. It has contracts with practically every leading motion picture producer and is one of the essential accessory concerns in that industry.

There has been considerable switching from the preferred into the common on the recent advance by interests identified with the industry who maintain that eventually the junior stock will be the feature. The latter is on the Curb Exchange.

Warner Stock Drops Keith-Albee Gains 7

Yesterday was a hectic day for film stocks on the curb and stock exchange. The Warner-Stanley merger started things a-going with a bang, with the opening of the market, Stanley jumping over 10 points. At the close of the day Warner "A" had lost 5% points and the "B", 3½ points, while Stanley wound up with a 4¼ point gain, going to a new high of 63¼.

Paramount was off a point and a half, as was Fox, which dropped 3% points to 111%. Fox Theatres was off 1¼ dropping to 30%.

The K-A-O stock reacted favorably, gaining 7½ points on the preferred, which jumped to 95.

Fox Drops All 'Programs' for 'Specials' 'Interference' First P-F-L All-Talker

Sheehan and Fox to Plunge All on Big Specials

By JOE BLAIR
Hollywood Correspondent

William Fox and Winfield Sheehan, general manager of production have reached the conclusion that program pictures do not mean anything. That is program, to the extent of cheap pictures with short shooting schedules and casts of no great consequence. Accordingly they have decided to supplant these with what has been known as "specials". In other words, this organization intends making nothing but big one's, sinking plenty of money in every negative and hoping for the best.

This decision, no doubt, was brought about due to the immense business being done on the "specials" throughout the country at the present time. The box-office on "Seventh Heaven", "Sunrise", "Four Son's", "Street Angel" and "Mother Machree" has been tremendous.

LOWE CHOSEN FOR 'BROADWAY' SCRIPT

Fejos and Laemmle, Jr. to Produce Big $225,000 Play

Edward T. Lowe, Jr., veteran scenario editor and writer, has been engaged by Carl Laemmle to make an adaptation and continuity of the famous Jed Harris stage success, "Broadway," bought by Universal last year for the record price of $225,000, and since sought by other companies in vain at prices upwards of half a million.

The picturization of this stage thriller is expected by Universal officials to be the greatest picture ever made at Universal City. Movietone methods will take full value from the powerful lines and situations in the play.

Camera work will be started at the earliest possible time, with Dr. Paul Fejos reported as the likely director. Carl Laemmle, Jr., will supervise the production, which is expected to have Glenn Tryon as the Broadway "hooper" around whom the play is built. Others in the cast and company will be announced soon.

Jolson Luncheon Ignores Industry's Trade Press

Al Jolson yesterday afternoon gave a luncheon for the daily newspaper reviewers, but his invitation did not include the names of the trade-press.

Evidently Al figures on spending some of his $5,000,000 profit he has in Warners on a big blow-out for the boys on the trade sheets.

STUDIO GOSSIP

This Eddie Carewe always pops up with the unexpected. He phoned Louis Jerome, his Hollywood business manager from Paris informing him that he had had an operation on his nose, and everything was O.K.

And Roy Del Ruth springs a new one. In making scenes for the Warner Brothers picture "Conquest" of an ice floe he relayed the sound effects by telegraph wire to the telephone recording room in the studio.

Tom Mix is soon to start on "Outlaw". This is a Western "meller" of the old type.

Monte Blue will soon start in "The Greyhound Limited" a railroad story at Warner's. Edna Murphy will play opposite the star and Howard Bretherton will direct.

Mary Doran, has been signed on a stick contract by M-G-M. She has been appearing in the stage version of "Saturday's Children" at the local Belasco Theatre.

Lina Basquette will have the female lead opposite William Boyd in "The Flying Fool" to be made by Pathe.

Ramon Navarro has signed a new contract with M-G-M. This time he gets a raise that brings his weekly check up to $5,000. His old contract had until December to run.

I. E. Chadwick will make three independent specials for the coming year. The first "Enlighten Thy Children" will go into production at an early date.

Pete Smith, M-G-M publicist, took a party of 20 newspaper men to the "Gold Braid" location at San Diego via airplane.

Ben Homes, former burlesque comedian, who has been working on the Fox lot for the past few months as an assistant director, has been elevated to the position of director of Movietone.

Lew Seiler, Fox director, yesterday started on his first Movietone special "Baggers".

Affiliated European to Synchronize Two

Affiliated European Producers are expecting to synchronize two of their forthcoming pictures: one of them is, "Her Viennese Lover", based on the famous Viennese operetta, "Sweet Girl"; and the second, a film based on the life of Chopin, the famous composer.

Bill Hart in Demand

William S. Hart, out of pictures for the past few years, is in great demand by several of the major studios. They want him for talking pictures. Hart wants a long contract, most of the bidding companies want a picture-to-picture contract.

Screen Credit

Found: A fellow who does not want screen credit!

He is quite a mysterious figure around the Paramount studio. He slides in and sneaks out. Few know him, and only studio executives can name him. He is the fellow who designed the distillery for the production of "Sins of the Fathers".

Ufa Star in F. N.

Billie Dove Prod.

The latest addition to the cast of Billie Dove's new starring picture for First National, as yet untitled, is Lucy Dorraine, well-known Defu-First National star, who has just recently arrived in Hollywood from abroad. This role marks her first American screen appearance. Among the First National foreign productions in which Miss Dorraine was seen are "Marriage Scandal" and "Alpine Tragedy". She played the Chinese heroine of "Mr. Wu" on the stage in Europe.

Brown Named New "U"

Casting Assistant

B. E. Brown was yesterday named to fill the position as assistant casting director at Universal Studios left vacant by the resignation of Harold Dodds, according to announcement by Casting Director, Victor Nordlinger.

Green with M-G-M

Alfred Green has been engaged by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer to direct Marion Davies' next picture, as yet untitled. As Miss Davies is in London at the present time, this film will not go into production until her return in October. Green directed "Sally", "Irene", "The Music Master", and "Is Zat So?".

DAILY REVIEW

Lothar Mendez and Roy Pomeroy Make Two Versions

Announcement was made today that the first "all-talking" picture to be made by Paramount will be "Interference", "the Pertwee-Beard-on stage play.

It seems that Paramount have been up a tree for some time regarding this production. Lothar Mendez has been at work for some time on the "silent" version and Roy Pomeroy has been making tests and photographing sequences with talk. After seeing portions of both, studio officials decided to make it an all-talkie. Of course there will be a silent version also.

The Pomeroy method has scored with Paramount studio officials. This method consists of the making of two negatives at the same time, one for the talk and the other for the action and photography. An expensive operation but it seems evident that this method should be highly successful in that both negatives can and will be developed separately giving full value to the voice and the photography. In the long run it might be the cheapest method.

WARNER EMPLOYEES CLEAN UP ON TIPS

The rise of Warner Brothers stock on the market has been a gold mine for a few Warner employees in on the know. Fortunes have been made by several members of this organization other than those carrying the Warner name.

Al Jolson for example is said to have cleaned up around $5,000,000 in the last six months. He is said to have taken quite a bit of his salary in stock for his work in both "The Jazz Singer" and "The Singing Fool".

Several minor executives adopted the same basis of payment as was he case with at least two directors several players and a studio official.

A salesman in the New York exchange having a relative upstairs in the executive offices, resigned his $75.00 a week position Monday, walking out with a cool $150,000 profit in the stock.

What is true in a major way is also true with men in the exchanges, advertising and in a couple of instances, stage hands in the Hollywood studio.

Fox Pays for Nagel

Fox wanted Conrad Nagel for a picture. This player is under a contract to both Warner's and M-G-M these companies having alternate use of his services. Both could use him in pictures immediately, but Fox offered $30,000 for his services for six weeks and got him. He will appear in "Slide of Life" going into production immediately.

FIVE CENTS

OBSERVATIONS

Stocks

The Warners close their Stanley deal and then the stock of both companies drop. Stanley four and a half-points and Warners fourteen. The whole market for picture stocks were away off. What does this mean? Does it signify that Stanley and Warners, for example are less valuable today than they were yesterday? We don't think so.

Control

Who controls this old picture business anyhow? Wall Street, of course. The bankers and brokers can snap their fingers and almost anything will happen. They decide today that it would be a good thing, for their own profit, to have this company merge with that one, and merge they do, regardless of any advantage or lack of it, from a business (picture) point of view. The manipulation is tremendous and is all in the hands of the financing groups. They tell Zukor, Schenck, Warner, Fox and all the rest what THEY want to do, and these gentlemen do it.

Short

Even with the drop in Warner's today, how would you like to be in the position of one very high executive in motion pictures who started selling Warner stock SHORT at 85? He has had and will continue to have for some time, many anxious moments. He will, very likely quit the transaction quite a big "wad" loser, and we are told this individual has around twenty thousand shares. That's some selling.

M. P. Club

The industry should well feel proud of the new Motion Picture Club. It is a delight to the eye, a great comfort and fills a long felt want. And above all, the food is EXCELLENT. Wonder what's going to happen to the Hunting Room now? That a good one to sell short.

WARNERS OFFER TO BUY HALF INTEREST IN 80 N. Y. THEATRES

K-A-O Deal May Be Held Up in Warner Theatre Plan

Harry M. Warner yesterday admitted that there had been negotiations on for a deal for taking over the Keith-Albee-Orpheum Circuit chain of over 200 theatres, but there's no immediate prospect for completing these negotiations at the present time, the question of terms holding up assent of the K-A-O stockholders.

"We are, of course, as a developing firm seeking an outlet for Vitaphone and Warner Brothers pictures always ready to consider any proposition which would broaden our selling strength," he said. "That does not mean that Warner Brothers are indiscriminately going to buy theatres singly or in chain. When negotiations of importance have reached the stage where facts can be given, it will be our pleasure to communicate them to the newspapers and the public."

Terms for the acquisition of stock of the Stanley Company of America by Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc. were announced yesterday.

The offer, the same as that announced yesterday.

Warners Offer to Buy Half Interest in N. Y. Theatres

tion, Harry M. Warner was called in to act as advisor to the organization.

From another source, however, it was learned that after most everyone had been accused of everything short of murder, Sapiro blaming the organization, the organization shifting it back on his shoulders, Arthur Whyte calling the lie to Aaron, etc., etc., the members were astounded at the statement of Arthur Whyte, who has been holding the office of Film buyer, that, given five minutes, he would produce a man who would keep the organization intact; buy the houses; furnish finances; or anything else they might want.

Warner Sensation!

After Whyte was granted the five minutes, and this time was one minute past due, he walked into the meeting room with H. M. Warner.

As can be imagined, a sensation was created on the spot at the identity of Whyte's saviour. Warner came to the point immediately and when he was finished, the Warner proposition was an offer to buy fifty percent interest in all the theatres owned by those members present, the owners to keep the management of the houses.

At the meeting today, some concrete proposition based on the earning power of the houses together with the property values will be formulated and presented to Mr. Warner.

Most of the houses Mr. Warner propositioned are the same that William Fox is working on a deal with. But the Fox deal is an outright buy, with the present owners not participating in any manner after the deal is made, if they do not wish to.

Pettijohn-Steffes Bury Hatchet on Arbitration

The row over arbitration in Minneapolis started shortly after the exhibitor convention in April, when the association members went on record as refusing to sit on arbitration cases of companies that appeared to be deliberately soliciting trade from non-theatrical institutions that were operating in direct competition to regular theatres.

After numerous attempts to straighten the matter out, without results, the distributor members of the Arbitration Board were instructed to secure exhibitor members from outside the ranks of the Theatre Owners Association. This "outlaw board" was finally secured after much effort and held several meetings in which a number of decisions were rendered. These cases will be thrown out of the records and will be retired by the regular operating members of the constituted board.

SHEEHAN PREDICTS NEW TALKIE SENSATION

Broadway will see the eighth $2 Fox special this year with the opening of "Mother Knows Best" at the Globe Theatre to-morrow afternoon with Movietone synchronizaton and dialogue.

Winfield Sheehan, vice president and general manager for Fox, predicts it will be nothing short of a sensation.

John Blystone directed, with Madge Bellamy, Louise Dresser and Barry Norton in the principal featured roles. Bellamy gives impersonations of Harry Lauder, Al Jolson and Anna Held, singing some of their famous songs and going through their familiar antics.

The stage scenes were staged with great attention to detail. Eugene Walter, well known dramatist and author of "Paid in Full" and "The Easiest Way", wrote the dialogue. The stage embellishments were done under the direction of Charles Judels and Dave Stamper.

Gallup was then presented with a new travelling case, as a mark of appreciation on the part of the membership.

Harvey, the new president, made his inaugural address and accepted the office as a real opportunity to render a service, and also paid a fine tribute to the personality and work of the retiring president.

K-A-O Deal May Be Held Up in Warner Theatre Plan

Accepted privately by large stockholders of the Stanley Company, will give each minority holder for 80 per cent of his holdings one share of new Warner preferred stock, convertible for two years into Warner common in the ratio of $55 per share for the Stanley stock to the extent of 80 per cent of his holdings, the Stanley shareholders also will receive one-tenth of a share of Warner common stock. For the remaining 20 per cent Warner Brothers will pay $57.50 per share in cash.

The new preferred stock will be cumulative, probably of no par value with a dividend at the rate of $2.20 a share until the expiration of the conversion period and thereafter at the rate of $3.85 annually.

Thus, a holder of 100 shares of Stanley Company stock would receive at this time $1,150 in cash for twenty shares; eight shares of Warner Brothers common stock, worth $1,000 at last night's price of $125 per share, and eighty shares of preferred stock convertible into 35.2 shares of Warner common, worth at last night's market $4,400. The total value of Stanley Company on that basis would be $6,550 for the 100 shares, or 65½ per share.

H. M. Warner announced that the class A stock of his company will be redeemed on December 1, 1928. Prior to or upon that date all class A stock must be turned over for redemption or for conversion, share for share, into common stock. The redemption price is $17 per share, compared with yesterday's closing price of 129¾ for the A stock and 125 for the common.

The offering for Stanley Company stock is subject to approval of stockholders of Warner Brothers at a meeting to be called later. The Stanley board will recommend to its own holders that the offer be accepted.

12 X 12 TELEVISION

G. E.—CHAIN PLANNED

Dr. Alexanderson of the General Electric Company has succeeded in transmitting a television performance of a legitimate playlet, "The Queen's Messenger", at the laboratories in Schenectady.

The effect was that of listening to a play over the radio but in addition the performance of the players was seen in a 3 x 3 field. This size will soon be stepped up to 12 x 12 inches by the Professor.

Alexanderson predicts the creation in the future of a special chain of Television Theatres without actors, musicians, scene shifters or stage hands, receiving simultaneous broadcasts from a central station.

The Professor employed three cameras in the televising—one camera took the scenes in which the feminine lead appeared; another that of the male star and the third those scenes with only the hands of one or the other, or of various props.

JOLSON TAKES THE AIR OVER WOR MONDAY

A radio treat for motion picture fans will take place on Monday evening, September 17th, at 9:30 o'clock when Al Jolson will appear on the first Vitaphone Jubilee Hour over Station WOR in New York City and twenty other stations on the Columbia Broadcasting Chain.

The period between 9:30 and 10 o'clock every Monday night thereafter for 26 weeks will bring before the radio audience some nationally known entertainer through the courtesy of Vitaphone and Warner Bros. Pictures.

7 COAST PRODUCERS MOVE TO STUDIO CITY

Third of 531 Films This Year to Be Made in New Colony

Looks as if Studio City and environs are going to get the play for future production activities. Property in Hollywood has become so valuable, that studio officials are selling the plants and moving out into less valuable territory.

Motion picture concerns having land holdings in North Hollywood and the Ventura Boulevard area will produce 531 pictures out of a total of 780 pictures to be made in Los Angeles under the 1928-1929 program, according to motion-picture executives. More than $75,000,000 of the total 1928-1929 production expenditure of $115,000,000 will be spent by studios located in or having land holdings in the new film community.

Motion-picture organization already having permanent locations in the North Hollywood-Ventura Boulevard district have assets of approximately $250,000,000 with an annual expenditure of $50,000,000.

The 1928-1929 program of organizations having permanent locations or land holdings in the new motion-picture community provides for the following schedule of pictures:

Mack Sennett	60
Trem Carr Productions	15
Christie Film Company	34
Lasky	274
M-G-M	52
First National	56
Universal	40

Total 531

Next year will probably be a different story altogether. There will be a lot more.

Doug's New Picture

Now in Full Blast

D'Artagnan and the three musketeers are riding once more.

Douglas Fairbanks is in active production of "The Iron Mask", the sequel to his story of "The Three Musketeers", which he made six years ago. Again Mr. Fairbanks is playing D'Artagnan, Alexander Dumas' swashbuckling hero of the seventeenth century.

Goldwyn Company East

A company headed by Vilma Banky will be sent East in the very near future to film scenes for a production, as yet untitled and written by James Gleason, which Sam Goldwyn will release through United Artists. It will have quite an amount of "talk" in it.

Howard Starts Soon

William K. Howard, Fox director, is soon to start on "Street Fair". Sets are being built at Fox Hills showing an entire Holland village. Janet Gaynor will be the star.

Withers in Cast

Grant Withers is the first player chosen to support Monte Blue in his next Warner Bros. picture, "The Greyhound Limited" which Howard Bretherton is preparing to direct. In a few days Anthony Coldeway will finish the script.

What's This?

A Santa Monica, Calif. paper reports the marriage of Rasmus Karl Gottlickor to Thias Walionski.

No interest—

It should have read Karl Dane to Thias Zaldenar and then we would know what they were talking about, for that is their "professional" names.

DEMILLE EXODUS ON WITH BIG STAFF

Cecil B. DeMille has moved to the M-G-M studio. With him went quite a cast including, Jeanie Macpherson, his special writer; Elizabeth McGaffey, research; Mrs. E. K. Adams, story department; Peverell Marley, cinematographer; Mitchell Leisen, art director (now in New York assembling material for DeMille's next picture); Roy Bruns, assistant director, and Barrett C. Kiesling, press representative.

Former DeMille people now with M-G-M include Adrian, designer and Lenore J. Coffee, writer.

Comedy Team Cast

Bobby Clark and Paul McCullough who recently arrived in Hollywood to work in Fox Movietone productions, have been cast in "The Bath Between", a two-reel Movietone comedy written by Hugh Herbert and Sidney Lanfield. Benjamin Stoloff is directing the two former Broadway comedians in this all-talking short subject.

Walsh on Location

With a carload of Movietone equipment, a score of players, and an orchestra of stringed instruments to furnish tuneful Spanish music, Raoul Walsh left Hollywood this week for Zion Canyon in Utah to make exterior scenes for "The Caballeros Way", the first 100 percent talking feature to be produced by the Fox company.

Tom Barry, who recently deserted Broadway for Hollywood and Fox Movietone production work, has written the dialogue for this O. Henry tale. Walsh will play the leading role of the "Cisco Kid" as well as direct the picture and other members of the cast who will have a chance to try their voices for the first time are Maria Al, Edmund Lowe, Farrell Macdonald, Ivan Linow, Lola Salvi and Elena Llota.

Newmeyer at Fox

Fred Newmeyer, the director, has been signed to do a picture at Fox's. It will be a newspaper story and titled "Newspaper".

Rand with Columbia

Walter S. Rand assumes the post of Exchange Manager at Omaha for Columbia Pictures Corporation this week.

Mr. Rand comes to Columbia after seven years with United Artists, five of which he spent as branch manager at Los Angeles and two years as Pacific Coast supervisor.

STUDIO GOSSIP

Bob Armstrong, Alan Hale and William Boyd will be co-featured in the Pathe production of "Leatherneck". Lina Basquette will be the girl.

Andrew Callahan, former sales manager of Technicolor, has a role in the Dix picture at Paramount.

Pola Negri has sold her beautiful Beverly Hills home. We are told that all of her remaining property will be disposed of, as his temperamental artist has decided to remain in Europe.

M-G-M is greatly elated over the voice tests of Ramon Navarro. If they give Ramon just half a chance he will make M-G-M talking pictures worth while.

We hear that Lionel Atwell, the stage star has left New York for Hollywood and Fox.

Ruth Taylor will not appear in "The Canary Murder Case". Jean Arthur has been given her part. Ruth is still at home recuperating from the Flu.

Seems funny to see Bill Haines and Karl Dane on the Paramount lot in makeup. M-G-M is using the sound stage for "Alias Jimmy Valentine".

Ruth Clifford, having been away from the screen for some time, is returning with a part in "The Devil's Apple Tree" being made by Tiffany-Stahl.

The completed cast for "Fancy Baggage" being done at Warner's is: Edmund Breese, Hallam Cooley, Wallace MacDonald, Eddie Gribbon, Burr McIntosh, George Fawcett and Audrey Ferris. Some cast.

Henry Sharp is doing the camera work on the Fairbanks picture "The Iron Mask". He did "Don Q" for Doug.

Comedy Western

"A Dangerous Dude", starring George Chandler under direction of Walter Fabian, has been completed, according to an announcement from Universal. The picture is a two reel Western in the "Tenderfoot Thrillers" series.

FLOREY TIES UP 6TH AVE. FOR "NIGHT CLUB"

Shades of Hollywood! Paramount tied up little old New York last night, when 6th Avenue and 50th Street was roped off with the aid of the police department, to allow Robert Florey to shoot elevated scenes for "Night Club"; a two-reel picture with sound, starring Bobby Arnst.

Thousands of New Yorkers formed part of the mob scenes but one of them, a bit peeved at being held up thought the 'pitcher' guys ought to be arrested.

STERNS USHER IN 4 FOR NEW SEASON

Stern Brothers are starting off the new season this month by bringing four comedies to the screen.

This group includes one from each of the four Stern Brothers Comedies announced for the 1928-1929 market. The lead-off comedy of the new season is one of "The Newlyweds and Their Baby" comedies, featuring Snookums, the precocious child star.

The other Stern Brothers series are the "Let George Do It" series, also a George McManus adaptation; the Euster Brown series, adapted from the R. F. Outcault cartoon comics, and the "Mike and Ike" comedies, adapted from Rube Goldberg's comic strip of that name.

CULVER CITY HUMS WITH PATHE PROD'S

At the Pathe Studios in Culver City "The Spieler", a story of carnival life as being enacted by Renee Adoree, Alan Hale, Fred Kohler and Clyde Cook is in mid-production; final preparations for "The Shady Lady" and "Geraldine" are being completed; two new directors have been signed, Melville Brown for "Geraldine" and "Chuck" Reisner for "Noisy Neighbors" and two new stories are under way. Charles A. Logue is writing "The Flying Fool" for William Boyd and Paul Gangelin is at work on "The Office Scandal", to star Phyllis Haver.

MCCONNELL BACK IN PATHE SERIAL WORK

Gladys McConnell comes back to Pathe as the heroine of "The Tiger's Shadow", George Arthur Grey's latest chapter melodrama which is now in production at the Pathe Studios at Culver City under the direction of Spencer Bennett and supervision of Phil Ryan. Teamed with Miss McConnell is Hugh Allan, who has attracted attention by his work in "Dress Parade" and "Annapolis".

Miss McConnell's first appearance for Pathe was as leading lady in the human cast of Hal Roach's big feature "The Devil Horse," with Rex, the King of Wild Horses.

FIVE CENTS

OBSERVATIONS

Paramount-Pomeroy

Word comes from the coast that Roy Pomeroy, sound expert at Paramount has perfected an attachment for a projecting machine, that will make it possible for a theatre to run both prints (one sound and the other story) on one machine. If this is true, our complaint in this column some time ago that "the Paramount method was too expensive" has to be discounted a bit.

The Method

As set forth before, the Paramount method of making talking pictures is to use two negatives exposing both simultaneously. One for the voice and the other for the photography. By this means, it is then possible to develop both negatives separately and as a result bring out both the voice and photography in a manner that is entirely satisfying. BUT this requires the cost of two prints of equal footage on every subject and two machines had to be used, projecting both at the same time.

Different

With the new Pomeroy invention a better part of this cost is eliminated and the expense of running two prints of equal footage will hardly be more than the money spent in replacements on disc records, providing the exhibitor is running the disc method also.

Tests

Quite a few prominent actors and actresses in Hollywood have had tests made by Paramount using their method. And all with considerable success. We hear that through these tests Mary Pickford was finally won over to the "talkies." And it seems evident that Miss Pickford might use this method in her all-talkie production of "Coquette".

However the point of it all is some of us not in on the know and trying to estimate the value of the different methods of sound reproductions were tempted to ridicule the Paramount idea due to the great expense entailed in production and projection. Pomeroy has clipped half this off and we are told, other reductions in expense will be made as a result of work now being perfected.

Tumbling Down

"Humpty-Dumpty sat on the wall, and oh, what a fall there was," was the chant of the holders of picture stocks yesterday as they watched such favorites as Fox - Warner - Stanley and others tumble.

Warner "A" dropped 18 points to 99 and the "B", 19 points to 97. Fox went off 4 to 102½ Universal fell 7 to 24½; Stanley dropped 6 to 53¼ and K-A-O was off 2¾ to 27½.

"Our Gang" is here. Bag and baggage this troupe of six artists arrived in town yesterday and were immediately quartered at the Park Central. "Fatty" Joe Cobb, freckled Harry Spear, Jean Darling, Mary Ann Jackson, Wheeler, Farina and "Petie", the dog mascot comprised the gang from the Hal Roach Studio that will appear at the Capitol Theatre all next week.

WARNER CLASS "A" REDEMPTION FUTILE

The call sent out by Warner Brothers for the redemption of the Class "A" stock by December 1st, at the latest, after which time that class stock will cease to draw dividends, may be futile, according to financial experts of the N. Y. Times.

The stock is called for redemption at $17. a share, plus unpaid and accumulated dividends, totaling $21.50 a share.

Inasmuch as Class "A" is now selling at 99, it appears certain that all will be converted into common shares, which closed at 97.

Both Warners and Fox are reported making offers for the Keith-Albee-Orpheum, but neither offer has brought K-A-O Board of Directors to the actual point of merging.

In addition to meeting with the committee of independent theatre owners of New York yesterday, for the purpose of lining up on the purchase proposition advanced on Thursday, H. M. Warner yesterday made an individual offer to Rachmil & Rinsler of the Supreme Circuit of Brooklyn, for the purchase of their eight houses.

Pending the appraisals of the majority of the 80 independent theatres in the Sapiro association, similar offers will be made individually from time to time, for either outright purchase—or 50%.

William Fox has been working on the deal to buy outright as many of the Sapiro group theatres as possible, for the past ten days and from (Continued on page 2)

BRISTOLPHONE PLAN 500 INSTALLATIONS

Budd Rogers, V. P. of Gotham Productions, announced yesterday, that, after phoning Sam Sax in Hollywood, the Gotham-Bristolphone is laying plans to equip 500 houses with their sound disc device by January 1st, 1929, and 2000 more by March 1st, 1929.

"Times Square", recently completed, will be Gotham's first Bristolphone picture. Harold Shumate, associate producer for Sax, and Alice Day, the star, are enroute to New York to add sound effects to the picture. Two sound stages are now in the process of construction at the Bristolphone studios, Waterbury, Conn., as well as two on the coast.

Fox Publicity Man Here from W. Coast

Frank Murray of the West Coast Publicity Department of Fox Film Corporation is in New York on a visit to the home-office and leaves for California next Wednesday. Frank is a Minneapolis-St. Paul off-shoot and well-known to the major theatre circuits in that territory.

Columbia Pictures Corporation had several big weeks in San Francisco with the booking in rapid succession at important first run-houses of its first three specials, "The Scarlet Lady," "Court-Martial" and "Submarine."

"Court-Martial," a Civil War picture with Jack Holt and Betty Compson, went into El Capitan Saturday for a week's run, followed Sunday at Pantages Theatre by the Western premiere of the Russian drama, "The Scarlet Lady," with Lya de Putti, Don Alvarado and Warner Oland.

Booking of the two specials followed closely on the heels of the announcement that Alexander Pantages had booked the Columbia product for 1928-29.

"Submarine" will follow "Court-Martial" and "The Scarlet Lady" into San Francisco very shortly.

UNIVERSAL TO HAVE TALKIE DEPARTMENT

Sales of Talking Picture Division in Golden Care

Lou B. Metzger, General Sales Manager of Universal, announces that Carl Laemmle has engaged Edward Golden to take charge of the Talking Pictures Division of Universal.

Mr. Golden, formerly part owner of the American Feature Film Company of Boston is organizing from the Home Office at 730 Fifth Avenue an entirely separate department. He is thoroughly acquainted with Universal product and with exhibitors throughout the country.

This department will book direct, for the time being, all of the synchronized product for which sales plans have not already been announced. The first production for the new Division will be "Lonesome", Universal's first talking picture.

Next is Universal's first one hundred percent talking picture, "Madelon", recently previewed at Yost's Broadway Theatre, Santa Ana, California. "Madelon", directed by A. B. Heath, with Walter Pidgeon, Mildred Harris, Jane Winton, Tommy Dugan and Jack Richardson, was referred to in the studio while in the making as "The Melody of Love". "Madelon" will be handled through the new Talking Pictures Division as soon as prints can be shipped.

Mr. Golden has three short talking subjects also for immediate distribution through his department. They are Bailey and Barnum, Brox Sisters and Zimmerman and Granville.

sources close to both parties, it is said the transaction is ready for completion and final closing on Monday.

Harry M. Warner come into this deal openly Thursday afternoon when, at the suggestion of Arthur Whyte, the group in meeting at the offices of the Sapiro organization met with him to discuss terms for a sale of some of the theatres. The meeting was adjourned until yesterday morning, at which time a committee appointed by the Sapiro group met with Mr. Warner to work out a plan. THE DAILY REVIEW was informed that this meeting was adjourned until Monday after more than an hour's discussion.

Whether it be Fox or Warner, it seems most evident that a sale will be made, thereby giving Fox, if he is the purchaser, a tremendous hold in greater New York, and if the houses go to Warner, an outlet for Warner Brothers and Vitaphone pictures, greater than that of any other organization in the metropolitan district.

E. V. RICHARDS MERGING SOUTHERN EXHIBITORS

NEW ORLEANS.—With theatre mergers in the Northern territories taking place right and left these days, one of the most important mergers in the South is about to take, when 24 suburban independent theatres of New Orleans are organized into a two million dollar profit-sharing company, with E. V. Richards, President of Saenger chain of theatres.

Audits are now being made of each theatre to be given stock in the new company in proportion to the value of the property put into the merger.

Some of the 24 houses will be scrapped and the balance brought up to date and wired for sound pictures.

Richards is said to be the sponsor for the merger plan and is reported to be interest in half a dozen houses in the 24.

"THE CIRCUS KID"

FBO
Directed By.....George B Seltz
Featuring.....Frankie Darro,
Joe Brown, Poodles, Hanneford,
Helene, Costello, Sam Nelson
Photography.....Phil Tannura

Picture has several good qualities in Darro, Poodles Hanneford Circus performers and a good climax, added to a story of circus life. There is nothing else however to get it a first-run showing in the big towns. Story is slow, titles ordinary and Brown who had a big one in "Hit of the Show" is buried in this one. Picture is average entertainment but may get break through Darro's work.

An orphan, runs away from the institution and becomes part of a circus—he is made a pal of an ex-lion tamer who finally overcomes his fear of the king of beasts with the help of the orphan. That his girl does not love him finally is realized by the hero. The circus, back in the orphan's home-town is giving a performance during a heavy storm, the big lion-tamer is clawed by the cats and saved from death by the orphan and the ex-lion tamer who dies.

"HOME JAMES"

UNIVERSAL
Directed by.....William Beaudine
Featuring.....Laura La Plante,
Charles Delaney, Arthur Hoyt
Sprightly vehicle for La Plante, full of non-sensical situations which are nevertheless laugh-provoking in many spots—Delaney gives capable performance as does Arthur Hoyt—La Plante is not given any opportunity to wear attractive clothes and her appearance suffers Girl art student comes to big town to make good and her come down finds her selling art in department store—love affair with store owner's son develops, girl, however, thinking he is just a chauffeur—girl's relatives come to city to find out how she is getting on and in a pinch the wealthy hero offers her his own home for appearance sake—ensuing mix-ups between the son and his father cause the store owner to be thrown in jail as intruder in his own home—explanations are forthcoming and everything ends well.

"KREUTZER SONATA"

M. S. Films (German)
Directed by.....J. Machaty
Featuring.....Eva Byron and Jans Petrovich.

Story founded on Tolstoy's noted novel and produced in the typical Continental heavy manner—Film has been crudely cut for the American market and direction of the picture is not too expert.—Cast fair—Should go well in cinema-art theatres and foreign neighborhoods.

A railway traveller tells his fellow journeyers, out of a clear sky, that he has committed a murder, caused by jealousy and the eternal triangle, wherein he discovers his wife having an affair with a violinist. The action flashes back and forth from the traveller telling the story to the actual occurrences.

The woman, Eva Byron does creditable work although she is not the type American audiences like—Petrovich as the jealous husband has a good sense of dramatic values.

"HEART TO HEART"

FIRST NATIONAL Direction.....William Beaudine
Featuring.....Mary Astor,
Lloyd Hughes, Louise Fazenda,
Lucien Littlefield.

This is a "weaksister" to "Mr. Frisbee's Princess," so ably produced some time ago. Here we have the story of an American girl who, having married a prince in Italy, returns after several years to her home town in America unrecognized for a time with the ensuing monkey-shines. The picture has practically no love story, making us wonder just where the title fits in, and is for the most part very slow moving. The burden of entertainment falls upon the always capable shoulders of Louise Fazenda, who as usual gives a great performance. William Beaudine's direction is excellent throughout in spite of the weak story and small time gags. The best we can give this is "fair program."

"MAN-MADE WOMAN"

Pathe
Directed by.....Paul L. Stein
Featuring.....Leatrice Joy,
H. B. Warner.

Production stands out because of splendid work of Miss Joy and Warner, but theme is somewhat trite. Director has labored to turn out a fast moving picture through many dissolves which run a bit too fast—Settings tone up the production, and it should do well as a program attraction. John Boles might do better work if he could loosen up his expression and gestures.

Husband cannot allow his wife to retain her own personality and desires, but wishes to mold her into his conception of a what a wife should be. This outrages the wife, who leaves him, although she loves him—an old admirer reappears on the scene and though he desires her, agrees to help her win back her husband, provided she comes to him, if the plan fails. She wins the stubborn and proud husband back, through feminine lures.

"READY, SET, GO!"

Greclago Production
Directed by.....Ray McCarey
Featuring.....Spec O'Donnell

A fine comedy, clean and spontaneous with youthful zest—the cast is well balanced and the whole family will enjoy this one.

The story is about a boy whose uncle has mortgaged the farm to provide him with a college education. The lad, of course, is frivolous and he takes the school idea as an opportunity to display a barrel of tricks. At college Spec accomplishes many things through no endeavor of his own, but fate is with the freckle-faced kid. It is a simple story, plainly told of the boy who goes from the farm to college and how!

Muriel Montrose, Bruce Coleman, Joe Cobb and Joe Young fill their parts capably.

"BLACK BUTTERFLIES"

Abe Carlos Prod.
Directed by.....James W. Horne
Featuring.....Jobyna Ralston,
Mae Busch, Lila Lee
Photography.....Max Dupont

An interesting and different story, which has some bad implausibilities—such as a woman dying from childbirth, getting out of bed and playing a farewell song on the piano—needs recutting for proper eliminations. Excellent cast does wonders with this one.

A young and headstrong girl orphan is left a large fortune—she wants to forget her horrid life and runs wild becoming mixed up with a group of wasters pleasure-bent, known as the Black Butterflies. When her allowance is stopped, she marries a young lawyer for convenience. Returning from their ill-spent honeymoon, the girl crashes into another car, blinding her husband. The accident closing his eyes, opens hers and she is reborn during the husband's convalescence.

Sound Featurettes

"COOPER AND STEPT"

VITAPHONE—FEATURETTE
Three good original songs are put over in this short pianolog. In order of presentation they are "Beside a Lazy Stream" by Bud Cooper lyricist, second, a solo by Stept, "High Life made a Low Life Out of Me" and finally, another by Cooper, "No One but My Tootsie."

Stept is not a newcomer in these Vita shorts having appeared with Al Bernard and Frank Kamplain as the Record Boys.

Numbers are appropriate and are gotten across with good effect. Enjoyable and should be booked.

"CAUGHT IN FOG" TRAILER

Vitaphone—John Miljan
Trailer for forthcoming Warner release, introduction delivered by Miljan, whose personality without make-up does not get over so well as in "The Terror." All Vitaphone trailer speakers ought to appear in character from the picture introduced.

"JOE HOWARD"

VITAPHONE—FEATURETTE

Entertaining for older folks who heard and enjoyed Joe Howard on the stage for two decades. Wasted on an audience of the younger generation upon whom they would have no effect. Howard sings four songs, two of which are "Dreaming" and "Who's Kissing Her Now" both of which were popular years ago. A mediocre song act to be used in case of necessity. Howard's appearance on the screen is quite satisfactory. Accompanies himself in due melody.

"JIMMY LYONS"

Vitaphone-Warner Bros.
Vaudevillian puts across dandy monologue bit. Will delight all audiences.

This is not the first time Jimmy Lyons has appeared in the talking films, and those who have seen him before will be certain to want to hear him again. He records exceptionally well and the matter he chooses always gets across big. This time he makes one of his political speeches and hits a home run almost every time he goes to bat.

"SINGING FOOL" TRAILER

Vitaphone—Al Jolson
This advance theatre trailer on "The Singing Fool" just completed by Jolson is a treat and is almost as good as a 10-minute vaudeville monologue. Jolson is Jolson and he devotes most of this talk to his trip abroad and other wise-cracks.

"TUNING IN"

Vitaphone-Warner Bros.
Directed by.....Bryan Foy
Good idea with novel angle, but doesn't quite make the grade as good entertainment.

Both the broadcasting end and the receiving end of the radio are shown, the announced acts are burlesqued, with the announcer being exhibited as doing nearly all the stunts himself. This faking is amusing. For instance an announced tap dance is accomplished by the beating of coconut shells together. But the listener-in at the finale is no longer amused and is not loath to show his rath.

FIVE CENTS

OBSERVATIONS

"Mother Knows Best"

It was quite evident, from the number of woman with minor off-spring in tow at yesterdays opening of "Mother Knows Best" that a great many people must have been under the impression that herein lay a great lesson for the "younger generation." On the contrary, in this Edna Ferber story, so admirably presented, is taught the difference between Mother love and "Smother love" and it points an accusing finger at the parent—not the child.

Silence

We heaved a great sigh of relief as the picture began to unwind itself in the dignified silence dueto such an unusual and beautifully played story. When it did burst into sound, the sound was expected because that particular situation warranted it and the "talkie" sequences in this instance in no way marred the production.

Speeches

The solospeeches and conversation in "Mother Knows Best" are by far, the best that have been foisted upon us in this form of entertainment, and yet even in this instance they are by no means worthy of the excellent drama of which they are a part. But we wont quibble about that—because even if the dialogue is so much "hokum"—the picture is not. It is excellent.

"Mother Knows Best" is distinguished by very good direction, an exceptional story, the fine performances of Madge Bellamy and Barry Norton; and the superb and almost overshadowing work of Louise Dresser.

Expensive

A lot of money has undoubtedly gone into this production, and in our opinion is has been well spent. It is amazing to note the change for the better in the acting of Miss Bellamy who has been playing ga-ga parts so long. We think too that Fox has a "comer" in Barry Norton, who shows great ability and has that sympathetic appeal. Louise Dresser, however, sweeps all before her as the Mother whose domination and ambition nearly ruins the lives of all three.

We noted too with appreciation, that the scenes behind the lines in the war sequences were finely done, and that no attempt was made to "copycat" from "The Big Parade", "Wings", et al. Three loud cheers.

It looks as tho when it comes to buying a corking story and sticking to it—"Fox knows best".

FOUR SOUND STAGES BEING BUILT AT PARAMOUNT

Immediate construction of four new sound stages at the Hollywood studios of the Paramount Famous Lasky Corporation is planned with ground for the new structures to be broken today, it was announced by Jesse L. Lasky, first vice president.

Mr. Lasky's announcement follows the return from New York of Frank A. Brandow, studio manager, who left for the East two weeks ago with construction plans. These were originally formulated by Roy J. Pomeroy, director of sound effects at the west coast studios, in collaboration with leading electrical and acoustical engineers of the Western Electric and Bell Telephone companies, and call for the erection of the most modern type of sound stage made possible by scientific research and development.

Each of the four stages will be 70 feet wide by 100 feet long. The structures will occupy a site behind Stage 4 on the Paramount lot in Hollywood, and will be constructed of special materials designed to prevent all extraneous sounds and noises from entering the building, and to eliminate echo and resonance within the various stages.

Bow in New One

The next Clara Bow picture will be "The Saturday Night Kid". She will have a new face, as her leading man in this one, a European find of Jesse Lasky, Frederick Sands, by name.

French Want Quota Removed

FRED FLECK IN N. Y.

Fred Fleck, former casting head of the Paramount Astoria studio and more recently assisting Howard Hughes in the production of "Hell's Angels", arrived in New York today from Hollywood to take up his duties and casting director for Paramount in the eastern studio.

WARNER SETS FREDERICK

Warner Brothers have signed Pauline Frederick, the well known stage and screen actress, to a four year contract, according to Darryl Zanuck, west coast production manager for this organization.

This noted actress will appear in all-taking pictures. Several well known plays are now under consideration for her and one in particular is being negotiated for.

NA. EXCHANGE CLUBS HELP FOX PICTURE

In an effort to increase interest in aviation throughout the United States and to focus attention on the need for airports and definite markings for cities along air routes, some 800 National Exchange Clubs throughout the contry have joined with the Fox Film Corporation in exploiting "The Air Circus". This picture, which deals with the problems of commercial aviation, has been recommended by Walter W. Hubbard, the president of the New York Exchange Club, to all the club members throughout the country.

Through their national secretary, Herold M. Harter, of Toledo, Ohio, this organization plans to cooperate with all theatres showing "The Air Circus" in an effort to further stimulate interest in aviation.

Writing to William Fox, Mr. Hubbard said: "The writer, who was in the photographic service during the recent World War and witnessed the aerial activities at St. Mihiel, had the privilege of seeing your new picture 'The Air Circus'.

"Although I saw it on the anniversary of the St. Mihiel drive, I am thankful it was not a war picture. From a photographic standpoint, as well as an aviation standpoint, the picture was a pronounced success. I will not qualify my endorsement of it in any way; it is clean, up-to-the-minute, and technically correct, and we shall unstintingly recommended it to our friends."

First Issue Released at an Early Date

The long awaited Pathe News, with sound, is soon to be a reality, as this company received the first of several News trucks from the Radio Corporation of America Saturday, and it was put into action along Broadway at once.

The Pathe truck is a portable visual and sound recording equipment with a visual camera range of 2 miles and with a tonal range of 87 metres. With this range in both sound and photography the truck will be able to capture news events in their actuality.

Pathe home office officials were so elated with the delivery of this first truck that photographs of it were made and were telegraphed by the A.T.&T.Co., to the Pathe branch offices throughout the country where sales meetings are being held simultaneously.

GOLDWYN'S FOR B'WAY

Samuel Goldwyn, United Artists producer, has three pictures headed for Broadway. "Two Lovers" the Coleman-Banky co-starring production will be seen at the Rivoli September 22, being it's first time at popular prices. Around Nov. 15th. "The Awakening" Vilma Banky's first starring picture, will follow "Two Lovers" into this Broadway house. Shortly after that, at the same house, the Joseph Conrad story, "The Rescue" will be shown. This production presents the young French star, Lila Damita, in her first American made picture.

FOX NEWSMEN HERE

Ettore Villani, Rome Staff of Fox Newsreel, Hans Pebal, Vienna Staff and Frederic Fesneau, Paris Staff, are visitors of the Home Office organization in New York at the present time, and are checking up on all the improvements, since they were away. They will be returning to their posts in a month or so.

Farrow Sells Another

John Farrow, young Paramount writer, has sold another story to that organization. It is "The Haunting Melody". The story will be put in book form by Farrow and released before the picture is out.

French Want

Quota Removed

the American movie has kept open the door of more than one cinema palace in France.

Now there is a cry on all sides for the removal of the quota restrictions and it seems this cry will be heard before 1929 sets in.

The French producer is being ridiculed, not only for the quality of his product but for his yells at "reprisals" at the time the quota was being considered. The public are now aware why, more French films have not found a market in America. They are convinced that it is not through a heavy taxation or the desire of American producers to keep their market clear for their own product, but the fact that French made films have no sufficient quality to break into the American theatre.

There are moves on in every direction to remove the quota. French exhibitors are to carry on the fight being backed up by the French public.

DORIS ANDERSON SIGNS PARAMOUNT CONTRACT

Doris Anderson will remain with Paramount as a scenarist and original story writer, it became known when the studios announced that the popular authoress had affixed her name to a new contract.

Miss Anderson, a graduate of the University of California, a former newspaper woman and publicity agent, joined Paramount several months ago and since that time has been kept busy on screen productions. Of late, she has been responsible for the "Three Sinners", screen play, upon which she collaborated with Jean de Limur, and on the screen play for "Half a Bride", Percy Heath co-operating on that. At the present time, she is preparing and original, "The Wolf of Wall Street", for George Bancroft.

CARRIER STARTS NEW BEAUTY CONTEST

Appreciating the fact that bathing beauty contests and contests looking for the girl with the greatest personality, etc. have always been exceptional box office features at various seasons of the year, James A. Carrier, formerly general manager of exploitation theatres for the Universal Film Corporation and quite recently General Manager for the Schine Theatrical Enterprises, has hit upon the original idea of sending scouts into the European country and there select one representative beauty from each foreign country and bring her back to America for a tour, playing every important theatre in the land, in a most elaborate revue. These girls so selected will be required to have individual talent, so that their presence in this revue will mean more than just a mere walk across the stage, as talent will be as important to the girl winning this tour opportunity as will her beauty and perfectness of form.

Upon arrival of these foreign celebrities in New York Mr. Carrier has arranged for them to tour on their own $35,000 palatial trackless train which is now nearing completion in Indianapolis. The train will be built similar to the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer trackless train which is now enjoying its fourth year of a world tour by a visit to Australia.

ZAKORO ENTHUSIASTIC

According to Zakoro Film Corporation, "the use of foreign pictures in American theatres is increasing, and may possibly in time outstrip in popularity the home-made product."

Zakoro officials further believe "that American producers are more and more copying the foreign method of production." "The company has five European productions ready for distribution this season, including French and German make." "Mother of Mine" one of the five bears most promise of a box-office knockout. Meanwhile "Potemkin" is being widely booked throughout upper New York and New Jersey.

The Perfect Talking Pi

It's a lovely, tender, emotional story built around a boy and a girl alone in a big city—with a background of Coney Island — a picture without a villain—

When you HEAR the delicious dialogue between these two lonely youngsters—the catch in the girl's voice when the boy whispers "you're wonderful"—you'll say it's a marvel—YOU'LL say it's wonderful!—

Because it is different—new—refreshing—and it's Carl Laemmle's wonder

PARAMOUNT SOLVES TWO NEGATIVE TALKIE

By Special Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD — Roy Pomeroy, sound expert at Paramount, is said to have perfected a machine that will project the two negatives, necessary in the sound method now being used by his organization, on a single projector, instead of two now required to screen subjects by this device.

The idea of the reproducing attachment, consists of a standard projector plus a film rotating, attachment for the separate film, recording the voice. It can be attached to the regular Movietone installation at a very small cost, and this in turn can be attached to any existing projector by utilizing the Movietone or Vitaphone amplifiers.

If Pomeroy has what he is said to have, this will settle a lot of uncertainty on the part of many exhibitors who have seen reason to favor the method used by Paramount due to the fact they have experienced quite an expense with the disc method in that a disc can only be run a few times and after that a new one will have to be used, and this runs into quite an item. With the voice on a separate negative, without having to be run the negative through an intermittent, the wear and tear on this film will be negligible and at hardly any expense for replacements. The rub has been up to now, the compulsion of using two projectors at the same time, thereby doubling operators, etc.

M-G-M Talkies

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer have listed the following productions under the classification of "talkies".

"Alias Jimmy Valentine" — William Haines
"The Belamy Trial" — Featured Cast — John Gilbert
"Thirst" — John Gilbert
"The Pagan" — Ramon Navarro
"Buddies" — Marion Davies
"A Man's Man" — William Haines
"Dumb Dora" — Marion Davies
"Broadway Melody" — Georgie Price
"The Last of Mrs. Cheney" — Norma Shearer
"Nize Baby" — Featured Cast
"Wonder of Women" — Featured Cast
"The Bridge of San Luis Rey" — Featured Cast
"The Trial of Mary Dugan" — Featured Cast
"The Little Warrior" — Marion Davies

Fox Signs Carmel Meyers

The Fox company has signed Carmel Meyers for a picture to be known as "Bath Between" which Ben Stoloff will direct. Naturally it will have plenty of talk.

Hollywood Invention

There is a fellow in Hollywood who does not like the talkies. He is an inventor. Accordingly he has invented and put on the market a set of "ear plugs" to be inserted by patrons for use in theatres showing talking pictures.

We understand he sold 1,000,000 the first week.

Address furnished on application.

STUDIO GOSSIP

Helen Ware, well known stage actress, is at the Fox studio. She has the title of "vocal trainer for Movietone".

Johnny Hines is in trouble again. Same trouble as before. He is about to start a new picture and has no leading lady. Johnny is not hard to please, but—well in this instance he must have one with a good voice in addition to the qualifications formerly desired. His new production "A Pair of Sixes" will soon be under way. It will be an "all-talkie".

Victor Varconi is not at all worried about the talkie situation. Victor has had considerable stage experience, has a good voice and speaks eight different languages.

Alice Gentle, the opera singer, is in Hollywood and will open a school for vocal training.

Allen Dwan directing Douglas Fairbanks in "The Iron Mask", holds the record for directing a star of such prominence. He has been the director on eight other Fairbanks pictures.

Alf Goulding, former Mack Sennett director, has been signed by M. G. M. His first picture will be the Dane-Arthur comedy "All at Sea".

Charley Chase has gone and shaved his mustache. Wonder if the fans throughout the country will recognize him?

Walter Lang, the director, has been signed by Tiffany-Stahl to direct "The Spirit of Youth".

Joseph Henabury will direct the Reginald Denny, Universal, all-talkie, "Clear the Deck".

William Powell, Paramount actor pulled another fast one. Here it is—"As welcome as hay-fever on a sound proof stage".

Arthur Lake, Universal player, is going to open a restaurant in Hollywood. It will be called "The Lantern".

Joseph Diskay is the first "talkie-double". He has been retained by Warner Brothers in this capacity. His voice doubled for that of Warner Oland in "The Jazz Singer". That was so good the contract followed.

Reginald Baker will make "New Orleans" as his next production for Tiffany-Stahl. Ricardo Cortez will have the lead, Alma Bennett will play opposite.

Aimee to Paramount

Coast reports have it that Aimee Semple MacPherson will make at least one picture for Paramount. The contract is said to have been signed before her departure for Europe and production will start Jan. 1. It will be a sort of propaganda yarn with Aimee in the role she has been acting for the past few years.

Hollywood Previews

"FLEETWING"

Fox
Directed by..... Lambert Hillyer
Cast..... Barry Norton
Dorothy Janis, Ben Bard and Fleetwing.

Photography by..... Frank Goode.
This is a good picture. A tale of the desert, a dashing young hero, his sweet little princess, a stern, bad father, a lot of villains and a horse. The type of picture you see with little expectations and come out with a big smile of surprise. The direction and photography are excellent, the acting first rate and every advantage has been taken of the material at hand. This will please any audience anywhere.

"TIMES SQUARE"

Gotham
Directed by..... Joseph Boyle.
Cast..... Arthur Lubin,
Alice Day, John Miljan, Emil Chautard.

Photography by..... Ray June.
Gotham should be commended on this one. It is an excellent picture, has some drawbacks here and there but on the whole it is good entertainment and after all what else is expected. It is a story along the lines of "The Jazz Singer" and concerns a composer who seeks a career as a writer of popular jazz tunes. There has been some bad casting and the film slows up a bit in the middle of the picture, but these faults are overbalanced by the background, the story appeal and general production. You will like this one and it will get business.

"ME, GANGSTER"

Fox
Directed by..... Faoul Walsh
Cast..... June Collyer,
Anders Randolph, Burr McIntosh,
Gustave Von Seyffertitz, Don Terry.

Photography by..... Arthur Edison.
This is an unusual picture. The story has been taken from the Saturday Evening Post story of "The Diary of Me, Gangster" written by Charles Francis Coe. It's screen presentment is a bit different than most any picture we have ever seen. There is a powerful punch to the story and all it is a wow of a picture. Raoul Walsh again comes to the fore with a mighty concerning a young boy growing up in vicious surroundings and gangster life. Fox might well feel proud of this picture.

"HAUNTED HOUSE"

First National
Directed by..... Benjamin Christiansen
Cast..... Montague Love,
Chester Conklin, Thelma Todd,
Edmund Breese, Barbara Bedford.

The star of this picture is unusual and impressive. It gets off with a bang. It is a mystery story and almost every device and subterfuge known to the cinema have been resorted to. But the mystery sort of falls short. There is no great menace due to the fact that the characters in the story are menaced with such indefinite powers that it is hard to get the audience worked up with any alarm. The direction is good, the photography excellent and the cast is meritorious. The picture will be materially helped by sound effects which we are told are going to be added by First National.

"THE ALBANY NIGHT BOAT"

Tiffany-Stahl
Directed by..... Al Raboach
Featuring..... Olive Borden,
Ralph Emerson

Photography..... Ernest Miller
Director and cast do well with a weak story. Borden is attractive enough and Emerson sufficiently handsome to please the critical. Will be O.K. for an open date for audiences which like scenes of New York.

Betty, a nice girl, is out yachting with her boss, who attempts to attack her, but she is saved in the nick of time by the hero, who is working on the boat and who is also employed on the Albany Night Boat. The hero and his pal, both in love with the girl, strive to win her, but after a trip to Coney Island, the hero marries her, but take in his pal as a boarder. As is the case with boarders, he makes a play for the wife and a bloody fight with the husband ensues, with all ending well for husband and wife.

"THE MIDNIGHT LIFE"

Gotham
Directed by..... Scott Dunlap
Featuring..... Gertrude Olmstead,
Eddie Buzzell, F. X. Bushman.

Photography by..... Norbert Brodin
Rates as on 85% picture, with situations like some of those in the play "Broadway". Cast is splendid, with director getting credit for bringing out their best work. Tinting could be improved upon. A colorful type of picture which many houses will want for the crowds which like Broadway stuff.

Owl Cafe is hangout for band of silk thieves. The leader is a respectable citizen of the highest society, in his off moments. His identity is known, but he is not tampered with until a detective is murdered.

The murdered man's pal takes a hand in avenging the death of his friend, and he cleans out the den of crooks, wins the girl for himself, and the villain meets a dire fate through his own machinations.

Monte Carter. Cosmo Kyrle Bellw, Buzzell and Carleton King do noteworthy work.

"THE FARMER'S DAUGHTER"

Fox
Directed by..... Norman Taurog
Featuring..... Marjorie Beebe
Arthur Stone.

Photography..... Joseph August
Burlesque of farm life which will go well in the big cities—the kind of film which will cause adult audiences to laugh despite themselves—Marjorie Beebe mirth-provoking comedienne; Stone natural comedian.

City slicker is after farmer's daughter's money. Hired hand is in love with her. He is the inventor of a cheese-wrapping machine which city slicker is promoting, with the object of escaping with the hard earned savings of the farmers who have put their money into the machine. The slicker escapes with the money but is captured by the farmer's daughter.

This one is reminiscent of Senne slap-stick comedies with a time-worn plot and hokum. At good price on double bill will do nicely.

FIVE CENTS

OBSERVATIONS

"Talkies"

The Fox production of "Mother Knows Best" points out one of the main difficulties being encountered by talking pictures and that is PROPER DIALOGUE. What might be good on the stage, will not necessarily, be good for pictures, for in combining the art of the silent drama with that of the stage the main trouble is going to be centered more on the proper dialogue than anything else. Fox assigned Eugene Walter, rather prominent writer, to suggest the dialogue for this production, and are, no doubt, paying him quite a bit of money in the belief that he is the right man. They might as well have gotten Owen Davis for this task, it would have cost them more money with probably the same effect.

Dialogue

In this production Fox has used good judgment in timing the dialogue for the proper moment but the words put into the mouths of the artists do not seem to carry sufficient weight for those important sequences that have been used. To our way of thinking, Fox has done a good job with the recording, but Walter failed miserably with the dialogue. The silent production seemed to be of such excellence and the spoken words, rather ten, twenty, thirty. Why wouldn't it be more sensible, to have the schooled picture writer, the man who did the screen play, knowing pictures as he does, write the dialogue.

Impression

It is our impression that the talkies are due for a terrific slump in the very near future, due to the bad one's being made. This is to be expected for this novelty is still in the experimental stages. But the public is not interested in experiments. They want to be entertained and having seen our present talking pictures, have been entertained to the extent of seeing a novelty, but the novel aspect will soon wear off and they will insist on the real "goods" or fight shy of them. It's going to take some time to produce the real "goods" even considering the rapid advance to date, and until this is done (and it will be done) business in talking pictures will not be so good.

"Docks" Breaks Record

"Docks of New York" directed by Josef von Sternberg and starring George Bancroft, broke all existing records for week-end business at the Paramount theatre, here, where it opened on Saturday.

The picture grossed $35,116 on the Saturday and Sunday business, approximately $4,000 more than ever was taken in at the Paramount box-office since the opening day.

The Jewish holidays were partly responsible for the phenomenal gross.

Arrangements have just been completed between the Universal Pictures Corporation and the Finkelstein & Ruben theatre circuit which will put Universal's entire line-up of 1928-1929 pictures, except the supers handled on an individual basis, over the north-west chain.

Negotiations with the F & R executives was held for Universal by M. Van Praag, western sales director for "U" who went personally to Minneapolis, representing Lou B. The suit by the Canadian Phonofilms has no connection with the patent adjudication suits of the DeForest Phonofilms against Fox-Case, in this country, which will be heard in the U. S. District Court in October, except that the Canadian suit is based on infringement of 8 patents, which is allowed in that country, and in the U. S. suit is only for infringement of 4 basic patents.

The petition in the Practice Court of Montreal, and on which judgment has been put off until September 19, for defendant's reply, alleges that the DeForest Phonofilm of Canada was incorporated in 1906 and obtained possession of rights to Phonofilms in that country.

Certain of these 8 patents are now being infringed by the F-P Canadian Corp., Ltd., who are using in the Palace Theatre standard films in which is incorporated a sound record made by apparatus embodying the inventions covered by the Phonofilms patents. Also the method of sound recording on motion picture film responds with the methods embodied in the patents of the petitioner, and that the reproducing unit used by the defendant company is identical with the apparatus covered by the DeForest patent.

Newmeyer Gets Prize Plum
—Van Buren Stage
Director

By JOE BLAIR
Hollywood Correspondent

The Fox studio is very active these days. Winfield R. Sheehan, general production manager, has signed three noted directors, one stage director and extended the contract of another. These directors are Fred Newmeyer, William Beaudine, Robert J. Flaherty, Norman Taurog and A. H. Van Buren.

Fred Newmeyer, long under contract to Harold Lloyd is to be given the choice directorial plum of the Fox year. It will be a newspaper story and will be movietoned throughout. It will be an "extra" special.

Flaherty will make an Indian story and is to be called "Nanook of the Desert" and deals with the life and customs of the Navajo Indians.

William Beaudine will direct Madge Bellamy in "Subway". It is an original screen story.

Norman Taurog recently made "The Farmer's Daughter" for this organization and as a result of this has been given a new contract and will do a series of movietone short reels.

A. H. Van Buren has been staging shows for Al Wods and others for some time. He will be assigned a talking picture on his arrival late this month.

Talmadge in "Venus"

PARIS — Miss Constance Talmadge is to "star" in a French film, which will be made on the Riviera, with M. Louis Mercanton as director.

The film will be entitled "Venus," and the scenario has been adapted from a novel written by Jean Vignaud, a well-known French best seller.

"Venus" will be distributed throughout the world by United Artists, and will be the first French film to receive this distinction. It will be made entirely in France and the cast, with the exception of Constance Talmadge, will be entirely French.

2nd F. N. Mystery

Second of the series of mystery stories to be made by First National Pictures, Inc., is "Seven Footprints to Satan", based on the sensational novel by A. Merritt. Work on the picture will be started soon.

Sound at Pathe

Photophone have completed its sound installation at the Pathe studios, and the coast organization is quite enthused. Voice tests are now being made of all Pathe players under the direction of Benjamin Glazer.

Christensen Signed

Al Rockett, general manager of production for First National, after seeing "The Haunted House" signed Benjamin Christensen, the Swedish director, for two more pictures to be done at First National.

STUDIO GOSSIP

Mack Sennett is leasing studio space and offices to independent units.

Fox studios is installing a separate publicity branch for talking pictures. Harry Boehme is in charge.

Rumor persists that Jack Gilbert will make his next picture at United Artists and finished with that will make quite a few more.

Louise Dresser has been loaned by Fox to Warner Bros. for an important role in "Madonna of Avenue A" an all talking picture.

Clarence Brown is playing the role of a taxi driver in his present M-G-M production.

Speaking of Brown reminds us that his next M-G-M picture will be Sudderemann's "The Wife of Stephen Tromholt". It will feature Lionel Barrymore and the screen story is being written by Bess Meredyth.

Bebe Daniels will return from New York next week and will immediately be put to work in a newspaper story instead of the contemplated "Number Please".

Gwen Lee, the M-G-M player has been signed on another long term contract by that organization. This more as a result of the excellent voice tests recently made of this player.

5 BIG UFA FILMS SOLD TO AMERICA

BERLIN—Ufa Pictures have sold five productions to Paramount and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. The five pictures are of the best product recently produced, Paramount getting "Looping the Loop," "The World War From the German Side" (2 pictures), and "Homecoming" while M-G-M has "The Spy."

The balance of Ufa product has been sold to other American companies on favorable terms.

Walsh All-Talkie

"In Old Arizona" will be the new title of Raoul Walsh's first all-talking feature for Fox Films. Walsh is playing the lead as well as directing. Tom Barry wrote the story and dialogue.

Denny in Own Story

The next picture to be done by Universal with Reginald Denny starred will be from a story written by this star himself and is to be known as "15 Below".

Dorsa with Pathe

Lonnie Dorsa, former production manager for Mack Sennett has been signed by Pathe as unit production manager by Paul Berne studio g.m.

FIVE CENTS

OBSERVATIONS

Overbuying

Considerable trouble is being experienced throughout the country on the part of both exhibitor and exchange due to "overbuying". This should not be. In any form, it is bad business. The exhibitor, whether through inexperience or the desire to keep product away from his competitor, who buys so many pictures that he has not sufficient play time to use them, is a bad business man, a poor theatre owner and a general menace.

Bad Business

Any real showman would never permit salesmen to over-sell them. They buy a certain amount of pictures and leave a small percentage of open time in order that they might cash in on a few specials that are released regularly every year by different organizations, both independent and otherwise. If he has his house so booked that he would not be able to take advantage of a "freak" or special attraction from time to time, he does not belong in this business.

Salesmen

Salesmen and branch sales managers are many times at fault in permitting a theatre-owner to buy so many pictures, that even at the time of the sale, they know it would be impossible for the theatre to play them. But still through their desire to show a great gross contract business to the home office, the deal is made, only to cause them a lot of trouble later on. Salesmen should not be permitted by their sales heads to over-sell. True, a lot of times they do not know, but in many cases they are certain the whole block will never be played and when this realization comes, the pictures are old and it is impossible to sell them to an opposition house. This could have been done at the start and every dollar in revenue would have been derived out of the entire program.

M-G-M Sells 28-29 Product to Fox Opposition in Minn.-Wis.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has sold its first runs for 1928-29 in the Minneapolis and St. Paul territories to the Hennepin-Orpheum and Palace Theatres, which move follows similar action of M-G-M in selling its product away from Fox houses or houses giving Fox product a representation this year in Minnesota and Wisconsin.

This means that Finkelstein & Ruben Circuit which has previously closed with M-G-M for the new season's product for subsequent runs in the Twin Cities and throughout its circuit was unable to agree with the distributors on prices for the first runs and will, for the first time since the opening of the Minnesota Theatre in Minneapolis, where

M-G-M product has shared booking time with Paramount, not be played in that house.

In Milwaukee the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer product for 1928-29 has been sold to the Majestic and Garden Theatres. Felix Feist, General Manager of Distribution, who has just returned from a long sales trip, affirmed the allocation of his company's product to these theatres.

Reports from this territory indicate that the Midwesco houses are not playing M-G-M product this year in Milwaukee, but Feist indicates that there will probably be extensive booking of M-G-M by Midwesco before the end of this season, throughout the territory.

cepted a long term contract with it to act as adviser and chief consultant in the research department.

Negotiations for the transfer of all the patents and rights of Dr. DeForest, DeForest Phonofilms, Inc., a New York Corporation, and DeForest Phonofilms, a Delaware Corporation, to the installing and licensing company, are now pending and expected to be consummated this week.

General Talking Pictures Corporation is the new licensing and installing company. It will start immediately upon the manufacture of theatre projecting apparatus and also upon the manufacture of recording apparatus. It will license any producer or producing company to make pictures under the Phonofilm patents; will do the installing of recording apparatus and furnish expert technicians to assure the proper functioning of the recorders.

The engineering staff of DeForest Phonofilms will be taken over by the new company as the nucleus of the technical staff, four being engineers who have worked with DeForest in the past several years.

General Talking Pictures Corporation will also maintain a studio for the use of licensed producing companies, and will synchronize sound and musical effects to pictures of licensed companies.

It will also handle the manufacture and distribution of the projecting apparatus for the theatres. The projecting device to be offered by the new company is guaranteed to be mechanically capable of projecting properly any sound-on-film and sound-on-disc product.

American Sound Film Productions, Inc., is the second Schlesinger company recently formed. It will be the first company to be licensed to produce under the Phonofilm patents, and will immediately become active. The company plans to start with short subjects, and later to go into the feature picture field.

International Photoplay Distributors, Inc., will immediately be expanded to take care of the distribution of the product of American Sound Film Productions. Exchanges will be established in all the key centres, and each exchange will be equipped with a Phonofilm projector. General Talking Pictures Corporation will maintain an engineering staff in each exchange for the purpose of consulting with exhibitors on their talkie needs, and also for the maintenance of theatre installations within the exchange district.

Headquarters for all three companies have been established at 218 West 42nd Street, New York City.

FOX SCOOPS NEWSREELS ON HURRICANE PICTURES

First and exclusive motion pictures of the devastation wrought by the hurricane that swept Porto Rico last Thursday were brought to Broadway by Fox News for showing in theatres yesterday afternoon.

This unusual feat of bringing actual motion pictures of a disaster to New York while the news was just trickling in by cable and wireless was due in large measure to the courage of Juan E. Viguie, the Fox News cameraman stationed in San Juan, Porto Rico.

When the ship bearing his film reached New York yesterday morning, Fox News had a special cutter down the bay to meet it, the film being shown in all New York theatres shortly after 1:30 o'clock.

CABANNE SETS ON 'DRIFTWOOD' AUTHENTIC

Praise for the authenticity of South Sea sets used in the Columbia Picture "Driftwood", now in production at Hollywood comes from three gentlemen who formerly knew their Haiti and Pago Pago as well as a New Yorker knows his Times Square. James Moffett, Earl Stanley and Montgomery Ludson, traders who left for the South Seas in the late Nineties state that picture is exactly like that of native life.

"Driftwood" tells the story of an outcast, haunted by fears of an accident which resulted in a fatality. He meets a girl a bit of flotsam like himself, they grow to love and help each other out of the morass of despondence and degradation.

Christy Cabanne directed the picture for Columbia. Lillie Hayward wrote the adaptation of Richard Davis' story.

Swellest Premiere with Jolson Tonight

Vitaphone, of course, figures prominently in giving distinction to "The Singing Fool" and will bring Jolson's voice to the audience singing many of his most famous song hits.

Tonight's premiere will be a brilliant affair attended by everybody who is anybody on Broadway. Al Jolson will be on hand in person to see how his friends like him in his first motion picture since "The Jazz Singer".

Payne on "Quill"

Frank C. Payne, formerly business manager for the Doug MacLean Production Unit has been appointed editor of the "Quill", organ of the theatrical Press Representatives of America, in place of Dixie Hines who is ill.

The Motion Picture Institute of America Industries has been incorporated with a capital of $50,000 in preferred stock and 1,000 shares of common.

This organization will engage in the production and distribution of industrial and educational films, guaranteeing actual service of distribution through theatre circuits, two of which are already lined up, and through non-theatrical channels. The company is now completing a series of 8 pictures, none of them more than 1 or 2 reels in length.

Carl Louis Gregory, well-known cinematographic expert, noted for his war work and undersea-Williamson Bros. experience; is 1st V.P., John Knight Holbrook, formerly of Pathe and Goldwyn, is 2nd V.P. Miss Lina Hafford is head of the Research Department.

Considine Due Soon

John W. Considine, Jr. and C. Gardner Sullivan flew to Banff, Canada last week where Lubitsch is on location making "King of Kings" with John Barrymore. Considine threatens to fly to N. Y. this week to place in production "Say It with Music".

Box-Office Names on Coming Paramount Product

By JOE BLAIR
Hollywood Correspondent

The Paramount lot is a very busy one these days. Nine pictures are in the making and two companies are on location, directors and authors are at work on six others that will go into production within the next month and three have recently been handed over to the cutting rooms for the finishing touches.

Represented in this array of pictures are the names of quite a few of our best known writers.

Harold Dearden and Roland Pertwee wrote "Interference," in which Paramount is featuring Evelyn Brent, William Powell, Clive Brook and Doris Kenyon. "Manhattan Cocktail" the Nancy Carroll-Richard Arlen vehicle, was written by Ernest Vajda, author of "Grounds for Divorce" and "Fata Morgana."

Zane Grey, international authority on the West, wrote "Avalanche", which has taken Jack Holt and a big company into Arizona, and Elizabeth Pickett, novelist, did the original and the scenario for "Redskin" Richard Dix's natural color feature now in the making in New Mexico. Vajda, in collaboration with Keene Thompson, was responsible for "His Private Life", which serves as Adolphe Menjou's next.

Rogers' Next

The new Charles Rogers starring vehicle is from an original by Alice Duer Miller, and Dana Burnet, wrote "The Shop-Worn Angel", being filmed with Nancy Carroll and Gary Cooper. To top off this notable array is the name of Elinor Glyn, author of "Three Week-Ends", Clara Bow's latest starring effort.

"Sins of the Fathers", the latest to star Emil Jannings, is from the pen of Norman Burnstine, new to the motion picture field, but a former writer for Literary Digest.

"DIVINE LADY" PREVIEW PLEASES 1ST NATIONAL

The first print of "The Divine Lady", Corinne Griffith's spectacular production for First National Pictures, arrived in New York yesterday and was previewed for First National officials who proclaimed it the greatest picture ever made by his star and the outstanding achievement of Director Frank Lloyd.

"Stranded in Paradise"

Sills F. N. Talkie

Milton Sills' new starring drama, hitherto titled "Changeling" and now tentatively known as "Stranded in Paradise", will contain full dialogue sequences, it was definitely announced by First National Pictures today. Dorothy Mackaill is playing opposite Mr. Sills.

Under the direction of George Fitzmaurice the company is now shooting exteriors on the South Sea Islands. The dialogue sequences, however, will be synchronized at the first National Studios in Burbank when the company returns about two or three weeks hence.

The Miracle!

Not a Talkie !!

First National astounds the industry by announcing that they are to make a picture that WILL NOT be a talkie. The production is "The Miracle". In its stage form, it contained no dialogue being a pantomime through out. BUT it will have sound in a symphony orchestra, famous soloist, and a large chorus of voices.

tion having been achieved.

The Reelone at the present time is suitable for installation in 2,000 seat houses and under and in a short time will be developed to fit any house. The Poole Mfg. Co. of Baltimore is manufacturing the apparatus and within a few week's time, deliveries will be started. The device is made to be leased on an approximate cost of $1,000.

Big Advance Sales

will be permitted to make full payment for additional stock when rights are exercised, or payment may be made in installments of $25 a share at time of subscription, followed by a payment of $30 a share in 60 days and $30 in 120 days.

Rights to exchange one new share in ratio to each five shares now held will expire on October 22nd.

The new financing will put the company, it is expected, in a strong quick asset position, with no bank loans and its sole capitalization will be common stock.

Fazenda and Miljan

in "The Desert Song"

Although the two leading roles have yet to be filled, casting for Warner Bros. first Vitaphone operetta, "The Desert Song" is progressing rapidly with the expectation the camera work will start early in October. Louise Fazenda and John Miljan were selected this week for important places in the featured line-up.

Johnny Arthur and Edward Martindel have previously been announced for roles. Harvey Gates is preparing the script based on Schwab and Mandel's great stage success and Roy Del Ruth will direct.

Change in Cast of

"Three Week Ends"

Neil Hamilton, instead of Robert Castle, as announced last week, will play opposite Clara Bow when she commences "Three Week Ends", an Elinor Glyn story. Studio officials found that the D. W. Griffith discovery would be more suitable in the Mrs. Glyn story than Castle, the Viennese actor signed by Jesse L. Lasky a few days ago. Mr. Castle will face the cameras opposite Bebe Daniels in her next film, as yet untitled. Hamilton was slated originally for that role.

STUDIO GOSSIP

Charles Murray, until recently featured comedian with First National, has signed up for a fourteen week vaudeville tour.

Charles Middleton, well known stage player and recently in "Kongo" has been signed by Harold Lloyd for an important part in his latest picture.

We understand the first assignment given Gus Edwards, recent arrival at the M-G-M studio, will be "Chauve Souris". He has already signed his Balieff in the person of Louis Cardoza.

When "The last of Mrs. Cheyney" is put into production by M-G-M Conrad Nagel will have the male lead opposite Norma Shearer.

First National have changed the name of their Mack Sennett nine-reel special. Its new title is "The Yankee Girl". The former title was "The Goodby Kiss".

Howard Green is writing the continuity for the Columbia picture "College Couquette".

Anita Page, the M-G-M player has been assigned a leading role in "Broadway Melody". Harry Beaumont will direct. Bessie Love also has an important role.

It looks as if William Haines will return to his smart-wise-cracking type in his next M-G-M picture "The Gob". James Cruze will direct.

D. W. Griffith wanted a very unusual cameraman for some very unusual shots. He wanted 14 different figures of William Boyd on the one frame of film. Nedd Mann did the job and received $1000 for the single day's work. This is the same cameraman that caused 200 miniature animals to "walk" in the Warner picture "Noah's Ark".

We hear that the Johnny Hines unit is to use Bristolphone for the coming talking picture of "A Pair of Sixes".

"Hoot" Gibson will have as his next story "The Hell Wrecker" from the novel by Buckneigh Oxford.

Lucien Prival, the sterling actor, has been loaned to First National by Caddo Productions for an important role in the Billie Dove picture "The Last Kiss". Frank Lloyd will direct.

The Collegians are using the campus of the University of California and the Greek Theatre at Santa Monica for scenes in "Farewell" the last picture in this, the third series of "Collegians".

Jobyna Ralston is to have the lead opposite Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. in the Columbia Production of "Freedom of the Press".

William Collier, Jr. has been assigned the leading male role in the Tiffany-Stahl production "New Orleans" to be directed by Reginald Barker.

New Contract

After viewing "Port of Dreams" the latest picture with Wesley Ruggles as the director, Carl Laemmle called in Ruggles, tore up his contract which had some time to run, wrote a new one at quite an advance in salary.

MCEVOY, REVELL AND CAREY AT AMPA THURS.

President George Harvey of the Associated Motion Picture Advertisers, will start off his first meeting as chief of the Ampas with J. P. McEvoy, author of "Show Girl." Nellie Revell, and Harry Carey at the Ampa luncheon tomorrow at the Paramount Hotel.

TROWBRIDGE TO TOUR EXCHANGES ON "MASK"

Carroll S. Trowbridge, personal representative of Douglas Fairbanks, left this week for Hollywood where he will spend some time at the studio during the production of Fairbanks' new United Artists Picture, "The Iron Mask."

Following the studio visit, Mr. Trowbridge will visit the western and southern exchanges of United Artists including the Los Angeles, San Francisco, Seattle, Salt Lake, Denver, Dallas, Atlanta, New Orleans and Washington offices and confer with the branch managers on the forthcoming picture which promises to be the most ambitious of the Fairbanks productions.

FIVE CENTS

OBSERVATIONS

First Independent

Mike Simmons, p.a. at Gotham informs us that actual shooting of the talking sequences for the production of "Times Square" started yesterday. Insofar as our knowledge runs, this is the first of the independents to actually start in sound. In addition to this we are told that the Academy of Music, at Hagerstown, Md., has been installed with Bristolphone. In other words Gotham is doing a bit more than "talk sound" they are recording and installing. Mike should pay for this "ad". And probably will.

The Public

We viewed "Docks of New York" last night at the Paramount. A very interesting picture. Von Sternberg, the director, has not done his best work, but sufficient to place him on the list of the "five best" in pictures. But we were more interested in several comments made by several patrons on leaving the theatre. One said, "his characterizations are marvelous". Another, "if the director had stuck to his script it would have been a punk picture". Still another, "it is more than a movie, it is life". All of which goes to prove that Mr. & Mrs. Public are being educated more than Mr. Picture gives them credit for. It's a good sign.

About Closed

It looks as if the deal that will bring William Fox, at least, fifty independent theatres in Greater New York is about to be closed. Everything seems slated. This will make Fox the outstanding power in picture theatres in this locality and will contribute more strength to his growing chain of houses. Our story that this magnate would have over 3000 houses by January 1, 1930 was not confirmed by anyone, even himself, nevertheless we would not be surprised to see this happen long before that date.

Yanked

We were surprised to read that "The Patriot" was yanked in San Francisco after playing but two weeks. If it was left to us to explain we would immediately blame it on the synchronization and sound accompanying this, all but, perfect picture.

3 T-S SYNCHRO SPECIALS READY

Photophone Scores and Theme Song Written by Riesenfeld

Three prints of Tiffany-Stahl specials have been synchronized with RCA Photophone in New York and will be ready soon for showing. One of them "Tomorrow" with Patsy Ruth Miller and Lawrence Gray may be road-showed.

The others are "The Cavalier" for which Hugo Riesenfeld wrote the score and theme song, and "The Toilers," also scored by Riesenfeld. Irving Willat directed "The Cavalier" which has Barbara Bedford, Richard Talmadge and David Torrence in the cast and John M. Stahl did "The Toilers" with Doug Fairbanks, Jr., and Jobyna Ralston in the principal roles.

Skirboll to Handle World Wide Sales

World Wide Pictures, Inc., announces the appointment of Joseph S. Skirboll as General Sales Manager.

He will proceed at once with the organization of a National and Canadian sales staff, the men to work out of Educational Exchanges which will physically distribute "World Wide" product.

World Series Fable

A world-series special Aesop Film Fable entitled "The Magnetic Bat," will be released by Pathe on September 30th just in time for exhibitors to show the baseball fans Paul Terry's animated cartoon depiction while the annual diamond classic series is in progress. Farmer Al Falfa, Slim Slicker and Otto Orang-utan are the pitchers.

Sauvage Illinois Theatres Tie-Up with Balaban & Katz

W. M. Sauvage, former mayor of Alton, Ill., and a figure in theatrical circles of Illinois consolidated on September 1st with the Great State Theatres, Inc., in the ownership of the Hippodrome and Grand Theatres in Alton.

The Southern Illinois Theatres, Inc., will share with the Great States Theatres in ownership of the houses. The latter company operates about 50 theatres in Illinois and is affiliated with Balaban & Katz. Both houses will be renovated.

M-G-M Presents 26 Movietone Acts for Immediate Release

Picture Admission

One Cup of Tea

Reports from African correspondents state that a curious feature of the exhibition of films in South Africa is the bio-tearoom, or cinemas and tearooms combined in one enterprise.

They start at 9:30 A. M. and finish up at 10:30 P. M. There is no charge for admission and all you need do is buy a cup of tea or coffee and sit there all day if you like.

This ought to be a great policy for Grauman to adopt if he ever builds an African theatre in Hollywood.

Young Back Tuesday

L. A. Young, President of Tiffany-Stahl and Grant B. Cook, Treasurer-Secretary of the company who accompanied Young on a tour of Europe, are returning to New York next Tuesday.

Capital Wired

"Our Dancing Daughters" will be the first M-G-M synchronized feature to play the Capitol Theatre in New York, which has just completed its wiring arrangements. The initial talking program starts Saturday, September 29th, unless "Excess Baggage" with William Haines is held over for a second week.

Kennedy Sails Sat.

J. P. Kennedy, J. J. Murdock and Pat Casey, chief executive of K-A-O, sail on the S. S. Majestic from Europe for the U. S. this Saturday and should arrive in New York about September 28th.

Definite Attractions Set for Next 8 Weeks

Nicholas M. Schenck, President of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, yesterday announced the first twenty-six M-G-M Movietone Acts for immediate release with all but three specified as to dates and subject. They are as follows:

Week of Sept. 29. Van and Schenck, (a) "Is She the Girl Friend?", (b) "Whatsa Gonna Be Next?"; Johnny Marvin, (a) "You Lied I Cried", (b) "Thinking of Me Thinking of You"; Marion Harris, (a) "Afraid of You", (b) "We Love It".

"MELODY OF LOVE" PREVIEWED BY "U"

The first Universal all-talkie "The Melody of Love" arrived in New York yesterday and was immediately run off for home office executives, who were quite enthused at what they saw and heard.

The picture was directed by A. B. Heath from an original story by Robert Arch. The cast includes Mildred Harris, Walter Pidgeon, Jane Winton and Tommy Duggan. It will open at the Colony, New York.

6% Terra Dividend

The Terra company, of Germany, has voted to pay a dividend of 6 per cent for the past twelve months ending June 30, 1928. The Herman Film Producing company Terra has come into an alliance with Cinero-mans-Paris, Ideal Films-London, and Pittaluga-Turin.

Carrier-Colony Opening

James A. Carrier, formerly of the Universal Chain Theatrical Corp., in the South, and previous to that, with the Schine Circuit, is directing the opening of the Colony Theatre for Universal late this month.

EDUCATIONAL STUDIOS TO REOPEN IN OCTOBER

HOLLYWOOD—With the departure of Jack White for New York and a conference with E. W. Hammons, preparatory to starting out on the new sound-film plans for short product, the Educational Studios have been shut-down for a two-week period.

Production is expected to be resumed some time in October.

Current production activities at the Fox studios in Hollywood, on the forty-acre Movietone sound stages at Fox Hills comprise light feature pictures now in the course of picturization, two are being prepared for an early camera date, and five are in the process of cutting and editing.

Janet Gaynor will get under way shortly in a Dutch characterization for "Street Fair," to be directed by William K. Howard from an original story by Tristram Tupper.

F. W. Murnau who recently completed "4 Devils" which will have a Broadway showing shortly, is on location in Pendleton, Oregon, where he has gone to film wheat harvest scenes for "Our Daily Bread."

Walsh Acts—Directs

Raoul Walsh has gone to Bryce Canyon in Zion National Park, Utah, for the making of "In Old Arizona" from the story by Tom Barry. Walsh plays the lead in this Movietone feature, as well as directs. It will be an all-talkie.

Lew Seiler will begin soon on a Movietone feature based on Max Marcin's stage play, "Badges." This too, will be an all-dialogue production.

Raymond Cannon, directing his first picture for Fox, is about half through on "Husbands are Liars," featuring June Collyer, Conrad Nagel, Arthur Stone and Sharon Lynn. Cannon also is the author.

Emmett J. Flynn is nearing completion of "The Veiled Woman," his initial effort since returning to the Fox lot.

Blystone's Next Talkie

David Butler is touring the Continent with Newsreel Nick Stuart and Sue Carol who appear in "Chasing Through Europe."

The next Victor McLaglen vehicle will be "Life's a Gamble." This will be put in work soon. Rex Bell is working in his fourth Western, "Taking a Chance," directed by Norman McLeod.

John Blystone is preparing for his second dialogue production following the triumph of "Mother Knows Best." This will be from Milton Gropper's stage play to be released under the title "Through Different Eyes."

Two pictures recently completed are Irving Cummings' "Romance of the Underworld," and "The Case of Mary Brown" a Charles Francis Coe story.

Others in the cutting room include Frank Borzage's recently finished "The River," by Tristram Tupper, "Homesick," and John Ford's "Riley the Cop" featuring Farrell MacDonald, Louise Fazenda and others.

4 "Shorts" Under Way

In addition to the full-length productions, four Movietone two-reel comedies are in the course of filming. These are "Napoleon's Barber," from the play by Arthur Caesar, directed by John Ford; Bobby Clark and Paul McCullough in "The Bath Between," directed by Benjamin Stoll; Chick Sales and Ben Holmes in "Marching On," directed by Marcel Silver; and Hugh Herbert and Ben Bard in "Mind Your Business."

Anger Leaves U. A.

Lou Anger, formerly with United Artists in the real-estate department has resigned from U. A. to join a private real-estate firm. Harry D. Buckley, V.P. will take over his duties.

STUDIO GOSSIP

Edward T. Lowe is writing the continuity on the Universal production of "Broadway". Paul Fejos is to direct.

The complete cast to appear in support of Texas Guinan in "The Queen of the Night Club" is, Lila Lee, Eddie Foy, Jr., Jack Norworth, Arthur Housman, John Davidson, Jimmie Phillips, William Davidson, Joe Depew, Agnes Franey and Charlotte Merriam. The story is being prepared by Murray Roth and Addison Burkhardt. Bryan Foy will direct.

Clarence Brown has dispensed with the regular studio orchestra on all his sets. He is using a talking machine and feels the effect is much better. He has a musician work with the script girl, immediately on completion of the script, who selects records that are to be played with the talking of different scenes. Aside from being economical, it sounds like a good idea.

Adelaide Heilbron is preparing the adaptation and continuity of "Children of the Ritz" which First National Pictures, Inc., will produce. The story is based on Cornell Woolrich's novel.

Frederick Arnold Kummer's story, "Marquis Preferred" will serve as Adolphe Menjou's next vehicle when the suave star completes "His Private Life". Frank Tuttle, now directing Menjou, will be in charge of his new one.

Two new leading players are appearing in two forthcoming Educational Comedies. Lupino Lane has a new leading lady in "Fisticuffs," his second starring vehicle of the new season, which is being released next month. Ruth Eddings, a newcomer at the Educational Studios, plays opposite the versatile comedian. Harold Goodwin, who plays opposite Dorothy Devore in her first picture of the new season, "Companionate Service," is the other new leading player.

Three beauties play in support of Robert Graves, featured comic in "Wife Trouble," a new Educational-Cameo Comedy. Two are brunettes and one is a blonde. Muriel Evans and Adrienne Dore are the brunettes while Amber Norman is the blonde.

Thrilling pictures of the largest wild horse ranch in the world, the ranch of Eddie McCarty at Chugwater, Wyo., constitute the sensational closing scenes of the first issue of "Our World Today" film magazine, released by Educational. Remarkable shots of cowboys attempting to ride bucking bronchos and actual pictures of what a cowboy broncho buster sees on one of these wild rides, close this part of the reel. The cameraman for "Our World Today" attempted to stay on one of the wild horses and carried an automatic camera along with him on his trip to get pictures.

4TH "COLLEGIANS" TO BE MADE TALKIES

The fourth series of "The Collegians" will be made with synchronization as well as silent film according to plans of Carl Laemmle, Jr. Tryouts of the cast of "The Collegians" for talking parts discloses that they are well qualified for the new departure.

Suitable stories, embodying swift action, brisk humor and suitable latitude for sound effects are now being sought, for the series of college sport life.

This will be Universal's first important step in the short subject talking picture field, of a supply of regular product. Movietone is the method which will be used.

"ANGELA MIA" BIG AID TO "STREET ANGEL"

Millions of people throughout the United States have been made acquainted with "Street Angel", Frank Borzage's masterpiece for Fox Films with Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell, through daily radio broadcasting of the theme song, "Angela Mia".

Fox exchanges throughout the country are cooperating with exhibitors who play "Street Angel" to get the most value out of the popularity that has been accorded the theme song.

Kenton Starting

Erle C. Kenton has been assigned as director for Columbia's latest comedy-drama "Nothing to Wear". Production starts immediately on the West Coast with Jacqueline Logan and Theodore Von Eltz featured and Bryant Washburn, Jane Winton, William Irving and Edythe Flynn in the supporting cast.

M-G-M Signs De Angelo

Carlo De Angelo, member of an old Italian theatrical family who has written a number of screen stories and has been engaged in other activities connected with the films, has been signed by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and will go to the West coast studio to do scenario and possibly directorial work. De Angelo assisted George Abbott in the direction of "Ringside", the current Broadway play.

National Board Selects

"Moran of the Marines", reviewed on September 18, was selected for the Photoplay Guide of popular entertainment films and will appear in the October issue of the National Board of Review magazine.

LaCava at 1st National

Gregory LaCava, former Paramount director, is to direct Corrine Griffith in "Saturday's Children" for First National. This is LaCava's first directorial assignment other than at P-F-L.

NEWS FROM THE UFA STUDIOS

Robert Herlth and Walter Rohrig, two of the most successful and experienced architects on the UFA staff are now building the settings for the third Erich Pommer production, "Asphalt" which will be directed at Neubabelsberg by Joe May who directed "Homecoming", also an UFA Production supervised by Erich Pommer.

Wild Animal Film

The German Board of Censorship has passed the latest UFA educational film, "A Three Year Old Boy Travels Through Africa," without eliminations and admitted it for juveniles. The star of the picture is Ralph Colin, the son of the well known traveller and lecturer, Colin Ross. The little boy is seen in the picture having countless adventures with lions, hyenas, ugly snakes, untamed elephants and all sorts of wild animals.

Visitors at UFA

The celebrated German poet and playwright, Gerhard Hauptmann, Mrs. Hauptmann and Bengt Berg, the famous Swedish ornithologist and explorer, visited the UFA Studios in Neubabelsberg recently. The visitors were present during the shooting of scenes for the Erich Pommer production, "Hungarian Rhapsody" and the new UFA comedy, "Hurray, I'm Alive."

UFA Theatres

UFA has acquired a sufficient amount of stock of the leading cinema theatres in the Rhine Provinces, the Residence Theatre at Dusseldorf and the Modern Theatre at Elderfeld to make them members of the fast growing string of UFA theatres.

"NOAH'S ARK" TO BE IN BOOK AND SERIAL

Arlene de Haas has completed the novel version of Warner Bros. super-special, "Noah's Ark" starring Dolores Costello with George O'Brien, the original story of which was the work of Darryl Francis Zanuck. Miss de Haas was also the author of the novelization of "The Jazz Singer" which reached large sales last season.

Laemmle, Jr. Flying

Carl Laemmle, Jr. and Paul Fejos, who are to supervise and direct "Broadway" for Universal, are leaving Hollywood today for New York, via airplane, to secure atmospheric scenes around the Metropolis, for the picture.

JOLSON SMASHES B'WAY "SINGING FOOL" TRIUMPH

SCHENCK QUILTS PANNING TALKIES AFTER TESTS

HOLLYWOOD — It looks like Joseph Schenck, head of United Artists and great "unbeliever" of talking pictures is weakening a bit. You know Joe has said on three occasions, once in Loudon and again in both New York and Hollywood, that talking pictures will have a short life. Quite a few agree with him, but it seems these few are going to be left holding the bag.

Last night Mr. Schenck, in company with Mary Pickford and Lupe Valez, went over to Paramount to see and hear voice tests recently made of these players. After this was run off, they were invited to stay and see the rushes made to date on Paramount's first all-talkie, "Interference".

After the showing, Schenck was said to have gone into a big rave and is quoted as saying "I have never seen anything like it; the tests of Miss Pickford and Miss Valez are marvelous, the voices were perfect, and the scenes shown of the Paramount picture were astounding for their naturalness". "Here I have been panning talking pictures, now I am going to make them".

METRO W.C. OFFICIALS IN N. Y. CONFERENCE

A party of officials of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio in Culver City, Cal., will arrive in New York today for a conference with New York executives on forthcoming productions.

The party includes: Al Lewin, assistant to Irving Thalberg, who is in search of play and story material; Joseph Cohen, production manager and Edward Brophy, his assistant; Pete Smith, Studio Publicity Manager, who will confer with Howard Dietz on forthcoming promotion plans; and Joseph Rapf, manager of the wardrobe department, who is looking for new fashion ideas.

It was announced yesterday by A. Pam Blumenthal, President of the Stanley Educational Film Division, Inc., who have controlled Manhattan Studios, Inc., at 134th Street and Park Avenue, that they finally leased their premises for a term of months to Sound Studios, Inc.

Sound Studios, Inc., is a corporation owned by Pathe and FBO, who are to make sound pictures of all types. They are going to turn the Manhattan Studio into a sound studio, using the RCA Photophone process for all kinds of sound picture work.

Warner's "Talking-Gift" to Motion Pictures Stirs Emotions of Blase First-Nighters

By W. R. WILKERSON

Wednesday night was a big night to Broadway, and it was "bigger" still for Al Jolson, Warner Brothers and motion pictures generally. It was a smash in every sense of the word. It was terrific, history-making, marvelous. It was great!

This writer attended the Hollywood opening of Grauman's Chinese Theatre, over a year ago, and remarked that, as an opening it had never been equaled or probably never would be. The opening of "The Singing Fool" at the Winter Garden Wednesday evening made the Grauman debut

AERO DINNER DRAWS BIG FILM LEADERS

All Newsreel Editors to Be Honored at Waldorf Monday

What is, perhaps, the first dinner ever tendered one national industry by another will occur Monday night, September 24th, at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel, when the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce of America will be hosts to the leaders of the motion picture industry.

Earl Rowland, winner of the Transcontinental Air Derby, left Los Angeles yesterday in his Cessna plane en route to New York where he will be one of the guests of honor. The dinner will be in recognition of the contribution of motion pictures to the progress of aviation.

Among the guests of honor will be F. Trubee Davison, Assistant Secretary of War for Aeronautics; Edward P. Warner, Assistant Secretary (Continued on page 6) look like a small time effort in a small time town. Society, Wall Street, diplomatic Washington, the theatre, and the world's most famous, were in attendance. It was an opening such as motion pictures had never seen before, and until Jolson makes another its equal will not be seen again.

JOLSON

And it was all Al Jolson. The same Al that started the talking picture craze, the same Al that took Warner Brothers out of a rut and made of them, over night, one of the real powers in this industry, and it was a Jolson that will do more to insure the success of the "talkies" than any other power man could conceive. You can't credit any other individual person or thing, for without Jolson in the part of Al Stone, this production would have been ordinary, just an average type talking and synchronized picture the same as is being released today by most (Continued on page 2) every company in the business. Where others have failed Al has succeeded. His personality that won for him the championship of all stage troubadours is always in evidence in "The Singing Fool", plus a bit more.

Audience in Tears

Never in the history of the theatre, whether it be the speaking stage or pictures has an artist moved an audience as did Jolson from the moment he first sang "Sonny Boy" until the final fade out. We tried to hold them back, and fought to keep from crying, as did most every other man and woman in the audience, but the acting and singing of this "God's gift to talking pictures" disarmed us all and at the final scene, there was not a dry eye in the house, and it was the kind of a cry that everyone enjoyed.

The Picture

There have been great war stories, stories of mother-love and great stories of sacrifice and privation but "The Singing Fool" puts Daddy on the map for all time. And as we said above, from the moment that Jolson takes little David Lee in his arms and sings him to sleep with "Sonny Boy" until his Pagliacci and final fade out, never in the history of motion pictures have a series of scenes so affected this writer.

The picture starts off at a fast pace and when it slackens in tempo it gains in drama. No menace or false plot is dragged into the story, it being the straightforward tale of a young song writer, a "singing fool" at heart; his meteoric rise and fall, through his love for a faithless wife; and his comeback, only to lose the thing he loves best, Sonny Boy, at the height of his career.

"The Singing Fool" abounds with songs, plenty of 'em—all kinds, and any audience will eat it up. Aside from the music, Jolson gives a great performance — that of a finished actor. The work of the entire cast, including Josephine Dunn, Betty Bronson and David Lee, is excellent.

The Dialogue

A word must be said for the dialogue, which is never for a moment anything but good. There are none of those waits between speeches and the speeches themselves are at all times natural, interesting or amusing.

Warner's Gift

This production to our mind is Warners supreme gift to the amusement world—from every angle. It will be a shame if, by the time the picture is generally released, all the exhibitors who book it, will not be able to present it as we saw it last night. It's a WOW, and one that should really be seen and heard. Its run at the Winter Garden will only be limited by the Messrs. Shubert, who after a year or two, might want to restore musical attractions to this famous house.

Ft. Smith is another Southern city which has added proof to the growing conviction that war prejudice has died down generally throughout the South and that this picture merits seeing because of its great story and entertainment value.

Moomaw Raises Bankroll for Mormon Film Glazer Conducts First Pathe Voice Tests

$650,000 Mormon Film Production Guarantees
Lyon-Prevost $40,000

By JOE BLAIR
Hollywood Correspondent

Several years ago, Louis Moomaw, a giant Alaskan landed in New York with a picture he called "The Cheechawkos". After peddling it around for a while it finally was placed with Associated Exhibitors, then releasing through Pathe.

This same Moomaw was next heard of in Salt Lake City. He had a great idea for a picture and told all the natives about it. The result being that Louis dropped into Hollywood one day with a $650,000 bank roll and started casting for a Mormon picture to be made in and around Salt Lake. Marie Prevost and Ben Lyon were engaged to play the leads and guaranteed ten weeks' work, and $40,000 was placed to the credit of each of these players in a local bank at the time of the signing of the contract.

The story is supposed to center around the life of Brigham Young, the famous Mormon and deals with the entire history of Mormonism.

Crosland Gets Plum

Alan Crosland has been signed by John Considine, Jr., to direct "Say It with Music" the United Artists picture that will be made in New York with Harry Richman starred.

Production may be transferred to the Paramount Eastern Studio in Astoria, according to Considine.

Milestone with Jannings

Lewis Milestone, director, has been assigned the directorship of the new Emil Jannings picture "Ellis Island". This will follow Herr Jannings' present effort "Sins of the Father".

Chaplin Starts

Charles Spencer Chaplin started shooting on his next comedy "City Lights" yesterday at the Chaplin studio. Charlie, of course is playing the lead being supported by Merna Kennedy and Harry Crocker. Henry Bergman, friend and business associate of Charlie's is also in the cast.

Clift Completes "Paradise"

Denison Clift, British International's ace American Director, has just completed Betty Balfour's triumph, "Paradise" which will be trade shown at the Hippodrome in London.

Schulberg Uses Extras

Motion picture extra players will not suffer lack of employment at the studios as a result of talking pictures.

This statement, coming from P. B. Schulberg, general manager of West Coast production for Paramount, refutes widely-circulated reports to the effect that sound pictures will utilize a fewer number of extras in comparison with silent films.

RENAUD HOFFMAN TO DO COL. "STOOL PIGEON"

"Stool Pigeon," a dramatic tale of New York's underworld, has been started under the direction of Renaud Hoffman for Columbia Pictures.

Olive Borden is cast in the stellar role, that of "Goldie," a gangster girl. Supporting Miss Borden are Charles Delaney, Lucy Beaumont, Louis Natheaux, Clarence Burton and others.

English Thriller

Gaumont Company, Ltd. previewed their automobile racing picture, "Smashing Through", for the benefit of noted racing drivers in England. These motorists proclaimed the automobile races with its thrills and accidents, as absolutely authentic and truly interesting.

and controls a circuit of 46 houses in all. Hayden also revealed that one of the troubles of exhibitors in South Africa is censorship which is very strict, the authorities being very much against sex themes.

The renting business in that country is also radically different from anywhere else in the world. The exhibitor enters into a several years' contract with the distributors, for one, two or three complete programs a week, at a fixed price.

There is practically no production in South Africa. Last year an Italian unit, headed by Commander Gatti came out to Zululand and made a 7-reel film of Zulu life which has been released in Italy and South Africa.

of the Navy for Aeronautics, and William P. McCracken, Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Aeronautics and other personalities interested in aviation.

Will H. Hays, head of the motion picture industry, will be the special guest of honor but the real stars of the evening will be the men in charge of the news weeklies, including H. E. Hancock of Kinogram; Ray Hall of Pathe; L. S. Diamond of Paramount; Terry Ramsey of Pathe; E. B. Hatrick of International; Jack Darock of Paramount; Truman Talley of Fox; Capt. George Baynes; Michael B. Chafin and Emanuel Cohen of Paramount.

Among the important film heads who will attend are Adolph Zukor, William Fox, Nicholas Schenck, Albert and Harry M. Warner, Robert T. Kane, Sidney R. Kent, Jesse L. Lasky, Carl Laemmle, Major Edward Bowes, S. L. Rothafel and Samuel Katz and George Eastman.

A feature length film of the air exploits of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh will be shown for the first time.

STUDIO GOSSIP

The completed cast for the First National production of "Ritzzy Rosie" comprises Alice White, Jack Mulhall, Thelma Todd, Doris Dawson, Frances Hamilton, Benny Rubin, Georgie Stone, Natalie Joyce and Fred Kelsey. Mervyn LeRoy will direct.

"Someone to Love" is the title for the next Paramount-Charles Rogers picture. Mary Brian will support Buddy.

Frances Hamilton, Pasadena society girl, has been placed under contract by First National. She is at present working in the Billie Dove picture "Adoration".

Lois Wilson has been placed under a long term contract by Warner Brothers. She will have featured parts.

Jack Holt's next picture for Paramount will be a Zane Grey story "Sunset Pass".

Ben Bard is leaving Fox. His contract is up next week at which time he will free lance.

It seems that every man in Hollywood, having the qualifications of being "tall, handsome and with dancing ability" has been tested for the M-G-M "Broadway Melody" picture. Gus Edwards is to supervise and stage the cabaret scenes.

Sophie Wachner, Hollywood modiste, has given up her shop and will be seen in the future on the Fox lot in charge of the designing and making of gowns for Fox stars.

It looks as if Johnny Mack Brown, the M-G-M contract player, will get the coveted male lead in the new Mary Pickford talking picture, "Coquette".

Tiffany Stahl is also going to do a fight story. This one from the pen of Eve Unsell and will be called "Spirit of Youth". Walter Lang will direct and Larry Kent and Dorothy Sebastian will have the leads.

Little "Joe" Dunn seems to be stepping right out. You remember she was one of the "Paramount school" and was let out shortly after this organization took the graduates to the coast from the Long Island studio. Since then she has appeared in several notable roles and with the success attained in the Jolson picture "The Singing Fool" and the choice assignments in store for her at M-G-M, stardom is hardly a stones throw for Josephine.

Dorothy Farnum, script writer, has been signed by M-G-M. Miss Farnum has been free-lancing but most of this work has been done for the organization that just signed her. She is working on the new Navarro opus "Pagan".

Lilyan Tashman will have a featured role in the Raoul Walsh-Fox picture, "In Old Arizona".

Preparations for 100% Photophone Talkie Under Way

Colvin W. Brown, Executive Vice President, arrived at the Pathe Studios this week just in time to witness the initial voice recordings of prominent Pathe players, in the first extensive test of RCA Photophone on the West Coast, Benjamin Glazer, Sound Executive, conducted the tests on the new sound proof stage No. 7, assisted by Horace Jackson and Scott Littleton, members of his staff who are writing the talking continuities.

Glazer personally directed Carol Lombard, Junior Cogan and Robert St. Angelo in a 100 per cent talking test scene from a juvenile play. Voices and faces registered perfectly and with absolute synchronization. Incandescent lights were used and worked most satisfactorily with the panchromatic film now being used at the Pathe Studios.

Later, the principals of "The Leathernecks", William Boyd's next starring vehicle, were given tests. This was a preliminary to also ascertain what talking sequences will be available for this production.

Asther Being Groomed

It looks as if Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer are grooming Nils Asther for the vacancy that might be created by the departure of John Gilbert from the pay-roll of that organization. Rumors have it that Gilbert will go with United Artists when his contract expires in March. Asther has been assigned the lead opposite Greta Garbo in this star's next picture "Heat". Sidney Franklin will direct.

Reicher Back at P-F-L

Frank Reicher, well known New York stage director and actor, is back at the Paramount Hollywood studios, right where he started fifteen years ago. He is now playing a role in Emil Jannings' picture, "Sins of the Fathers".

"Erik the Great" Done

Filming of final scenes in "Erik the Great", Universal's second production co-starring Conrad Veidt and Mary Philbin, who appeared together in "The Man Who Laughs", has been completed, according to an announcement from Universal City.

FIVE CENTS

OBSERVATIONS

Sounds

This is one for the book and the height of something or other. Big Broadway houses, and no doubt representative theatres in other cities, seem to have an idea that without "sound" patrons will not come into the houses. And with this thought, the houses are stretching every point to give it to them. Imagine this: The Roxy, Paramount, Rivoli and Rialto theatres, all have wonderful orchestras, costing a lot of money. In addition to this they have tremendously expensive organs and excellent artists to play them. In the past both orchestra and organ have furnished the music for the picture. Now, this expensive array of musicians are shoved out of the pit at the first glimpse of the picture, and the sound machine is turned on. Is there any comparison between these wonderful orchestras and organs and the talking machine? And do the operators of these houses really think the public would rather have the latter in preference to the former?

More Sounds

The great benefit, as we see it, to synchronized pictures is in the small towns and small houses where the owner can not afford orchestras and good organists. In these houses a picture synchronized with music furnished by a big orchestra, would be a welcome addition to the method now in use and WOULD bring more patrons.

Still More

The Fox organization have added their bit to this "height of something or other" in taking off the ending of "The River Pirate" and closing the picture with a talking sequence wherein an elderly gentleman appears and tells the audience how the story ends. It sounded like a radio bed-time story, and was certainly, equally effective. This mad dash to sound and talk is making maniacs out of some of our best producers. And the extreme has not yet been reached. In the Fox instance, the ending might have been weak, as originally photographed, and this organization figured by putting in a talking fade out, two birds would be killed, first the ending would be improved and secondly, and most important, DIALOGUE WOULD BE ADDED. But regardless of the value of the original ending, it could not have been one half as bad as the one now in use at the Roxy.

Sapiro Organization Agrees to Dissolve December 1st

Association Stood in Way of Pending Theatre Deals

The Independent Motion Picture Exhibitors Association, Inc., yesterday decided at a special meeting, to notify all the members that the binding operating agreements will now be nullified and the members will be immediately free to do their own film purchasing as heretofore. After December 1st, 1928, they will be free of all other obligations to the Association, at which time it is expected the Association will be dissolved. All film exchanges are being notified of the dissolution.

ARBITRATION BOARD BANS RE-ARGUMENT

WASHINGTON, D. C. — An extremely important ruling in arbitration was rendered here last week by the Washington Film Board of Arbitration on a matter of procedure which has never been legally tested heretofore and which has been the subject of controversy for years between distributors and exhibitors. Alice Day, featured player, is in New York at the Park Central. Miss Day is here to do the talking sequences in the Gotham picture, "Times Square."

Leaves Distribution End to Manager N. Y. Theatres

George Dillon, formerly District Manager for Pathe, has left the distribution end of the business for the exhibition end and has become General Manager for the Springer Circuit of 8 theatres in upper Broadway and the Bronx, of which Jack Springer is the head.

The houses are the Symphony, Adelphia, Stoddard, 77th, Essex, Keystone, Dyckmann and Ward. All the houses will eventually be wired for sound.

Audience Titters at 2 Vitaphone Breaks

The only two things that could happen to a talking picture, happened Thursday night at the Winter Garden and they caused the house management and the audience plenty of uneasiness.

The first occurred in the trailer of "The Terror." During Alec Francis's introduction of the various players in this picture, the talking film suddenly became silent for half a minute while Francis's lips babbled on, with no sound coming from them.

The second mishap took place right in the middle of the Jolson feature while Jolson was talking to David Lee. The screen went black this time for a full three-quarters of a minute while Jolson's voice rambled on.

JOELSON-SUCHMAN LOSE BLENHEIM-U.A. VERDICT

The Joelson & Suchman Circuit lost an interesting case brought against United Artists in arbitration this week, which involved $1,000 for two unplayed pictures "The Gaucho" and "The Garden of Eden."

LAEMMLE SAILS TO EUROPE FOR REST

Ernst Laemmle, Universal director and nephew of the President of Universal Pictures Corporation, will sail today on the steamer Deutschland for Berlin.

His primary object is to recover his health. Six months ago the front wheel brakes of his car locked and resulted in an accident which will require his wearing an iron brace for several months to come. When he has fully recovered, he is looking forward to making a picture for release by the Matador Films, a picture which would be adapted to American release as well, with several German stars whom he has in mind.

INDIA COMMISSION PRAISES U. S. FILMS

Motion pictures, and particularly American-made motion pictures, are completely absolved of any deleterious effect on Indian audiences, in a book-length report of the Indian Cinematograph Commission, a government body. A complete copy of the report has just reached this country.

American motion pictures constitute 78 percent of the footage shown in India and Burma, and the commission, created by act of the Indian Legislative Assembly, was asked to report on the charge that films from the western hemisphere were undermining Indian culture and having a harmful effect on moral concepts.

New York Exchanges

Harry Thomas, and his First Division Pictures, Inc., have acquired the Commonwealth Film Exchange of New York, Samuel Zierler signing the papers Thursday, as President of Commonwealth.

First Division will take over all the product of Commonwealth and is also going to release Excellent Pictures. The combined exchanges will be operated from the office of First Division, in such a manner as to offer exhibitors in the territory the most comprehensive program that an independent exchange ever offered.

All existing contracts exhibitors now hold with Commonwealth will be absolutely performed by First Division Pictures, Inc., it is understood.
